TESTIMONY IS GIVEN IN FIRE ENGINE ACTION

Judge to Render Decision After the Fling of Briefs

CREAMERY CASE TO BE HEARD NOV. 21

Petit Jury is Summoned to Convene Here Again Next Thursday

District Judge M. A. Brattland Wednesday heard testimony in the action brought by Harry Brumund to restrain the city administration from completing the purchase of a motorized fire truck, following which it was agreed that the parties to the suit should file briefs for consideration by the court.

Paul A. Lundgren, representing Mr. Brumund, contended that the contract entered into last spring by the city council with the Oen Mercantile company for the purchase of the unit was ultra vires or beyond the scope of its powers for the reason that no levy had been made for that specific purpose; provision had not been made for the purchase in drawing up the 1934 budget; sufficient funds for the purchase not being available, the question should have been submitted to the voters; and revenues from the water and light department were not applicable to the purchase.

The Oen Mercantile company, represented by H. O. Chommie, contended that adequate funds were on hand or receivable during the remainder of the year to finance the purchase. City Clerk P. G. Pederson was called on to testify as to the profits resulting from the operation of the municipal power plant in recent years.

Judge Brattland began hearing court cases Saturday when J. M. Bishop, attorney for Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Bowers, made a motion for a new trial in the action brought by T. T. Oie. It was agreed that briefs should be filed before the motion is acted upon.

The case of L. O. Stenseth et al. vs. Thief River Falls Co-operative Creamery association will be tried November 21, following granting of a continuance requested by Charles Houghton of Red Lake Falls, attorney for the plaintiffs.

A divorce was granted in the case of Helen Steigen vs. Carl Steigen, while the action of Ida Olson vs. John O. Olson was continued because of the illness of the defendant. Testimony was taken in the case of Louise J. Wik vs. Sigurd P. Wik, but the court deferred entering judgment pending a possible stipulation of reconciliation.

The petit jury has been notified to appear for duty Thursday, November 8, at 10 a. m. The first case on the calendar is that of the state vs. Ed. Holmgren, involving a charge of second degree grand larceny.

The motion for a change of venue in the Rush McAllister case has not yet been argued. If the motion should be dismissed, this case would come up following the Holmgren action.

Students May Take Courses for University Credits in City; List Names by Nov. 10

The offer of special federal relief through the state office of the E. E. P. (Emergency Education Program) makes it possible for the University of Minnesota, through its General Extension Division, to provide an additional plan of emergency education for University credit. These courses will be included in the adult education program for Thief River Falls this winter, if there is sufficient interest in the plan, Supt. Morris Bye announced today.

The new plan is to provide individual correspondence study instruction in certain college subjects at a greatly reduced cost. The state office of the E. E. P. will assume the cost of reading and grading the lesson papers and the money saved thereby will be applied to reducing the published cost of the course. This reduction will amount to 42c for each lesson of each course. The E. E. P. also offers to provide a competent supervisor locally to see that the lessons are prepared and sent in on regular schedule. The approved lesson readers will be on duty at the University.

Registration will be made with the Correspondence Study department of the general extension division of the University of Minnesota under the following regulations:

Registration. Students will register as individuals. Anyone interested should see Supt. Bye before November 10.

Persons eligible: Unemployed high school graduates and adults whose primary purpose is to work for University credit.

Subjects Available. Basic freshman and sophomore subjects. a. Composition IV, V, VI; b. Freshman Literature, 1, 2, and 3; c. Modern World History, 1 and 2, d. Principles of Economics 1 and 2, e. Higher Algebra; f. General Psychology 1 and 2. Other subjects may be offered by special arrangement.

Size of Classes. Ten or more individuals.

Schedule of Lessons. If a student devotes full time to this form of study and desires to do an amount of work equivalent to full time residence, it will be necessary for him to submit at least six lessons per week. (A normal program is 15 hours, completed in 12 weeks; it takes 81 correspondence lessons to cover this work.) These lessons should be divided among several courses which carry a total of approximately 15 credits. Students who do not devote full time to study will submit a proportionately smaller number of lessons. It will be the function of the supervisor to see that a regular program is maintained by each student.

Examination: The regular course examination will be given and without additional supervisory cost.

Textbooks: The students or the school system will be required to furnish textbooks and supplies.

Cost. A three-credit subject would cost the student $3.28, and a five-credit subject would cost him $5.66.

Saturday, November 10 is the time limit for decision on the plan.

PENNINGTON FARM ASSESSMENTS ARE CUT TEN PER CENT

Tax Commission Makes No Other Changes in County Valuations

The Minnesota tax commission made a ten per cent reduction of assessed valuations of farm lands in Pennington county from the figures turned in by the county board of equalization, according to word received Monday by County Auditor Harry Fowler. No change was made in the assessed valuations on real estate in the village and city of Thief River Falls or on moneys and credits.

The reduction in valuations of farm lands followed a suggestion made by Auditor Fowler at a recent conference with members of the tax commission, and was made to adjust Pennington county valuations to a basis corresponding to that in adjoining counties.

Final figures on county valuations will be available as soon as Auditor Fowler has made the necessary changes in the assessment books.

LAND BANK SELLS TWO MORE FARMS IN PENNINGTON CO.

County Residents Purchase Tracts From Federal Land Bank

Two Pennington county farms that have been in the hands of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul have just been sold to persons who have purchased them for homes, it is learned from land bank sources. J. W. Steward, well known in the vicinity of Thief River Falls for a number of years, has purchased 328 acres, comprising the former R. K. Callaway farm about 11 miles east of Thief River Falls, the sale having been made through Peter Engelstad, secretary-treasurer of the local National Farm Loan Association and H. S. Frazer, field representative of the bank.

C. J. Krogfoss, another representative of the bank reports the sale of 165 acres, the former Joseph F. Kiel farm 7 miles west of Hazel to Mrs. Anna Meyers of Thief River Falls, who is expected to move onto the farm this fall.

These sales are two of 57 made in Minnesota during September, which has brought the total number of farms sold by the Land Bank in this state up to 229 for the year. September was the biggest land selling month in the history of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul.

NEW FIRE ENGINE DUE TO ARRIVE IN T. R. FALLS TODAY

Legal Technicalities Are Held Cleared Away by Recent Tax Levy

The city administration having complied with the letter of the law by making provision for the purchase of a motorized fire engine pumper in fixing its 1934 levy, the Oen Mercantile company is expected today to make delivery of the unit for which a preliminary contract was entered into by the council May 15.

Immediate execution of the contract has been prevented up to the present time by a restraining order issued June 13 by Judge M. A. Brattland on application of Harry Brumund. A member of the council said last night that the purchase can be completed at this time regardless of the outcome of the court action as long as the levy has been made.

A message was received from Luverne yesterday saying that the unit was on its way to this city and should arrive sometime today. The equipment, purchased at a net price of $1,024.75, includes a Four Wheel Drive truck, Luverne body and equipment and a Waterous pump.

GOVERNOR AND SENATOR TILTS STIR INTEREST

Olson is on Defensive as Campaign Gets Into Final Stage

NELSON AND REGAN CONTINUE ATTACKS

Julius Olson Endorsed for Election to Supreme Court Bench

With the state election campaign now in its final stages, and with all contests due to be settled in the voting next Tuesday, most interest centers in the bitterly fought three-sided contest for governor, and in the battle between Henrik Shipstead and Einar Hoidale for the former's seat in the United States senate. N. J. Holmberg, Republican candidate for the senatorship, has played a less aggressive role in the campaign.

Martin Nelson, Republican aspirant for the governorship, whose supporters have been cheered by his victory in the statewide straw vote conducted by a group of newspapers, has been attacking Governor Olson for his alleged extravagant and corrupt administration of state affairs, for his communistic party platform and for his advocacy of the publication of school textbooks by the state.

In a radio address to Minnesota voters Saturday night Mr. Nelson said, "The promises the Farmer Labor leaders made you have not been kept. Today you find a rejuvenated Republican party in Minnesota, standing for those social reforms and those progressive principles for the sake of which you went to the Farmer Labor party, only to be grossly disappointed."

John E. Regan, Democratic candidate for governor, in a week end address, said, "I don't want either the Republican or Farmer-Labor senators. I want to devote the full power of the governor's office to a revision of our state taxing laws, so that the heavy burden of taxation will be removed from visible property and placed where it belongs, on earnings from investments and property."

In a closing statement Emil L. Regnier, Farmer-Labor campaign manager, said, "Governor Olson has shown conclusively during his four years as governor that he has a true and sympathetic understanding of the conditions of Minnesota and the nation. Thru his leadership laws have been enacted which will more equitably distribute the tax burden and generally improve the status of all. Examples of this are the mortgage moratorium law, the chain store tax law, the income tax law, the old age pension law, the homestead exemption law, etc."

A. C. Townley, whose name will appear on the ballot as an independent candidate for governor, also is making a bitter attack on his former ally, Governor Olson, charging, among other things, the sale to the highest bidder of seats on the supreme court.

K. K. Solberg, Farmer Labor, is seeking to oust Mike Holm from his strongly entrenched position as secretary of state, while aggressive fights are also being made by Farmer Labor aspirants for the offices held by State Auditor Stafford King and State Treasurer Julius A. Schmahl.

Julius J. Olson, associate justice of the supreme court, formerly of Warren, is expected to command a big lead in the election for one of the two offices to be filled. Justice Olson, who was appointed by Governor Olson early this year, has the endorsement of the Farmer Labor state committee as well as of the attorneys of the state and numerous other groups.

County Candidates Making Final Drive for Votes Tuesday

Last Minute Appeals Being Made Before Election November 6th

OLE HILE FILES AS STICKER CANDIDATE

Much Interest in Senatorship Race Between Harris and Tungseth

With the general election set for next Tuesday, November 6, candidates whose names appear on the county ballot are busily engaged in making a final appeal to voters for their support.

Additional interest was lent to the contest for county offices when Sheriff O. L. Hile announced this week that he would be a sticker candidate to succeed himself. His successful opponents in the June primaries, whose names appear on the ballot, are Andrew Ness and Arthur Rambeck. Another sticker candidate is Miss Judith Lockren, who is competing against Edna E. Hovie and A. C. Matheson, incumbent, for the office of superintendent of schools.

Other candidates for county offices are: Auditor: Harry L. Fowler and George M. Gunderson. Treasurer: John Gullingsrud and A. R. Johnsrud. Register of deeds: Mrs. Albert Brink and Fred D. Lor[illegible]son. County attorney, Paul Lundgren and H. O. Berve. Coroner: Dr. A. M. Smith. Court commissioner: Mrs. Thora H. Neland. Surveyor: Bert F. Umland.

Alfred Bredeson and Edward Odelin are entered in the contest for county commissioner from the second district including the first and second wards, while W. J. Mulry and O. C. Paulson are candidates in the fourth district made up of the third and fourth wards.

Interest in the race for legislative offices centers locally about the contest for the state senatorship from this district between Rev. E. L. Tungseth and Paul Harris, both of Thief River Falls. Each of the candidates has conducted an aggressive campaign for the office.

Candidates for the two posts as [illegible] and state representative from the 65th district include W. E. Day, Bagley, and J. O. Melby, Oklee, incumbents and George F. Jones of Bagley and Marius Waldal of Plummer.

The two offices of judge in the fourteenth judicial district are being sought by M. A. Brattland of Ada and James E. Montague of Crookston, incumbents; and Martin O'Brien and W. E. Rowe, both of Crookston.

Representatives of each of the three major parties are seeking the office of congressman from the ninth district. They are R. T. Buckler of Crookston, Farmer-Labor; Ole O. Sageng of Dalton, Republican; and Martin O. Brandon of Fergus Falls, Democrat.

Voters also will be asked to express their opinion on the question: Shall the township system of caring for the poor be adopted in Pennington county? The administration of relief has been on a county-wide basis during the past two years.

TOM DAVIS TALK HERE DEFERRED UNTIL TONIGHT

Will Address Republican Rally at Auditorium This Evening

As the result of a last-minute change in schedule, Tom Davis, widely known as an orator, will address a Republican rally in the Auditorium this evening instead of Wednesday night as originally planned. He spoke last night in Crookston instead.

Mr. Davis is campaigning thruout the state, directing his fire primarily against the re-election of Governor Floyd B. Olson, whose candidacy he had supported in 1930 and 1932.

Owing to the absence from the city of S. P. Oswall, director of the municipal band, the Red Lake Falls band has been engaged to provide music for the occasion. Ole Sageng of Dalton, Republican candidate for congress from this district, also will speak briefly.

MUD LAKE PROJECT STARTS THIS FALL, WILLARD ASSERTS

30,000 Acres are Included in First Part of Work to be Undertaken

Work affecting about 30,000 acres of the proposed Mud Lake wild migratory bird nesting ground and refuge in northwestern Minnesota will be started this fall. This initial work will include the western section of the area in which are located both Olson lakes and Mud, Greenstump and Elm lakes. Most of the development structures and improvements are needed in this section. Plans and specifications for the entire 75,000 acre project will be furnished by the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey.

Following a survey last week by J. C. Salyer, in charge of land acquisition for the Biological survey, and S. H. McCrory, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Engineering, U. S. Department of Agriculture, it was reported that federal funds of several hundred thousands of dollars are available, indicating that the project is regarded as one of the most important units in the new national program for the restoration of wild life.

"The Mud Lake project is strictly a federal one with the dual purpose of aiding wild life and retiring sub-marginal lands from farm operations," E. V. Willard, Commissioner of Conservation, said. "Payment for lands and improvement costs will be made with federal funds with the Department of Conservation cooperating."

W. C. T. U. News Notes

"Alcohol is in no sense a tonic, either in the form of wine or other liquors. It is not a stimulant and it does not increase or improve muscular or nervous tone.

"There is no medical school in the United States or any other modern nation that teaches students that alcohol is a useful stimulant or tonic. There are still physicians in practice who follow the traditional attitude of the laity and recommend alcohol without exact knowledge of its value as a food.

"Alcohol is not, properly speaking, a food, since it cannot be stored in the body, since it cannot be used to repair or build tissue, and even when it has the effect of a food in producing energy, the toxic effects of the alcohol in the body limit this effect very narrowly."

Dr. Haven Emerson in the Christian Science Monitor.

Meat Packed in Lard Keeps Fine in Winter

One very satisfactory way of keeping meat during the colder months is to pack it in lard. Miss Alice M. Child, specialist in meat cookery of the home economics staff, University Farm, gives the following suggestions:

Cook meat as for serving, place it in a dry, sterilized crock and cover immediately with hot lard. Cover with a clean cloth and place on this a crock cover or plate. Store in a cool, dry place. Do not keep meat packed in lard during hot weather, unless the storage place is always cold. To use meat packed in lard, scrape off as much lard as possible, heat thoroughly so that meat is hot throughout and use as ordinary fresh-cooked meat.

To roast pork (loin, butt, or fresh ham) for packing in lard: Place roast in an uncovered jar, without water. Rub with salt (1 teaspoon for each pound of meat). Sear on top of stove until meat is nicely browned, then cook in a moderate oven (300 degrees to 350 degrees F.) about 30 minutes per pound.

Pork chops or steak to be packed in lard should be seared on both sides in a little fat. Salt both sides. Cover skillet, finish cooking on top of stove. Chops may be seared in a dripping pan and the cooking finished in a moderate oven.

Crocks used for containers should be washed and then sterilized by turning them upside down in a dishpan half full of water that is kept boiling for 15 minutes. The crocks should then be removed, but not dried with a cloth.

Quaint Burial Custom

In ancient days in Spain the dead were robed, according to their sex, in the garb of monk or nun, and thus buried, a practice which gave rise to the assertion that "Only nuns and monks die in Spain."

Many of the dikes of Holland are raised 40 feet above high water mark and are wide enough at the top for a general roadway or canal, or sometimes both. Some of these trace back to old Roman times.

American Trade Dollars Were Meant for the Orient

The trade dollar is a silver coin that was brought into existence in 1873 for export to China and other oriental countries to compete with the Spanish or Mexican dollars in circulation there. It was really a device for promoting the exportation of American silver. Silver in this form was readily acceptable because of the government guarantee of its weight and fineness. These coins were issued from 1873 to 1885, inclusive.

Trade dollars also entered very largely into the trade of the Pacific coast states and territories, and later circulated extensively in every other state and territory. They were not intended by congress to be legal tender, but through an error, the authorization act made them legal tender for sums up to $5. The legal tender quality, however, was withdrawn by a joint resolution of congress approved July 22, 1876, and the coinage of trade dollars was limited to such numbers as the Treasury department deemed sufficient for the export demand. They were finally retired under an act approved February 19, 1887.

Trade dollars of 1883, 1884 and 1885 are more rare than those coined during the other years, and if in good condition command a premium.

Sticker Candidate for SHERIFF

Experienced—Economical—Efficient

To the Voters of Pennington County:

I wish to announce that I will be a candidate for the office of Sheriff on Nov. 6. This may seem strange to some of you. After the primaries I have been approached by a great many people from all parts of the county who have told me that they voted for someone of the other candidates in the primaries through misapprehension or because they had been misinformed. Today I was called before a group of about twenty five or thirty representative citizens from all parts of the county and urged by them to come out on stickers. I finally agreed to do this and I am in the race to stay until the last vote has been cast on the 6th of November.

It will be impossible for me to reach all of the voters personally in the one week that remains before election. I will see as many as I can but [illegible] have to rely on this letter and the efforts of my friends to get the facts up to the [illegible].

I want the office. Any statements to the contrary are entirely without foundation.

I am sure that my past records demonstrate that I am not controlled by any click or bunch. In the past since I have been sheriff I have tried to bear in mind my responsibility to all of the people of the county. If I should be elected I will owe [illegible] to any political group.

During the time that I have been sheriff there has never been a time when the total fees collected did not much more than pay the expenses of prosecution in criminal cases. The sheriff does not have a great deal of discretion in the prosecution of criminal matters. I have however always tried to discourage prosecution where it was evident that it would result in nothing but expense to the county. If I am re-elected I shall continue to use my best judgment. Experience and acquaintance with the people and conditions of the county are of value in [illegible] respects.

One of the problems which confronted the officers of the county during the last four years was the large amount of real estate on which the taxes were delinquent. A great deal of this property, especially land, which is unimproved is owned by non resident owners. During the year 1933 there was collected on tax attachments and turned into the County treasury the sum of $7,2[illegible]. This is net over and above expenses for collection. This year there has already been turned over $7,000 the total for 1934 should amount to between $10,000 and $12,000 when all collections are in. With proper handling the collections for 1935 should amount to eighteen to twenty thousand dollars. I feel that the knowledge and experience that I have gained in the past in this item alone should be of enough value to the tax payers of this county to merit a favorable consideration. It has taken me several years to become familiar with the character, value and location of these delinquent tax lands. A new man will take just as long.

Arrangements will be made to have stickers distributed at every polling place in the county on election day. The voter can also write my name in the blank space provided on the ballot immediately below the printed names of the other candidates. I have fully appreciated the kindness of the voters of this county to me in the past. I assure you that I am very grateful for this. [illegible]

I solicit your vote and your support next Tuesday. If I am elected I shall continue to give my full time to the office as I have in the past. I shall try to give a square deal to all. Do not let them tell you I do not [illegible]

I am not out to beat anyone. I am out to get votes for myself, and I assure you that I shall appreciate every one of them.

Very truly yours,
O. L. IHLE

RED CROSS AGENCIES SAFEGUARD HEALTH

First Aid, Life Saving, Nursing Care, Promote Health and Safety

Five outstanding services make up the health-conservation program of the American Red Cross, according to the annual report just issued in Washington. These services are first aid and life saving, which together have trained more than a million persons; nursing, with an active enrollment of 36,133 registered nurses; Public Health Nursing, conducted by 7500 nurses in 426 chapters last year; and Home Hygiene, which has taught more than 700,000 men and women simple ways of caring for the sick at home.

"The achievements of the Red Cross in public health nursing place it among the leaders in this field," said James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations. "This service was organized in 1919 to meet needs developed by the World War and the ravages of the flu epidemic which in 1918-1919 took so great a toll of life.

"Since that time Red Cross nursing services have been pioneers in more than one half of the counties in the United States. Many services we established were taken over later by civic, state and federal agencies, and the Red Cross continues to establish services in other new fields. Red Cross nurses made more than a million visits to patients last year, and 629,025 children in schools were inspected.

"Red Cross courses in home hygiene and care of the sick are especially important in times of depression, because they teach families to maintain hygienic conditions in their homes and to recognize symptoms of illness early enough to prevent serious consequences.

"Our courses in first aid have been instrumental in saving lives of the injured; in safeguarding the accident victim until the physician arrives, and in reducing time lost by workers in factories, mines and other industries. We are also giving the course extensively to police and fire departments throughout the country, and to state highway patrols."

Everyone is invited to join the Red Cross during the annual membership roll call which continues from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, to have a part in the health program and the other humanitarian services of the Red Cross.

Hallowe'en Was Quietly Observed Here Last Night

Hallowe'en Wednesday night was observed locally in time-honored style with jack-o-lanterns and soaped windows, but there was even less than the usual small amount of rowdyism, according to police reports this morning. A few boys who became too obstreperous were confined in the city jail for short periods during the evening, being released when their parents called for them. No reports of serious damage to property were received.

Full Pay to be Given U. S. Workers July 1

The remaining 5 per cent pay cut of federal employees resulting from the economy act passed shortly after the present administration took office will be restored beginning, July 1, President Roosevelt promised in Washington Wednesday. The employees originally took a slash of 15 per cent but a restoration of 10 per cent was made effective in July this year. The chief executive explained that the budget estimates for the coming fiscal year are being made up to include a sum sufficient to make up the cuts because figures show the cost of living will mount enough by next July to justify the restoration.

FARMER RUNS WHEN COW TURNS TO BEAR

Browerville. — Not long ago there was a story of a man who broke his arm slapping a cow on the back. This week from Browerville comes the story of a man who almost broke his neck slapping a "cow" on the back. Early one morning, Joe Kristyniak went out to round up his herd of cattle. The fog was thick, and limited his vision to a few feet. Presently he came upon the herd, and approaching the first cow, he slapped her on the back. "Nice bossie," said Joe. "G-r-r-r-r," said the bossie. "Nuts!" said Joe, peering a bit closer through the fog. "This isn't a cow, it's a bear!" Joe didn't lose much time in starting out for home. Later in the day, a search was organized for bruin, but he was nowhere to be found.

Feeding and Finishing the 1934 Turkey Crop

At this time of the year the turkey raisers should be seriously considering the feeding program for finishing their birds.

Great danger to the market value of the turkey crop now lies in the fact that many turkeys have not been well fed during the early growing periods and are not as well developed as they should be at this time of the year. As a result, there will be a strong tendency to market turkeys before they are properly developed.

Right now is the time to feed them well and keep it up until market time. Do not market them before they are properly finished. The gain in weight will pay for the feed consumed and many birds that would grade No. 2, or even culls, can be raised to a top grade and a top price.

This year we will adopt a 3 grade program, L. O'L., No. 1 and No. 2.

HITCHCOCK'S COLUMN

By R. W. Hitchcock

Four years ago Floyd Bjornstjerne Olson filled the air with cries for a house cleaning on Wabasha Hill. Two months later the people placed him there to do the job. Did he do it? He did not! Instead he flung wide the doors and the windows, and the flies, the cockroaches and the rats came trooping in.

Before he had hardly warmed his new-found chair Governor Olson issued and enforced an order that the supreme court of Minnesota has declared was an invitation to fraud. Later the district court for Ramsey county filed a decree which adjudged that the contract prices of the first six contracts made under Governor Olson's order were 26% in excess of "the reasonable cost plus a reasonable profit."

A fraud of 26% on all of the $15,000,000 of road contracts for 1932, under the convenient regulations set up by Governor Olson, would have mulcted the people of Minnesota out of $4,035,000, and put that amount of graft into the pockets of the favored contractors or other persons to whom, for good and sufficient reasons, they wished to distribute the money.

What are the plain, unvarnished facts of this matter as attested by the records and the findings of the courts?

On February 26th, a month and a half after he became Governor, Floyd B. Olson issued the following order to State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Babcock:

"To be eligible to bid on or be awarded a contract or contracts to construct more than 100,000 square yards of paving for the state of Minnesota, a bidder shall have completed successfully contracts with the Minnesota Highway Department for not less than 100,000 square yards of paving."

The Governor followed this up with a letter to Mr. Babcock in which he said that he assumed full responsibility for this order.

The highway department then issued instructions to all contractors described by the Governor, not only limiting the contractors who could bid, but limiting the amount of paving that any one contractor would be allowed to do.

In October 1931 bids were [illegible] set up by Governor Olson [illegible] "stifling regulations and limitations" [illegible] the supreme court called [illegible] Governor Olson's "stifling regulations and limitations" were [illegible]

"The conspiring contractors," as the supreme court called them, got together and parceled out the work. "When the bids came in," says the supreme court, "at a price alleged to be approximately 30 per cent above a reasonable price and nearly as much over previous contracts let under competition, it would seem that the most inexperienced of officials would have comprehended the situation. The contrast was so great between the bids on the major projects and those on the more competitive minor projects and the previous contracts, that the failure of the department to comprehend the fraud being perpetrated was, in our judgment, so gross a misapprehension of the situation as to amount to constructive participation in the fraud. We therefore treat the situation as one where there was not only conspiracy and collusion among the bidders, but a constructive participation by the state officers whose duty it was to protect the public from the result of such a conspiracy."

Nevertheless the highway department had already, under orders from Governor Olson, gone ahead and let the six contracts to the low bidders in the sum of [illegible] and the paving was begun.

On December 22nd of the same year the highway department opened other bids under the same "stifling regulation and limitations." Again the bids were [illegible] per cent higher than for previous contracts. By this time the situation had reached such a point that the highway department thought it wise to reject all bids.

New bids were received in April following (1932). Among them were eight bids by Foley Bros., who had been barred from previous bidding. The Foley bids were much lower than the bids submitted by the "conspiring" contractors. It was then plain to every body what had been going on. Again most of the bids were rejected and a new letting advertised for May 2nd, 1932.

Foley's [illegible] the [illegible] bids of December 22nd ranged from [illegible] higher per square yard. At the May 2nd letting the low bids ranged from [illegible] to $1.02 per square yard.

Meanwhile the suit instituted against the six contractors, who had secured contracts from the state amounting to [illegible] was in progress. The case went to the supreme court and the court handed down the scathing decision already quoted, and demanded the case for trial in the Ramsey county district court.

The case was tried before Judge Loevinger, an appointee of Governor Olson. It came on for trial October 2nd, 1933, and evidence was taken for 18 days.

The court filed its findings of fact and conclusions of law on May 15, 1934, and the final decree was entered the week of June 28th, 1934.

The result was a sweeping victory for the citizens and taxpayers who had instituted the suit. Judge Loevinger's decision reduced the [illegible] contract by [illegible] or 26% and award judgments against the contractors and state officers.

Had the Governor's policy been worked out as planned and the 26% of the $15,000,000 program or total of road contracts for 1932 been secured, it would have cost the people $4,035,000 which it had been attempting to extort from them.

What was Governor Olson's part in this matter?

He originated the idea. He forced the highway department to comply with it. He limited the bidding to contractors whom he [illegible] by elimination and description. He denounced the supreme court for its decision compelling the case to go to trial. He used the funds of the state, amounting to tens of thousands of dollars, to fight the case. He did everything in his power as chief executive of the state to protect the "conspiring contractors," to defeat the ends of justice, and to carry through to a successful conclusion not only the swindle of [illegible], but to make possible a further swindle of $4,035,000.

He is the man who today does not dare defend his record, but [illegible] up and down the state recklessly [illegible] with human [illegible]

One of the most shocking pieces of literature put out in this campaign is a letter from pretty, prattling Lind Reyner, chairman of the farmer-labor party urging all faithful farmer-laborites to vote for certain candidates for the supreme court [illegible]

RED CROSS RELIEF GIVEN TO VICTIMS IN 103 DISASTERS

Tornadoes, Fires, Hurricanes, Floods, Epidemics, Make Record of Year

A history of the disasters in the United States in any year is written annually by the American Red Cross, according to Chairman John Barton Payne commenting on the report for the year ending June 30, 1934, which has just been issued in Washington.

"Because of the charter provision which places upon the Red Cross the responsibility for disaster relief, our chapter and staff workers are notified of all calamities of storm and fire and flood," he continued. "The emergency period may prove to be brief, in cases where the victims have their own resources to draw on. While it lasts, however, whether it brings the immediate need of food, clothing and shelter for the homeless, or entails a program of investigation and rehabilitation, the Red Cross is the official director of all relief."

A great variety in type, and a wide geographical distribution, characterize the 103 disasters reported last year. Tornadoes, hurricanes, hailstorms and other storms made up almost one half of the total. Especially numerous were the tropical storms which swept in from the sea to the Atlantic and Gulf Coast region. There were 21 storms of this type, establishing a new record for frequency.

Next in number to storms were disasters of fire, the report shows. Red Cross aid was given following 25 fires in the United States and its insular possessions. The most spectacular was the Chicago stockyards fire, where Red Cross workers arrived shortly after the fire started, administering relief until the emergency period passed, giving first aid to about 1000 persons.

Floods caused serious damage in some sections, 17 calling for Red Cross relief. Three explosions were reported and three epidemics of [illegible] and typhoid fever. A school bus wreck was one of the year's tragedies for which Red Cross funds were needed for relief and rehabilitation.

"Technique acquired by the Red Cross in these disasters and the hundreds of others we have handled is at the service of the public," Chairman Payne said. "To make this possible the disaster relief service has issued a manual containing instructions for chapters interested in advance preparations for emergencies. Disaster institutes were held last year [illegible] locations to enable Red Cross and civic workers to formulate plans for possible disaster emergencies in their communities."

Support of the disaster relief activities of the Red Cross comes from the annual roll call held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

Fires on Morro Castle and At Nome Alaska, Received Help of Red Cross Workers

A number of tragic and unusual disasters have recently called for Red Cross relief.

Included in them have been a flood in Kentucky, following a series of cloudbursts in August, epidemics of disease which threatened several sections, including some caused by drought conditions. Red Cross workers found much to do for the survivors of the Morro Castle fire and for those engaged in rescue work and Red Cross relief went by airplane to Alaska when the famous old gold camp, Nome, burned in September.

An Army of Goodwill

When members of the Junior Red Cross learned that school-books had been destroyed in the Kentucky floods last August they gave $500 from the National Children's Fund to buy new textbooks for use in the schools. The maximum membership for the Junior Red Cross last year was 7,750,280, an increase over the previous year of more than 250,000. They carry on civic and service programs in their own communities which each year bring comfort and pleasure to thousands of needy and unfortunate people. As international friendship is built up through correspondence with Junior Red Cross members in foreign countries.

Oldest School Building Is in St. Augustine, Fla.

In quaint St. Augustine, Fla., just inside the city gates on old St. George street, stands the oldest schoolhouse in the United States. It is believed to be more than three hundred years old. Built by Juan Genopoly, the structure is said first to have been a barracks for the city guard. Later it was used as an English speaking schoolhouse and now it is preserved as a museum.

Visitors find the atmosphere of the school maintained in the building by a group of wax figures, representing the schoolmaster at his desk by the fireplace and the pupils seated on rows of wooden benches. The building has withstood the ravages of time and the elements remarkably well. It is built of hand hewn red cedar.

The floor, now covered with wood, was once of irregular stone blocks and one can see a few of these in the closet under the stairway, which the schoolmaster called "the dungeon." The closet served as a place of punishment for unruly pupils. This form of punishment was considered mild however, as in those days it was not good discipline to "spare the rod." This much hated method of correcting the conduct of mischievous pupils usually was accomplished with a birch switch applied to the posteriors of the culprits.—Chicago Tribune.

Ohio's 1863 Election

The gubernatorial campaign of 1863 in Ohio is without parallel in the state's politics. John Brough, a War Democrat, was nominated by the Union party, while Clement L. Vallandigham, a vigorous peace Democrat, was nominated by the peace Democrats. On this election hung the fate of the nation. It was Brough and Union, or Vallandigham and disunion. Ohio was then one of the three most important states in the Union, and as she decided, others would be apt to decide. After much political strife a mighty victory was won by Brough and the Union. Upon receiving the message of victory, Lincoln telegraphed: "Glory to God in the highest. Ohio has saved the nation."

Most Sensitive of Senses

The eye is the most sensitive of the five senses. It is capable of distinguishing between differences as small as 1/30th of its range while the touch discriminates between differences as small as one-tenth and hearing as small as 1/20th. Measurements by the bureau of standards have shown that after the eye has adapted itself to the dark it is 200,000 times as sensitive as it is ther... people, the most sensitive instrument yet invented.

Gales Back in the Ages

What are these red chips and lumps scattered among coarse, white sand in Glacier National park? These chips were partly hardened mud torn up and dropped again by waves, but the red lumps seem to have been rolled over and over like snowballs, says Nature Magazine. When storms reach sandy coasts today they bring up balls of mud like these and drop them on sandy flats near shore. These early "storm rollers" are records of gales that swept the Proterozoic sea.

IT IS AN IMPORTANT ISSUE

When the Farmer-Labor party came into existence a few years ago the arguments advanced in its favor were largely along the line that with honest men in office Minnesota would have good government and everybody would be happy. There were a few gestures occasionally that indicated a tendency to the left but these gestures were always more or less half hearted. Party leaders seemed to try to avoid any action that would tie the party up with the old Nonpartisan League public ownership program that ended so disastrously for the State of North Dakota.

After four years of power the Farmer-Labor party has now changed its course. Honest men in office is not enough, we are now assured. The system is wrong. Capitalism has failed and must be replaced by a rather loosely outlined program to be called a "Co-operative Commonwealth." And so now we find that, according to the Farmer-Labor platform a vote for Farmer-Labor candidates is a vote:

> to take immediate steps to abolish capitalism; to establish a new society where all the natural resources, machinery of production, transportation and communication shall be owned by the government; where there shall be public ownership of all mines, water power, transportation and communication, banks, packing plants, factories and all public utilities; where all insurance including workmen's compensation, unemployment, accident, sickness, maternity, old age pension, fire, cyclone, hail and life insurance shall be taken over by the state; where text books will be published by the state; where, in words of the party's leader, enterprises such as the grocery or meat business or anything of that kind, must be through consumers' co-operatives.

The language of the platform, as Knud Wefald has said, is very clear. It cannot be misunderstood. And therefore this platform has very properly become the principal issue of the state campaign.

We do not agree with those who say that the present system is a failure. The fact that we have a depression is not necessarily a reflection on our system. When a drunken driver goes into the ditch and puts himself in the hospital for a few months we do not blame the car for the driver's misfortune. And surely no one will try to argue down the fact that the present world-wide depression is due to the world-wide spree of a few years ago that violated every law of common-sense. No system could maintain economic equilibrium through such a world-wide upheaval of economic forces. And to blame our present ills to the shortcomings of a system, when they are so obviously due to our own folly, is decidedly unfair to the system.

But in spite of the unfairness of such criticism it might still be well to junk the old system providing we had some definite assurance that the new system would be an improvement over the old. Unfortunately there is no such assurance. On the contrary experience and observation both tell us that government in business is bad. We know from experience that government management of any activity means three men on the payroll to do one man's work. We know from experience that any extension of government powers means a stronger and more deeply intrenched bureaucracy, greater public expense and higher taxes. Such results are inevitable.

This issue, raised by the Farmer-Labor platform, is the important consideration in the present election, and voters will do well to ponder long and carefully before they endorse the program of the new Farmer-Labor party by electing officers pledged to establish that program. The present system has many shortcomings but by the same gradual process which has improved that system in the past we can continue to improve it in the future. Experience teaches us that we save ourselves much wasted effort when we make haste slowly. Let us be careful lest, in our efforts to secure something of unproven value, we do not sacrifice those advantages we already possess and which mankind struggled many centuries to obtain.

THE FIVE AMENDMENTS

In the heat of the campaign little or nothing has been said about the five proposed amendments to the state constitution which the voters will be called upon to adopt or reject at the general election next week. One of these amendments, the second, is of particular interest to this section of the state, its purpose being to authorize the payment of taxes by the state on lands acquired through foreclosure by the Department of Rural Credit. While the need for such action is not as great at the present time as it was a few years ago, a large number of these state owned farms having been sold to private owners, every voter in this territory should favor this amendment from the standpoint of future protection. Conditions apparently are on the mend now but the future is still an uncertain quantity and there is no good reason why the tax payers of any one school district or township should bear a burden which in all fairness the state as a whole should assume. When the state enters the field of private business it should assume the same responsibilities as any private enterprise. Vote "yes" on the second amendment.

The first amendment ratifies the act of the last legislature providing for the extension of the trunk highway system and has general approval. The fourth amendment too is distinctly to the advantage of the state as a whole, providing for an exchange of state owned public lands for lands owned by the federal government in order to bring these properties into more compact groups. Both state and federal lands are now scattered, adding to the cost and difficulty of administration. A constitutional amendment is necessary to enable the state to trade such lands and this amendment deserves approval.

The third and fifth amendments are in the controversial class. The third would enable the legislature to make some changes in the tax exemption base on some kinds of personal property and is of doubtful value. If this amendment were adopted the tendency of the legislature would be to increase the exemptions. It would seem that the personal property exemptions are now sufficiently large to protect the small tax payer and further exemptions would, under the present system, merely add to the tax burden on real estate which already carries too much of the load.

The fifth amendment would provide for the taxation of all properties owned by colleges, academies, universities and seminaries that is not used exclusively in the instruction and housing of students or for the housing, on the campus, of instructors. Communities in which such institutions are located are particularly interested in this amendment and there undoubtedly is much to justify the demands of such communities that income producing property owned by such institutions should bear a fair share of the cost of government. But there is also merit to the argument that the existence of many of the schools depends upon the income from such property and that if this income were materially reduced through the necessity of paying taxes they would face an extremely difficult financial situation which undoubtedly would result in a loss of educational opportunities. The proposed fifth amendment is decidedly controversial and can be argued with good effect from either side.

In Northwestern Minnesota the first, second and fourth amendments should have the support of all voters. The third is of questionable value and the fifth involves a question that must be determined by personal choice. But the amendments are important and should be voted on by all voters. It should be remembered that failure to vote on the amendments is the same as voting against them.

It would be a fortunate thing if the candidates for all political offices were so uniformly well qualified for the office they seek as the three leading candidates for United States Senator, Farmer-Laborite Shipstead, Democrat Hoidale and Republican Holmberg are well fitted for the responsibilities of that high office and the state would be well represented with any one of the three in Washington. The race seems to be between Shipstead and Hoidale and good arguments can be advanced for the election of either of them. Shipstead has given the state good service during twelve years in the office and as a good servant he deserves re-election. Hoidale, as a member of the dominant political party of the country at the present time might have more influence with the administration than the lone representative of a party that has no national standing. But whichever way this contest goes the interests of the state will be in good hands.

As in the past the Times will not attempt to pass judgment on the qualifications of local candidates. These men of our community are well known. No issues are involved in their election. All of them deserve respectful consideration. On several occasions in the past, however, we have defended local candidates from what we considered unfair campaign tactics. And we therefore feel justified in coming to the defense of Mayor E. L. Tungseth, who is a candidate for State Senator. An attempt has been made to defame his character by intimations that he is the secret ally of the liquor interests. Such insinuations are a cowardly attack upon a man of proven character and integrity and who is highly respected by those who know him. As mayor of the city of Thief River Falls he has taken a definite stand on local problems. In the nature of things these problems have often been controversial. It is possible that his views on these problems have not always been right. But there never has been any reason for questioning his sincerity in working for the best interests of the city, and the attacks now being made upon him, coming, as they do, from an irresponsible source, will be properly resented by all fair minded citizens. It is such attacks that discourage competent men from seeking public office and lower the standard of all public service to the level of the character assassins who would advance themselves by trampling good men into the mire.

Public Forum

Editor, the Times:

Do not most of us agree that all tax should have a definite relation to the dollar which a property turns to its owner. Then why not go direct to that dollar turnover for our tax? Any other basis forces painful periods of adjustment, maybe even confiscation, until we are forced to recognize that fundamental principle.

We may now over value a quarter section of land so that its tax may be $100.00 against an average income of say $60.00 hay land for instance; or a business block a tax of $621.00 against an income of $600.00 ($50.00 per month.) As such properties go to the State, they become tax free.

Our State Auditor has gathered data which proves to him that one-half of one per cent on the dollar turnover of every individual and firm will produce sufficient to replace all the present taxes against real estate and personal property. That would mean to not disturb the present auto license, and present gross earnings tax on such as railroads, mines, etc.; and to continue the income and inheritance tax in the higher brackets.

There would then be no tax on a farm or its buildings, no tax on horses, cattle, machinery, etc.; no tax on a store or its merchandise, and no tax on a lot, house or its furniture. The tax instead would be on the dollar received in salary, in sales of every nature, dividends, interest, fees, rents, etc. We would then have three times as many people paying.

A salary of 1200.00 would pay a tax of $6.00. A farmer receiving for grain, dairy and poultry produce sold would pay $6.00, but would not pay on the produce which his family consumes. In passing from the raw producer to the manufacturer and to the consumer it is true that the tax would be pyramided, but not nearly to the extent it is under our present system.

If your farm home, village or city home might be without taxation, what a glorious old age pension that of itself would be!

Tax matters concern us all and it is gratifying to see that the individual candidates for the House and Senate in all three parties in the State are generally open minded to study and work to bring about a more [illegible] and satisfactory system.

Growing With Your Child

Hands Off!

By the Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota

That roly-poly little youngster, the youngest member of the family, is privileged indeed when it comes to receiving the adoration of the older people in the family group, but sometimes he seems to get mighty little sensible consideration. Which is more important, to lavish upon a child the love and affection which is an unthinking outpouring of your own desire to cuddle and caress this little butter-ball of a baby, or to surround him with the evidences of your real understanding of his needs, even if these are such as to make necessary some revisions in your carefully organized life.

Few young parents, we believe, realize what a preponderance of wrong learning may go on in early childhood, in a seemingly good environment. The point is, frequently, that this environment is good for grown-ups, but definitely undesirable for little children, whose requirements are so different from ours.

Look around your living room and determine for yourself if any of its features or furnishings were planned with children in view. There is the deep fireplace, with a screen before it, and a cluster of bright brass implements. There are invitingly open shelves of books. There are table and floor lamps, in harmonious colors. Here is a workbasket bursting with gay colored yarns, a pair of scissors glittering among them. Plants in the window give off freshness and fragrance. The legs of chairs, and the tops of tables, reflect a restful gleam from their polished wood.

But how do these pleasant furnishings affect the toddler? This is his living room, too, but by all the winds that blow, it looks as though it would take twenty-five years or so for him to grow up to its amenities.

For at the present time, at his ripe age of eighteen months, he is equipped to learn through his senses, and through his senses only. He can't as yet even ask questions about what he finds around him, but must do his learning by looking, feeling, tasting, smelling, and listening! What does the fireplace mean to him, except as a forbidden place when the flames are roaring up the chimney. Of course, if he can manage to snatch the fire tongs, they make beautiful sounds when they're banged on the hearth! The books offer such satisfying sensations. You can push them back against the wall—thump, bump—and then you can pull them out again, and ruffle the leaves until someone comes!

And oh, those lamps! "Wait till I get hold of that dangling chain," baby might say if he could express his instinctive urge in word. "Just let me give one grab at it, and I'll show you what a power I am. Why, I can make the light flash on and off, just as fast, with a wiggle of my finger." Flower pots, with their soft earth, the work basket with its collection of shapes that are so intriguing and novel, shining surfaces where clutching baby fingers will make a smudge—almost everything in the room, except perhaps the davenport, is taboo to the child whose big bright eyes are so intent on investigating, whose fingers are itching to manipulate all the gadgets he watches other people using.

Shouldn't baby have a room that he can call his own, just as the adults need these relaxing surroundings in which to read or sew or talk? Baby's room will be, if we are intent on preventing the stubbornness that results from too many "No, No's," and a constant reiteration of "Don't touch!" a place where he can handle everything, and have almost complete freedom. Then, and only then, can we safely expect him willingly to keep his hands off our property, on those occasions when he is in our company, and is expected to live up more or less to adult standards.

Your Birthday

Birthday has two distinct meanings. It may mean the day of a person is born, that is the day of his birth, in which sense he has only one birthday. Or the term may mean the anniversary or annual observance of a person's birth. In which sense the day on which he became twenty-one years old is his twenty-first birthday.

ALL STATE VOTERS URGED TO SUPPORT AMENDMENT NO. 4

Provides for Exchange of State Lands for Federal or Private Areas

Minnesota citizens, who go to the polls Tuesday, November 6, to participate in the general election, are urged to support and vote for Amendment No. 4. Approval of the voters would amend the authority to exchange state lands for federal or privately owned lands, as the legislature may provide.

E. V. Willard, Minnesota's Commissioner of Conservation, outlined the importance of adopting this amendment from the viewpoint of conservation progress in the state. Voters, irrespective of party affiliation, should get behind this amendment that an improved program for state forest control and fire protection may result, Commissioner Willard stated.

"Minnesota's program of consolidating forest lands within legally established state forests and other conservation areas will be benefitted and federal forestry officials will be able to combine areas within national forests", he said.

"Establishment of 13 new state forests marked a real step in forest improvement in Minnesota. In order to more adequately supervise and regulate state forests, it is desirable that state forest areas be consolidated as much as possible. Exchange of state lands within federal forests for governmental land located in or tributary to present state forests, would do much to accomplish such desirable consolidation.

"Voters are urged to vote for this amendment for the good of the cause of conservation. Remember, failure to vote counts against the amendment."

CCC Camps Accomplish Much Work in Minnesota

A summary of the accomplishments of the Civilian Conservation Corps from the first Emergency Conservation Work in March, 1933, to the beginning of the Fourth Enrollment, Oct. 1, 1934, announcement today by E. W. Tinker, Regional Forester, North Central Region, shows that nearly 88,000 man-days have been spent by CCC enrollees of the State and National camps fighting forest fires in Minnesota. They have also worked 31,000 days at presuppression and prevention of fire. Over 15,000 acres have been planted to trees, and 27,512 man-days have been devoted to nursery development work.

Keep Cattle Off Roads, Farmers Are Requested

"The drouth is over. Please keep your cattle off state highway right-of-way to avoid accidents."

This is the plea of state highway engineers to Minnesota farmers. A number of accidents have occurred recently on the highways as a result of farmers grazing stock along the right-of-way. Valuable cattle have been killed and motorists endangered. The highway department encouraged farmers to cut hay and grass off the right-of-way during the summer, but the practice of turning stock loose along the roads to graze is too dangerous to continue, says a department bulletin.

Add to Teaching Staff at Northwest School

Due to the unusually heavy enrollment in the first and second year classes at the Northwest School in Crookston, it has been necessary to secure additional assistance in the agricultural engineering division. H. M. Woolery has been appointed to take charge of the work in gas motors and assist with tractor construction and farm shop. Mr. Woolery is a graduate of the University of Minnesota where he served as laboratory assistant for the past two years. The work in field machinery and tractors is under the direction of V. C. Kallal, a graduate of the University of Illinois, while A. M. Foker offers the work in blacksmithing, carpentry and mechanical drawing.

Progress in the mechanization of agricultural has caused an increasing number of students to elect courses in agricultural engineering. All lecture and laboratory work at the Northwest School has been outlined with a view to assisting the young people of this territory in the efficient operation of the farm and the farm home.

FARMER NETS 55c FROM SALE OF TWO HOGS

Sauk Rapids Otto Reimer of Route recently shipped two hogs to South St. Paul. The hogs weighed about 160 pounds apiece. Mr. Reimer was allowed a gross of 1c a pound, or two dollars, for the animals. From this amount was subtracted 26c for yardage, 2c for state weighing, 2c for hog inspection, 50c for commission, and 1c for fire insurance, leaving a net of $1.19. However, from this was subtracted the truckers insurance of 6c and the trucking fee at 30c a hundred, or 63c, giving Mr. Reimer a check for the two hogs of 55c, or about [illegible] of a cent a pound.

Legion Listenin' Post

Had a very nice meeting last Friday night with a good attendance. It was nice the way the gang stuck around after the meeting and enjoyed themselves. Get into the habit of attending meetings of the Post. You will enjoy yourself every time you come down.

Had a pleasant surprise last Friday night when Joe (Ballot) Matoska now stationed at Harvey, N. Dak., dropped in on us for a visit.

Next week, November 5 to 11, is National Education Week.

Be sure and attend a meeting of the P. T. A. at The Auditorium next Monday evening, November 5. A special program is being worked out in line with National Education week and the Post urges all members to attend this meeting of the P. T. A. if possible as education is one of the major objectives in the Legion program.

The American Legion is dedicated to the highest patriotic ideals and is vitally interested in and concerned with any program or activity that makes for the advancement of the nation and develops a higher type of American citizenship. Education is the corner stone upon which the future of this nation is built. Where there are good schools we also find the good citizen. Education is the first requisite of good citizenship, and it is the first of the three major object of the national Americanism program.

This brings to mind our old friend, the National Economy League, whose battle cry was "to save the pocketbooks of the taxpayers", but in the final analysis we find that their entire fight was directed at the schools of America and the American Veteran, in other words the American teachers, peace time defenders, and the American veterans, war time defenders of the nation.

Early in it's career the Legion offered it's services to the National Education Assn. and the United States Office of Education. As a result of this early combination of forces, the eyes of all America have been for a number of years directed upon our public schools, their needs, accomplishments, and aims, during American Education Week.

Armistice Day will be here next week.

Uphold and defend.

Whited Sepulchres

Whited sepulchre means a hypocrite, something or somebody who is not what it or he appears. The phrase occurs in the Bible in Matthew 23:27: "Whited sepulchres which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones."

Blood Poisoning Takes Life of Man on Eve of Wedding to Local Girl

One of the saddest deaths in the history of the community occurred Monday of last week when Charles Donald Paskewitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Paskewitz of Holt, passed away at a local hospital, blood poisoning and complications causing his death, after but one week's illness. Two days later, October 24, his marriage to Miss Hazel Rux of this city was to have taken place. Funeral services were held Thursday at the Mission church at Holt, Rev. Otto Rux of Herreid, S. Dak. officiating.

Charles Donald Paskewitz was born October 25, 1900, at Vesta, Redwood county, also living at Wabasso during his early childhood. For fifteen years he made his home at Grygla, seven years at Kenosha, Wis., and the past three years at Holt, when he has been engaged as mechanic at the Lorentson service station. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and the I. O. O. F. lodge. He is survived by his parents, four sisters, Mrs. Thomas Knutson of Grygla, Mrs. Clarence Lasseson of this city, Mabel and Mrs. Leonard Larson of Holt; and three brothers, Raymond of St. Paul, Homer and William of Holt.

Pallbearers at the funeral were Helmer Udstrand, Dennis Wegge, Emer Loven, George Fricker, Sam Lorentson and Ole Sande.

Decrease Noted in Sale of Small Game Licenses During Current Season

Early reports received by the Minnesota Division of Game and Fish show a falling off in the sale of small game hunting licenses this year. Several reasons were advanced by officials for this decrease. They cited the diminished numbers of upland game birds which caused a curtailment of the open season on ringneck pheasants, with afternoon shooting only and the complete protection of females, the new Federal dollar tax on waterfowl hunting, and the present stringent economic conditions.

Continued drouth, severe heat and disastrous sand and dust storms took a tremendous toll of young upland game birds, state game officials pointed out. Good shooting was scattered, with some localities reporting "excellent bags" and others scanty pickings.

Last year 213,062 resident small game licenses were sold which brought in $191,765.80 as compared to 195,689 similar licenses for $176,120.10 the year previous.

In 1933 there were sold 123 non-resident small game licenses for a sum of $2,706. A total of [illegible] small game licenses were sold to non-residents for [illegible] in 1932.

On his descent into the sea, William Beebe saw fish with headlights. And at least every third one, no doubt, was driving too fast.—Boston Evening Transcript.

What Have You?

Through the columns of this paper I hereby challenge the publishers of the Thief River Falls Forum, or any other responsible party to make a definite charge which can be subjected to prosecution.

Insidious suggestions and questions do not constitute any charge, but only form a part of a dirty political game played by my opposition.

I regret very much that men like Paul Harris and H. O. Berve and others who are responsible for the publication of the Thief River Falls Forum use an irresponsible person to throw the dirt they do not dare to throw themselves. You men can not hide behind the person who is in your employ and think that you can get away with it.

Recommends Adoption of Amendment Number 1

"A serious situation confronts the state because of the confusion in the public mind relative to the extent and purpose of Amendment No. 1 to be voted on by the people at the general election November 6", is the warning contained in a recent statement by Mr. Otto Swanstrom of Duluth, president of the Minnesota Good Roads association, declaring for the passage of the amendment.

The explanation appearing on the ballot is not quite clear, it was pointed out. Instead of allowing roads to be added to the trunk system, it ratifies those additions made by the 1933 regular session of the legislature and reinstates into the Constitution that, before further additions can be made, at least 75% of the new enlarged system of 11,300 miles must be permanently improved."

ROAD WORKER EXHUMES FOUR HUMAN SKULLS

Benson. Evidence of a race of giants once inhabiting the state was brought to light near Scandinavian Lake last week. Maurice Haugen, of Murdock, a road worker, plowed up the bones that are attracting so much attention. The skulls are in a late stage of decomposition, but the teeth of three are almost intact. Mr. Haugen reports that the jawbones are of sufficient size to fit outside of an average man's jaw. This would lead to the assumption that the owner's stature must have been much greater than that of modern man.

RAISE POTATOES IN LAKE

Mountain Lake.—Eagle Lake, for many years the bullhead fisherman's paradise, is now producing potatoes. Only two years ago, large numbers of bullheads were being caught in the lake, and 10 years ago they could be caught by the hundreds. Now, farmers nearby are harvesting potatoes from the lone dry bed of the lake. They planted seven bushels and harvested 60 bushels, many of the samples weighing 1½ pounds each.

Edward W. Backus, Lumber Baron, Dies in New York

Edward W. Backus, of Minneapolis, former head of the Minnesota & Ontario Paper Co., died suddenly Monday in a New York hotel. He was 74 years old. At 22, he entered the lumber business in Minnesota, and a year later, bought the interest of a senior partner in the firm. During his long career as a leading merchant and manufacturer of Minnesota he had many interests in paper mills, power companies, railroads and realty. Backus was born at Jamestown, N. Y. He attended the public schools and the University of Minnesota.

CANDIDATES FOR HOUSE AND SENATE STATE POSITIONS

Most Aspirants Favor an Expenditure Control Program

Legislative candidates in the 67 legislative districts of Minnesota have cooperated with the Minnesota Taxpayers association and 80 county tax associations in a poll of the opinion of candidates as to proposed legislative action for tax reform. Approximately 200 of the 391 candidates for senate and house sent in their answers.

The answers revealed almost a unanimity of opinion regarding several features of tax reform. Ninety-seven per cent of the answers revealed that candidates believe an expenditure control program is necessary to curb future tax levies, including budget, cost-control-accounting method, and expenditure review by taxpayers and local officials.

A surprisingly large number of candidates believe there should be a "pay-as-you-go" policy adopted, keeping within actual tax income.

That the state income tax returns should continue to be used for school debts and levies so that it will take that much of the burden off real estate, as the law now requires, is favored by 91 per cent of the candidates.

"Taxpayers have felt", says James P. McDonnell, president of the State Association, "That the man who pays the cost of government has a right to know how his candidates feel about this matter of taxes. Most of the candidates in the state have recognized this right, and the answers to our questionnaire have come in from a vast majority of them. This is a remarkable response. Taxpayers are reassured and appreciate the splendid disposition on the part of the candidates. It shows that high taxes is one of the biggest issues of the day."

"It is reassuring to know that candidates, in the main, are willing to cooperate with taxpayers to secure relief from the oppressive tax burden, while at the same time these nominees have shown their readiness to support a program that will safeguard the interests of the state by safeguarding the interests of the citizens themselves," Mr. McDonnell stated.

Shift Tax Burden From Real Estate, Auditor Stafford King Advises

Reduced state expenditures and a more equitable distribution of the tax levies, are absolute necessities in Minnesota, according to State Auditor Stafford King.

"Taxes should be levied according to ability to pay, and real estate is not a fair method of determining that ability," Mr. King said in a statement to the Times. "Under our present method a home owner who loses his job has his income cut in half, must keep on paying the same tax or lose his home. A farmer must pay the same tax when he has a crop failure as when he has a bumper crop. If a man builds a new home or improves the old one, he must pay a higher tax. This method is unjust and unsound. It promotes tax delinquency. It discourages thrift and industry.

"No man objects to a fair tax which he has an income. Perhaps we are not ready to take all taxes off real estate. The home owner, the farmer, and the businessman should pay their share of the cost of public improvements which contribute to the value of their property. But a large share of the tax burden should be shifted from real estate to incomes."

WILD FOX TAKEN FROM COAL BIN

St. Cloud. The Hauck Coal and Supply company in East St. Cloud was chosen as the haven of a fox, discovered in one of the coal bins last week and captured only after a long struggle by employees of the firm. The fox was a large and well-developed animal and put up a strong fight. It was taken alive by the employees, who put him in a crate to prove the fact that the fox story is actually true. Just how the fox got in the bins, not known.

AMENDMENT 1 TO RATIFY NEW TRUNK HIGHWAY SYSTEM

Elsberg Asks Voters to Give Approval at Election November 6

Voters will protect the recently marked mileage of state trunk roads in this county by voting "yes" on the state constitutional amendment affecting the trunk highway system says N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner. This amendment will be the top one on the list of proposed constitutional changes appearing on the ballots to be marked November 6. It is described on the ballot as "Allowing additions to trunk highways."

The effect of the amendment will be to ratify the expansion of the trunk system authorized by the 1933 legislature. If the amendment is adopted all the county roads taken over by the highway department at the end of 1933 will be ratified as permanent charges of the state. If the amendment should fail of adoption it may raise a question as to the legality of the new roads.

The amendment also provides that no further additions be made to the state trunk routes until the present system shall be 75 per cent constructed and permanently improved.

Minnesota counties are being saved road bills of approximately $2,000,000 a year through the state's taking over of the new trunk routes. It would be extremely unfortunate, therefore, if the voters fail to ratify the act of the 1933 session. As the amendment must receive a majority of all votes cast at the general election, failure to vote for it is equivalent to voting against it.

1,000 Highway Workers Get Safe Driving Awards

Nearly 1,000 employes of the state highway department have been awarded honor certificates and emblems this month for safe driving records. Those whose record is clear of accidents for three years number 140. There are 62 who received two year awards and 177 who received one year awards. Commissioner N. W. Elsberg last week attended a safety celebration at Marshall, headquarters of Maintenance District No. 15, which won first place in the department's district safety contest. F. O. Nelson, district superintendent, and his men were praised by the commissioner for their fine showing.

Canadian Tree Species

In Canada there are approximately 150 different species and varieties of plants reaching tree stature. 31 of these are coniferous, but the wood of these forms 95 per cent of the forest products, and the trees themselves cover even a larger proportion of the potential forest area.

General Election, Nov. 6, 1934

In making my final appeal, through the columns of this paper, for your vote and support, I ask that you reduce the campaign to the real issue which after all is only "service to the County."

I am now serving my first term. I have tried in former issues to give statements of what has been accomplished, not in tricky generalities, but in facts and figures. I feel that the work which I have done on tax collections alone should merit re-election.

I undertook that task, not because I wanted to rent land, not because it would bring me more pay for I have not received one cent for this extra work, but because something had to be done to stem the tide of tax delinquencies. There was need for this work before I took office, as there were more than 450 quarter sections of land delinquent when I assumed office. This work has been anything but pleasant as we have had to contend with non-resident land owners, mortgage and finance companies who sought to evade payment of taxes. We have had to contend with quarrels between neighbors who wanted to rent the same piece of land, and we have had to deal with the "squatter" who wanted the use of the land without taxation and payment of rent.

I, nevertheless, pledge myself, if re-elected, to carry out the policy of tax collections on these delinquent non-resident owned lands, because I can see no reason why we should allow these lands to escape the burden of taxation. I propose, however, to simplify the procedure of rentals by setting certain days in each township where all interested can meet; thus saving the expense of repeated trips to Thief River Falls.

I further pledge myself to a policy of strict law enforcement, and will continue to co-operate with the County Board.

I wish to thank my many friends for the work they have done in my behalf, and ask that they kindly continue the work until election day. Be sure to vote. Urge your friends to do likewise.

Sincerely,
PAUL A. LUNDGREN.

TO THE VOTERS:

In soliciting your support for re-election to the office of County Auditor, I stand on my record during my first term.

I was elected to my first term on my pledge of an economical administration of the office. This pledge I have fulfilled.

Being an experienced Accountant and Auditor has enabled me to conduct my office during my first term without the expense of an experienced accountant for deputy. PROWLERS BOW TO BEMIDJI GRIDDERS BY SCORE OF 7-0

Battle of Evenly Matched Teams on Fri. 26, Results in Defeat of Prowlers

Last Friday, the Prowlers were sent home from Bemidji on the short end of a 7-0 defeat. The Lincoln High team knocked the Lumberjacks all over the field but only threatened their goal a few times. In spite of the fact that we were on their thirty yard line, the Bemidji end intercepted a pass and raced triumphantly across our goal for the lone score of the game.

Bemidji opened the game with a long kick to Van Pelt who returned the ball to our twenty yard line. The quarter proceeded in see-saw fashion except that Bemidji attempted a forward pass after the line of scrimmage had been passed and was subsequently penalized fifteen yards. The Prowlers were in the act of punting and the brilliant return to our thirty yard line was in vain.

The second quarter opened with a punt by Captain Tom Fuller and Nelson smeared the receiver on the thirty yard line. After a few attempted passes by both teams, the Prowlers had the ball on our thirty-five yard line. They lost the ball through a kick but soon recovered a Bemidji fumble to be in scoring territory on the Bemidji twenty-eighth yard line. Here the fatal event occurred. The Bemidji end intercepted a pass to sprint over our goal for the only touchdown of the game. They passed for the extra point and, with a few routine seconds left, the half ended 7-0 in favor of Bemidji.

Fortune favored the Lincoln gridders as the third quarter opened. Fuller recovered a fumble after a Prowler player had smeared the receiver so hard that he fumbled. Fuller kicked on the fourth down to the ten yard line. The Prowlers lost ground on two plays, but made up most of it. They lost the ball on downs on the Lumberjack twenty-five yard line. The teams exchanged kicks a few times, and the Bemidji eleven had the ball on their own thirty five yard line as the quarter ended with the Prowlers still trailing.

The last quarter was held mostly quite near the Bemidji goal with an occasional scrimmage in Prowler territory. The period was punctuated by superfluous fumbling by Bemidji and completed passes by the Lincoln eleven, but neither could give us the needed "break" to send us across the Lumberjack goal line, and the game ended 7-0.

Although the Prowlers suffered an actual 7-0 defeat, there is still much satisfaction in knowing we didn't lose to an inferior or even to a superior team. The teams were quite evenly matched, and the Lincoln eleven know that they lost only on the scoreboard.

ETIQUETTE CORNER

A few weeks ago in the etiquette column, we reviewed our general behavior. "At the movies" was included in the review. A great deal of complaint has been made as to the behavior of some of the members of the audience, and, of course, a great deal of the time, students compose the majority of the audience. Here are just a few reminders:

Don't express your opinion or discuss the picture! That is the most common mistake made. The place for such comment is on your way home when you won't annoy others! You perhaps turn around and give the person behind you the once over if that person is the kind who talks out loud, but you forget that when you talk yourself there are others whom you are annoying. If you find something very humorous, of course you have the privilege of expressing your wit by laughing, and usually the rest of the audience will laugh too. Don't make your laugh conspicuous. It will only call the attention of others and cause them to stare at you, and, after all, what does the attention of a [illegible] amount to? [illegible]

Just one more thing: when coming into the theater and it is necessary to walk in front of someone, excuse yourself and be seated as quickly as possible. Remember the phrase "excuse me" means a lot, does a lot, and is very important!

BOB McFARLAND LEADS BEMIDJI PEP FEST, FRI.

Skit Presented by Group of Pep Committee Members, Friday

An enthusiastic pep fest to give our team a good send-off for the football game at Bemidji was held last Thursday afternoon. Bob McFarland was the "Announcer in chief." The pep fest was opened with the entire student body singing the school song, which was directed by Vernon Wilkins [illegible] Belsher, a freshman, gave us a "Pep" talk. He told the team to fight well, but not to do what had happened at one football game. Two players, [illegible] got into a fight at a football game. The referee came up to them and told them that players didn't fight on the football field. The first player said, "Is that so," "Yes," the second one answered, "but I just called the senator." "No? That was my girl's telephone number?"

Then Adele Holmstrom, Martha Starkshy, and Harley Kell showed us their version of a yell in which we all finally joined. The yell goes something like this: "[illegible] BOOM! AH! PROWLERS!" To give emphasis to the BOOM, Bud Kelly fell to the floor.

A skit was presented representing two cars going to the first football game at Bemidji. Those in the first car were: Arne Wold as Percival, who drove the car; Theodore Quale as Fitzgerald; Walter Kinghorn as Algathine; Adele Holmstrom as Aestha; and Marjorie Matheson as Lizzie. The chaperon was [illegible] as Miss Wanna Gab.

Those in the second car were: Bud Kelly as Archibald; Lloyd Bradley as Isadore; Tom Fuller as Olaf; Phyllis Norbeck as Mathilda; and Kathleen Monsebroten as Clotilda. They were chaperoned by Marjorie Ward as Miss Lotta Noise.

On the way to Bemidji, the second car ran into difficulties, consisting of tire trouble. However, after this was repaired, both cars continued on to their destination. Having definitely arrived, they gave two good yells. The first:

"Squads left,
Squads right,
We'll hold them tight!
Squads left,
Squads right,
We'll hold them tight!
Ready! Fight! Aim! Fire! Boom!
Thief River High School
Give 'em room!"

The second yell was:
"Rattle up a tin can,
Turn up a tire,
Lincoln High School
Fire! Fire! Fire!"

After the presentation of the skit, Yvonne Anderson gave us a receipt for a good football game: Ingredients: Twenty-two heavy, hard [illegible] of dirt, a football.

Method: Take the twenty-two good, hard-working players and add one or two football teams. Sprinkle them well with dirt and then [illegible] football, and put into the oven to bake.

The pep fest was concluded with more yells led by Kathleen Monsebroten and Phyllis Norbeck, and Adel Holmstrom and Martha Starkshy.

AMBITION

The dictionary definition of ambition is a "desire to achieve a purpose." Some people seem to think that ambition is synonymous with success. However, there are other factors besides ambition that are essential in obtaining success. Ambition may be the key, but what does it profit one to have a key until one has first found the lock?

The complete formula for success is natural ability, plus the development of ability, plus ambition, plus a willingness to work without immediate remuneration.

Probably the first, natural ability, is not an essential. They say that baseball players or musicians or writers are "made" not "born". By this, of course, is meant that success may come without having an ability which is present even in early youth. However, we choose to believe that an individual who is highly successful in his particular profession was blessed with the ability at birth.

Naturally, the ability had to be developed. This may be done in several ways, either by a school education or by practical experience or a combination of both. The latter is much more predominant. Great care should be exercised in developing one's natural abilities. The further they are developed the greater the degree of success will be. Much discretion is necessary in selecting natural talents, for they may be easily confused with passing fancies or desires that go with the coming day.

"Ambition is termed 'the' many 'the key to success.'" The statement is undoubtedly quite true. It is very unlikely that a man will climb to the highest position in a profession unless he has a desire to obtain that position. Loafers and slackers (those without ambition) rarely hold enviable jobs most of the time they don't have [illegible]

A very important factor in the formula is the will to work without receiving immediate reward for your labors. There are countless examples of persons who have possessed all the other three factors, but have failed to achieve the realization of their ambition, because they have become discouraged. They lack the fighting spirit that never ceases until its end is accomplished. Men and women with ambition and developed talents have worked for years before their genius has been recognized. But, success is inevitable if patience is present. Sometimes success does not come until after death. But sooner or later, genius is recognized and the individual are placed with respect and admiration in the annals of time as having been SUCCESSFUL in the true sense of the word.

Gustafson Establishes New Record of 5:58 in Cross-Country

Boys' interclass activities rose to a new high peak last week when more than fifty boys took part in four events under the direction of Mr. Chalmers. The Juniors are making a strong bid for the soccer championship by defeating the Sophomores seven to nothing and winning over the Frosh five to four. In the other soccer games, the Freshmen decisively beat their Sophomore rival five to nothing. The Seniors were unable to organize a team for last week's games but promise to be very much in the race when hostilities are resumed next week.

In the cross country race, the Sophomores again came out victorious by gaining third, fourth, and fifth place for a total of six points to the Seniors five and Juniors' four. The Senior representative, Gustafson, set a new course record of five minutes and fifty-eight seconds, beating the old record by twenty-two seconds. Magnuson gave the Juniors their only place by taking second.

If the Juniors or Seniors want to win the final race of the season, which will be run either on Tuesday or Wednesday of next week, they will have to find runners who can beat the Sophomore runners, Kelly, Dicken, Christofferson and [illegible] out of the three last places.

GIRLS TRY NEW GAME IN GYM

Hit Pin Baseball is Played on Diamond With Soccer Ball

The equipment necessary in playing Hit Pin Baseball is a soccer ball and four Indian clubs.

Mark out a diamond as large as the gymnasium will permit. Make a circle of three feet radium for home base, and one a foot square for the other bases. Stand an Indian club in the center of each base. Mark on pitcher's base as in indoor ball.

The batter stands in front of the club in home base and kicks the pitched ball. The pitcher uses an underhand throw, usually called a "toss", and tries to knock down the club in home base, thus putting the batter out. Ball and strikes, fair and foul hits are the same as in indoor ball. If four balls are called, the batter has a free kick.

When the batter makes a fair hit, he must try to make a complete circuit of the bases, running outside the clubs and not knocking them down. To put him out the players in the field must pass the ball to first, second, third and home base in order, unless the ball so passed reaches a base before the runner passes it. In doing so the player passing the ball must have a foot on the base. If the ball gets ahead of the runner and a club ahead of him is knocked down with it, he is out. He is also out if he knocks down a club or runs inside the base. Other rules and details of play are as in indoor ball.

The runner scores a point for each base he passes that is four points home run, or he is put out on third he scores two points, having passed two bases.

This game is being played in the girls' gym classes. Such a game is very suitable to both the girls and the weather.

Sometime next week the Juniors will substitute Library lessons for their regular English lessons, a change which will undoubtedly be appreciated by a majority of the Juniors.

The seventh grade is busy making Hotpads of white cement and sand as a project in concrete work.

The Shop I students have advanced to the point of making assembly drawings from detailed drawings and are also learning inking and art of inking.

The work in drawing desks being made by Shop II boys is going forward quite rapidly and every one concerned is anxiously looking forward to their installation in the near future. They will constitute a major improvement for the drafting department.

DEBATERS GET NEW SCHEDULE

Library Research Work is Planned for Thursdays

A new schedule has been made for the debate squad. Practice debates will be held on Monday nights in the high school, and on Thursdays there will be diligent research studying on subject material given to them by Mr. Carlson. This reading will be done at the library.

The topic for debate is "Resolved: That the Federal Government Should Adopt the Policy of Equalizing Educational Opportunities Throughout the Nation by Means of Annual Grants to the Several States for Public Elementary and Secondary Education."

There are several ways of interpreting this question and as yet the debate squad has not decided on which one to enlarge. Among the interpretations are: That the Federal Government has the entire control of education, that the state has control with Federal supervision, or that as it now is with Federal aid.

The affirmative is busy finding statistics which will prove that the states need Federal aid to bring the schools up to par, while the negative is seeking a satisfactory plan to help education without Federal aid.

Those participating in debate this year are: Corlan Dokken, Dorothy Fowler, Kendall Gustafson, Malcolm Magnuson, Oscar Bickley, Elizabeth Dahlen, and Francis Engel.

SOME boys seem to believe that the Pharmacy makes a pretty good "hang out". (This isn't an advertisement.)

L. H. S. had a fine turning out at the game at Crookston. Can it be that we're finally finding our lost pep?

Now Is the Time to Send a Farmer To Congress

To "battle" for the farmer, the farmer's wife, and the agricultural northwest. To represent the worker, the clerk, the independent merchant and the small business man. To show that the farmers demand a square deal by electing one of their own fighting men.

Senator Richard Thompson Buckler is the Farmer - Labor nominee for Congress. He deserves your vote and support. He fearlessly led the farmers' fight in the state Senate. He voted for you then. YOU vote for HIM now. When the farmers prosper, business and labor prosper.

R. T. Buckler

BUCKLER PLEDGES HIS SUPPORT OF AND ADVOCATES—

—the Frazier bill, which provides farm loans at 1½% interest and 1½% amortization payments.

—the Swank-Thomas bill fixing guaranteed minimum prices for farm products.

—adequate aid and relief for the drouth-stricken and needy of the district.

—national federal old age pensions.

—the payment of the soldiers' bonus. He also stands for fairer treatment for disabled war veterans.

—a general federal aid for rural, village and city schools.

For character and honesty, courage and fearlessness, ability and efficiency, aggressiveness and experience, vote for R. T. Buckler for Congress

URGE RE-ELECTION OF INCUMBENTS IN SUPREME COURT

Attorneys of State Support Devaney, Julius Olson and Hilton

Thousands of Minnesota attorneys, anxious to preserve the nationally recognized judicial fearlessness and freedom development in the state supreme court, have joined forces to assure re-election November 6 of the three members whose terms are expiring: Chief Justice John P. Devaney and Associate Justices Julius J. Olson and Clifford L. Hilton.

Announcement of the effort was made this week by Carsten L. Jacobson, secretary of a volunteer committee for Chief Justice Devaney in Minneapolis. He issued a statement calling attention to the state-wide endorsement of the three jurists and the emphasis placed on the leadership of the chief justice.

These jurists who with their four colleagues on the supreme bench have decided within a comparatively few months more important cases than normally come before the court in years are asking re-election on a non-political basis, Mr. Jacobson explained. They are the candidates of no political party. As judges they have no connection with or interest in the fortunes of any political organization. Their services in the court are as non-political as any public work can be.

Sitting through the most trying times in the history of the court, bringing before it litigation cutting deep into questions of constitutionality, the three judges have played an important part in establishing the basis for remedial legislation sought by the public, Mr. Jacobson went on. At the same time, they have kept less important litigation moving toward final decisions at a pace that has cleared the calendar. There are no longer any delays in obtaining hearings before the court.

Temperance Literature Comes for Distribution Throughout Minnesota

What is declared to be the largest single order of temperance literature ever delivered in the state has been received at the headquarters of the Anti-Saloon League of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

The big shipment of a quarter of a million pieces of literature touching 50 different phases of the subject is to be used in connection with the anti-alcoholic educational campaign of the state dry organization. It deals mainly with the scientific facts about alcohol and is illustrative of reports made by scientists and research artists in nearly every section of the world. It shows the reported effect of alcohol on human life, the various organs of the body, and posterity, as well as upon the efficiency of the worker.

"We are going to the laboratory and to the hard-boiled scientist for our information", said Dr. R. N. Holsaple in speaking of the type of campaign that is being conducted. "There is nothing sentimental nor frothy in this type of campaign. We do not intend to base our arguments on any of our own pet theories which may be born our of prejudice. We shall give to the public the unempeachable and sure verdict of science. Beverage alcohol has been measured, tested, and blue-printed in a thousand laboratories and its reactions, even when taken in mild dilutions and small doses, is so well proven that no one need be longer deceived on the subject."

Interim Highway Body Will Hold Hearing at Crookston November 15

The Citizens' Interim Highway committee authorized by the 1933 legislature will hold five public hearings in November and December, according to an announcement by Fred Schilplin of St. Cloud, chairman of the committee.

Hearings have been scheduled as follows: November 9 at Redwood Falls, November 15 at Crookston, November 20 at Duluth, November 26 at Rochester and December 4 at St. Paul.

County and township officers are particularly invited to attend these hearings and present their views on proposals that town and county roads be taken into the state trunk highway system. The committee was appointed to study this phase of the state's highway problems particularly and to report before the next session of the legislature. Legislative authorization of the committee's investigation followed agitation for a consolidation of all local roads under the state highway department.

"OUT WHERE THE WEST BEGINS" SPIRIT SHOWN

Mankato, -The pioneer days of chivalry are not over, as was proved recently by a group of farmer friends and members of a Pemberton church. Badly scalded on the chest and side as he attempted to loosen a radiator cap on a truck, Earl Geary, farmer, has been confined to his bed several weeks. Last week his friends and neighbors held a "plowing bee", cleaning up a tract of 50 acres for the disabled man. Taking 16 furrows at one sweep across the field, the plowmen had completed their task by 5 o'clock in the afternoon, after starting early in the morning. To make the act even more pleasing to Geary, a spirit of rivalry both in speed and neatness and accuracy of the furrows turned over was shown all day, and the result was one of the finest pieces of plowing ever seen in that section.

GOPHERS EXPECT TO BEAT MICHIGAN NEXT SATURDAY

Big Game of Season to Feature Annual Homecoming Celebration

Minnesota and Michigan football coaches will exchange compliments, each telling the other how good he is and how the opposing team is sure to win, when they make brief speeches as a feature of the annual homecoming banquet in the Minnesota Union, at the university Friday night, November 2. The banquet is the traditional annual rally of Gopher alumni that precedes the big home game of the year. President L. D. Coffman also will make a brief address.

Minnesotans believe this will be one of the celebrated years when Minnesota beats Michigan on the gridiron. In recent years this has taken place only in 1919 and 1927, the event being periodic, like drouths, depressions and the like.

Whether Minnesota's efforts to smooth out this curve is due to the heavier industries of Michigan or the more rapid pigskin turnover at Ann Arbor remains for members of learned institutes to unravel. Some maintain that the records look the way they do because Minnesota suffers from a plain, old-fashioned inferiority complex, and it is true that in past years some Minnesota teams have lost to inferior teams wearing the maize and blue of the Wolverine.

Another theory is that intensive punting, passing and playing by Yost's teams have been altogether too much for the Gophers, who at times have excelled at one or even two of the famous aerial routes, but seldom in all three at the same time.

The first complete sellout of Memorial Stadium in five years is expected, and even now practically no seats are left.

Billings Warns About Fake Turkey Buyers

With the Thanksgiving marketing season at hand, Dr. W. A. Billings of the agricultural extension division, University Farm, warns turkeymen not to get caught by swindlers. His latest letter to turkey growers says:

"Don't sell to some Jesse James dealer whose only capital is a promise. Investigate the financial standing of the person who offers you especially attractive prices. Keep this in mind now, rather than later, so you won't get one of those famous rubber checks that come bouncing back from the bank marked 'N. G.'"

Dr. Billings believes prices for fully finished No. 1 birds will be better this year than last. Storage holdings are lighter and fewer turkeys have been raised. The fact that feed is scarce and high-priced may bring a flood of thin turkeys on the market which will make prices for the lower grade birds even less attractive than usual. Consequently, growers are advised to hold back all thin birds and to finish them for the Christmas market.

CHAMP DOWNS 17 SINKERS IN DUNKING CONTEST

Fergus Falls, -Two men tied for the "doughnut dunking" championship at the Fergus Falls Harvest Festival recently by downing 17 sinkers apiece in ten minutes. The contest was conducted under the Marquis of Queensbury rules, and was held for amateur sportsmen only. One contestant was barred because he had turned professional. Twelve men qualified for the dunking bout. Doughnuts were arranged on sticks so that the spectators might watch the progress made by each of the participants, and at a sign from the referee the dunking started. Competition was stiff, and at the end of ten minutes Arnold Tofahl of Fergus Falls township and Rudolph Larson of Battle Lake had each done away with 17 sinkers. Each man had used about a half gallon of coffee to keep his throat clear. To break the tie the leaders flipped a coin, and Tofahl won first prize.

THE TRUTH ABOUT SHIPSTEAD'S RECORD

NATIONAL RECOVERY ACT

Hoidale said in a speech on October 16th that Shipstead voted against the NRA.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

Shipstead voted for the NRA with the Borah Amendment to reinstate the Anti Trust Laws for the purpose of protecting the small business man and consumer against price fixing of trusts and monopolies.

HOME OWNERS LOAN CORPORATION

Hoidale said Shipstead voted against the Home Owners Loan Corporation.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

Shipstead voted for the Home Owners Loan Corporation Act with the amendment which was openly advocated by the President, that appointments to administrative positions under that Act should be made solely on the basis of qualification without regard to political party affiliation.

THE SECURITIES ACT

Hoidale said Shipstead voted against the Securities Act.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

Shipstead did not vote on the Securities Act. He was in conference with the President when the vote was taken and the record so states. He was prepared to return if his vote was needed and the record states quoting Shipstead that he was in favor of the bill. It passed overwhelmingly, so his absence did not jeopardize the passage of the bill.

BANK DEPOSIT INSURANCE ACT

Hoidale said Shipstead voted against the Bank Guarantee Insurance Act.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

Shipstead voted for the Bill. It passed by unanimous vote of the Senate.

CWA APPROPRIATIONS

Hoidale said Shipstead voted against the CWA.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

Shipstead voted for the Cutting and LaFollette amendments to the bill which would increase the appropriation provided for the CWA by $500,000,000.

ECONOMY ACT

Hoidale said Shipstead did not vote on the Economy Act.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

Shipstead was confined to bed when the vote was taken. He was paired with Senator Kendrick. In the next session Shipstead voted to repeal it because it affected the care of disabled veterans.

EMERGENCY BANKING ACT

Hoidale said Shipstead voted against the Emergency Banking Act, and the banks' doors were opened the next morning.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

Shipstead voted to protect the State Banks and the banks did not open the next morning because he and other Senators pointed out that it did not protect the state banks. After the bill passed, a conference at the White House was called and the President decided to postpone the opening of the banks until the bill could be amended to protect state banks as Shipstead and other Senators demanded.

for State Representative
65th Legislative District

It is twelve years since I first asked for your vote and support. You elected me and re-elected me again. I stepped out of that office to run for a higher one and if I had not done that I believe that I perhaps would still have been your representative in the State Legislature.

The people of my county and my friends through the district have encouraged me to run several times since and my own county has always given me a large majority. I have run twice against the present incumbent and carried Red Lake county against him both times with large majorities. I carried again in the June primaries, receiving the largest vote of any candidate in Red Lake county regardless of party or office. I feel that this is the best recommendation I could give. I am sorry that I could not meet every voter but this is impossible because of the size of the district, and I will therefore have to meet you through the press.

As people well know I am a liberal in politics and my record as your representative proves this. I am independent of party affiliation and if elected I shall serve you to the best of my ability rather than any Party. I refuse to be a rubber stamp for any party, believing that the interest and welfare of the people is greater than any party. The office which I seek is an office without party designation, so established by law.

I sought the liberal and progressive forces of this state before my opponent did. I am still a liberal and belong to this group but I will not and have not submitted to the dictatorship of the leaders that are trying to built up a dictatorship from which we would have a hard time to get from under. This dictatorship is built up by an organization called Farmer-Labor association in the state and is controlled in 65th legislative district by Paul Harris, J. O. Melby and W. E. Day. They controll the majority of the small membership and therefore the endorsement is by themselves and for themselves. The people of Pennington County know too well their members.

I do not believe that our principle of government has failed, but rather believe that the administration of government has failed. I still believe in American form of government, which [illegible]

I am against the state going into the liquor business, because it would become the issue of a political machine for the party in power. I think it can best be handled by municipal or private operation. I believe it should be regulated to obtain the best moral standards possible. My opponent, Mr. Melby, has in the past made quite an issue of the liquor business, being wet in Red Lake county and dry in Pennington.

Above you have my position and stand on the liquor question. I do not know how Mr. Melby stands this year, outside that he helped adopt the wettest platform in the state and that he is seeking election upon that platform. That platform calls for government ownership of the liquor business.

I believe that taxes should be paid according to earnings and ability to pay and I believe that our tax system should be changed and that we should do away with the confiscatory property and real estate taxes which are taking away the farms and homes and in place put the tax on incomes. I am against tax exempt securities.

I believe in strict economy in state appropriations and use and expenditure of state funds. I am absolutely opposed to using the tax payers' money for political purposes, directly or indirectly. But I believe that the state should take proper care of the poor, aged and suffering and I shall vote for such relief measures, but I shall insist upon that it be used for such purposes and without political or personal discrimination.

In the past I have voted for all fair social and labor legislation and pledge myself to do the same if elected.

It should be unnecessary for me as a farmer and champion of cooperative marketing to make much reference to my stand on agricultural questions, my record and activities speak for themselves and if elected I shall again pick up the fight.

Space will not permit me to go into detail on the different questions but I have given you the principles I stand for believing that to reconstruct this economic system we will have to give the farmer and laborer an equal chance with capital because it is by these two classes that wealth is produced.

I served you voters in the 1923 session twelve years ago. You elected me again and I served you again in the 1925 session. I was then but a young boy. You placed confidence in me then and I have not heard many that have regretted their vote. If elected again I shall fill your mandate the same as before and you will know that you have a representative in the legislature.

OLSON LEADS FOR GOVERNOR IN CLOSE VOTE

Has Margin of 24,000 Votes in Nearly Half of Precincts

MIKE HOLM IS HELD SURE OF REELECTION

Shipstead Retains Big Lead Over Hoidale and Holmberg

Martin A. Nelson, Republican candidate for governor, piled up margin after margin in the smaller towns and villages of Minnesota Wednesday and slashed large holes in what early Tuesday night had appeared to be a sweeping reelection victory for Governor Olson.

Governor Olson, who went out of St. Paul and Minneapolis with a 32,000 plurality over Nelson, and with his Democratic opponent, John E. Regan of Mankato, eliminated, had seen his lead in the entire state cut to 24,600 today.

The fate of the gubernatorial election appeared to hang on how the Minnesota farmers vote. The vote in 1638 precincts out of 3,700 was: Olson, 204,799; Nelson, 180,921 and Regan, 68,661.

Meanwhile, as the governor's lead seemed slipping instead of increasing, because F.-L. forces had been confident it would in the country, other Farmer-Labor candidates threatened security of all of the partisan state offices except that of Mike Holm, veteran secretary of state.

Farmer-Laborites appeared to have won the offices of attorney general, and lieutenant governor, which they held for the last two years, and to have added that of a second and controlling member of the state railroad and warehouse commission. They also held a lead for clerk of the supreme court.

The Farmer-Labor candidates for state auditor and state treasurer, members of the state investment board, at several times in the counting swung ahead of the Republican incumbents, and are still in a threatening position, but at no time did they imperil the veteran secretary of state, Mike Holm.

Senator Shipstead increased his lead over both Congressman Einar Hoidale, Democrat, who relinquished his House seat to try for senator, and M. J. Holmberg, Republican nominee, but at the same time the comparative size of his plurality was also on the decline.

With 1,083 precincts reporting, 217 of them from Hennepin and 36 from Ramsey counties, the vote was:

Shipstead, 133,652; Hoidale, 78,232; Holmberg, 56,661.

Named State Senator

E. L. TUNGSETH

Who was revealed in final returns late this morning to have won by a narrow margin election to the state senate from the 65th legislative district. He defeated Paul Harris, who had the Farmer-Labor endorsement.

HALF OF DISTRICT INDICATES A SURE WIN FOR BUCKLER

Crookston Man Leads Brandon and Sageng by 8,000 Votes

With 301 of the 620 precincts in the district reporting unofficial returns compiled here gave R. T. Buckler a substantial lead in the ninth district congressional race over Ole O. Sageng, Republican and M. O. Brandon, Democrat, according to a tabulation by the Crookston Times. The Crookston Farmer-Labor candidate had a total of 19,310 votes compared to 11,785 for Brandon and 11,625 for Sageng.

The returns included Red Lake county complete, one-third of Becker county; half of Beltrami, two-thirds of Clay; two-thirds of Kittson, two out of 12 precincts in Lake of the Woods, 16 out of 19 in Mahnomen, half of Norman, one fifth of Marshall, nearly half of Ottertail, 21 out of 27 Pennington precincts; over half of Polk, a third of Roseau and over half of Wilkin county.

Of the partial returns, Buckler was in the lead in Becker, Beltrami, Clay, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Roseau, Pennington and Polk.

Late figures received this morning, covering 365 of the 620 precincts in the ninth congressional district, are as follows: Buckler, 21,425; Sageng, 11,426; and Brandon, 13,762.

Tungseth Apparently Is Winner Over Harris

In one of the most exciting and long-drawn-out election contests in the history of this section of the state, Mayor E. L. Tungseth Tuesday apparently was elected state senator from the 65th legislative district on the basis of complete unofficial returns. The vote as tabulated by the Times was 5,613 for Tungseth to 5,457 for Paul Harris, who had the Farmer-Labor endorsement.

With only two precincts to be heard from, these including the first and second wards in Thief River Falls, Harris was leading by a small margin of votes. However, when returns came in from the two missing precincts, Tungseth overcame the lead and wound up with a margin of 56 votes. As counting of the ballots was not completed in the second ward until nearly noon today, the Times is not given an opportunity to re-check the figures given.

On the basis of the unofficial tally Representatives W. E. Day and J. O. Melby were re-elected Tuesday, Marius Waldal being eliminated when he scored 19 votes less than Day. The vote for the district, which comprises Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater counties, follows: Melby, 5,296; Day, 5,228; Waldal, 5,209; and Jones 4,280.

Re-elected Governor

FLOYD B. OLSON

Who will serve a third term as governor of Minnesota by virtue of having won Tuesday's election. His margin was apparently much less than the plurality of more than 180,000 votes given him two years ago.

Absent Voters Ballots Make All-Time Record

An inkling of the heavy vote cast in the general election Tuesday was received Monday when County Auditor Harry Fowler announced that more than 200 county residents had cast absent voters' ballots, setting an all-time record for elections in Pennington county.

KILLS WILD GOOSE WITH EAR OF CORN

Heron Lake -You can believe it or not, but Ted Just swears it's the truth and he had the goose to prove it. While husking corn one day on the John Just farm four miles north of Heron Lake, Ted looked up just in time to see a flock of wild geese passing over, just above the corn tops. He grabbed an ear of corn from a stalk and heaved it at the flock, wining one goose which dropped not far from where he was standing. It is expected that the managers of several major league ball teams will wire Just for his service on the mound next year.

RECORD VOTE CAST IN MARSHALL CO. ELECTION TUESDAY

Toftner Leads for Sheriff and Trost for County Attorney

Marshall county voters went to the polls Tuesday in record numbers and with returns from 25 out of 60 precincts tabulated indications point to the election of A. A. Trost as county attorney, O. C. Toftner as sheriff, Levi G. Johnson as county auditor, Nels M. Engen as county superintendent of schools, A. C. Swandby, clerk of court and F. A. Green, representative.

In the register of deeds race, George T. Sands is giving the veteran Louis M. Olson a neck and neck race, with Olson holding a slight lead over his Alvarado opponent. Trost ran surprisingly strong in the county attorney's race and in the 25 reporting precincts is holding a two to one lead.

In the three cornered race for sheriff, O. C. Toftner has the inside track and is apparently assured of election. Hans C. Hanson, the "sticker" candidate is running about 500 votes behind with Evald Erickson a couple of hundred votes behind him.

F. A. Green has taken a comfortable lead over E. M. Evans in the representative race and although the Evans stronghold in eastern Marshall has not reported, it will be difficult to overcome the lead of the veteran legislator.

Levi G. Johnson is running ahead of Carl O. Knutson in the race for county attorney by about a two to one margin while Nels M. Engen is holding about a 500 vote lead over his opponent, Miss Martha Kleppe.

All Red Lake County Officials Re-elected

All present county officials in Red Lake county were re-elected Tuesday, the biggest margin being given Sheriff Carl Kankel who was returned to office by a four-to-one vote. Two new county commissioners were elected, they being Ole Krostue of Oklee and Carl Swanson of Plummer.

Arthur Rambeck is Elected County Sheriff by a Safe Margin

GULLINGSRUD GAINS FOR TREASURER POST

Total of 2,265 Votes Cast in City, Setting an All-time Mark

In the general election Tuesday which was featured in Pennington county by a record turnout of voters as a result of acute interest in a number of contests together with ideal weather conditions, one county official failed of re-election and the outcome of another contest was still in doubt this morning, depending on the outcome in the first and second wards, last precincts in the county to report.

H. O. Berve, former incumbent of the office, defeated County Attorney Paul Lundgren, candidate for re-election, by a margin that was apparently safe with the figures for last two precincts lacking. County Treasurer John Gullingsrud lagged behind his opponent, A. R. Johnsrud, in the rural areas, but it was indicated this morning that Gullingsrud's margin in the city would be sufficient to insure his re-election.

Arthur Rambeck will be the next sheriff on the basis of returns from all but the two city precincts he having maintained a good lead in most parts of the county against Andrew Ness and O. L. Ihle, incumbent, who was a sticker candidate.

County Auditor Harry Fowler scored a decisive victory over his opponent, George M. Gunderson, and A. C. Mathison also was returned to office, as was Fred D. Lorentson, register of deeds.

W. H. Mulry won an exceedingly close race for county commissioner from O. C. Paulson in the fourth district, his margin being 11 votes. The tally was: Third ward: Mulry, 239, Paulson, 152; fourth ward: Mulry, 260; Paulson, 336. Total: Mulry 499, Paulson, 488.

The vote in the first ward on county commissioner from the second district, as tabulated this morning, was: Bredeson, 359; Odelin, 205. Second ward: Bredeson, 343, Odelin, 186.

A total of 2,265 votes were cast in the city Tuesday, setting an all-time record, according to City Clerk P. G. Pederson. In the 1932 presidential election 2,036 votes were cast in the city, while there were 1,868 votes in the 1934 city election. By wards the vote Tuesday was: First, [illegible]; second, 467; third, 566, and fourth, 497.

Senator Henrik Shipstead received 3,231 votes in Pennington county, more than twice the combined total of his four opponents. Despite the larger turnout of voters, Governor Floyd Olson received [illegible] fewer votes in this county Tuesday than he did two years ago. His vote was 2,826 compared to 1,609 for Nelson and 159 for Regan.

Associate Justice Julius J. Olson led the state ticket by tallying [illegible] votes. K. K. Solberg led Mike Holm in the county by a small margin for secretary of state, receiving 2,221 votes to 2,111 for Holm. Farmer-Labor candidates led in the county for the offices of lieutenant governor, state auditor, state treasurer and attorney general, as well as railroad and warehouse commissioner and clerk of the supreme court.

Montague of Crookston were leading in the election of two 14th judicial district judges, the Crookston Times reports. Both were endorsed by the Farmer Labor party and were running against Martin O'Brien and William E. Rowe of Crookston.

Judge Montague was running in front position with a total vote of 11,536 compared to 9,550 for Brattland, 8,413 for O'Brien and 7,181 for Rowe.

"The Lion's Share"

"The Lion's Share" is an allusion to one of Aesop's Fables, in which the lion is represented as claiming all the spoils, although he has been assisted in the hunt by a number of other beasts. He demands one quarter as his own special prerogative; one quarter for his superior strength; one quarter for his courage, and as for the remaining quarter he defied anyone to dispute his possession with him.

LOCAL CITIZENS SEE GOPHERS BEAT MICHIGAN 34-0

59,000 Fans See Minnesota Strengthen Claim to National Title

A large delegation of local football fans was in Minneapolis Saturday to witness the homecoming game at the University of Minnesota stadium between the Gophers and the University of Michigan. A record-breaking crowd of 59,000 persons saw the Minnesota eleven win 34 to 0 after being held scoreless thruout the first half.

The Gophers struck with the swiftness of a cobra in the third quarter. Their first bid for a touchdown was frustrated but they came right back a minute or so later to push over the first touchdown of the afternoon. After that it became only a question of how many touchdowns they would score.

They pushed over three in the third period, got two more in the fourth and lost one when an offside penalty called the ball back after Art Clarkson had carried it over the goal line after intercepting a Michigan pass.

The Gophers may play better football in the future but it will be moons before they can turn in a sweeter victory than they did Saturday.

The Wolverines used everything in their repertoire to upset the Gophers and thereby ruin Minnesota's chances for the national title. They reached into their bag of tricks, pulled out some old ones and introduced some new ones, but they couldn't score.

Minnesota Residents Urged to Cooperate in National Cheese Week

Dean Walter C. Coffey of the University of Minnesota urges all of the people in Minnesota to cooperate in making National Cheese Week, November 11 to 17 a success. Purpose is to stimulate the cheese industry as an aid to the entire dairy industry. Each person can help the campaign by eating one extra pound of cheese during that week.

Dean Coffey said, "Minnesota is a leader in dairy production. Our dairy herds constitute our largest single source of agricultural income. The late Professor C. H. Eckles frequently pointed out that we were too much inclined to rely on milk and butter for our dairy income; that there was need to find ways and means of securing income and profit from all of the valuable products that can be secured from milk.

"Cheese is one of these products. As a people we have not learned to appreciate, as we should the palatability and nutritive power of good cheese. Various European countries are far in advance of us in the per capita consumption of this product. We can well afford to develop a discriminating palate for cheese and to give it a more prominent place in our day by day selections of food."

Professor W. B. Combs in charge of the Dairy Division at the University of Minnesota is desirous that people in Minneapolis eat more cheese to help Minnesota's cheese industry. There are 55 factories in Minnesota that produce 10,000,000 pounds of cheese annually. The University of Minnesota is cooperating with cheese makers in an effort to further the cheese industry, he said.

Gopher Spud Acreage Largest Among States, Says U Farm Economist

Minnesota Potato Week, November 12 to 17, will be an excellent time for Gopher state folks to "get wised up" regarding the state's rank as a spud producer. L. F. Garey of the division of agricultural economics, University Farm, St. Paul, is authority for the facts and figures that follow.

In acreage, Minnesota leads all other states, averaging 329,000 acres for the 5 years, 1926 to 1930. This was 10.6 per cent of the total acreage for the United States. In bushels produced, Minnesota is exceeded only by Maine which annually raises about 10 million bushels more. Minnesota's production for the 5 years named averaged about 30 million bushels. Her consumption during the same period averaged 7.7 million bushels and 4.3 million more used for seed, a total of about 12 million bushels, or about two-fifths of her normal production.

Potatoes normally account for about 5 per cent of the state's total cash farm income, though the proportion of income derived from potatoes on farms in the important potato sections is much greater. The share of the crop shipped outside the state commonly varies from about 45 to 60 per cent. Thus the advantage of a bigger home market for the state's potatoes is readily apparent, especially because potatoes are bulky and perishable, making them costly to ship. This greater home market could readily exist if Minnesota consumers insisted on buying home grown potatoes in preference to those shipped in. That is why Governor Olson has proclaimed State Potato Week, urging distributors and consumers to give special attention to the sale and use of Minnesota potatoes, "thereby tending to increase consumption permanently and, in addition, to assure an increased income and purchasing power for the potato producers of Minnesota."

THE FASCISTI AND THE CCC
(Marshall Daily Messenger)

We find a sharp contrast between the CCC program and the Mussolini program which puts boys and young men into military service.

Il Duce yesterday spoke to 250,000 youths between the ages of 18 and 21 assembled in every large city of Italy. He told them Fascism promises them "neither honors nor jobs nor profit—only duty and combat." And further that their older comrades welcome them with open heart and "with most profound sympathy"—well they may, for those older ones who have fought know what probably lies ahead for these boys. "Remember," he continued, "that those who betray the oath will be stricken by the swords of Fascism as traitors."

There are no such words in America's CCC, and yet, in a measure at least, the CCC and the Italian youth program are probably aimed at the same essential thing, to take up the slack of unemployment.

But what a difference in ultimate aim! The CCC boy works primarily for his return to a job in normal civilian life. He is marking time until that opportunity arrives, as it is at the rate of 10,000 a month. And meanwhile, he is doing a constructive work that affords himself and family a living outside the bread line, a work that is improving his nation in a permanent way, a work in which he can take pride.

The Italian youth, on the other hand, is groomed only for fighting. He may attain more perfect physical standards and greater heights of discipline, but while his work, too, affords him a living, he is learning otherwise, only the best way of killing men. With his military training starting, surprisingly enough, at the tender age of only eight years, he probably has no opportunity to develop other desires, but what a calamity that boys comparable to those in our third grade of school must grow to 21 years or more with their primary aim of life limited almost entirely to fighting and killing.

Certainly America, with her CCC camps is doing a hundred times better job than that!

BEWARE OF PANACEAS
(Long Prairie Leader)

Addressing an audience at the convention of Junior leagues of North America in Minneapolis the other day, Mrs. Margaret Culkin Banning, well known Duluth authoress and social worker, said one of the dangers confronting this country in the present depression is "the number of crack brained schemes for unworkable utopias that are being advanced by well intentioned people who are poorly prepared by lack of economic training, information and practical experience to assume such leadership." Mrs. Banning sounded a timely warning. Depression brings out more schemes to save the world than does prosperity, and the present depression, longer and deeper than any that have previously afflicted the country has proved a fertile field for panaceas. Depression, however, is really the time for one to keep his feet on the ground and follow the suggestions of common sense and good judgment.

CAREFUL DRIVING NEEDED
(Madison Independent Press)

The increase in automobile accidents in the state of Minnesota is alarming. Many of these fatal mishaps could be avoided by the exercise of a little care. We have seen motorists drive on to arterial highways without even stopping to see whether other cars are approaching. We have met car after car showing but one light, and we have seen many a car without tail lights. We have also met many drivers who are not endowed with the common courtesy of dimming their headlights. We have seen drivers take the reckless chance of passing automobiles while climbing hills. We have seen other careless individuals cut in ahead of other automobiles where they had only inches to spare. Couple some of these nitwits up with a fast, modern automobile and turn them loose on a good road and they are as big a menace as the drunken driver. No wonder we have so many automobile accidents.

The way the new state commissioner of education has decided to sign his name will be taken by his critics as furnishing proof, if any was needed, that he is putting the department into politics. When it first appeared in the papers his name was John G. Rockwell. That sounded too much like New Hampshire. It now is John Gunderson Rockwell. That sounds more like Minnesota. To complete the translation the administration's political linguists may be interested in changing the first name from John to Johan, and the last name from Rockwell to Stenbrunn. That name would carry many a school district.—Montevideo News.

The San Francisco Chronicle published a big scoop in the news line last week. It announced under glaring headlines that David Lamson, who is in jail awaiting death for murder, had been granted a new trial by the California supreme court. The other papers were aghast, as no supreme court decision had been handed down. The editors of the Chronicle were hailed before the supreme court for contempt. They refused to tell where they got their information, and the paper was fined $500 and its editors $250 each. The next day the supreme court handed down the decision granting Lamson a new trial.—Fergus Falls Journal.

When you get into a tight place and everything goes against you till it seems as though you could not hold on a minute longer, never give up then, for that is just the place and time that the tide will turn.—Harriet Beecher Stowe.

The editor would be glad to cut down his production of news and editorials if he were assured he could get a cut in a nice mellon of $100,000 from the government, like the corn-hog contract signers in Steele county are getting.—And maybe the readers would like the proposition. Owatonna Journal-Chronicle.

The Northfield News has a subscriber who wants the Constitution of the United States published in serial form, instead of the fiction-serial. And after that possibly the Book of Job.—The Jordan Independent.

One correspondent writes: "I would send in a lot more news but lots of people are on relief and they don't like to have you print about their going on trips and entertaining company." 'Tis a strange age we are living in. Ex.

I will chide no brother in the world but myself, against whom I know most faults. Shakespeare.

School Notes

A large number of parents and friends attended the Hallowe'en program given at the school house last Wednesday afternoon. At the close of the program lunch was served and a social time was enjoyed by all. Eli and Jean Pomerenke have returned to school after spending an enjoyable vacation at the World's Fair. The first graders are making a very cozy play house of Tom and Betty, their new reading friends. Violet's contract thermometer is now the highest of the school. She is closely followed by Josephine and Gudrun who also have crawled the mercury above the freezing point. The boys have been making door stops in general arts class while the girls have been doing some very artistic work on scrap books.—They are now working on a Pilgrim's project for our sand table. So far Gudrun has given the most book reports. They have been very much interested in the traveling library.

State Plans Winter Road Work Program

Graveling, bridge work and heavy grading projects will be carried on this winter by the state highway department to provide as much cold weather employment as possible, according to N. W. Elsberg, highway commissioner. This winter's program will not be as extensive as last winter's, because there is not as much federal money available. However, wherever practical, construction will be kept going thru the cold months.

GIRL LOCKED IN ICE BOX ALMOST FREEZES

Starbuck—The unique experience of being put into "cold storage" was suffered recently by Lorraine Asberg. Going into the ice box in her father's butcher shop, Lorraine accidentally closed the door and the catch lever on the outside slipped into place, locking her inside. No one was in the shop at the time, and while she could look through the double glass in the two small doors, her shouts for someone to open the door could not be heard through the heavily insulated ice box. After about half an hour, a customer came into the shop and on looking around saw Lorraine through the windows. She immediately rescued the girl, whose hands and face were blue with cold. Although no worse for her experience, Lorraine isn't enthusiastic about being put into cold storage again. Had she been forced to remain there much longer, the results might have been quite serious.

YOUNGSTERS BAGS TWO PARTRIDGES WITH BB GUN

Bemidji—One of the most excited youngsters in Bemidji recently was Dan Bailey, seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Bailey, after he had proved in a Sunday afternoon that he could hunt almost as well as his father, even though his weapon was only a BB gun. The boy had been taken with his father on an afternoon partridge hunting trip, taking along his air rifle in the fond hope of shooting a partridge or two. His hopes were realized and he brought down two of the birds, only one less than his father shot, to make a total of five. Mr. Bailey declares [illegible]

Statement by Paul Lundgren

While defeat is never sweet, I want the whole county to know that I am not a "squawker", nor am I carrying any grudges by reason of the recent election. It is evident that I am not a politician and as I have decided to make this community my home, I will now have to settle down to the serious business of practicing law.

I want to congratulate my opponent on his success and compliment him on his Political Generalship.

I still feel that I have established a record during my term of office for which I need make no apologies. Time will tell whether that is a fact or an "extravagant boast." I sincerely hope that my successor will carry on the work of tax attachments as this has been developed to a point where the County can receive from Fifteen Thousand ($15,000.00) Dollars to Eighteen Thousand ($18,000.00) Dollars a year through collection of rents on delinquent lands.

I still have the interest of Pennington County at heart, and will do what I can as a private citizen toward its development.

I wish to thank the many voters who gave me their support and vote.

Sincerely yours,

PAUL A. LUNDGREN.

Topics of the Times

By H. A. H.

Northwestern Minnesota was in luck this fall, getting two Indian summers.

It was a fortunate coincidence for the national administration that on the eve of election the president should be able to announce that federal pay cuts will be eliminated eight months hence.

As we might have predicted, a lawyer was elected governor of Minnesota Tuesday.

An ideal small town, truthfully says the Baudette Region, is one where folks speak to, instead of about, everyone else.

That old stranger HCL is coming back, and a lot of folks have forgot that those initials mean high cost of living.

Minnesota Swedes will agree that last Saturday's football game in Minneapolis was Yost too bad for Michigan.

At last the election is over, and the country will go stumbling along pretty much as usual.

Prisons in the United States have a population of 137,917, and some folks think the number should be increased slightly.

That new fire engine arrived just in time to put out incipient blazes started by the heat of the election campaign.

News of 10 Years Ago

From the Times of Nov. 13, 1924

With terminals unable to handle the incoming flood, more than 300 carloads of grain were held in the yards in this city Sunday, P. J. Keating, chief inspector, stated.—Rev. Joseph Barnett of Red Wing, former state Legion chaplain, was the principal speaker at Armistice day exercises here.—Carl Angell, associated with the White Eagle Oil company of this city, died following injuries sustained in a truck mishap north of Plummer.—Thomas Chittick, senior clerk at the local postoffice, left for Spokane, Washington, to assume the position of postoffice inspector.—Rev. Alfun A. Farson, pastor of Swedish Augustana church in this city, resigned to devote his entire attention to North Star college of Warren, of which he has been acting president. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hermanson returned from a visit with members of their family and friends in Minneapolis, Detroit, Michigan, and Chicago.

Christmas Tree Cutters Must Know Forest Laws Before Marketing Trees

The annual Christmas tree harvest will soon be under way according to Grover Conzet of the Division of Forestry. Persons planning on cutting trees should become familiar with the laws regarding the cutting and transportation of these trees. Before any trees may be cut a report must be made to the Director of the Division of Forestry telling the legal subdivisions on which the logger proposes to cut and the name of the person or firm doing the cutting.

Before the trees may be transported to market the shipper must supply the truck driver with a copy of the bill of sale or the written consent of the owner of the land upon which the trees have been cut. This consent must contain the legal description of the land and the name of the legal owner of the land. This permit must be carried by the driver with each load transported and exhibited to any officer of the law, forest ranger, forest patrolman, game warden, or any other officer of the Department of Conservation, upon demand.

If the owner ships by rail he must exhibit the written consent to the agent of the railroad who records the permit with the name and address of the shipper.

Copies of the above laws may be obtained by writing to the Director of the Division of Forestry, State Office Building, St. Paul or by applying to the local ranger.

City Had Three Names

Mobeetie, Texas, "mother city of the Panhandle," has had three different names and been situated on three different sites.

Capitol News Review

One of the newer developments in Minnesota is the spontaneous rising of the youth of the State to support Governor Olson and to demand a voice in problems effecting their own destiny. Some weeks ago Governor Olson delivered one of the most important messages ever delivered in the State. The youth of the State answered his challenge in a manner that amazed all. Thomas Minehan, writer and lecturer on youth topics and formerly instructor of sociology at the University of Minnesota, is the active organizer. Minnesota Youth movement meetings are being held throughout the State. Nineteen clubs with more than 2500 members have been enrolled in different towns, cities and colleges. Temporary officers have been elected and arrangements made to hold meetings in every county. The organization is non-partisan and non-sectarian embracing all political beliefs and all faiths. After election day it intends to work for laws favorable to youth and to do something to reduce unemployment and discouragement among the young men and women.

Minnesota farmers are taking no chances on a reoccurrence of the drouth next summer. Under supervision of the SERA, they have planted 85,000 acres of rye for spring forage in drouth-stricken counties. More than 8,000 farmers shared in the 127,880 bushels of rye seed distributed by the SERA livestock relief division. The seed planting project was part of the SERA's rural rehabilitation program.

Use of forests in the state for recreation is being emphasized by members of the Minnesota Conservation Commission. This phase of conservation activity will necessitate careful classification of all areas desirable for future recreational purposes and the planning of required improvements through field surveys. A well-balanced program of coordinated uses of our forest resources will ultimately result.

Foresight is one of the fundamental requirements of the highway engineer. For the past two weeks the maintenance division of the State Highway Department has been busy throughout Minnesota steadying up miles of snow fences to protect the roads when the winter blizzards come. Keeping 11,300 miles of roads open through a northern winter is a job which would appall some of the more southerly states, but it is just in the day's work for the Minnesota Highway Department.

Rumors that the state is "broke" were emphatically denied last week by Governor Olson at a meeting of the Executive Council. Overdraft of the general revenue fund by three million dollars was more than offset by 12 million dollars of other funds in the Treasury, the Governor stated. These or other funds not immediately funds consisting of cash balances available to meet current expenses and $1,500,000 was borrowed from the American National bank in St. Paul to be repaid within sixty days. Recently the state was able to sell certificates of indebtedness at 2½ per cent, the lowest interest rate ever obtained by the state and at that time the State Treasurer stated that it "reflects the excellent credit of the state". The present overdraft in no way affects the credit of the state, it was said at the treasurer's office.

The situation in the drouth-stricken counties is still bad. The government purchase of cattle and the reduction of hogs has reduced the need for large importations of feed and grain in some places but there are other districts where even the fall rains were not able to restore pastures. Yard flocks of chickens and fowls have been so depleted that eggs will be at a premium this winter. In many farmer homes, and the only vegetables used must be imported. Perhaps the worst sufferers are the sterling farmers who have fought so valiantly to remain independent of all government aid. They have borrowed money for feed at banks and now the banks are unwilling to finance them through the winter. Because of personal pride and independence, they object to receiving relief, and the chain banks have now restricted loans and are demanding greater collateral.

Everyone Should Have First Aid Knowledge, Medical Group States

A working knowledge of the fundamentals of proper first aid becomes more important for everybody, according to a bulletin issued by the Minnesota State Medical Association today, with the alarming increase in automobile accidents and fatalities.

The commonest accident injury is a broken bone or, perhaps two or three broken bones.

Moving these fracture cases without the application of a good emergency splint is a dangerous procedure and likely to convert a simple into a compound fracture with a grave possibility of infection.

The doctors suggest that everybody, young and old, be instructed carefully on first aid treatment for all sorts of injuries but particularly for fractures.

If it is at all possible, the bulletin urges that the victim be left right where he fell until expert help arrives to move him. He also urges that everybody learn how to construct and apply a good emergency splint to use if it is absolutely necessary to move him.

The first thing to be done, pending the arrival of a doctor, is to stop bleeding when it is present. That can be done, usually, by gentle pressure on the wound or by a tourniquet if the bleeding is an arm or leg.

Second in importance is the necessity for keeping the patient warm. He is very likely to be in the state of collapse which doctors call "shock" for which heat is absolutely essential.

After bleeding is stopped and the victim is well wrapped up it is then time to consider the advisability of moving the victim.

Nobody should attempt it, however, unless it is absolutely necessary and unless he has been well instructed in construction of splints.

THANKS

I wish to thank you one and all for the wonderful support given me at the General Election. It far surpassed my expectations and I shall put forth every effort to merit your confidence.

New Head Appointed for Dairy Division at University Farm

James B. Fitch, for 27 years with the dairy division of Kansas State College, Manhattan, Kansas, has been chosen head of the dairy division of the Department of Agriculture, University of Minnesota. Dean W. C. Coffey, head of the department and director of extension, announces the election of Professor Fitch by the board of regents on Saturday, November 3. The election fills the place made vacant by the death of C. H. Eckles in February, 1933. Professor Fitch will take up his duties in Minnesota in February, 1935.

"Recognizing the great importance of the dairy industry to the state, the aim of the University has been to obtain a man with a wide and thorough knowledge of the problems involved in dairy production, dairy manufacture, and dairy marketing, and these qualities," says Dean Coffey, "are combined in the new appointee."

DEAD PHEASANT FLIES THROUGH HOTEL WINDOW

Blue Earth—"And the dead pheasant perked up, staggered to its feet and flew right out of the window." Sounds like a bed-time story, but there are witnesses to the case. Hotelman Bernards and Dr. Logan, of Blue Earth, went a-hunting recently returning to the hotel with their share of the birds. The dead flyers were thrown on the floor of a hotel room to await the cleaning process and there they lay—all but one. This fellow refused to submit his body to the chef, and when the hunter turned his back, the pheasant rose, shook his ruffled feathers and took to wing, right through the window and away to freedom. No trace has been found since the ascension.

The fossil remains of an elephant that once lived in India show that it stood more than 16 feet high at the shoulders. The Narbada elephant, as this animal is known, was probably the largest elephant that ever existed.

Republic of the Tartars Rich in Ancient History

[illegible] city of the [illegible] capital republic of the Tartars, descendants of the Golden Horde, is rich in ancient history, says the New York World-Telegram. This little-known city was for centuries the seat of the powerful Khanate of Kazan. In the Sixteenth century it was conquered by Ivan the Terrible, after a bloody battle, and annexed to Muscovy.

On the city's skyline the bulbous domes of old Russian churches and the dagger-slender minarets of Mohammedan mosques mingle in the foreign confusion, telling of the medley of contrasting peoples and tongues found in the streets below.

SAFETY GROUP TO AWARD PRIZES FOR STUDENT ESSAYS

Entries Must be in Hands of County Committees by November 21

Thousands of Minnesota school students last week entered as contestants in the public safety essay contest sponsored as part of the public safety educational program of the state emergency relief administration. The contest, announced by A. V. Rohweder of Duluth, was outlined to enlist the youth of the state in the state emergency relief administration's campaign to reduce accidents.

The subject for the essay is "What our Town or County is Doing to Help 'Make Minnesota the Safest State'." Pupils may write on either what their town is doing to reduce mishaps and give Minnesota an outstanding safety record or may discuss safety activities. Information may be secured through personal observation, from members of the public safety committees or from other sources.

The contest will be open to two groups of pupils. One competition will be conducted for pupils of the seventh, eighth and ninth grades and one for high school pupils from the tenth to twelfth grades, inclusive. Three prizes will be given in each group.

The essays must be not more than 150 words long and be written in pen and ink or typewritten on one side of the paper. The name of the contestant and the address, including the school, town and county, must be written in the upper right hand corner of the first page. In the upper left hand corner, the student must write either "Junior Contest" or "High School Contest," depending on which contest the pupil has entered, it was announced by Mr. Rohweder.

A committee consisting of the principal and two instructors in each school will judge essays submitted in their schools. Selecting the three best essays in each contest, they will forward the six chosen essays to a county committee consisting of the chairman and secretary of the county public safety committee, the editors of the daily newspaper in the county seat, and the commander of the American Legion post in the county seat. The county committee will select the six best essays and forward them to the office of the state emergency relief administration, division of safety.

Final judging for the state prize winners will be made by a committee of five representative citizens of Minnesota in public life, their names to be announced later. Essays must be in the hands of county committees by 6 P. M. Saturday, Nov. 21, and at the division of safety offices by 6 P. M. Saturday, Dec. 8.

In addition to receiving the valuable merchandise prizes, winners of the contests will be given the opportunity to read their essays in a radio broadcast from St. Paul.

Physicians Warn that Athletes Need Special Tests for Protection

With the opening of athletic seasons at school, physicians of the Minnesota State Medical Association today issued a bulletin urging upon parents and school authorities the necessity for complete physical examinations for all who participate in strenuous competitive sports.

Two things are to be watched for especially in connection with participation in these sports, according to the bulletin. One is heart disease and the other is tuberculosis.

Both are found occasionally in the healthiest looking young people and the sketchy kind of examination often given to members of football, basket ball and hockey teams, for instance, is likely to pass over both conditions, particularly tuberculosis.

Tuberculin testing surveys in Minnesota schools carried on by the state Christmas Seal organization have discovered several athletes and football players who were infected with tuberculosis or were suffering from actual active disease that no one had previously suspected.

Others who failed to receive the test have broken down tragically in the middle of a playing season to the astonishment of everybody concerned including themselves.

It is dangerous in the opinion of physicians to subject anybody to the strain of competitive sport until it has been established definitely that heart and lungs are sound and able to stand the game.

Many hearts that have been damaged in childhood bear up well under ordinary activities but are unequal to the unusual strain put on them in competitive games. Examinations for athletes should be made with much greater care. They should include also the tuberculin test to discover the possible presence of [illegible] infection and chest X-Ray [illegible]

MUST MASTER THE MACHINE AGE, SAYS DR. J. W. POWELL

University Lecturer Speaks at P. T. A. Meeting Monday Night

The need of developing men and women able to master the machine age and to rediscover some of the old human values and virtues of the pioneer days was pointed out by Dr. John Walker Powell of the University of Minnesota in an address Monday evening in the Auditorium before the November meeting of the Parent-Teacher association.

Asserting that most people want not alone security but adventure as well, the speaker said that the depression has opened up new social, political and moral boundaries. These are thrilling times, he said, because the people do not know where they are being led by the New Deal and other political developments.

The program opened with a half-hour concert by the Thief River Falls municipal band, which presented a varied group of selections under the direction of S. P. Orwoll. Mrs. Theodore Quale gave a detailed report of the district meeting of parent-teacher groups at Erskine in October. Lunch was served at the conclusion of the program.

The trouble with the nations is that they are trying to preserve world peace in vinegar instead of sugar.

Substantial rate reduction have been made by the agency during the past 90 days, Mr. Paulson said.

The local bowling season is expected to get into full swing next Monday evening when league play will be resumed following the summer recess, Leonard DuChamp, manager of the local alleys, announced today.

Dr. Oppegaard and Hufgum, with total scores of 509 and 483, were high for the visitors, while E. Dostal and Wallace DuChamp, with totals of 506 and 474, were high for Thief River Falls.

The Crookston Velvets Friday evening lost to a local team by a score of 2214 to 2118. DuChamp, with a score of 495, was high for the locals, while Sundet was high for the visitors, scoring 510 points.

DAVIS CRITICIZES F.-L. PLATFORM IN ADDRESS IN CITY

Minneapolis Attorney Gives Talk at Republican Rally Thursday

Declaring that the Farmer-Labor party has deserted the progressives of Minnesota and has joined the Communists and Socialists, Tom Davis, Minneapolis attorney, in an address at a well-attended Republican rally in the Auditorium Thursday night, asserted that the party was drunk with power when it wrote its platform last winter.

The party's anti-capitalism stand, he said, would destroy private initiative and reduce all people to mediocrity. He cited the experience of Russia's co-operative commonwealth, which he said is autocratically controlled by a small group.

The present American form of government, Mr. Davis said, affords the greatest opportunity for prosperity, well-being and opportunity. He declared that the Republican platform is the most progressive in the history of the party, and endorsed the party candidates for state office.

Ole Sageng, Republican candidate for congress from the ninth district, spoke briefly, citing the tremendous increase in the national debt in the past two years, and promising, if elected, to work for a reduction in government costs.

Theodore Quale presided as chairman of the meeting, which was preceded by selections by the Red Lake Falls band and a march thru the business district by the Thief River Falls Legion auxiliary drum corps.

AMENDMENT NO. 2 IS IMPORTANT TO N. W. MINNESOTA

Many Farms Involved in Proposed Tax on Rural Credit Lands

The importance to Pennington and other Northwestern Minnesota counties of the passage of Amendment No. 2 authorizing the taxation of rural credit lands held by the state, is revealed in a tabulation of farm lands now owned by the state published this week by the Minnesota Taxpayers association. The fate of the amendment, which was voted on Tuesday, is still in doubt.

The associations figures show that 224 farms in Pennington county are now owned by the state thru rural credit transactions. The farms involved have a total acreage of 21,569 acres and have a book value of $1,540,905.

A total of 558 farms are owned by the state in Marshall county, involving an acreage of $73,674 and a book value of $2,350,014. Second in importance in the state to Marshall county from this standpoint is Polk county with 234 farms comprising 51,687 acres and with a book value of $2,023,040.

Raccoon Season in This State Opens Saturday

Added protection for Minnesota's raccoon is provided in the annual open season this year, Erling Swenson, director of the division of Game and Fish, stated. Ten days have been cut off the usual season, he said, with the opening schedule for Saturday, November 10, and the closing on Saturday, December 1, both dates inclusive.

Raccoon may be taken at any time of day or night. Dogs may be used except in territory inhabited or frequented by deer. It is illegal for any person to molest or take raccoon in any manner in a den or hollow tree or to cut down any tree inhabited or occupied by raccoon. No trap for raccoon may be set in or under water or in any Muskrat runaway.

ACCEPTANCE OF NEW FIRE ENGINE TO BE DEFERRED

Quale Advises Awaiting Decision in Action Now Pending in Court

While the new motorized fire engine pumper arrived in the city Friday and was tested out by members of the fire department in company with representatives of the manufacturer, it was indicated by members of the city council following a consultation with City Attorney Theodore Quale that no action will be taken to accept delivery of the unit before the next regular meeting of the council Tuesday, November 13, and that action may be further deferred if a decision unfavorable to the city is handed down in the injunction suit now pending before Judge M. A. Brattland in Pennington county district court. In the event of an adverse decision, it was pointed out, it probably will be necessary to readvertise for bids. The engine Friday was connected to a hydrant at the corner of LaBree av. and Second st., and threw two streams of water for a distance of approximately 150 feet and as high as a four-story building.

It would be just our luck for the dividers-up to tell us, when the time comes to divide up, that there wasn't anything left to divide.

1,000 YOUNGSTERS IN SERA NURSERY SCHOOLS

Emergency nursery schools in the state now number 26, with more than 1,000 children enrolled, according to Dr. Herbert Sorenson, director of emergency education, Minnesota SERA (State Emergency Relief administration). The latest addition to the set-up was established recently in the Minneapolis transient family home. In the whole country, 50,000 children attend 2,300 schools of this kind. They give employment to 5,000 people. The national cost, to June 1st, totaled $1,000,000, Mrs. Parkes stated.

Fosston.—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lenes were awakened at four o'clock in the morning recently when two sheep plunged through the kitchen window. Upon investigating, they found their flock of sheep in the nearby pasture had been chased by dogs. Three had been killed, and several others badly wounded. Indications showed that they had taken shelter in the barn but had been chased from there by the dogs and the frightened animals finally took refuge in the Lenes kitchen. Who was it said sheep had no brains?

EDUCATION WEEK BEING OBSERVED THRUOUT NATION

American Citizens Urged to Think of Educational Problems

American Education Week, November 5 to 11, which for the past 14 years has been set aside for the consideration and advancement of education in the United States, has been announced by the office of education, department of the interior.

Commenting on the purpose and importance of the week, United States Commissioner of Education J. W. Studebaker said, "Schools exist and teachers teach because parents count education the most precious gift with which they can endow their children. All men recognize these truths. Yet the real reasons why we do what we do often become lost in the bustle and specialization of modern life.

"For this reason the Federal Office of Education 14 years ago sponsored an annual week during which citizens, teachers and children would think and talk about education and its place in our life. This celebration is called American Education Week. Each year it has grown in favor among our people.

"I urge that all schools from nursery schools to universities throw wide their doors and issue special invitations to citizens to come and see their classes at work. I suggest that associations of citizens, women's clubs, service clubs, fraternal organizations, and trade unions plan special meetings devoted to education, its contributions as well as its problems. I urge, moreover that associations foster visits to schools.

"Education is one of America's first cooperative enterprises: Looking back over 100 years we can take pride in the increasing skill with which our shared obligation has been discharged. Now we stand at the crossroads of new paths toward the American dream. Let us—citizens, teachers, and pupils—consider during American Education Week this year what help we shall expect of education in molding our Nation in the image of our American ideals."

TAKE 7 STITCHES IN BABY'S TONGUE

Luverne—Gerrit Smith, Jr., 17 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Smith of Luverne township, suffered a painful injury recently when he fell while at play and severely cut his tongue and lip. Seven stitches were required to close the wound in his tongue. While in considerable pain, the little man appeared to be none the worse for his accident the following morning.

Additional Surplus Commodities to State

Several trainloads of foodstuffs and materials for sheets and towels have been given the Minnesota SERA (State Emergency Relief administration) by the Federal Surplus Relief corporation for distribution to needy families, it is announced by F. A. Gilbert, director of commodity distribution. The provisions, totaling 59 carloads, are intended as extra allowances to the needy during the period November through February. Women relief clients will transform the textile material into more than half a million towels and over 15,000 sheets, also for distribution, wherever needed.

HIGHWAY PATROL CITES DANGER OF WINTER DRIVING

Take Your Time When Roads Are Slippery, J. P. Arnoldy Advises

Minnesota motorists were warned by the state highway patrol this week to begin adjusting their driving habits to the changed road conditions of fall and winter.

"Every year when the first winter storm of sleet or ice hits the state, there is a toll of deaths and injuries among motorists who try to maintain summer driving speeds," said J. P. Arnoldy, chief of the patrol.

"It would almost seem that many drivers do not remember from one winter to the next so far as road dangers are concerned. When the first film of ice or slippery snow covers the highways, just make up your mind not to be in a hurry, and you'll get to your destination a lot quicker than if you take a speed detour to a hospital."

FREIGHT CAR RUNS AWAY TRAVELS ELEVEN MILES

Preston—A runaway gondola railroad car filled with cinders spread consternation throughout the Preston-Harmony area recently. The load of cinders was to have been used for repairs, but before the brakes were set the gondola started down the grade at Harmony. The workmen, realizing the futility of trying to stop the car, jumped, and the runaway started for Preston. A telephone call reached Art Noel, who rushed to the Wiegand crossing to warn people there, but the car whizzed by without stopping. At Preston, 11 miles away, the gondola slowed down sufficiently for someone to board it and set the brakes. Only its immense weight kept the car on the tracks.

LOCAL RESIDENTS AT N. W. SCHOOL ON PARENTS' DAY

More Than 350 Attend Annual Event in Crookston Saturday

Good weather and ideal roads contributed to the success of the Parents' Day celebration held at the Northwest School last Saturday. According to Superintendent A. A. Dowell, over 350 parents from fourteen counties were present, thus establishing a new attendance record for Parents' day. Special features included the visitation of classes, parents' day dinner in the dining hall at noon, a program presented by the students, and inspection of the home project exhibits under the direction of E. R. Clark, R. J. Christgau, and Retta Bede. The student program, which featured the work of the music, English, home economics and agricultural divisions, closed with the presentation of a one-act play, "A Wedding", under the direction of Dorothy M. Smith. A large number of parents remained for the Hallowe'en party arranged by a committee, of which R. S. Dunham is chairman.

The following parents from Pennington county were in attendance:

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Weckwerth, and Mrs. John Anderson and son Harold, of Hazel; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Waterfowl Shooting Season Ends Sunday, Hunters Are Warned

Sunday, November 11, at sunset, will bring Minnesota's annual duck season to a close, hunters were reminded this week by the state game and fish division.

"That federal action taken to give added protection to all ducks and more so for certain threatened species was timely, was evidenced by the numbers of wild ducks in Minnesota", Erling Swenson, director of the division said. "Only good shooting reports came in from scattered sections and in general duck hunting this fall was way below normal. Ducks were found to be concentrated on the larger bodies of water. There is no question but what the drouth has materially decreased the wild duck population and it would not surprise me if further federal restrictions are adopted another season."

Minnesota gunners only have the big game season now to look forward to after November 11. Deer and bear will be sought from November 15 to November 25, both dates inclusive, in areas opened for this form of hunting.

General College of the U. of M. is Attracting Nation-wide Attention

Minneapolis, Nov. —The General College of the University of Minnesota, established two years ago to offer an effective education to students whose careers probably will not be in one of the intellectual fields has attracted nationwide interest to such an extent that Minnesota is being credited with a primary educational advance. The college staff has grown rapidly, also, the increase to more than 900 this year being one of approximately 50 per cent.

The college is run on the theory that a young man or woman who does not intend to become a research worker, a teacher or a member of one of the intellectual professions should receive a broader education, provided along lines that can be assimilated more readily than the specialized type of learning.

"This is not only better for the student, it is better for all of us," Dr. MacLean said. "These people may not enter intellectual fields. Out of a nation of so many millions rather few do, but they will understand the importance of intellectual endeavor and they themselves will lead happier lives for having taken training along lines suited to themselves."

LINCOLN GRIDDERS END 1934 SEASON SUCCESSFULLY

Lincolnites Are District Champions With 3 Wins, 2 Losses, 1 Tie

The mighty gridders of Lincoln High hung up their togs for another season after defeating Red Lake Falls Wednesday. The team had a highly successful season, winning three games, losing two, and tying one. The Prowlers are now recognized as district champions, having lost no games in the district but winning three and having one tie. Crookston was knocked out of a tie for the district championship by losing to East Grand Forks thirteen to seven.

Perhaps the most hotly-contested game was played with the strong Pirates of Crookston High. This game ended in a seven to seven tie. The East Grand Forks team which was defeated by the Prowlers seven to nothing proved it wasn't a weak sister by defeating Moorhead and Crookston, and holding the strong Grafton aggregation to two touchdowns and a thirteen to seven score.

One of the best and closest games of the year was against the Bemidji Lumberjacks. After defeating the Prowlers, the Bemidji boys went right out and beat Brainerd forty to nothing. Red Lake Falls came out with an unusually strong team this year, defeating Warren twenty-seven to nothing and losing to both the Prowlers and Crookston by only two touchdowns.

The prospects for the 1935 team are very bright. Although there are eleven lettermen graduating, seven will return. The Prowlers will boast one of the strongest backfields in the history of the school. It will include Nelson, Gunderson, Van Pelt and M. Nesse, all of whom are veterans. The other returning lettermen will be Mickelson, Jung and Hetland. Besides these Adkins, Gibson, Matson, Olson, J. Nesse and Booren, all of whom saw some service, will be back. The complete list of lettermen is: ends, Capt. Tom Fuller, Don Hermanson, Gilbert Mickelson; tackles, Martin Jorde, Arnt Wold, Vernon Sorenson; guards, George Berge, Lloyd Bradley, Jerome Havel, Clifford Hetland; centers, Walter Kinghorn, Vic Jung; backs, Art Nelson, Arnold Gunderson, Jim Van Pelt, Milton Nesse, Wayne Kielty and Carl Lee.

ETIQUETTE CORNER

We have been here and there with etiquette, telling how you should behave when with this person or that person; now we'll change our general course.

We have just finished a short vacation, most of us spent a great deal of time at home with our parents. Did you enjoy yourself? Did you find it dull and tiresome? Well, this is for the benefit of those who thought they didn't enjoy themselves, you really haven't found out how to hold an interesting conversation with your parents. You perhaps think: Oh, they wouldn't be interested, or they wouldn't care, but you're wrong. They do care and they are interested. Make them. Tell them about your friends and classmates so they will recognize the names. If you bring them into your affairs (as you all should) they will soon be asking you repeatedly, What did you do today? Did you see Mary or Jane? and so on. You will find it just lots of fun and it will please your parents so much. Try it!

HERE AND THERE

The Sophomore classes have received their new anthologies, books which include all the literature which their course of study requires.

The pupils in Miss Fletcher's general science classes are studying the purification of water. They made an interesting trip down to the water plant and observed how the water is purified.

The advanced sewing pupils have started the cutting of their woolen garments. Their samplers of fancy stitches are now on display on the bulletin board in the sewing room.

The high school library has recently received a new copy of the second edition of Webster's New International Dictionary. The material in this book is so complete that it is a source of information for every subject. This book is completely revised every twenty-five years. The students of Lincoln High greatly appreciate this book and the help it will give them.

Junior Library Lessons are in progress this week.

GETTING OUT THE PAPER

Getting out a paper is no picnic!

If we print jokes, people say we are silly.

If we clip things out of other papers, we are too lazy to write ourselves.

If we don't, we are stuck on ourselves.

If we stick to the job all day, we ought to be out hunting news.

If we do print them, the paper is filled with junk.

If we make a change in the other fellow's write ups, we are too critical.

If we don't we are asleep.

Now, like as not, some smart guy will say that we copied this from some other paper—and, we did!

Exchange.

Bob Houfek Injured in Auto Mishap Sunday

Bob Houfek, a member of the freshman class of Lincoln High School, was enjured in an automobile mishap last Sunday evening. Bob was quite seriously injured and it was sometime before help came. His hip was broken and doctors were unable to set the broken bone immediately. It was feared that pneumonia might result because of the long exposure to the cold air before aid came.

The Progress staff unite with the faculty and student body of Lincoln High School in expressing their sincerest sympathies and hopes for Bob's speedy recovery.

LOCAL TEACHERS ATTEND M. E. A.

Hear Noted Speakers From Different Parts of U. S. and Canada

Thief River Fall's teachers last week journeyed to Minneapolis for the annual convention of the Minnesota Educational Association. Superintendent Bye attended the Delegate Assembly at the State Capital Wednesday. This is the governing body of the association, and every two hundred members send a delegate. This year Floyd B. Moe, Dean of the Junior College at Virginia, was elected President, and P. M. Atwood, Superintendent of Schools at Staples is to be Vice-president. More than 10,000 Minnesota teachers attended the general meetings at the Municipal Auditorium in Minneapolis.

Outstanding speakers at these general meetings were Syud Hossain of the University of California; Reverend S. Parkes Cadman, that famous minister of the radio; John T. Flynn, Economic Investigation; and Dr. James H. Richmond, Superintendent of Public Instruction of Kentucky.

Dr. John Gunderson Rockwell, the new Commissioner of Education in Minnesota, welcomed the teachers at their first session. The session was divided into different groups of Industrial Training, Deans of Women, English, Languages, and Music.

Mr. Pope attended the sessions on Industrial Training, especially enjoying the talk on "Home-farm Mechanics Round Table" by Albert Hanzel. Mrs. Korstad attended the conferences for Deans of Women, and Elementary Principles. The most noteworthy speeches were "The Art of Living" by Thyrsa Amos, Dean of women at the University of Pittsburg, and an address by Whiting Williams, Industrial Consultant, Author and Lecturer.

Miss Edberg, Miss Steenerson, and Miss Tunberg attended the English sessions. Miss Edberg enjoyed the speech on "What is Good English?" by C. C. Fries who showed how well-known expressions, which we now think incorrect, in a few years will probably be accepted as perfectly correct. Miss Steenerson and Miss Tunberg attended the Round Tables on English and speeches on Coaching Plays by Mr Riley.

Mr. Dooley announced that the best thing there was the Minnesota-Michigan game on Saturday. History talks were deeply appreciated by Miss Deibel particularly "International Relations in the High School Curriculum" by C. A. Dunway, Prof. of History at Carleton College. Miss Fletcher attended the Home Economics sessions and enjoyed most the talk, "How much is Fad and How Much is Truth in the Modern Day Campaign for More Vitamins" by Dr. C. A. Alvarez of the Mayo Clinic in Rochester.

The talk on "Italy, Old and New" by Marbury B. Ogle, Head of the Dept. of Latin, University of Minnesota, was most noteworthy in the Modern Language group, says Miss Greenland.

In the Physical Education Group Miss Pearson felt that especially enjoyable was the speech on "Rythm Demonstrations" by Misses Meredes Nelson and Gertrude Baker because she had had them as former pupils.

Mr. Orwoll attended sessions on Music with speeches by Jeffrey O'Hara and Duncan McKenzie. At the general sessions the speech "If I Were President" by John T. Flynn, and Music by the Cecilian Singers were perhaps the most important.

Of course, besides attending the convention, the teachers did their shopping and attended the Minn.-Mich. game.

Lincoln High School Gets 120 New Lockers

BASKET BALL SQUAD OPENS SEASON'S WORK

Thief River Falls to be Scene of District Tournament; Crookston, Regional

With the wintry blasts and snowballs just around the corner, Coach Roger Dooley announced the opening of the basket ball practice, and the cream of Lincoln High's athletes turned out last Monday for their first workout. Although Crookston and East Grand Forks boast veteran teams, there is no lack of ability in Lincoln High and the Prowlers are expected to be the strongest since the State Championship team of 1932.

It seems that Coach Dooley's teams have developed a winning habit as the defeats in the last three years are so few that they can be counted on one hand. Unless some new and unexpected material turns up, Per Berg, Wayne Kielty, and James Van Pelt will receive most of the Coach's attention for the center position. Every successful team needs at least two good centers, and there will be plenty of competition for a regular position among these three. Lee, Hermanson, and Nicholson will contend for position of forward, while Mickelson, Jung, Nelson, and Gunderson will fight it out for the regular guard bertha.

The District Tournament will be held here, and the Prowlers expect to make the grade, despite the powerful opposition. Crookston will be the battlefield of the Regional meet and if the Lincoln quintet can crash that gate, be prepared for another State Championship team.

Several Towns to be at Debate Tournament

Wednesday a practice debate was held. Elizabeth Dahlen and Malcolm Magnuson upheld the affirmative against Corlan Dokken and Kendall Gustafson. Thursday they held a research study in the library.

Oklee, Karlstad, Lancaster and Crookston have signified their intentions of coming to Thief River Falls to participate in the debate tournament to be held here the fifteenth of December. The question for this tournament and the other debates to be held this year is stated: "Resolved: That the Federal Government should adopt the policy of equalizing educational opportunity of the nation by means of annual grants to the several states for public elementary and secondary education."

Representatives from Thief River Falls in this tournament will be: Corlan Dokken, Elizabeth Dahlen, Kendall Gustafson, Malcolm Magnuson, Oscar Bickly, and Francis Engle.

Meet the Prowler Basketeers

In presenting the 1934-35 Lincoln High Basket Ball squad, it is appropriate to begin with the last surviving member of that memorable squad that won the State Championship crown in 1932.

Name: Lawrence Nicholson
Age: 18
Height: 5 feet, 11 inches
Weight: 160 pounds
Class: Senior

Lawrence is a two year letter man in both basket ball and foot ball, but failed to make his foot ball letter this year because of a late enrollment. However, he is out to win a regular forward berth on this year's Prowler quintet and stands a good chance of getting it. Besides being a part of the 1932 championship team, Lawrence is the only returning member of last year's first eight. Watch his smoke in the winter's strenuous campaign.

Another of this year's Prowler five is Wayne Kielty who is one of the best center prospects in years.

Name: Wayne Kielty
Age: 17
Height: 6 feet, 1 inch
Weight: 170 pounds
Class: Senior

Wayne is an excellent shot whose only weakness is in fundamentals and team work. He has an ideal physique for an athlete. In football this year, Wayne made his letter and toward the end of the season developed into an excellent plunger. He also made his letter in basket ball in 1933.

This year, Wayne is working harder than ever and seems to be trying hard to overcome his weaknesses. If he succeeds, and we are sure he will, he is expected to become one of the biggest scoring threats of the year. Wayne will have plenty of competition to keep him working in Berg and Van Pelt.

MUSIC NOTES

The costuming of the operetta, which is to be presented November 2?, will be completed this week with the exception of a few of the girl's costumes. Most of the costumes have been made especially for the operetta and should add quite a bit of color to the scenes. A [illegible] has also been made [illegible] painted by Mr. Pope, Mr. Carlson and Mr. Kemker. The costumes [illegible] and will [illegible]

EDITORIAL

Information comes to us from an authoritative source that the seniors will not consider the purchasing of class rings until the latter part of the next month. This means that we seniors will not be able to flash class rings for approximately two more months.

September and October have already faded into the past. Almost one half the school year will have passed before we receive rings. It seems to us that Lincoln High School is especially slow in accomplishing the business of buying rings, not only this year, but other years as well. Other schools have made it a habit to make the purchase soon after school begins in the early fall. Why should we wait until late December to get our class rings?

The students must enjoy wearing their class rings while they are still in school. They want them as soon as it is possible to procure them. Why don't they get them? Probably the fault lies with the advisors, probably with the students themselves. At any rate, we have had numerous requests to bring the matter to the attention of those who have charge of starting action on the purchase of rings for the class of '35. Let's get action!

TRUE TRASH

WELL, it's quite true that winter has arrived again so you'd better dig out your overshoes, red flannels, or what have you and be prepared. By the way, since cold weather has arrived, this column may not be so hot. (catch on?)

THAT fourth period History class must be rather "naughty" from what we've heard: It seems that its speciality is not having the lesson learned.

HOW did it feel to be a victim of the measles, Adele H. and Ardith J.?

"PEGGY" Paupst is headed for stardom in the opinion of Ken. G.

DAYTON S. must have broken all previous records when he ran from his home to school on last Wednesday and he just made school in the "nick" of time.

PEOPLE should learn to take their books to their classes. A group of students caused quite a commotion in the first period assembly a few days ago. (are you listening Doris M., Arnt W., etc.?)

WHY does that one certain person persist in singing before the fifth period assembly settles down every day?

THEY snickered when I got up to speak—but from my first words their grins grew broader and broader, and their snickers louder and louder. After holding them spellbound for a couple of seconds, I was greeted with three rousing jeers. (Talk about your embarrassing moments.)

I wonder if all of those students really went to R. L. F. to see the game or to attend the walkathon.

If you don't like our jokes,
And their dryness make you groan,
Why don't you come around
With some good ones of your own?

How we look in 1941—

"Heinie" W. A second "Dizzy" Dean (can you think of any others?)

MAYBE Cleo P. wasn't glad that she was in Holt on Friday. (How about you, Fonce?)

THIS paper should take some pointers from Warren. We noticed that they were awarded the honor of having the best H. S. paper in Minnesota. Congrats!

WE just learned that a few girls went down to the train to see some of the teachers off during the M. E. A. Convention. (Trying to "get on the good side," I bet.)

HAVE you ever seen "Vic" J. run across a cornfield? (Boy, can that baby run?)

I wonder why Miss Deibel wanted to see those boys after school on Monday.

HARRIET Simonson is quite a poetess. You will understand why when you read this poem:

How sleepy he was, nobody knew
But Miss Lunder told him we were all sleepy too.
And she said to him, "All my class stay awake."
So Jerome stifled a yawn and sat up straight.

Marion Oden looked at him and yawned
And of sleep she too seemed very tired
Because last night they hadn't were seen

PROWLERS WHIP RED LAKE FALLS WEDNESDAY, 31

Neighboring Teams Battle to Final Score of 13-0 in Season's Last Game

History repeated itself in the Red Lake Falls game last Wednesday as the Prowlers handed out a 13-0 defeat to our neighbor opponents. As this was the last game for the Seniors, they exerted a little more push and drive to emerge the stars when the smoke of battle had cleared. The local gridders scored twice in the first half, once on a play only previously rehearsed in the gymnasium, but failed to crash the "pearly gates" in the last half.

Bradley kicked for the Prowlers and Red Lake Falls soon punted over our goal. The ground was still hard and the Prowlers could make no gain. On the inevitable punt, a Red Lake player returned the ball to our twenty-five yard line. The Prowlers recovered a fumble and punted to the center of the field. Jorde managed to break through on the next play to recover a fumble. Kielty, fighting through the line, found himself with practically an open field before him and promptly crossed the "promised land" for the Prowlers' first score. The extra point failed due to a high pass from center.

The Prowlers kicked and Red Lake Falls made one first down but had to punt. The Prowlers completed a pass and kicked to leave the ball in possession of Red Lake Falls on their own thirty-six yard line.

Red Lake Falls kicked as the second quarter opened and the Prowlers, on a short pass with a long run by Fuller, were soon in scoring position. Captain Tom Fuller caught another pass on the next play to cross the Red Lake Falls goal for the second touchdown. This time the extra point was flawless and the score stood 13-0 as the half ended.

The Prowlers kicked to the Red Lake Falls sixteen yard line but they punted on the first down and the wind carried the ball down to our ten yard line. The Prowlers kicked and repressed an attempted aerial attack by Red Lake Falls eleven to gain the ball on downs. The Dooley-men bucked the line in vain and were forced to punt. Kinghorn recovered a fumble on the punt to put the ball in scoring position. The teams exchanged punts, and, by the same play that scored our second touchdown, Tom Fuller carried the ball near to the goal. Unfortunately, there was a penalty on the play and his brilliant effort was nullified. The quarter ended after the Prowlers had made a first down on the fourteen yard line.

The last quarter opened by Red Lake Falls gaining the ball on downs. After an exchange of punts, Mickelson intercepted a pass to carry the ball to the eight yard line. Successive losses gave the ball to Red Lake Falls on their twenty yard line, from where they punted out safely on the fifty yard line. Fuller kicked and the receiver was smeared hard on his own ten yard line as the game ended in a 13-0 victory for the Prowlers to terminate the grid season and leave the Prowlers undefeated District Champs.

Larson, Shop Teacher, Resigns From Faculty

A vacancy in the industrial training and general business departments was caused by the resignation of Mr. Price E. Larson. In his resignation Mr. Larson stated that the cause for his resignation was ill health. He left for his home in Black River, Wis., to recuperate.

Mr. Larson came to Thief River Falls this fall, when he became a member of the faculty of Lincoln High School as instructor in the industrial training and general business departments.

The school board has not acted upon Mr. Larson's resignation as yet, but action will probably be taken at the meeting which will be held next week.

VOLLEY BALL IS POPULAR GAME

Game Was Invented by W. G. Morgan of Holyoke, Massachusetts

Volley ball was invented by William G. Morgan, of Holyoke, Mass., in 1895, as a game to keep players busy but to be less violent than basket ball. The name is taken from tennis. To "volley" means to hit the ball before it strikes the ground.

In a standard game, there are twelve players on a side; in an informal game, there are any number of players.

The players are usually formed in rows. If there are twelve players, there should be three rows of four players each. After each serve, each player moves into the position of the next person on his left. The first server is the player who is in the last row in the right-hand corner facing the net. The next player to serve is in the front row in the left-hand corner. When it is his turn to serve, he goes back to the server's position in the last row, all the other players moving one place to the left. The player on the left end of each line takes the place of the player on the right end of the line in front.

The captain of each team tosses for court and service. The winner of the toss chooses either first service or court.

Each good service which the opponents fail to return scores one point for the serving side.

If a foul is committed by the serving side, the serve is lost. If a foul is committed by the receiving side, the serving side scores one point. Players should change sides frequently, if sun or wind is affecting the play.

Volley ball is played by the girls the year around, either indoors or outdoors. Many exciting and thrilling games are participated in by the girls during the gym classes.

A WARNING

From the Sheriff of Pennington County and a Warning from the Chief of Police, Thief River Falls

THIS IS A WARNING to BEWARE of STRANGERS posing as solicitors, salesmen or inspectors—seeking admission to your homes.

IN MANY CASES—Strangers WITHOUT RELIABLE CREDENTIALS are "spotters" for professional criminals and according to police records lack of caution on the part of householders in admitting strangers has often resulted in costly property loss and bitter experiences.

DO NOT PAY CASH IN ADVANCE to strangers on an order—in many cases the customers have NEVER RECEIVED ANYTHING for their cash advanced nor has any refund been made on original deposit on the order.

DO NOT CASH CHECKS—or issue a check to a stranger on an order—as often these have been "ALTERED" and later cashed by a third and innocent party.

IT'S BETTER TO BE SAFE THAN SORRY—be SURE you KNOW who the stranger is calling at your farm or your residence before allowing them to enter your premises.

IN CASE YOU ARE SUSPICIOUS—Phone the Sheriff's office Phone 709 or the Chief of Police, Phone 719 as we are anxious to co-operate with our citizens at all times.

SCHOOL BOARD ENGAGES NURSE AND A TEACHER

J. Arthur Johnson of Marshall Succeeds Price E. Larson

FLORENCE PARSONS NEW SCHOOL NURSE

Enrollment in Grade Classes Exactly the Same as Year Ago

The board of education at its November session Monday evening appointed two new members of the public school faculty to fill vacancies resulting from resignations.

Following the resignation of Price E. Larson, instructor of industrial training and general business education in Lincoln high school, because of ill health, the board appointed J. Arthur Johnson of Marshall, Minnesota, to fill the position. Mr. Johnson is a graduate of Stout Institute, and has taught one year in Detroit, Michigan, and four years in Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

To fill the position of school nurse left vacant by the recent resignation of Miss Eunice Lindgren, the board appointed Miss Florence A. Parsons of Northfield. Miss Parsons is a graduate of the Swedish hospital school of nursing in Minneapolis and has completed the public health nursing course at the University of Minnesota. She has been employed recently as superintendent of the Northfield city hospital.

The board also authorized the employment of additional janitor service for the Lincoln and Washington schools during the winter months.

Supt. Morris Bye informed the board that arrangements have been made with the American Legion skating rink committee and J. G. Messenger, district ERA recreation supervisor, to include the Knox and Northrop rinks in their application for approval of a project to have skating rinks maintained with federal relief labor.

In a summary of qualifications of members of the local teaching staff presented to the board, Mr. Bye stated that Moorhead State Teachers college, with nine, leads in the number of graduates on the staff here. Following in order are Bemidji teachers college with eight; University of Minnesota, six; University of North Dakota, four; Miss Woods school and Mankato teachers college, three each; Winona teachers college, two; and fourteen other institutions, one each. Teaching experience, he reported, ranges as high as 35 years.

Mr. Bye stated that the enrollment in the grade schools at the end of the first six weeks is exactly the same as at the corresponding time last year—an even 800. There were two less in kindergarten, however, and 33 less in high school, the latter enrollment being 584.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL CONDUCTED IN CITY FRIDAY

Pennington County Chapter to Make Annual Drive for Funds

The annual Red Cross roll call will be conducted here Friday, officers of the Pennington county chapter announced this week. Proceeds will be used to finance the activities of the chapter in this county, as well as contributing to the support of the national Red Cross organization, which responds to every emergency call.

Each contributor is asked to donate one dollar to the cause, the proceeds being used to answer any requests that may be made for relief of various kinds.

In 1931 the county chapter supplied $238 for relief of the fire sufferers in the Four Towns area east of Grygla, and since that time has responded to many calls for aid of lesser proportions.

Dances Feature Elks Charity Carnival Friday and Saturday

With the annual Elks charity carnival and dance set for Friday and Saturday evenings of this week at the Auditorium, officers and members of the lodge are anticipating the usual hearty cooperation of local residents.

The net proceeds of the event will be devoted to the charitable activities of the lodge, not the least of which is the distribution of a large number of Christmas baskets to needy families of the community.

An advance sale of tickets is being conducted for the dances which will be a feature of each evening, and which are expected to draw large attendances with the added attraction of music by Eddie Wirtz and his popular broadcasting dance band.

There will be no admission charge for the carnival attractions, which will be located at the rear of the dance floor, and which will include keno games, wheels of chance and other offerings, with prizes including merchandise, ducks, chickens, turkeys and hams.

On the committee in charge of arrangements for the carnival are J. O. Votter, exalted ruler of the lodge; W. R. Patterson, Fred Protz, L. R. Lanning, Andrew Anderson and O. C. Paulson.

Butter Production at Local Creamery Shows Big Gain in 9 Months

In spite of the fact that there was little late summer or fall pasturage in this section as a result of the drouth, the output of the Thief River Falls co-operative creamery showed a substantial increase in volume for the first nine months of the year as compared to the same period in 1933, G. S. Bergland, manager, announced this week. For this year to October 1 production of butter amounted to 380,633 pounds, which is 101,566 pounds more than the output of 270,167 pounds in the corresponding period of 1933.

CHECK CLEARINGS IN LOCAL BANK UP 50% OVER OCT. '33

Rise From $916,000 Last Year to $1,485,000 During October

Bank debits, or checks against depositors' accounts in the local bank, are up more than 50 per cent. for October as compared to the same month a year ago, it is revealed in the November report of the ninth district Federal Reserve bank. The total for last month was $1,485,000 compared to $916,000 a year ago.

Better crops in this section this year, together with an improved price situation for farm products, are held largely accountable for the increase, which is less notable in other sections of the district.

The report comments as follows on conditions in the ninth district:

"The October estimate of farm income in this district from seven important items was 6 per cent smaller than the October 1933 estimate, chiefly on account of smaller bread wheat marketings resulting from decreased production in 1934 when compared with the preceding year. Despite the extremely small crops of durum wheat and flax, the 1934 estimates of income from marketings of those two crops are larger than those of 1933. Slightly larger butter production and a 5 per cent increase in fluid milk marketings, coupled with higher prices for both butter and milk, resulted in a 10 per cent increase over October last year in the dairy products income estimate. This increase, however, is much smaller than that shown in September (24%) which was the second largest increase over the preceding year in the last fifteen months".

BRATTLAND AND MONTAGUE GIVEN SAFE PLURALITY

Buckler Wins Congressional Post With Margin of 14,000 Votes

Two district judges in the 14th judicial district of Minnesota, M. A. Brattland of Ada and J. E. Montague of Crookston, were reelected by substantial majorities over their opponents, Martin O'Brien and W. E. Rowe, both of Crookston.

Complete unofficial returns from the ninth congressional district gave R. T. Buckler a margin of more than 14,000 votes over Ole Sageng, Dalton, his nearest rival, in the race for the district congressional seat.

Buckler polled 41,072 votes and carried 12 of the 15 counties in the district. Sageng received 27,006 votes, and Martin O. Brandon, Fergus Falls, 24,871.

HIGHWAY DEPT MEN CONFER ON PARK PROJECT

Meet Here With Council and Park Board Members Tuesday Night

CONSIDER PARKWAY EAST OF NEW BRIDGE

Council Moves Under Zoning Ordinance to Abolish Nuisances

Tentative plans for beautifying the east bank of the river in the vicinity of the new bridge as well as improvement of the Johnson st. approach to the structure were discussed Tuesday evening at a conference between members of the city council, park board, Division Highway Engineer A. O. Torgerson of Detroit Lakes and Victor H. Benson, assistant engineer in the division of lands and right-of-way of the state highway department.

When the highway officials stated that their department contemplated widening the street leading to the bridge from its present width to at least 80 and possibly 100 feet, councilmen and park board members indicated that they favored the installation of a double driveway with a center parkway as far east as the curve in the street.

Resolutions were adopted requesting the state highway department to submit plans and cost estimates covering the proposed project, following which a definite decision will be reached. The department also was requested to pave the gap between the west end of the bridge and Third st.

The council at its meeting took action under the recently enacted zoning ordinance to adopt a resolution calling for hearings preliminary to eliminating three alleged nuisances in the city, including the dog kennel on Horace av., the pile of scrap machinery on the east side of the river near Johnson st., and the structure known as the Shirley barn on the alley near the corner of Fifth st. and Atlantic av.

A communication presented by Carlie Johnson and others called attention to alleged unsanitary and noisy conditions in their neighborhood resulting from the presence of a large number of dogs.

A motion was adopted extending to District Judge M. A. Brattland an invitation to establish his headquarters in Thief River Falls and offering him the use of the municipal court room in the Auditorium as his headquarters.

Mayor E. L. Tungseth called attention to the advisability of placing the light department finances on a more business like basis and to that end suggested that steps be taken in the direction of creating a water and light commission to handle the affairs of the department. After some discussion the matter was referred to the council water and light committee for investigation.

Following a request by the cemetery commission, which cited the need of arranging for an extension of the present grounds, the council agreed to transfer to the commission two city-owned lots west of the old portion of the cemetery.

F. J. Dudley called attention of the council to radio interference caused by various appliances in the vicinity of LaBree av. and Third st. City Attorney Theodore Quale was requested to make a study of the ordinance covering the subject.

Water Level in River Here Now is 2½ Feet Over Recent Low Mark

With water continuing to flow down from Red Lake, the level in the pool above the dam in this city has risen slightly more than two and one-half feet above the low point reached earlier in the fall, according to officials of the water and light department. They stated that the level is now above that of a year ago and is adequate to meet local needs during the winter months. With the pool backed up a much greater distance than previously, it was pointed out, any further rise in the level here will be very gradual. While in most past years the river has frozen over from the 10th to the 12th of November, much open water is still in evidence owing to the unusually mild weather this section has experienced so far this month.

FEW CHANGES IN CANVASS OF COUNTY VOTES

Official Canvass Increases Tungseth Lead for Senator to 101

STAFFORD KING LEADS FOR STATE AUDITOR

Township Poor System Voted Back in by Count of 2,252 to 1,570

The contest between Stafford King and John T. Lyons for the state auditorship, which has been a center of post-election interest with both candidates leading at various times, was apparently settled yesterday in favor of Auditor King when a practically complete official count of the state gave him a majority of 1,803 votes.

The King victory, unless a recount should upset it, assures a Republican majority in the state executive council, an important state agency made up of five elective officials, with wide powers of spending money for relief and emergency.

At the same time, complete returns on the governor race, with the exception of five precincts, gave Governor Floyd B. Olson a plurality of 73,611 votes over Martin A. Nelson. The tally was: Olson, 468,153; Nelson, 394,542; Regan, 177,192.

The Pennington county canvassing board, which met late last week, discovered no errors of consequence in the unofficial tabulations, with the exception that E. L. Tungseth gained five votes in the first ward for state senator, while Paul Harris, his opponent, lost 20 votes. Rev. Tungseth also gained 20 votes in the Clearwater county canvass, making his majority in the district 101, as compared to 56 in the unofficial tally. No changes were reported in Red Lake county.

Two records were broken in the county balloting last week, a check up revealed. The total number of votes cast, 6,133, was the largest in the history of the county, and County Auditor Harry Fowler, with 3,357, polled the largest number of votes ever given a candidate in a contest for county office.

The vote on the question of changing back to the township system of caring for the poor was: Yes, 2,252; no, 1,570.

While statewide results on the outcome of the constitutional amendments is still in doubt, the vote in the county was:

Amendment No. 1, extending the trunk highway system: Yes, 2,028; no, 1,161.

Amendment No. 2, taxing rural credit lands: Yes, 3,550; no, 417.

Amendment No. 3, exempting household goods and farm machinery from taxation: Yes, 3,061; no, 920.

Amendment No. 4, exchange of public lands: Yes, 2,557; no, 878.

Amendment No. 5, limiting tax exemption of lands owned by schools and colleges: Yes, 2,108; no, 1,250.

RELIEF STATUS IS CHANGED BY VOTERS NOV. 5

County to be Relieved of Obligation of Sharing Relief Bills

LOCAL UNITS TO TAKE OVER COUNTY'S SHARE

County Board Appropriates $125 to Valley Shows at Crookston

Little more than routine business came up for consideration at the November meeting of the county board at the court house Tuesday.

As a result of the vote in the election Tuesday of last week, the board beginning January 1 of next year will be relieved of the necessity of dealing with bills for relief cases, this matter being again placed in the hands of the city, villages and townships of the county. The vote on the question of changing was 2,252 in favor and 1,570 against.

A problem confronts the city of Thief River Falls, villages and townships in meeting relief bills next year, as they made no provision in their budgets this fall for a levy for the purpose. While no announcement has been made, it is hoped that the federal government will continue to carry the major portion of the burden this winter thru the county relief office, but local units will be called upon for additional sums for various purposes connected with relief.

On the assumption that the present system of caring for the needy would be continued, the county board made a seven mill levy this fall for relief purposes. Receipts from this source, County Auditor Fowler said, will be utilized for the payment of mothers' pensions and old age pensions, and the remainder will be used to reduce the poor fund overdraft, which is expected to aggregate approximately $16,000 at the end of this year.

The board at its meeting voted an appropriation of $125 to the Red River Valley Winter Shows to be held next February in Crookston, and which attracts a large number of entries from Pennington county.

Commissioners Mandt, Roy and Ness were appointed as a committee to attend a meeting in Crookston Friday called for the purpose of considering a proposal to transfer all roads in the state to the state highway department.

Thanksgiving Dinner in the Traditional Manner

Innovations in food are all very well on other days of the year—but someway, when Thanksgiving rolls around we all expect to feast our eyes and appetites on the traditional turkey with its accompaniment of cranberries, turnips, puddings and pies. So, while menus all over the land will not be identical on this great feast day they will, to be successful, have certain fundamental dishes in common. Here is a menu for a typical Thanksgiving dinner:

Stuffed Celery
Green and Ripe Olives
Roast Stuffed Turkey
Giblet Gravy
Mashed Potatoes
Baked Squash with Pineapple
Holiday Salad
Parker House Rolls
Pumpkin Pie
American Cheese
Coffee

Stuffed Celery

1 package Camembert Cheese spread
½ cup heavy cream
1 cup chopped California Walnuts
salt to taste
1 tablespoon lemon juice few drops tobasco sauce
paprika

Mix together the cheese and cream until thoroughly blended. Add the chopped nuts, lemon juice, tobasco sauce and salt to taste. Fill small uniform stalks of celery with the mixture and sprinkle with paprika.

Roast Turkey

Draw and singe a turkey. Rub well with flour. Wash with lukewarm water, then rinse with cold water and drain, after which rub well with salt and pepper both inside and out and let stand over night. In the morning fill with any desired stuffing. The following is a good dressing—

Turkey Dressing

Mix 4 cups bread crumbs (no crusts) with 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1½ teaspoons poultry seasoning and 4 tablespoons finely chopped parsley. Moisten with ¾ cup hot milk or broth to which 6 tablespoons melted fat have been added. Add 2½ cups of finely chopped boiled chestnuts. Mix well. Dry turkey well inside. Stuff. Sew up the turkey, place in a roasting pan and roast until tender and brown.

Baked Squash with Pineapple

Halve, remove seeds and steam 1 medium-size winter squash. Then peel and slice ½ inch thick. Arrange squash in layers in a baking dish and sprinkle each layer with lots of butter or other fat and 4 tablespoons of crushed canned pineapple. When dish is full (squash should be top layer) place in a moderate oven and bake about 1 hour.

Soak gelatin for the first layer in cold water 5 minutes. Add seasoned tomato juice, puree, or soup and stir until mixed. Pour into a small square or loaf pan and chill until firm. Pour over this the second layer made as follows: Soak the gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Add the boiling water and stir until mixed, then season with the vinegar or lemon juice, sugar and salt. Cool, add the shredded cabbage, pepper and celery. Pour over the tomato gelatin mixture. Chill until both layers are firm. Cut into squares and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Parker House Rolls

Growing With Your Child

LET'S PLAY THE GAME

Although perhaps none of us welcomes the coming of nightfall earlier and earlier these days, it does mean the fun of seasonal changes in children's play. The nip and tang associated with the lively play that is necessary when one must keep moving to keep warm is some recompense for the delicious lulling warmth of the sun and the smell of the clover.

Which of us doesn't sniff appreciatively at the bonfires of leaves smouldering in the dusk, and listen with a nostalgic pang to the call of "All outs in free!" that comes ringing through the crisp air to carry us back to our childhood? Autumn spells energy and excitement and the thrill of frosty days to our children, who don't yet see in October's blue skies" "tears from the depths of some divine despair."

But when the night grow too sharp for outdoor play, and before skating begins, then's the time to gather round the table or the fire, after supper, and sharpen wits—and perhaps pencils—for a little family fun. This relaxation is a time that should hold relaxation for all. Even mother is momentarily released from tension, for there's not another meal to be got for ten hours—thank goodness!—and the babies are in their beds. Laughter is as restful as a good meal, so what about a game with the children?

Do you remember how you looked forward, at school, to the precious ten minutes a day when the teacher read aloud to you chapter by chapter the story that was your reward—for hurrying with your arithmetic? Do those breathing spells of sheer magic stand out more clearly than most of the more "important" events at school? So will these bits of gaiety stand out in the memories of your children. A bit of wholesouled, jollity binds a family together, after its members have been forced apart all day by the absorption of each in his own pressing affairs. Let's take time to play with our children! For if we don't practice at the art of playing, we may find ourselves getting so creaky in the joints that we feel awkward and clumsy and unable to make the first move.

There are any number of games, old and new, adapted to assorted ages, and interests. And we may find that by showing an aptitude for this or that antic, of mind or body, we may actually build up a little prestige for ourselves in our children's minds—a thing no old-fashioned parent would have dreamed of trying to do, but of which we modern-minded parents soelmnly recognize the importance!

The revival of interest in the old games like parchesi, backgammon, ping-pong and anagrams is not just a matter of their being forced upon us because we haven't the money to spend on other amusements. They are good games, and have, and will, come back over and over again because of the qualities they possess. Card games, of which there are so many simple ones that are fun for the whole family, never lose their fascination, and serve the double purpose of giving children practise in being good losers and good winners.

There is an aspect of games seldom considered by parents, who think of children as more or less "wasting their time" over such foolishness. Far from it. Games are excellent training along more lines than we can enumerate. Besides giving practise in the art of being a good sport, they make children observant. Games involving the use of numbers give the child practise in what we used to call "mental arithmetic", a skill at which many of us deplore our lack. Puzzles lead children to be on the lookout for the unexpected, to be ready for traps set for the unwary. Charades encourage the imagination, in the use they make of costumes and clever ideas that will disguise the words to be guessed. Games with words, if after played, will give a child an interest that may make him much more observant of the new words he comes across.

In other words, the hours spent with "quips and cranks and wanton wiles" are just as much a part of our children's education as any of its more solemn features. And in this case, their education is our fun!

At that time there will be exhibits of books to be examined. This will be arranged especially for those who wish to give books as gifts for children.

Six attractive children's books have just been received from the Carnegie Corporation to add to the International Mind Alcove. Each story depicts child life in a different country. HOW TO KEEP WELL

Milk—Borne—Disease

Milk is an exceedingly valuable and important food, particularly in childhood. Valuable as it is, milk must be clean and uncontaminated in order to be safe. Diseases that have been traced to raw milk are undulant fever, septic sore throat, and intestinal infections.

Pasteurization changes milk but little and the method has served to prevent an untold amount of illness of raw milk origin. As faithful and trustworthy as a sentinel standing guard through the night, Pasteurization is the ally and protector of your children's health.

EAGLE SNATCHES UP PHEASANT JUST SHOT

Lakefield.—Giving up the pursuit of ducks recently when about 50 hunters were trying for two lone fowl, Harry Doll was returning home when he saw a prize pheasant rooster in a plowed field. He brought the car to a stop and got out and loaded his gun. The pheasant started to fly, but Harry's crackaman eye was at its best and he killed the bird with one shot. Laying his gun against the fence, he started across the field to pick up his next day's dinner. When about four feet from the bird, a large eagle swooped down and tightly clutched the bird in its large claws and flew away, leaving Harry awe-stricken. For a few moments Harry was peeved and sore at the eagle, but on second thought decided the joke was on him, and that he had had an experience that he'll probably never encounter again.

DEER BATTLE TO DEATH WITH ANTLERS LOCKED

Chisholm: — Arnold Erickson and William Clemens stumbled upon the scene of a sylvan tragedy near Chisholm recently. The two hunters found two buck deer with their long antlers locked in a death battle. One of the combatants had already met death in the form of a broken neck when the hunters found them. The other was still desperately striving to break the hold of his dead antagonist's entangling antlers. The hunters put an end to his misery, and brought back the two heads, still locked in death. The deer weighed between 225 and 250 pounds apiece.

Thank You

At this time I wish to extend to the voters of the County my sincere thanks for the splendid support and vote that I received at the recent election. I want to especially thank all those who so loyally gave me their active support and assistance during the campaign. When I take office I shall try to carry out my promise to discharge the duties of the County Attorney's Office fairly and impartially, efficiently and economically, for the best interests of the county, and its people.

May I also call the people's attention to the fact that I am not yet county attorney, and that I will not take office until in January. I have nothing whatever to do with the rental of tax delinquent lands at this time, and no List of Tax Delinquent Lands has been turned over to me. The present County Attorney, Mr. Lundgren is in charge of all matters pertaining to the county attorneys office until after the first of the year.

Sincerely yours,
H. O. Berve.

I wish to thank the Pennington Co. Voters League and the voters in general for their votes and support in the past election. Geo. M. Gunderson. 46c

Card of Thanks

I wish to sincerely thank the 1900 voters and taxpayers who so loyally supported me in my recent campaign and defeat. I am now convinced the 2800 still believe in supporting my family, which has been on the taxpayers the last year and a half. I now feel that I have done what I could.

Mrs. Albert Brink. 46p

Appreciation

I wish to extend my heartiest appreciation to the voters for the splendid support given me at the recent election of county auditor. Especially to those who so bravely supported me against the unfair charges circulated by my opposition the very last days of the campaign, regarding the administration during my term of office. I will discuss the charges made in some future issue of this paper. Thanking you again, I am

$1,000 FOUND IN HOME OF COUNTY CHARGE

New Ulm:—When Miss Harriet Toftelin, one of Hanska's oldest inhabitants, passed away August 6, Brown county recovered more than $1,000 of the money it had contributed to her support. Shortly after the death of Miss Toftelin, a search was instituted on the premises for hidden treasure. $986.78 in cash was found concealed in dishes, pots, trunks, cigar boxes, among old papers, and in an old sink. The collection was largely composed of old currency and old silver, and among the currency was found a genuine Confederate bill of $20 denomination, showing that the hoard must have been started some time ago. Miss Toftelin at one time lived with her brother, a doctor, who died in 1919. Since that time Brown county has contributed over $1,650 to the deceased woman's support, and the Red Cross has added another $282. This was the only source of Miss Toftelin's income, with the exception of money she received from home made medicines. She had a wide reputation as a folk doctor, and personally gathered all the herbs used in her concoctions.

PLUMMER

PLUMMER CARNIVAL ATTRACTS CROWD

An estimated crowd of 600 people attended the Plummer High School Carnival on Friday. The new municipal hall was jammed for the program presented by the school children. The carnival is an annual event for the benefit of high school basketball and was unusually successful this year. Receipts were around $250 with a net profit of approximately $140.

The program opened with music by the Melody Aces of Red Lake Falls. The primary grades presented a Dutch dance, the 3rd and 4th grades, a short play, "Teaching the Teacher"; the 5th and 6th grades, a gypsy musicale, the Gypsy Trail; the 7th and 8th grades, two short plays, "Friendly Advice" and Advanced Geography"; the High School presented several numbers, Memories, a Negro dance number, Down in De Cornfield, and a one act play, Prof. Dunnelhead's class.

Following the program, the different booths opened for business, including Bingo, fish pond, candy, lunch and noise-makers. The Melody Aces provided music for a nickel dance that drew a large portion of the crowd.

At 10:45, Miss Geraldine Bruggeman representative of the Sophomore class, was crowned queen of the carnival by Leland LaVoy, captain of the basketball team. Dancing and entertainment continued until 1 o'clock.

UNWISE OWL ENTERS BUS IN TRANSIT

St. Peter.—A great owl—wise perhaps, but certainly myopic — wrought fatal havoc for himself and painful injuries to four humans recently near St. Peter when he crashed through the windshield of a southbound bus. Weighing 10 pounds or more, the great bird struck the glass obliquely from the right, shattering the windshield in every direction about both driver and passengers, and landed dead in the seventh seat back on the left, which happened to be empty. Though no one was struck by the bird, Driver Harry Greenly and three passengers were obliged to seek the care of a physician for treatment of injuries. Greenly stated that a similar accident befell him a year ago this fall, when the self-propelled projectile was a pheasant.

Going to Bed is Best Treatment for Cold in the Head Say Doctors

The best treatment for cold-in-the-head is a day or two at home in bed. This is the opinion of the public health education committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association expressed in a bulletin on the subject of absence regulations in school issued today.

Many schools, while exercising commendable care of the health of their children in other ways, still discourage absence from school for "common colds" and make it difficult to make up work thus missed. This practice results in more school time lost in the long run, in the opinion of the doctors, and far greater danger of serious illness for the children.

"Many a cold is not a simple cold at all but measles or whooping cough or scarlet fever or one of the other respiratory infections, all of which are likely to appear to be just a cold in their earliest and most infectious stages. If the victim of one of these diseases comes to school because he believes he has "just a cold" and his absence will be frowned upon, the result may be an epidemic and many days of school time lost.

"If the trouble is just a cold, after all, the child is hardly likely to do good work in school and a day or two home in bed will protect other children and do more than medicines to help him get over it in a hurry."

Parents are warned by the doctors, also, that their responsibility is even greater than that of the schools to watch their children and keep them at home when they may be a danger to others.

Income of Minnesota U Down Million This Year

The University of Minnesota's income decreased more than $1,000,000 for the year ending June 30, 1934, under that of the preceding year it was shown by the annual report of Comptroller W. T. Middlebrook, of which a summary was issued today by his office.

Actual receipts from all sources were $859,560 less during the past year besides which there was a decline of $112,000 in the free balance remaining at the end of the year. Approximately half of the decrease was offset by a contraction of $534,000 in the cost of teaching and research. Half of this came from salary cuts and half from unfilled or cancelled teaching positions. There was also a decrease in equipment inventory, more equipment being written off than purchased.

Receipts from all sources were listed as $8,101,897 for the past year as against $8,961,450 the year before. Expenditures were $7,914,814 as against $8,718,523 in the year ending with June 1933.

Grass and Legume Seed to be Scarce—Buy Early

Buy all your grass and legume seed soon, is the recommendation A. C. Arny, Minnesota Experiment Station agronomist, is making to Minnesota farmers who do not have the seed they will need next spring.

"All grass and legume seed needed for establishing meadows and pastures on farms in Minnesota next year are exceptionally high in price now, and they are practically certain to be considerably higher as the season progresses," says Mr. Arny. "The present outlook indicates prices so high on some kinds of seed as to make them too expensive to sow.

"Poor stands or complete failures of grass and legume seedings made the past two seasons, and the extensive use of these seeds on lands subject to erosion are certain to make the demand for at least some of them greater than the supply. Save some money and disappointment by laying in your supply now", urges Mr. Arny.

Diamonds, Platinum, Radium

"Useful Minerals of the United States" lists diamonds as occurring in seven states, platinum in 14 states, and radium in 15 states. There is, however, only one diamond mine that is being worked commercially, near Murfreesboro, Ark. Radium has been produced in this country from carnotite ores found in Colorado and Utah. Platinum is found chiefly in Alaska, California and Oregon. Cameos are carved from onyx, sardonyx and other hard stones, as well as from shells, etc. Of these hard stones, agate, amethyst, jasper, opal, garnet, etc., are found in various sections of this country.

American Indian's Health

The American full-blood Indian was entirely immune to rickets, largely so to cretinism and cancer, and somewhat more so than the white man to diphtheria, typhoid fever, mental and nervous diseases (excepting epilepsy), and various skin diseases, but he was much less immune than the white to smallpox, measles, tuberculosis, and to [illegible].—Literary Digest.

WE NEED MORE PRECINCTS

Tuesday of last week was election day but it was Thursday noon before the city ballots were counted. Whether the count was completed at ten o'clock or three o'clock didn't make much difference to the average citizen but it did worry us a lot here at the Times office where getting the paper out on time has become a sacred tradition. Among ourselves we boast of the fact that the Times is always on time and as a rule we hit the mark without a great deal of extra effort. Last week, however, we were running around in circles waiting for the final figures on the election and it meant a lot of hustling to get the figures into type and on the press within the time limit. It was after twelve o'clock when the tellers in the second ward completed their totals, but before one o'clock the Times was on the street with the complete table and totals on the county and legislative district vote. Which made us think pretty well of ourselves for a while.

All of which is important only to the extent that it emphasizes the fact that it took a long time to count the votes in the city—forty hours from the time the polls closed to the end of the counting—nearly two days. Considering this fact it would seem that the time is about ripe to divide at least three of the wards into smaller voting precincts. Two voting precincts to each of the three larger wards would mean a far more satisfactory service both in the accuracy of the counting and in the speed of getting the results. And in a general election the cost under such an arrangement probably would be no more than it is at the present time. There was a time, only a few years ago, when the results of an election depended upon the returns from a few outlying precincts. Now the country must wait for the city to get its counting completed.

President Roosevelt received an overwhelming vote of confidence in the election thruout the country last week and for the next two years will have a Congress to deal with in which the minority opposition will be practically without power. In other words the administration will have a free hand in its "new deal" program and will be able to move along pretty much as it pleases. It is possible that this may not work out to the advantage of the party, however. Like all parties, the Democrats are more or less divided among themselves. Among the Democrats there are both conservatives and radicals and on every important question considered by Congress during the next two years the big fight will be within the ranks of the party. Under such circumstances it will require all of the President's ability and cunning to keep his party together and we venture to predict that before the end of another two years he will have wished more than once that the election this year had been a little less favorable to the Democrats.

Last year at this time we had already had three weeks of winter. The snow that came in October continued with us until Spring. Remembering that makes the present November weather even more pleasant and no matter how rough it may become from now on, the fine Fall we have enjoyed up to the present time is going to do much to make this a short winter.

Montevideo, a city of about the same size as Thief River Falls, is putting the finishing touches on its new sewage disposal plant which was built with federal aid at a cost of about sixty-four thousand dollars. It is only a question of time before Thief River Falls will be forced to build such a plant. And as long as it is going to be forced upon us eventually whether we want to build it or not, it certainly would be wise to get it built now while the federal government is willing to finance it on such favorable terms. The present unsanitary condition cannot be tolerated much longer.

A few weeks ago citizens of Thief River Falls were viewing the rapidly disappearing mill pond with a great deal of concern about the city's winter water supply, but now, with the water level approaching the maximum mark there is little cause to worry about this as an immediate problem. Engineer Frisbie is deserving of much credit for the work that was done in opening the river channel, making it possible for the water released at Red Lake to reach here. It is possible that, the project he put through could have been handled more efficiently than it was and at less expense to the government. But as a made-work job and a part of the national unemployment relief program, it is our impression that the results are all that any reasonable person could expect. The city of Thief River Falls certainly was greatly benefited by the work that was done.

Governor Olson was re-elected Governor by a plurality this year but a majority of the voters favored other candidates. Which probably indicates that a majority of the voters of the state are not yet ready for the "Co-operative Commonwealth."

Members of the Park Board and City Council are making good progress on the proposed new bridge approaches beautification program. Officials of the state highway department who met with them Tuesday evening, checking over preliminary plans, were very encouraging in their views on the project and expressed the opinion that the state would be glad to co-operate with the community in its parking program along this new highway. If the cost is not prohibitive Johnson street, from the bridge to the city limits, will be widened to one hundred feet with two traffic lanes divided by a series of island parks. The plan has great possibilities and in view of the fact that the program of development can be spread over a number of years, the city probably will be able to handle its share of the cost without undue hardship. Estimates of this cost will be available in a few weeks. Whatever is to be done in the future along this line must be planned now or it will never be accomplished. It will never be possible to widen Johnson Street as cheaply as it can be done at the present time with the assistance of the state.

HITCHCOCK'S COLUMN

By R. W. Hitchcock

Only highly-significant feature of the election was the falling away of the first partner in the farmer-labor mismated party. The real farmers of the state seem to have made up their minds that they are tired of being labor's political catspaw.

It was the North, particularly the Northwest, that gave the farmer-labor party its overpowering strength in the 1934 election. In St. Louis county particularly, and in some adjoining counties, the "farmer" is a small dairy farmer, with two to a half-dozen cows as his main support; that is, his main support with the exception of tax money. These farmers expect to eke out a living by getting road work from the county, and this form of support has become a recognized political institution in St. Louis County, where in the 1932 election the interest in the county commissioner contests overshadowed all other election interests. In several of the county commissioner contests the vote for county commissioner was 1,000 or more in excess of the vote for President, and a recognized method of campaigning was to go to the county commissioners' political meetings and try to horn in on the speaking.

During the last two years the county commissioners have been short of funds, and the federal relief, with Floyd B. Olson as its daddy, became a determining factor in the election.

With the farmer-labor party in control of the Executive Council the last brake on the spending spree of the farmer-labor leaders will have been removed.

If, however, the republicans retain control, substantial relief will be provided as in the past but the utmost care and economy will be exercised.

The Executive Council is composed of the governor, the attorney general, the secretary of state, the state treasurer and the state auditor. In 1919 the Executive Council was authorized to issue certificates of indebtedness to take care of any calamity which might overtake the state—like a great forest fire, a tornado, etc. The legislature thought it was limiting the authority of the Council to the expenditure of $500,000, but later the attorney general rendered an opinion that the Council could spend up to $500,000 for each and every calamity.

For many years only genuine calamities were considered by the Executive Council, but when Floyd B. Olson became Governor he saw at once the advantages of this law to a practical politician. Anything that he wanted to spend money for was denominated a "calamity" by the Governor. So it was, of course, to the taxpayers of the state. The Governor even attempted to call the washing out of a bridge in Pine county a "calamity."

The legislature can refuse to meet, or refuse to appropriate a single dollar. It won't make any difference. And if any farmer-labor department of the state Governor doesn't get all it wants from the legislature, the Executive Council can be depended upon to supply funds without limit.

Nobody will give a hang but the taxpayer, and judging from the election returns of 1934, he doesn't care very much.

Federal emergency relief funds were poured into Minnesota during October, and came very handy for the November election, as follows:

October 8th, $975,889.16; October 11th, $28,176.11; October 18th, $81,731.93; October 22nd, $79,654.95; October 24th, $79,134.38; October 29th, $31,769.53; a grand total of $3,279,659.36.

Now that the election is over will Governor Olson be renamed as "state relief administrator?" It seems improbable. Few believe that the Governor resigned voluntarily.

It should not be forgotten that an investigation, with several federal probers in charge, has been actively under way in Minnesota as to the administration of federal relief. What the probers have found, if anything, is all guess work, but a good many guess that they have found something very similar to what was found in North Dakota. It may be two months, perhaps longer than that, before "anything breaks" in this matter.

In North Dakota, Mrs. Langer, wife of the deposed Governor, was regarded as certain of election, but democratic unity, and disgust among the people, resulted in the election of Tom Moodie, democrat, a newspaper man of Williston.

Moodie is a good man, clean, determined and scrupulously honest. He has real ability, and if he is not hamstrung by politics will give North Dakota the best administration it has had in years.

Tom Moodie is a retired newspaper knight of the road. In his youth, which Moodie spent in Minnesota, the lure of the road proved irresistable. He hoofed it, or rode the rods from town to town and state to state until he had visited every state in the Union and some of the provinces of Canada. Moodie, even then, was a competent "compositor." Drifting into town he would make a bee line for a newspaper office. "Tramp printers" in those days were always welcome at any newspaper plant. Moodie would work for a few days, possibly a few weeks, and then take to the road again. His keen mind and his genial disposition stood him in good stead, and he accumulated a fund of information and a knowledge of mankind that has been exceedingly valuable to him.

He has worked for considerable periods on papers in Wadena, Bemidji, Hibbing, Virginia, and Minneapolis in Minnesota. For some years he has been publisher of a newspaper in Williston, N. D., and has rendered valuable public service in that state.

Faced by those aggressive young republicans, Tom McCabe and LeRoy Matson, as chairman and secretary respectively, of the Republican State Central Committee, Martin A. Nelson made a sensational run in one of the most notable and most vigorously contested campaigns in the history of Minnesota.

Mr. Nelson started from nothing—from worse than nothing, for the air was thick with defeatism when he began his race. He pressed boldly forward nevertheless, he steadily made gains, he finally threatened the very existence of the Olson regime, and he made in the final count a most magnificent showing against tremendous odds. A man who can run like that is not through running in Minnesota. Martin A. Nelson has earned the respect and love of thousands of Minnesotans. Minnesota needs such men and it will call upon Martin A. Nelson again.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

According to a statement issued by T. Edmonds, regional director for the FERA, the cost of administering public relief in Minnesota through the SERA is less than the national average for states. Mr. Edmonds stated that funds are being expended economically in Minnesota and that a trained personnel renders efficient service.

Very few of the liquor stores in the Twin Cities can duplicate the stock of wine, beer, whisky and cordials held by the office of the state liquor control commissioner. In a burglar-proof, fire-proof vault is stored the intoxicants seized by the state from convicted bootleggers. Commissioner Arundel is in quite a quandary as to what to do with this as no provision has been made by law for its disposal. At present he is quizzing the attorney general's office for an opinion as to whether or not the seized goods may be sold at an auction, the proceeds to go to the state.

Visitors who have not been in St. Paul for the past three months are astounded over the change around the state office building. With federal relief monies, the side streets on the north and south of the building have been widened and repaved to add beauty to the Capitol grounds. At the personal instigation of Governor Olson, the capitol landscape has been improved by the addition of shrubbery, flowers and trees during the last two years. The lawn has also been revitalized and what was once a rather bare plot of ground even now in the fall is green and luxuriant.

The cooperative market in Minneapolis, set up during the strike last summer by the State Department of Agriculture so that farmers could vend their produce undisturbed, is meeting with great success. A movement is on foot to build a cooperative building there with federal money.

It is rumored that a number of citizens have failed to pay their income tax and that steps will be taken by the tax commission to hurry these delinquent payments.

Half Man, Half Horse

In classic mythology, centaurs were beings who were half man and half horse. They fought with the Lapithae—a people of Thessaly—at the marriage feast of Hippodamia and Pirithous, and were expelled from their country. Chiron was the most famous of the centaurs.

Powerful Pressure Pump Housed in Whale's Nose

The nose of the whale, prized by whalers for its valuable spermaceti oil, is not used for smelling at all, but instead houses a powerful pressure pump and a combination air-conditioning, also pressure plant that for sheer efficiency transcends anything on land, sea or in the air.

"The biggest thing about a whale is its nose," two scientists explained in a joint statement. "It is six times as big as the whale's braincase. For instance, if a whale has a head that is 12 feet long and 6 feet high, the nose in this hypothetical whale would be 10 feet long and 5 feet high. Probably one reason the whale's jaw juts out so far is because the nose needs the support of the upper jaw. Another peculiarity about the whale is that its nose, in pushing against its forehead, has changed the latter from straight or convex to one that is deeply concave."

The nose of the whale is composed of bones, fat, oil and connective tissues covered with a thick sheet of skin and blubber, through which runs two gigantic nasal passages. The right passage, according to the scientists, is so big, that Jonah could have rested there very comfortably without bothering to make the long journey to the stomach. The two passages lead from a chamber immediately below the blowhole on top of the nose to a great body tunnel which, in turn, is connected with the windpipe.

Father of Photography Made Discovery in 1822

The name of Louis Daguerre is preserved in the word daguerreotype, and that of Fox Talbot is known because he was the first to print from a negative and substitute paper sensitized with iodide of silver for the original silver plate. But the name of the man who actually obtained the first sun-picture and made it permanent, Joseph Nicephore Niepce, is known to few. Yet he was the pioneer of modern photography. He died a century ago, his great discovery was made in 1822.

His first photograph—though he called it a heliograph—was of his house and garden. He was fond of lithography, itself a novelty, and as his son, an artist, had been called up for military training, Niepce, who could not draw, sought a substitute for the pencil and found it in the sun.

He took his first sun-picture on a silver plate on which a solution of bitumen and oil of lavender had been spread. He "fixed" it with the vapors of iodine.

Today photography pierces the flesh and reveals the living skeleton; flashes across the world pictorial records of current events; assists the police; is essential to kinemotography; whilst photo-micrography helps the bacteriologist to a knowledge of those microscopic organisms which cause cancer, tuberculosis, influenza, and other human scourges.

Prepare Hen House for Winter Egg Production

"This is the time to clean and repair the laying house for maximum winter egg production from the spring pullets," states A. M. Pilkey, Northwest School and Station poultryman. According to Mr. Pilkey, the entire house should be cleaned and disinfected. The first step is to remove all litter from the floors and nests. Then with a sharp spade or hoe clean all surfaces including the dropping boards. The roosts should be placed on dropping boards and thoroughly soaked with discarded cylinder oil or some special preparation to protect the birds from mites.

Timely repairs to the poultry plant may include improved ventilation or insulation, or needed repairs to nests, dropping boards, drinking stands, windows, feed hoppers, etc. Professor Pilkey suggests one foot of feed hopper space for each five birds. He also suggests placing the drinking pans on a platform six inches wider than the pan, and about 18 inches above the floor. Mr. Pilkey urges poultry producers to prepare the laying house for the new layers as early as possible to avoid disturbance after the pullets have entered the period of heavy production.

Dutch-English Wars

The latter part of the Seventeenth century was the period of commercial rivalry between England and the Dutch United Provinces, when three naval wars were fought. The Navigation act, passed to inflict a blow on the Dutch carrying trade, was the direct cause of the first war, 1652 to 1654. Fighting was fairly evenly balanced, but in the treaty that followed the Dutch conceded all trade questions under dispute. In the second war, 1665 to 1667, the Dutch blockaded the Thames and sailed up the Medway, destroying ships there and causing a panic in London. The treaty that followed amended the Navigation act in favor of the Dutch, but gave New York to England. The third war lasted from 1672 to 1674 and was the result of Louis XIV's attempt to isolate and destroy the Dutch republic. This war was both unpopular and indecisive. Again in 1780 the Dutch were drawn into war with England because of English interference with neutral shipping; it resulted in a loss of many of the Dutch colonies and much of her shipping.

HALLOWE'EN VANDALS BURN STRAW; MOVE CHURCH STEPS

Fairmont—On Hallowe'en night pranksters in the vicinity of Triumph caused so much damage that an investigation has been instituted by the sheriff of that county. H. G. Kanuike, a farmer living near Triumph, lost $160 when vandals burned his straw stacks, totaling some 21 tons of straw. Motorists saw the blaze, but too late to save either of the stacks. Two stone slabs weighing 500 pounds apiece were removed from the front of the Swedish Mission Church steps. Someone turned a goat loose in the local pool hall. The animal began to amuse itself by chewing ends of yarn from off the furniture, a pursuit heartily encouraged by the proprietor. When the animals lent himself to more destructive entertainments, however, he [illegible]

WE NEED MORE PRECINCTS

Tuesday of last week was election day but it was Thursday noon before the city ballots were counted. Whether the count was completed at ten o'clock or three o'clock didn't make much difference to the average citizen but it did worry us a lot here at the Times office where getting the paper out on time has become a sacred tradition. Among ourselves we boast of the fact that the Times is always on time and as a rule we hit the mark without a great deal of extra effort. Last week, however, we were running around in circles waiting for the final figures on the election and it meant a lot of hustling to get the figures into type and on the press within the time limit. It was after twelve o'clock when the tellers in the second ward completed their totals. But before one o'clock the Times was on the street with the complete table and totals on the county and legislative district vote. Which made us think pretty well of ourselves for a while.

All of which is important only to the extent that it emphasizes the fact that it took a long time to count the votes in the city—forty hours from the time the polls closed to the end of the counting - nearly two days. Considering this fact it would seem that the time is about ripe to divide at least three of the wards into smaller voting precincts. Two voting precincts to each of the three larger wards would mean a far more satisfactory service both in the accuracy of the counting and in the speed of getting the results. And in a general election the cost under such an arrangement probably would be no more than it is at the present time. There was a time, only a few years ago, when the results of an election depended upon the returns from a few outlying precincts. Now the country must wait for the city to get its counting completed.

President Roosevelt received an overwhelming vote of confidence in the election thruout the country last week and for the next two years will have a Congress to deal with in which the minority opposition will be practically without power. In other words the administration will have a free hand in its "new deal" program and will be able to move along pretty much as it pleases. It is possible that this may not work out to the advantage of the party, however. Like all parties, the Democrats are more or less divided among themselves. Among the Democrats there are both conservatives and radicals and on every important question considered by Congress during the next two years the big fight will be within the ranks of the party. Under such circumstances it will require all of the President's ability and cunning to keep his party together and we venture to predict that before the end of another two years he will have wished more than once that the election this year had been a little less favorable to the Democrats.

Last year at this time we had already had three weeks of winter. The snow that came in October continued with us until Spring. Remembering that makes the present November weather even more pleasant and no matter how rough it may become from now on, the fine Fall we have enjoyed up to the present time is going to do much to make this a short winter.

Montevideo, a city of about the same size as Thief River Falls, is putting the finishing touches on its new sewage disposal plant which was built with federal aid at a cost of about sixty-four thousand dollars. It is only a question of time before Thief River Falls will be forced to build such a plant. And as long as it is going to be forced upon us eventually whether we want to build it or not, it certainly would be wise to get it built now while the federal government is willing to finance it on such favorable terms. The present unsanitary condition cannot be tolerated much longer.

A few weeks ago citizens of Thief River Falls were viewing the rapidly disappearing mill pond with a great deal of concern about the city's winter water supply, but now, with the water level approaching the maximum mark there is little cause to worry about this as an immediate problem. Engineer Frisble is deserving of much credit for the work that was done in opening the river channel, making it possible for the water released at Red Lake to reach here. It is possible that, the project he put through could have been handled more efficiently than it was and at less expense to the government. But as a made-work job and a part of the national unemployment relief program, it is our impression that the results are all that any reasonable person could expect. The city of Thief River Falls certainly was greatly benefited by the work that was done.

Governor Olson was re-elected Governor by a plurality this year but a majority of the voters favored other candidates. Which probably indicates that a majority of the voters of the state are not yet ready for the "Co-operative Commonwealth."

Members of the Park Board and City Council are making good progress on the proposed new bridge approaches beautification program. Officials of the state highway department who met with them Tuesday evening, checking over preliminary plans, were very encouraging in their views on the project and expressed the opinion that the state would be glad to co-operate with the community in its parking program along this new highway. If the cost is not prohibitive Johnson street, from the bridge to the city limits, will be widened to one hundred feet with two traffic lanes divided by a series of island parks. The plan has great possibilities and in view of the fact that the program of development can be spread over a number of years, the city probably will be able to handle its share of the cost without undue hardship. Estimates of this cost will be available in a few weeks. Whatever is to be done in the future along this line must be planned now or it will never be accomplished. It will never be possible to widen Johnson Street as cheaply as it can be done at the present time with the assistance of the state.

HITCHCOCK'S COLUMN

By R. W. Hitchcock

Only highly significant feature of the election was the falling away of the first partner in the farmer-labor mismated party. The real farmers of the state seem to have made up their minds that they are tired of being labor's political catspaw.

It was the North, particularly the Northwest, that gave the farmer-labor party its overpowering strength in the 1934 election. In St. Louis county particularly, and in some adjoining counties, the farmer is a small dairy farmer, with two to a half-dozen cows as his main support; that is, his main support with the exception of tax money. These farmers expect to eke out a living by getting road work from the county, and this form of support has become a recognized political institution in St. Louis County, where in the 1932 election the interest in the county commissioner contests overshadowed all other election interests. In several of the county commissioner contests the vote for county commissioner was 1,000, or more in excess of the vote for President, and a recognized method of campaigning was to go to the county commissioners' political meetings and try to horn in on the speaking.

During the last two years the county commissioners have been short of funds, and the federal relief, with Floyd B. Olson as its daddy, became a determining factor in the election.

With the farmer-labor party in control of the Executive Council the last brake on the spending spree of the farmer-labor leaders will have been removed.

If, however, the republicans retain control, substantial relief will be provided as in the past but the utmost care and economy will be exercised.

The Executive Council is composed of the governor, the attorney general, the secretary of state, the state treasurer and the state auditor. In 1919 the Executive Council was authorized to issue certificates of indebtedness to take care of any calamity which might overtake the state—like a great forest fire, a tornado, etc. The legislature thought it was limiting the authority of the Council to the expenditure of $500,000, but later the attorney general rendered an opinion that the Council could spend up to $500,000 for each and every calamity.

For many years only genuine calamities were considered by the Executive Council, but when Floyd B. Olson became Governor he saw at once the advantages of this law to a practical politician. Anything that he wanted to spend money for was denominated a "calamity" by the Governor. So it was, of course, to the taxpayers of the state. The Governor even attempted to call the washing out of a bridge in Pine county a "calamity."

The legislature can refuse to meet, or refuse to appropriate a single dollar. It won't make any difference. And if any farmer-labor department of the state Governor doesn't get all it wants from the legislature, the Executive Council can be depended upon to supply funds without limit.

Nobody will give a hang but the taxpayer, and judging from the election returns of 1934, he doesn't care very much.

Federal emergency relief funds were poured into Minnesota during October, and came very handy for the November election, as follows:

October 8th, $275,889.16; October 11th, $28,476.11; October 18th, $81,734.93; October 22nd, $179,654.95; October 24th, $79,131.38; October 29th, $34,792.51—a grand total of $1,279,6?9.26.

Now that the election is over will Governor Olson be renamed as "state relief administrator?" It seems improbable. Few believe that the Governor resigned voluntarily.

It should not be forgotten that an investigation, with several federal probers in charge, has been actively under way in Minnesota as to the administration of federal relief. What the probers have found, if anything, is all guess work, but a good many guess that they have found something very similar to what was found in North Dakota. It may be two months, perhaps longer than that, before "anything breaks" in this matter.

In North Dakota, Mrs. Langer, wife of the deposed Governor, was regarded as certain of election, but democratic unity, and disgust among the people, resulted in the election of Tom Moodie, democrat, a newspaper man of Williston.

Moodie is a good man, clean determined and scrupulously honest. He has real ability, and if he is not hamstrung by politics will give North Dakota the best administration it has had in years.

Tom Moodie is a retired newspaper knight of the road. In his youth, which Moodie spent in Minnesota, the lure of the road proved irresistable. He hoofed it, or rode the rods from town to town and state to state until he had visited every state in the Union and some of the provinces of Canada. Moodie, even then, was a competent "compositor." Drifting into town he would make a bee line for a newspaper office. "Tramp printers" in those days were always welcome at any newspaper plant. Moodie would work for a few days, possibly a few weeks, and then take to the road again. His keen mind and his genial disposition stood him in good stead, and he accumulated a fund of information and a knowledge of mankind that has been exceedingly valuable to him.

He has worked for considerable periods on papers in Wadena, Bemidji, Hibbing, Virginia, and Minneapolis in Minnesota. For some years he has been publisher of a newspaper in Williston, N. D., and has rendered valuable public service in that state.

Faced by those aggressive young republicans, Tom McCabe and LeRoy Matson, as chairman and secretary respectively, of the Republican State Central Committee, Martin A. Nelson made a sensational run in one of the most notable and most vigorously contested campaigns in the history of Minnesota.

Mr. Nelson started from nothing—from worse than nothing, for the air was thick with defeatism when he began his race. He pressed steadily forward nevertheless, he finally made gains, he finally threatened the very existence of the Olson regime, and he made in the final count a most magnificent showing against tremendous odds. A man who can run like that is not through running in Minnesota. Martin A. Nelson has earned the respect and love of thousands of Minnesotans. Minnesota needs such men and it will call upon Martin A. Nelson again.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

According to a statement issued by T. Edmonds, regional director for the FERA, the cost of administering public relief in Minnesota through the SERA is less than the national average for states. Mr. Edmonds stated that funds are being expended economically in Minnesota and that a trained personnel renders efficient service.

Very few of the liquor stores in the Twin Cities can duplicate the stock of wine, beer, whisky and cordials held by the office of the state liquor control commissioner. In a burglar-proof, fire-proof vault is stored the intoxicants seized by the state from convicted bootleggers. Commissioner Arundel is in quite a quandary as to what to do with this as no provision has been made by law for its disposal. At present he is quizzing the attorney general's office for an opinion as to whether or not the seized goods may be sold at an auction, the proceeds to go to the state.

Visitors who have not been in St. Paul for the past three months are astounded over the change around the state office building. With federal relief monies, the side streets on the north and south of the building have been widened and repaved to add beauty to the Capitol grounds. At the personal instigation of Governor Olson, the capitol landscape has been improved by the addition of shrubbery, flowers and trees during the last two years. The lawn has also been revitalized and what was once a rather bare plot of ground even now in the fall is green and luxuriant.

The co-operative market in Minneapolis, set up during the strike last summer by the State Department of Agriculture so that farmers could vend their produce undisturbed, is meeting with great success. A movement is on foot to build a co-operative building there with federal money.

It is rumored that a number of citizens have failed to pay their income tax and that steps will be taken by the tax commission to hurry these delinquent payments.

Half Man, Half Horse

In classic mythology centaurs were beings who were half man and half horse. They fought with the Lapithae—a people of Thessaly—at the marriage feast of Hippodamia and Pirithous, and were expelled from their country. Chiron was the most famous of the centaurs.

Powerful Pressure Pump Housed in Whale's Nose

The nose of the whale, prized by whalers for its valuable spermaceti oil, is not used for smelling at all, but instead houses a powerful pressure pump and a combination air-conditioning, steampressure plant that for sheer efficiency transcends anything on land, sea or in the air.

"The biggest thing about a whale is its nose," two scientists explained in a joint statement. "It is six times as big as the whale's brain case. For instance, if a whale has a head that is 12 feet long and 6 feet high, the nose in this hypothetical whale would be 10 feet long and 5 feet high. Probably one reason the whale's jaw juts out so far is because the nose needs the support of the upper jaw. Another peculiarity about the whale is that its nose, in pushing against its forehead, has changed the latter from straight or convex to one that is deeply concave."

The nose of the whale is composed of bones, fat, oil and connective tissues covered with a thick sheet of skin and blubber, through which runs two gigantic nasal passages. The right passage, according to the scientists, is so big that Jonah could have rested there very comfortably without bothering to make the long journey to the stomach. The two passages lead from a chamber immediately below the blowhole on top of the nose to a great body tunnel which, in turn, is connected with the windpipe.

Father of Photography Made Discovery in 1822

The name of Louis Daguerre is preserved in the word daguerreotype, and that of Fox Talbot is known because he was the first to print from a negative and substitute paper sensitized with iodide of silver for the original silver plate. But the name of the man who actually obtained the first sun-picture and made it permanent, Joseph Nicephore Niepce, is known to few. Yet he was the pioneer of modern photography. He died a century ago, his great discovery was made in 1822.

His first photograph—though he called it a heliograph—was of his house and garden. He was fond of lithography, itself a novelty, and as his son, an artist, had been called up for military training, Niepce, who could not draw, sought a substitute for the pencil and found it in the sun.

He took his first sun-picture on a silver plate on which a solution of bitumen and oil of lavender had been spread. He "fixed" it with the vapors of iodine.

Today photography pierces the flesh and reveals the living skeleton; flashes across the world pictorial records of current events; assists the police; is essential to kinemotography; whilst photo-micrography helps the bacteriologist to a knowledge of those microscopic organisms which cause cancer, tuberculosis, influenza, and other human scourges.

Prepare Hen House for Winter Egg Production

"This is the time to clean and repair the laying house for maximum winter egg production from the spring pullets," states A. M. Pilkey, Northwest School and Station poultryman. According to Mr. Pilkey, the entire house should be cleaned and disinfected. The first step is to remove all litter from the floors and nests. Then with a sharp spade or hoe clean all surfaces including the dropping boards. The roosts should be placed on dropping boards and thoroughly soaked with discarded cylinder oil or some special preparation to protect the birds from mites.

Timely repairs to the poultry plant may include improved ventilation or insulation, or needed repairs to nests, dropping boards, drinking stands, windows, feed hoppers, etc. Professor Pilkey suggests one foot of feed hopper space for each five birds. He also suggests placing the drinking pans on a platform six inches wider than the pan, and about 18 inches above the floor. Mr. Pilkey urges poultry producers to prepare the laying house for the new layers as early as possible to avoid disturbance after the pullets have entered the period of heavy production.

Dutch-English Wars

The latter part of the Seventeenth century was the period of commercial rivalry between England and the Dutch United Provinces, when three naval wars were fought. The Navigation act, passed to inflict a blow on the Dutch carrying trade, was the direct cause of the first war, 1652 to 1654. Fighting was fairly evenly balanced, but in the treaty that followed the Dutch conceded all trade questions under dispute. In the second war, 1665 to 1667, the Dutch blockaded the Thames and sailed up the Medway, destroying ships there and causing a panic in London. The treaty that followed amended the Navigation act in favor of the Dutch, but gave New York to England. The third war lasted from 1672 to 1674 and was the result of Louis XIV's attempt to isolate and destroy the Dutch republic. This war was both unpopular and indecisive. Again in 1780 the Dutch were drawn into war with England because of English interference with neutral shipping; it resulted in a loss of many of the Dutch colonies and much of her shipping.

TWO NEW COUNTY OFFICIALS NAMED IN MARSHALL CO.

O. C. Toftner Named Sheriff and Arnold Trost County Attorney

Marshall county will have a new sheriff, county attorney and two new members of the county board of commissioners after January 1, 1935 as a result of the general election held on November 6, the official tabulation of the county vote shows.

Oscar C. Toftner who took an early lead in the three cornered race for sheriff, outdistanced his closest competitor, Hans C. Hanson, "sticker" candidate by 969 votes. Toftner polled 2833 votes with Hanson 1864 and Evald Erickson 1569 votes.

Arnold A. Trost proved himself a banner vote getter in the race for county attorney and easily defeated W. O. Braggans, incumbent, having nearly a 2 to 1 margin. The official vote gave Trost 4,081 and Braggans, 2,418.

New commissioners for Marshall county include Arthur Sommers in the first district who defeated the veteran member of the board, A. N. Lodoen and Arthur Anderson, who defeated M. L. Ihle in the fourth district. A. S. Rokke, incumbent, was not a candidate.

All other present county officers were re-elected all by comfortable majorities with the exception of Nels M. Engen, who was pressed hard to win by Miss Martha Kleppe, Mr. Engen polling 3477 votes and Miss Kleppe 3115 votes.

F. A. Green, veteran Marshall county representative in the state legislature, was also pressed hard to win his post by E. M. Evans of Middle River, who had the backing of the county Farmer-Labor association. Green polled 3282 votes and Evans polled 2986 votes.

Market Factors Hint at Beef Scarcity and High Cattle Prices Next Year

Weighed down with burdensome supplies, present cattle markets are in anything but a healthy condition, says the Weekly Livestock Market Bulletin, issued by the Central Cooperative association at South Saint Paul, Minnesota. There are some rather significant factors in the market, however, that suggest beef scarcity and materially higher prices next year.

As a result of the drouth, millions of cattle and calves including those purchased on government account, were forced to market this summer and fall. The country has passed through one of the greatest bovine slaughtering periods in history.

On January 1st, this year, according to government statistics, the cattle population reached the low point of the production cycle, and now all indications point to a cattle population on January 1, 1935, in line with that of 1928.

This portends sharply reduced supplies of beef for 1935, and with smaller numbers of other meat animals available, prices undoubtedly will go materially higher. Market supplies of hogs, according to government figures, will be smallest in 20 years for the 1934 to 1935 hog marketing year. Pork prices undoubtedly will rise, and high pork always gives strength to beef markets. Reduced supplies of sheep and lambs, and a probable upward trend in prices of bovine stock, also will lend support to beef and pork markets.

Economic conditions now are decidedly different than they were six years ago, and although 1935 supplies may be no larger than in 1928, prices will be regulated to a large extent by the ability of the consuming public to buy. Approximately 17 million people are said to be on the charity role at present. They are unable to buy, yet they are eating at least one meal per day.

Decrease in Upland Game Bird Kill is Predicted

High marks of the past few seasons relative to the annual kill of upland game birds will be materially decreased according to Game and Fish officials of the state. Hunters are urged to send in reports of game taken as early as possible so that an intelligent estimate of the game taken this fall may be secured, Erling Swenson director, requested.

There were actually reported for the 1933 upland game bird season 315,526 ringnecked pheasants taken, 14,763 ruffed grouse or native partridge, 7,304 pinnated grouse or prairie chickens, 2,957 bobwhite quail and 2,021 sharptailed or whitebreasted grouse, for a total of 342,571 upland game birds.

There were 186,600 small game hunting licenses sold last year of which 26.4 per cent, or 49,285, reported the game take to the division.

COUNTY HISTORICAL ORGANIZATION GROWS

—The past few months have witnessed the organization of local historical socities in Anoka, Fillmore, and Koochiching counties, bringing the total number of county historical societies in Minnesota to thirty-nine. Earlier in the year Murray, Washington, Wabasha, and Lyon counties joined the ranks of Minnesota counties whose historically-minded citizens have organized local societies affiliated with the state historical society. Thus seven county historical societies were organized [illegible] during the [illegible] 1934.

Former Local Woman Passes Saturday in Angus; Funeral Here

Funeral services were held at the Larson Funeral Home Tuesday afternoon of last week for Mrs. Otto Johnson of Minneapolis, formerly Miss Amy McMahon of this city. Rev. E. A. Cooke officiated and interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Johnson, aged, 35, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam McMahon of Angus, former local residents. Her marriage to Otto Johnson took place in this city Sept. 19, 1915, since which time she has made her home for the most part in Minneapolis. Four weeks ago she arrived for a visit with her parents in Angus, and it was there that she passed away November 3. Left to mourn her departure are her husband and four children, Avis, Lloyd, Audrey and Doris; her parents; four sisters, Mrs. S. S. Nelson of this city, Mrs. B. H. Bieker of Des Plaines, Ill., Mrs. Roy Halseth of Farwell and Ina of Angus; and two brothers, Lionel of Warren and Ira of Angus.

Hazel Resident Signs up for Butter Short Course

Among the successful candidates, chosen by the Minnesota College of Agriculture to attend the six weeks' creamery course at University Farm is Arthur Anderson of Hazel. Because of a reduced budget, the College of Agriculture has been compelled to restrict the attendance this year to only highly qualified creamery men. The course begins January 8, 1935, and will close February 19.

The Six Weeks' Creamery course has been an annual event for the past 41 years, enabling over 4,000 men to receive special training in that field. Applications for the course were received from four outside states as well as from practically every county in Minnesota.

Persons interested in learning more of the short course in creamery production may obtain complete information by writing Prof. W. B. Combs, Dairy Division, University Farm, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Fewer Grasshoppers Expected Next Season

Grasshoppers received a big setback in Minnesota this year. A report just issued by A. G. Ruggles, state entomologist, University Farm estimates that only about two-fifths as much poison bait will be needed to control hoppers in 1935 as was used during 1934. Grasshopper egg counts made by the state entomologist and the U. S. Bureau of Entomology and plant quarantine in the 46 counties where grasshoppers were troublesome this year, indicate that grasshopper bait will be needed for 728,412 acres. This will cost approximately $80,650 as compared with $150,000 spent in 1931 and $300,000 on the big grasshopper fight in 1932, when 5 million acres were covered. These figures indicate the rapid rate at which the infestation of grasshoppers has been reduced during the three years of Minnesota's now nationally famous control plan.

Five Republicans Named to Congress Last Week

As a result of the election Tuesday of last week the Minnesota delegation in congress will include five Republicans, one Democrat and three members of the Farmer-Labor party. The Farmer Laborites lost two of their present congressional seats, while the Democrats retained their one.

SCHOOL HEADS OF DISTRICT TO MEET IN WARREN FRIDAY

Meeting Follows One Held Recently in Thief River Falls

School men, representing all high schools of District 31 of the Minnesota High School league, will gather in Warren Friday night at a dinner at Hotel Warren for the purpose of organizing a district school men's club, according to an announcement by Elmer M. Weltzin, temporary chairman of the new group.

A preliminary meeting of the group was held in Thief River Falls recently when the 1934-1935 district basketball schedules were drawn. At this meeting the men representing the various districts made preliminary plans to form a permanent organization to meet during the year for professional and social purposes, said Mr. Weltzin.

Dr. C. P. Archer, head of the department of education of the Moorhead State Teachers college, will be present at the meeting and will give the principal talk to the schoolmen. The organization will also elect officers at the Friday night meeting.

Associated with Mr. Weltzin on the commitee arranging the organization meeting are Supt. Arnold Glour of Crookston and Supt. W. E. Hanson of Alvarado. About 30 school men of the district are expected to be present.

Schools represented in the district include Alvarado, Climax, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Fisher, Goodridge, Oslo, Plummer, Red Lake Fals, St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Warren.

Teachers College Will Open Winter Term Dec. 3

December 3 will mark the opening of the winter term at the Moorhead State Teachers college at Moorhead. A sizeable increase in the enrollment is forecast, with both new and former students expected. New students, both freshmen and upperclassmen will begin registering Monday, December 3, while those already in attendance are enrolling at the present time. Regular classwork is scheduled to begin Tuesday, December 4.

Ohioans in White House

If Presidents Garfield and McKinley had been permitted to live out the terms of their office, Ohio would have had a period of 36 years, beginning with 1869, within which only one man not an Ohioan by birth occupied the White House.

Highway Department Buys Snow Fence for New Trunk Highways

In preparation for winter operations on roads recently added to the trunk system, the state highway department has purchased 1,420,000 feet of snow fence and 150,000 steel posts, says a department bulletin. This will replace county-owned snow fence which was used last winter on the new roads, and will permit the counties to employ their fence on their own roads.

The cost of the new fencing and posts was approximately $130,000. The highway department this winter will have nearly 1,000 miles of snow fence on the 11,200 miles of state roads. Most of this has already been erected.

In plowing snow off the highways, the department will follow the plan of giving first service to the most heavily traveled trunks, and working on the less important roads after the others have been opened.

MAN ONCE EMPLOYED BY LOCAL FIRM IS KILLED

INVESTMENTS IN SAVING AND LOAN ASSN. PROTECTED

Federal Corporation Insures Shareholders, Secretary Dahlen Says

Savings invested in shares of the First Federal Savings and Loan association of Thief River Falls are now insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an agency of the United States government, Stanton R. Dahlen, secretary of the association recently announcer. Each investor in shares in that institution is now fully protected against loss up to $5,000, Mr. Dahlen explained.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, created by Congress last June, affords protection for investors in thrift and home-financing institutions under a different method than that followed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, organized in 1933, in insuring depositors in commercial banks. The former operates in the long-term savings and home financing field to insure the safety of the investor's capital, where as the latter insures bank deposits.

"The safety feature now made available by Federal insurance is open to all savings and loan, building and loan and homestead associations, and cooperative banks which apply for insurance, provided that they are approved as to solvency and operating methods by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board," said Mr. Dahlen.

"Safety for long-term savings presents a different problem than safety of checking and time deposits, where funds must be available for payment on short notice. A special Federal agency, the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, was therefore established to handle this type of insurance. It has a capital of $100,000,000, subscribed by the government. In addition, the Corporation is building up a substantial reserve fund from annual premiums paid in by all insured institutions. Moreover, the privilege of insurance through the Corporation is extended only to well-managed, financially sound institutions which meet the strict eligibility requirements of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation."

The First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Thief River Falls, was organized under a 1933 act of Congress, by which the formation of private, locally managed thrift and home-financing institutions under Federal charter and regulation were made possible either as new associations or as conversions of existing state-chartered institutions.

"The purpose of Congress in providing for Federally chartered institutions was to make credit available at low cost for home construction, refinancing and modernization in parts of the country where such funds were inadequate," said Mr. Dahlen. "At the same time, institutions so organized and managed encourage the practice of thrift by people of large as well as small means."

"To aid in the organization of these associations, Congress authorized United States Treasury subscriptions in their shares," so that the capitalization now represents Federal funds as well as the investment of private savings. To date almost 600 Federal associations have been established thruout the country.

"A substantial increase in the amount of home-financing resources in this locality will satisfy the growing demand for home loans for all purposes, strengthen the real estate price structure, lessen foreclosures and add to employment in the building trades and the large number of industries dependent upon construction activity."

Mr. Dahlen pointed out that, in addition to the advantage of safety, shares in the First Federal Savings and Loan Association can be expected to yield a reasonable dividend return, and are exempt from normal Federal income tax, are non-assessable and have no contingent liability.

TAXPAYERS JOIN FORCES TO PUSH TAX REFORM PLAN

Eleven Groups Unite to Promote Tax Equalization Program

Seeking to unite all the tax reform forces in Minnesota upon a sound and equitable tax program for the coming session of the legislature, eleven associations of taxpayers and other groups interested in the tax question announced today the formation of the Minnesota Federation of Associations for Tax Reform.

The new federation will begin at once the formulation of a program of legislation designed to readjust and equalize the tax burden by reducing taxes on real estate and personal property and shifting part of the load to other forms of tax, so as to reach groups not now carrying their proper share of the cost of government.

The groups joining forces in the movement are:

Minnesota Association for Tax Justice, Citizens' Tax Relief Association of St. Paul, Taxpayers' League of St. Louis County, Taxpayers' Association of Minneapolis, Minnesota League of Building Loan and Savings Association, St. Paul Real Estate Board, Duluth Board of Realtors, Minneapolis Real Estate Board, Property Owners' Association of Minneapolis, Duluth Building Owners' and Managers' Association and Apartment Operators' Association of Minneapolis.

Other organizations are to be added to the list as soon as the new federation gets under way. Any recognized association interested in furthering the purposes of the federation may enlist in the movement, it was pointed out, and sponsors of the federation hope by the time their program is completed to have united back of it virtually all the taxpayers' associations, trade and commercial groups and most of the civic organizations of the state.

Officers of the federation are: Constant Larson, Alexandria, president; R. D. Alworth, Duluth, first vice-president; Mayor E. L. Hayek, Albert Lea, second vice-president, and Louis Kelley, Minneapolis, third vice-president.

"Our present system of taxation has been broken down," Mr. Larson said. "Money is being driven out of real estate by the heavy burden of taxation now placed upon it, and homes and farms actually are being confiscated by taxation.

"Our present system, which requires general property to carry most of the tax burden, no longer is fair and equitable. Most of our citizens today are not property owners and pay little or no direct taxes. A complete readjustment is necessary so that each citizen may carry his proper share of government.

NIMRODS WASTE SLUGS ON IRON PHEASANT

Red Wing:—You've read about "iron men" who could take it, but here's one about an iron pheasant that really could take it. Two hunters from Red Wing recently went out in search of squirrels. In their wanderings, they came upon a beautiful cock pheasant. One of the nimrods raised his gun and fired. The pheasant fell. As the two dashed for their prey, the bird sprang into an upright position. Again the hunter took aim and fired. Again the pheasant dropped. Again the hunters dashed toward the prostrate bird. Just as they came abreast of the "pheasant" they were greeted with a loud and prolonged "horse laugh." A group of local practical jokesters had rigged up a piece of iron in the shape of a ring necked pheasant, and had colored it nicely. The contraption was fixed with a trap that would raise it into position every time it fell down.

TWO NEW COUNTY OFFICIALS NAMED IN MARSHALL CO.

O. C. Toftner Named Sheriff and Arnold Trost County Attorney

Marshall county will have a new sheriff, county attorney and two new members of the county board of commissioners after January 1, 1935 as a result of the general election held on November 6, the official tabulation of the county vote shows.

Oscar C. Toftner who took an early lead in the three cornered race for sheriff, outdistanced his closest competitor, Hans C. Hanson, "sticker" candidate by 969 votes. Toftner polled 2833 votes with Hanson 1864 and Evald Erickson 1569 votes.

Arnold A. Trost proved himself a banner vote getter in the race for county attorney and easily defeated W. O. Braggans, incumbent, having nearly a 2 to 1 margin. The official vote gave Trost 4,081 and Braggans, 2,418.

New commissioners for Marshall county include Arthur Sommers in the first district who defeated the veteran member of the board, A. N. Lodoen and Arthur Anderson, who defeated M. L. Iblo in the fourth district. A. S. Rokke, incumbent, was not a candidate.

All other present county officers were re-elected all by comfortable majorities with the exception of Nels M. Engen, who was pressed hard to win by Miss Martha Kleppe, Mr. Engen polling 3477 votes and Miss Kleppe 3115 votes.

F. A. Green, veteran Marshall county representative in the state legislature, was also pressed hard to win his post by E. M. Evans of Middle River, who had the backing of the county Farmer-Labor association. Green polled 3282 votes and Evans polled 2986 votes.

Market Factors Hint at Beef Scarcity and High Cattle Prices Next Year

Weighed down with burdensome supplies, present cattle markets are in anything but a healthy condition, says the Weekly Livestock Market Bulletin, issued by the Central Cooperative association at South Saint Paul, Minnesota. There are some rather significant factors in the market, however, that suggest beef scarcity and materially higher prices next year.

As a result of the drouth, millions of cattle and calves including those purchased on government account, were forced to market this summer and fall. The country has passed through one of the greatest bovine slaughtering periods in history.

On January 1st, this year, according to government statistics, the cattle population reached the low point of the production cycle, and now all indications point to a cattle population on January 1, 1935, in line with that of 1928.

This portends sharply reduced supplies of beef for 1935, and with smaller numbers of other meat animals available, prices undoubtedly will go materially higher. Market supplies of hogs, according to government figures, will be smallest in 20 years for the 1934 to 1935 hog marketing year. Pork prices undoubtedly will rise, and high pork always gives strength to beef markets. Reduced supplies of sheep and lambs, and a probable upward trend in prices of bovine stock, also will lend support to beef and pork markets.

Economic conditions now are decidedly different than they were six years ago, and although 1935 supplies may be no larger than in 1928, prices will be regulated to a large extent by the ability of the consuming public to buy. Approximately 17 million people are said to be on the charity rolls at present. They are unable to buy, yet they are eating at least one meal per day.

Decrease in Upland Game Bird Kill is Predicted

High marks of the past few seasons relative to the annual kill of upland game birds will be materially decreased according to Game and Fish officials of the state. Hunters are urged to send in reports of game taken as early as possible so that an intelligent estimate of the game taken this fall may be secured, Erling Swenson, director, requested.

There were actually reported for the 1933 upland game bird season 315,726 ringnecked pheasants taken, 14,761 ruffed grouse or native partridge, 7,504 pinnated grouse or prairie chickens, 2,957 bobwhite quail and 2,021 sharptailed or whitebreasted grouse, for a total of 342,371 upland game birds.

There were 186,680 small game hunting licenses sold last year of which 26.4 per cent, or 49,285, reported the game take to the division.

COUNTY HISTORICAL ORGANIZATION GROWS

The past few months have witnessed the organization of local historical societies in Anoka, Fillmore, and Koochiching counties, bringing the total number of county historical societies in Minnesota to thirty-nine. Earlier in the year Murray, Washington, Wabasha, and Lyon counties joined the ranks of Minnesota counties whose historically-minded citizens have organized local societies affiliated with the state historical society. Thus seven county historical societies were organized in Minnesota during the first ten months of 1934.

Former Local Woman Passes Saturday in Angus; Funeral Here

Funeral services were held at the Larson Funeral Home Tuesday afternoon of last week for Mrs. Otto Johnson of Minneapolis, formerly Miss Amy McMahon of this city. Rev. E. A. Cooke officiated and interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Johnson, aged, 35, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam McMahon of Angus, former local residents. Her marriage to Otto Johnson took place in this city Sept. 19, 1916, since which time she has made her home for the most part in Minneapolis. Four weeks ago she arrived for a visit with her parents in Angus, and it was there that she passed away November 3. Left to mourn her departure are her husband and four children, Avis, Lloyd, Audrey and Doris; her parents; four sisters, Mrs. S. S. Nelson of this city, Mrs. B. H. Dickey of Des Plaines, Ill., Mrs. Roy Halseth of Farwell and Ina of Angus; and two brothers, Lionel of Warren and Ira of Angus.

Hazel Resident Signs up for Butter Short Course

Among the successful candidates, chosen by the Minnesota College of Agriculture to attend the six weeks' creamery course at University Farm is Arthur Anderson of Hazel. Because of a reduced budget, the College of Agriculture has been compelled to restrict the attendance this year to only highly qualified creamery men. The course begins January 8, 1935, and will close February 19.

The Six Weeks' Creamery course has been an annual event for the past 41 years, enabling over 4,000 men to receive special training in that field. Applications for the course were received from four outside states as well as from practically every county in Minnesota.

Persons interested in learning more of the short course in creamery production may obtain complete information by writing Prof. W. B. Combs, Dairy Division, University Farm, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Fewer Grasshoppers Expected Next Season

Grasshoppers received a big setback in Minnesota this year. A report just issued by A. G. Ruggles, state entomologist, University Farm estimates that only about two-fifths as much poison bait will be needed to control hoppers in 1935 as was used during 1934. Grasshopper egg counts made by the state entomologist and the U. S. Bureau of Entomology and plant quarantine in the 46 counties where grasshoppers were troublesome this year, indicate that grasshopper bait will be needed for 728,412 acres. This will cost approximately $80,650 as compared with $150,000 spent in 1934 and $300,000 on the big grasshopper fight in 1932, when 5 million acres were covered. These figures indicate the rapid rate at which the infestation of grasshoppers has been reduced during the three years of Minnesota's now nationally famous control plan.

Five Republicans Named to Congress Last Week

The Farmer Laborites lost two of their present congressional seats, while the Democrats retained their one.

SCHOOL HEADS OF DISTRICT TO MEET IN WARREN FRIDAY

Meeting Follows One Held Recently in Thief River Falls

School men, representing all high schools of District 31 of the Minnesota High School league, will gather in Warren Friday night at a dinner at Hotel Warren for the purpose of organizing a district school men's club, according to an announcement by Elmer M. Weltzin, temporary chairman of the new group.

A preliminary meeting of the group was held in Thief River Falls recently when the 1934-1935 district basketball schedules were drawn. At this meeting the men representing the various districts made preliminary plans to form a permanent organization to meet during the year for professional and social purposes, said Mr. Weltzin.

Dr. C. P. Archer, head of the department of education of the Moorhead State Teachers college, will be present at the meeting and will give the principal talk to the schoolmen. The organization will also elect officers at the Friday night meeting.

Associated with Mr. Weltzin on the commitee arranging the organization meeting are Supt. Arnold Gloor of Crookston and Supt. W. E. Hanson of Alvarado. About 20 school men of the district are expected to be present.

Schools represented in the district include Alvarado, Climax, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Fisher, Goodridge, Oslo, Plummer, Red Lake Fals, St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Warren.

Teachers College Will Open Winter Term Dec. 3

December 3 will mark the opening of the winter term at the Moorhead State Teachers college at Moorhead. A sizeable increase in the enrollment is forecast, with both new and former students expected. New students, both freshmen and upperclassmen will begin registering Monday, December 3, while those already in attendance are enrolling at the present time. Regular classwork is scheduled to begin Tuesday, December 4.

Ohioans in White House

If Presidents Garfield and McKinley had been permitted to live out the terms of their office, Ohio would have had a period of 36 years, beginning with 1869, within which only one man not an Ohioan by birth occupied the White House.

Highway Department Buys Snow Fence for New Trunk Highways

In preparation for winter operations on roads recently added to the trunk system, the state highway department has purchased 1,420,000 feet of snow fence and 150,000 steel posts, says a department bulletin. This will replace county-owned snow fence which was used last winter on the new roads, and will permit the counties to employ their fence on their own roads.

The cost of the new fencing and posts was approximately $130,000. The highway department this winter will have nearly 1,000 miles of snow fence on the 11,300 miles of state roads. Most of this has already been erected.

In plowing snow off the highways, the department will follow the plan of giving first service to the most heavily traveled trunks, and working on the less important roads after the others have been opened.

MAN ONCE EMPLOYED BY LOCAL FIRM IS KILLED

Thilmen Bly, 30 years old, a mill worker at International Falls, was accidentally killed by a rifle shot while hunting near that city Monday. At one time Bly had been employed on highway work at Littlefork by Adolphson & Huset, local road contractors.

Concordia Band to Make Norway Tour Next Summer

The Concordia Concert Band will tour Norway next summer, according to President J. N. Brown at the Moorhead institution. Plans are in formation in the hands of a special committee headed by Prof. J. A. Holvik, director of the band. The tour will be made under the auspices of Normandsforbundet, an international league of Norsemen, from whom the invitation came through Arne Kildahl, Oslo, Norway, secretary general of the Forbund.

INVESTMENTS IN SAVING AND LOAN ASSN. PROTECTED

Federal Corporation Insures Shareholders, Secretary Dahlen Says

Savings invested in shares of the First Federal Savings and Loan association of Thief River Falls are now insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an agency of the United States government, Stanton R. Dahlen, secretary of the association recently announcer. Each investor in shares in that institution is now fully protected against loss up to $5,000, Mr. Dahlen explained.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, created by Congress last June, affords protection for investors in thrift and home-financing institutions under a different method than that followed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, organized in 1933, in insuring depositors in commercial banks. The former operates in the long-term savings and home financing field to insure the safety of the investor's capital, where as the latter insures bank deposits.

"The safety feature now made available by Federal insurance is open to all savings and loan, building and loan and homestead associations, and cooperative banks which apply for insurance, provided that they are approved as to solvency and operating methods by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board," said Mr. Dahlen.

"Safety for long-term savings presents a different problem than safety of checking and time deposits, where funds must be available for payment on short notice. A special Federal agency, the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, was therefore established to handle this type of insurance. It has a capital of $100,000,000, subscribed by the government. In addition, the Corporation is building up a substantial reserve fund from annual premiums paid in by all insured institutions. Moreover, the privilege of insurance through the Corporation is extended only to well-managed, financially sound institutions which meet the strict eligibility requirements of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation."

The First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Thief River Falls, was organized under a 1933 act of Congress, by which the formation of private, locally managed thrift and home-financing institutions under Federal charter and regulation were made possible either as new associations or as conversions of existing state-chartered institutions.

"The purpose of Congress in providing for Federally chartered institutions was to make credit available at low cost for home construction, refinancing and modernization in parts of the country where such funds were inadequate," said Mr. Dahlen. "At the same time, institutions so organized and managed encourage the practice of thrift by people of large as well as small means."

"To aid in the organization of these associations, Congress authorized United States Treasury subscriptions in their shares, so that the capitalization now represents Federal funds as well as the investment of private savings. To date almost 600 Federal associations have been established thruout the country.

"A substantial increase in the amount of home-financing resources in this locality will satisfy the growing demand for home loans for all purposes, strengthen the real estate price structure, lessen foreclosures and add to employment in the building trades and the large number of industries dependent upon construction activity."

Mr. Dahlen pointed out that, in addition to the advantage of safety, shares in the First Federal Savings and Loan Association can be expected to yield a reasonable dividend return, and are exempt from normal Federal income tax, are non-assessable and have no contingent liability.

Public Health Group to Plan Yule Seal Campaign

A first hand story of the battle being waged with microscope and test tube to solve the riddle of tuberculosis will be brought to Minnesota by Dr. Esmond R. Long of Philadelphia, who will be guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Minnesota Public Health Association to be held Friday, November 23, in the Twin Cities. The meeting, which will be preliminary to the opening of the 1934 Christmas Seal sale, will be an all day session. There will be a Christmas Seal Institute at noon and at annual dinner at 6:30 P. M. at the Nicollet hotel in Minneapolis. Dr. Charles H. Mayo of Rochester, president of the Minnesota Public Health Association, will serve as toastmaster at the dinner.

TAXPAYERS JOIN FORCES TO PUSH TAX-REFORM PLAN

Eleven Groups Unite to Promote Tax Equalization Program

Seeking to unite all the tax reform forces in Minnesota upon a sound and equitable tax program for the coming session of the legislature, eleven associations of taxpayers and other groups interested in the tax question announced today the formation of the Minnesota Federation of Associations for Tax Reform.

The new federation will begin at once the formulation of a program of legislation designed to readjust and equalize the tax burden by reducing taxes on real estate and personal property and shifting part of the load to other forms of tax, so as to reach groups not now carrying their proper share of the cost of government.

The groups joining forces in the movement are:

Minnesota Association for Tax Justice, Citizens' Tax Relief Association of St. Paul, Taxpayers' League of St. Louis County, Taxpayers' Association of Minneapolis, Minnesota League of Building Loan and Savings Association, St. Paul Real Estate Board, Duluth Board of Realtors, Minneapolis Real Estate Board, Property Owners' Association of Minneapolis, Duluth Building Owners' and Managers' Association and Apartment Operators' Association of Minneapolis.

Other organizations are to be added to the list as soon as the new federation gets under way. Any recognized association interested in furthering the purposes of the federation may enlist in the movement, it was pointed out, and sponsors of the federation hope by the time their program is completed to have united back of it virtually all the taxpayers' associations, trade and commercial groups and most of the civic organizations of the state.

Officers of the federation are: Constant Larson, Alexandria, president; R. D. Alworth, Duluth, first vice-president; Mayor E. L. Hayek, Albert Lea, second vice-president, and Louis Kelley, Minneapolis, third vice-president.

"Our present system of taxation has been broken down," Mr. Larson said. "Money is being driven out of real estate by the heavy burden of taxation now placed upon it, and homes and farms actually are being confiscated by taxation.

"Our present system, which requires general property to carry most of the tax burden, no longer is fair and equitable. Most of our citizens today are not property owners and pay little or no direct taxes. A complete readjustment is necessary so that each citizen may carry his proper share of government.

NIMRODS WASTE SLUGS ON IRON PHEASANT

Red Wing:—You've read about "iron men" who could take it, but here's one about an iron pheasant that really could take it. Two hunters from Red Wing recently went out in search of squirrels. In their wanderings, they came upon a beautiful rock pheasant. One of the nimrods raised his gun and fired. The pheasant fell. As the two dashed for their prey, the bird sprang into an upright position. Again the hunter took aim and fired. Again the pheasant dropped. Again the hunters dashed toward the prostrate bird. Just as they came abreast of the "pheasant" they were greeted with a loud and prolonged "horse laugh." A group of local practical jokesters had rigged up a piece of iron in the shape of a ring-necked pheasant, and had colored it nicely. The contraption was fixed with a trap that would raise it into position every time it fell down.

THANK YOU!

Through the medium of the Times I desire to express my sincere thanks to my friends for the splendid support given me in the recent election.

You have thus engaged me to serve you as Register of Deeds for another term. I accept this trust and responsibility, and shall promise to run the office as economical as possible and give the best service of which I am capable.

SENIORS MAKE PLANS FOR YEAR

Rings Soon to be Selected; Class Dues Set at $1.00

Several weeks ago when the senior class held its first meeting, the four officers of president, vice president, secretary and treasurer were elected.

Last week the four class officers assembled and discussed the past, present, and future program of the seniors. You will remember, at our home football games, how we satisfied your hungry longings by carrying a heaping dish pan of hot-dogs under our arm and yelling with all the wind we possessed, "Hot-dogs". This sale business proved to be more profitable each time and just as we had established a good trade, bingo went the football season and we were compelled to raise the question, "How will we make money now?"

As soon as possible, the seniors plan to start work on two one-act plays to be given in the assembly and coached by Miss Edberg. The plays are not yet chosen, but it is probable that they will both be humorous.

The problems of class dues and rings was also discussed at this meeting. The officers and also our advisors, Mr. Claffy and Mr. Carlson, agreed upon fifty cent dues each semester, or one dollar a year. However, the student body has not voted on this. A ring committee was appointed to choose class rings from the selection displayed by the local jewelers. It is the desire of every senior that a decision may soon be reached and the ring selected.

The principal reasons for increasing our financial funds is to publish a more complete Prowler and also sponsor the Junior-Senior Masquerade which will be given some time during the month of December.

We hope we may have the support of all the students in paying their dues and that everyone will remember their nickels for Eskimo pies at the basket ball games and will also attend our plays.

HERE AND THERE

The girls in Miss Fletcher's cooking classes have begun the study of the luncheon unit. They have just finished the breakfast unit.

The girls in the sewing classes are putting together their woolen garments for their first fitting.

Palmer Aasby, a graduate of the 1934 class of Lincoln High, left last Monday for the North Dakota State School of Science at Wahpeton. He will study mechanics and aviation.

The Seniors are soon to receive their rings. A ring committee composed of Lucille Reidy, Corlan Dokken, Kathleen Mondstuten, Adele Holmstrom, Kendall Gustafson, Melvin Offerdahl, and Walter Kinghorn visited the local jewelers and selected several rings. The class will make the final selection in the very near future.

Campaign for Ticket Sales For Operetta Now Organized

J. Arthur Johnson Joins L. H. Faculty

Last Monday a new member was added to the faculty of Lincoln High, succeeding Price E. Larson, instructor in the industrial training and general business departments.

J. Arthur Johnson, the new faculty member, resides in Marshall, Minnesota. He is a graduate of the Stout Institute where he majored in industrial training. He studied Social Science as a minor. Mr. Johnson has had five years of experience. He taught one year in Detroit, Michigan and four years in Winston Salem, North Carolina.

ETIQUETTE CORNER

Sometimes I wonder, "Do we all know the meaning of the word etiquette?" If not, here is a little tip for those who are doubtful. Etiquette doesn't always stress so very much politeness and manners. Although they are essential, there is such a thing of overdoing. The most important thing is the consideration of others. It means to do things that will bring comfort and happiness to others. We are concerned with behavior at the table, at the movies, and at a dance. Common sense is the only tool necessary to carry out the rules of etiquette and violation of the laws and rules of etiquette may make the people around us quite miserable.

Q. Name in full, please.

A. J. Arthur Johnson

Q. Where is your home town?

A. Marshall, Minnesota

Q. Where did you receive your higher education?

A. Stout Institute.

Q. Where have you taught before?

A. Detroit, Michigan and Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

Q. What did you teach there?

A. Mechanical drawing and woodwork.

Q. Do you have higher aspirations than teaching?

A. I hope to be a contractor.

Q. What is your hobby?

A. Golf, tennis and hunting.

Q. Will you give some explanation about the school in which you taught?

A. There were about 1,500 students in the school. Our faculty consisted of about 49 or 50 members. Winston Salem has a population of about 98,000. It pays the largest internal revenue to Uncle Sam of any city of the South, the biggest proportion of which comes from the tobacco.

Q. Could you tell me an interesting anecdote?

A. This didn't happen to me, but it happened to a teacher with whom I was very familiar. This teacher had a class composed largely of foreign children and as was to be expected, the children received a bath about once in a blue moon. Therefore, one hot stifling day the teacher writes a note home to one of the parents. In her note she writes, "Please give Johnny a bath more often." The mother writes back: "Johnny is not a rose, teach him, not smell him."

A tremendous, stupendous, gigantic and colossal campaign is being organized for the purpose of having a larger audience present for the operetta at the auditorium next Friday. The following have been selected to sell tickets down town and at the homes: Lucille VeVea, Amie Novak, Corlan Dokken, Adelle Holmstrom, Dorothy Traver, and Dorothy Rau. Chairmen of the several classes for selling tickets are: Freshmen—Glen Arhart, Sophomore-Marjorie Matheson, Junior-Victor Jung and Senior—Helen Wilson. Handbills will be distributed by Herbert Schroeder, Harold Hollmen, Martin Gausen, and Arthur Anden. Posters for the business places have been made by Barbara Reep, Myrtle Hedlund, Louise LaBree, Joan Neset, Norma Yatesund, Vivian Whiting, Brunelle Erickson and Marjorie Ward. Tickets will be sold at the door by Harriet Jung. Ushers are: Head usher—Kendall Gustafson, Margaret Gustafson, Margaret Parbst, Corain Dokken, Arthur Douville, Dudley Fabrick and Lois Morrell. Kenneth Brown and Lucille Reidy will collect tickets.

Tickets will go on sale at 4 p. m. tomorrow afternoon. Get your tickets early as we expect an early sell-out. This operetta is the type that is easily worth four times the admission price charged. A new low in ticket prices has been reached—15c for students and 25c for adults. Come one, Come all, early for the best seats.

JOSIES NOTES

I yam what I yam and that's all I yam. That's why I'm riting this. I got a tip that Harold H. is going to have a nervous breakdown from studying too much. Well here's what I think. He evidently has been thinking about that far-away girl friend and he does have that lonely look in his eyes. I believe his breakdown could be caused from thinking up titles for poems written by Edith Landsrud, consequently this little ditty: (Ain't love too, too divine, Harold?)

LOVE AND YOU

Stars and moonlight brought me you,
An angels image, a dream come true.
At dawn or nightfall, I shall be
Dreaming of you, "ma cherie!"

Your tenderness, your dear, sweet smile,
Your loving face makes life worth while
Partings make me sad and drear,
Life is dull without you, dear.

Let me hold you in my arms,
To feel again an angel's charms;
Darling let me name the day
When two as one we'll meet dismay.

(From her poetry, we can easily see that Edith is another "Edgar Allan Poe".)

IT has been rumored that Bobbie O's extra-curricular activities (Lovey C.) are getting his studies down.

(Mr. Claffy says we should always take part in as many activities as we can. Well, Bobbie that's no sign you should overdo it.)

HAVE you heard the new "Underwear Song"? "I Underwear my Baby is Tonite." (Cute, eh?)

BRUCE P. really is a scholar. He has been seen trotting into the library asking for books on education.

ARE you wondering where to send your brother, uncle, cousin, or sister next year after he has graduated? If you are, we suggest you choose one of the State Endowed Institutions advertised only in this column. They are exclusive institutions and are as follows:

JOLIET—Situated only a short ride from the many diversions in Chicago . . . . . congenial roommates . . . . . Physical development is emphasized (road work and hammer throwing) Quaint dungeons.

SING-SING ON THE HUDSON Boys are secure from all bad influences. Fifteen years without a user complaining of our electric seats. Degrees awarded (First, Second, and Manslaughter.)

ATLANTA—Let him spend this winter in the New South . . . Absolutely safe (military escort at all times). Restrictions (only alumni of Federal Court accepted.)

LEAVENWORTH—We develop the emotions (tear bombs, laughing gas.) Latest equipment (siren, machine guns, tanks, bloodhounds). Just one big happy family (our entertainments are riots.)

HAVE you heard? Corky H. calls himself the "walking skeleton." (The week ends, especially Plummer, are getting him down.)

Ken G. is doing very nicely (Peg. P. I mean). Arnold isn't doing so bad herself. (Meaning Mr. Nesse's little boy, James.)

"RED" Carlson Don't even have to look around any more when somebody comes in late cause he knows for sure it will be our late getter upper boy, Bob McFarland.

DULUTH Avenue is travelled again and again by our playboy, George Battleson. He wends his [illegible] way toward the [illegible] Mansion with high hopes in his heart. What does he go to see? That is the mystery. (It might be Jeanne, you never can sometimes tell.)

ARNESEN SPEAKS TO LARGE CROWD

Shows Moving Pictures to Illustrate Lecture

A large, appreciative audience attended the presentation at the city auditorium last Tuesday. The program consisted of motion pictures of different countries. Before beginning the pictures, the traveler, Commodore J. Arnesen, said that he had visited thirty-five countries, whereupon he proceeded to name them without pausing for breath. His explanations were addressed mainly to the grade school pupils, but were also meant for the high school students, who, he said, "thought they knew everything." While in high school, he thought he knew more than the teachers. He later found it to be different.

The trip started from Los Angeles, California, in a steamship which cost two million dollars. After four days the party landed at Honolulu, in the beautiful South Seas. Hawaii has only twelve letters in the alphabet, while China has almost a thousand. Large plantations in Hawaii were shown.

A very strange picture taken in Hawaii was of a peculiar kind of flower which changes color three times a day; yellow in the morning, purple at noon, and brown in the evening. A trip to Hawaii would not be complete without seeing the poisonous lava which comes from the ground and is used to fertilize the pineapples.

The next country shown was Japan. It seems that the Japanese do everything just opposite from the way we do it. At funerals they dress in white, shoot off firecrackers, and have jazz bands. Even their rivers flow north, while ours flow south. The Japanese are very religious. A workman prays before he begins his work and while he is working. Wages are very low in Japan, the average workman getting about eight cents a day.

To take a trip along the streets of Shanghai, it is first necessary for one to step into a boat, for the streets are waterways.

The Riviera, on the Mediterranean Sea, holds a rose carnival every year. This rose carnival may be compared to the one held at Pasadena, California, every New Year's Day, or to the New Orleans carnival. While this carnival is being held, the people can hear the bells chime out from the churches. These bells are rung by having men swing on the ropes attached to the bells.

Norway, the next country to be seen, was entered by way of North Cape, the northernmost point in the world, except for the North Pole.

TRUE TRASH

HAVE you heard that Norma A. has a new B. F. who hails from R. L. F.? (For further information, the initials are R. L.)

ROBERT B. has discovered that teachers are human after all. Miss Wise, noticing Bob talking to a girl, said that if he wanted to speak, he could be dismissed. The reason she said she was young once, too.

JUST exactly what were you endeavoring to imitate in the assembly last Tuesday, Walt K? It seemed to be a little too much noise.

SOMEBODY asked us the other day if we had noticed Art D's will power? We haven't but it seems that Yvonne A. has.

ANNETTE S. must be considering being a banker. (Or, at least, a banker's wife.) In English the other day she began talking about stocks. Then, in History she even got so very excited as to talk about certificates.

IF you see a boy waiting in front of the H. S. door, it's George B. He's waiting for someone to come along and open the door for him.

THE Modern History classes were very disappointed last week when a test had to be called off for two days. (Or, could it possibly be just the opposite?)

BORN: One bright idea to Morris H. but the little fellow died without gaining consciousness.

JAMES C. is a professional at imitating "[illegible]" of the motion picture "Dames". (You should have seen him in library lessons.)

WHY do the [illegible] in the assembly insist on throwing pencils, papers, etc. around? (Here's hoping Mr. Claffy sees this.)

NEWS from the Chorus Front: I pity those three old maids who had to bring straw hats to school. (And, did you see the keen one Lois N. has?)

MISS SPRINGEN requested all members of the chorus to bring newspapers to class. When asked what they were for, she answered, "Ask no questions, just bring them." (How's that for a snappy comeback?)

HERE'S a swell story. Francis E. and Audrey A. were all scheduled to go to the Avalon on Tues. night. Alas, and a lack, Francis had play practice that night. On Wed., it was debate. Hence, they didn't go and I can guarantee that Francis wishes he hadn't gone out for so much extra-curricular work.

AND, wasn't a certain Nelson boy flattered when a certain girl came to talk to him? (For convenience' sake, the boy was Alfred. The girl? Oh, he's already been mentioned once in this column.)

HASN'T A[illegible] W. got a spiffy [illegible]?

EDITORIAL

Another football season has been written into history. The Prowlers, although they were not a sensational team, did win top honors in their district. They finished a hard schedule with two defeats, three victories and one tie. They deserve a big hand from their fellow students.

With the football season gone Coach Dooley and the aspirants for berths on the 1934-35 Prowler quintet find themselves in the public eye. The question is, will the Prowlers be satisfied with a district, regional or state championship? We hope that they aren't easily satisfied.

We take pleasure in informing you (if you don't already know) that the seniors will select their class ring in the very near future. We would like to believe that we were influential in bringing this about. However, we are told that it was decided before our recent salty (?) editorial was ever written. Anyway we're satisfied.

One week from tomorrow night the city auditorium will be the scene of a gigantic musical production entitled "In Old St. Louis". The cast will include the cream of Lincoln High School's musical crop. The leading lady is known as one of the best sopranos in the high schools of northwestern Minnesota. The leading man's rise to fame as a singer has been no less than astounding. Supported by an excellent cast, they should bring a "full-house" November twenty-third. Watch this column next week for some interesting facts on this operetta.

The board of education has gloriously come to the rescue of those persons who complained of "no place to put my coat, no place to put my books." Over one hundred new lockers have been received and assembled to satisfy the demand for "more lockers."

HICKORY

Communion services were conducted at the Nazareth church on Sunday forenoon. The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson of Wanke was baptized and given the name Herbert Allen. The sponsors were: Miss Selma Johnson of Rochester, Miss Evelyn Josephson, Edgar Johnson of Bantry, N. D. and Edward Josephson. After services a reception was held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Nelson who are moving from this community to a farm near Crookston. Lunch was served at noon. In the afternoon a program was conducted by Bj. Bjornaraa. Songs were sung by the audience, talk and presentation of gift by B. Bjornaraa, response by S. J. Nelson, talk by H. T. Hanson and Miss Sanna Hanson extended thanks from the Young People's Society to the Nelson family for their willingness to help. They were presented with a purse of money as a gift in appreciation of their good work as members of the congregation, Ladies aid and Young Peoples society. Those who partook in the affair were, the S. J. Nelson family, honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. John Arntson, Mr. and Mrs. Gust Strande and sons of Gully, Mr. and Mrs. Bj. Bjornaraa and daughter Solveig, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hanson and daughters Sanna and Luella, Christine and John, Rev. Sigurd Fladmark, Lauritz Christianson and children of Wanke, Mrs. E. H. Oftelie, Mrs. Erick Johnson, Amanda and Richard Jepson, Newton Arntson, Edward Ellertson and sons of Gully, Miss Selma Waale and Mrs. P. E. Bjerklie and children Gina and Henry.

Dinner guests at the Arne Josephson home on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson and little son Herbert Allen of Wanke, Miss Selma Johnson of Rochester, Ole Brekke of Twin Valley and Edgar Johnson of Bantry, N. Dak. The latter is assisting at the home of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Knute Rolandson and children Lorraine, Kenneth and Arlo, of Rolandson were callers at the Erick Johnson and Christ Thompson homes on Sunday.—Lauritz Christianson and three children of Wanke attended the services and reception at the Nazareth church Sunday. They also visited at the John Arntson home. Erick Johnson and Thorwald Bjornaraa completed their last threshing job on Wednesday.

CHRISTMAS SEAL'S 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Public Health Association Explain Seal's "Little Red"

The Lincoln High School Progress has received a communication from the Minnesota Public Health Association in the form of a letter explaining the meaning of the little red cottage on the 1934 Christmas Seal. We quote the letter:

"What is the story of the little red cottage on the 1934 Christmas Seal?"

"The answer to this question, a popular one today as the time for the opening of the annual seal campaign nears, is one that is of double interest to students. First, this little cottage represents one of the most important steps ever taken in the conservation of the life and health of young people; second, viewing it from a historical standpoint, this twenty-eight annual seal is important as the first commemorative seal ever issued.

"The cottage is 'Little Red,' the first sanatorium for the modern treatment of tuberculosis to be established in the United States. The seal commemorates the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of this tiny cottage in the Adirondack mountains in New York State by Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau.

"Trudeau, himself a sufferer from Tuberculosis, left his family and friends and went to the wilderness of those mountains he loved so well, to die, he thought. At that time just as today, the disease struck younger men and women, but then it was considered as a death sentence. Today tuberculosis is known to be preventable and curable and 'Little Red' as it is affectionately called, stands for hope and health to the many victims who have been cured.

"There at Saranac Lake in the Adirondacks, Trudeau's health improved. He found the curative powers to be sunshine, rest and outdoor life. With this vision of the present-day methods of treatment he wished to help other tuberculosis patients. The first fulfillment of this wish was the building of the cheap, little one-room cottage, 'Little Red'. Here in 1885 came the first patients, two young girls from New York.

"From this humble beginning have grown the many beautiful scientifically equipped buildings that make up the Cottage Sanatorium at Saranac Lake today. Throughout the United States there are now more than 650 similar modern institutions.

" 'Little Red' still stands among Trudeau's well loved pine clad hills and the Christmas Seal this year carries to everyone at the holiday season his message that tuberculosis is curable."

Meet the Prowler Basketeers

One of the most promising members of the 1934 Prowler quintette is Victor Jung. Vic, who likes his football and basketball equally well, is a Junior.

Name: Victor Jung
Age: 15
Weight: 158 lb.
Height: 5 ft.
Class: Junior.

Vic is famous for the following things: 1934 Football letterman and undoubtedly next year's regular center, sports editor of the Progress, and golf tournament player extraordinary. Although he always seems to be just fooling around and never studying, Vic's grades were high enough to get him on the honor roll for the first six weeks so here is one member of the team who doesn't need to worry about scholastic eligibility. He is one of the stalwart guards of this year's five. Jung has that natural leadership ability which makes him a leader in many events other than basket ball.

Here is another Prowler basketeer who is expected to show up well in this winter's schedule.

Name: Arthur Nelson
Age: 16 years
Height: 5 feet 10 inches
Weight: 160 pounds
Class: Junior.

Art doesn't confine his activities only to basket ball as he played a regular half-back position on the Prowler football team this fall. Although Art divides his time between extra-curricular activities and his work on Saturday, he is another of those students who need never worry about eligibility because of his scholastic standing.

Nelson was a guard on last year's second team and is a candidate for that position on the first string this season, but his development of more speed may land him a forward position. At the present it looks like a battle royal between Art Nelson and Vic Jung for a guard position.

Normal Training

During the past week the Normal Training students had practice teaching in reading and spelling in the 4th grade, Wednesday, while Miss Stapleton was absent, the students had charge of the teaching. Genevieve Mangnell had general charge and taught penmanship. Myrtle O'Boyle taught Education; Evangeline Douville, physical education; Margaret Davis, Environment; Luella Battleson, spelling; Mable Dimmen, arithmetic. During the M. E. A. several of the students visited the rural schools in this community.

JUST what was that big secret between Lois N. and Mona M. the other day in Shorthand?

INITIATION PARTY IS HELD FRIDAY

Freshmen Present Fine Program in Assembly

The annual Freshman-Sophomore party was held on Friday, November 9. It was given by the Freshmen as a result of a football game played some time ago. This game does away with the usual initiation and has been arranged so that the losing team gives a party to the victors.

The Freshmen had arranged a good program which was held in the high school assembly. Yvonne Anderson had charge of the program. The first number was the school song played by Ileene Hoffseth and directed by Lorraine Amundson. Then Wendell Olson played a musical number entitled, "Narcissus." After this a skit was given, taken from one of Shakespeare's plays. Margaret McKechnie gave a reading dealing with an interview between a mother and daughter.

We were directed to the Gym where with the aid of Miss Fletcher, we were divided into four universities, Minnesota, Michigan, Notre Dame and Stanford. This proved to be very entertaining with the different games, yells, contests, etc. The party ended with a good lunch.

The Sophomores all agree that the Freshmen are royal entertainers.

HUNTING SEASON FOR BIG GAME IN STATE NOV. 15-25

Shooting of Deer Allowed in Beltrami, East Marshall and Kittson

Minnesota's big game season is scheduled to get under way next Thursday, November 15, at which time hunters may start out in quest of deer and bear. The season will close November 25. Both dates are inclusive.

The counties that are open this fall to deer hunting are Cook, Lake, St. Louis, Carlton, Pine, Aitkin, Crow Wing, Cass, Itasca, Koochiching, Hubbard, Clearwater, Beltrami, Lake of the Woods and Roseau, all that portion of Kittson and Marshall counties lying east of the Soo Line railway tracks running from the northern boundary of Kittson County to the southern boundary of Marshall County, and all of that portion of Becker county lying east of the Soo Line railway tracks running from the northern to the southern boundary of that county. Itasca county is open to the taking of antlered male deer only. Does and fawns are given complete protection in this county. A person may take one deer and one bear at any time during the open season. Full protection is accorded moose, elk and caribou.

"Deer are reported as being plentiful in the areas open to big game hunting," Erling Swenson, director of the division of Game and Fish, said. "Most of the sections open to deer hunting were outside the critical drouth areas and deer as a consequence have had plenty of food and cover.

"Hunters are cautioned to abide by the game laws when hunting as the open areas will be thoroughly patrolled by state game wardens. We are transferring a large number of wardens from southern and central parts of the state into the big game sections, not only in open counties but in counties which are closed and are known to have some deer. It must be remembered that hunters must accompany deer that are being transported home. Failure to do this will mean confiscation of the deer."

Resident big game hunting licenses cost $2.25 each and nonresident licenses for the taking of deer and bear cost $50.25 each.

SCHOOL LEADERS OPPOSE PLAN FOR STATE TEXT BOOKS

Superintendents Object to Proposal of Farmer-Labor Party

Formal opposition to Governor Olson's school book plan was voiced Friday by Minnesota school superintendents.

Nearly 200 men who preside over the state's schools, meeting in connection with the Minnesota Education association in Minneapolis, voted almost unanimous disapproval of any plan to have the state publish books to be used in the public schools. The group taking this action was the council of school executives.

It reaffirmed the stand it took March 31 that it "does not favor the printing of textbooks by the state until it can be shown thru investigation that such a plan is feasible."

The council authorized its executive committee to appoint an investigation committee to report back as soon as possible.

Many of the educators sought to forestall action on the resolution, on the ground that such a stand might embroil the council in politics. Those favoring action, however, pointed out that the problem, thrust into a political campaign, is of such momentous importance, regardless of the politics attached to it, that the officials most directly concerned with its operation should take a stand.

JUSTICE ULTIMATELY TRIUMPHS, EH WHAT?

Preston.—Maybe Justice B. H. Frazer wasn't glad to see Morgan Nelson in court one morning recently! Nelson had been there before, and after being fined $50 had issued a perfectly good check which turned out to be no good before it could be cashed. The firm Nelson represented immediately changed its name, and the check bounced back on Justice Frazer. A ruling of the Attorney General held Frazer responsible for the $50, and it looked like a hard bill to collect. But Justice always triumphs, and Frazer had no doubt of the truth of the old saying when Nelson was hauled into court again on a charge of driving too fast. Frazer rubbed his spectacles to be sure it was the right man, and then served a warrant on Nelson for issuing a bum check. Nelson objected, but was thrown into jail, with a $500 bond which he could not raise. After one night, Nelson paid the $10 fine and costs, as well as the previous $50 fine.

LIGHTNING WINS BOUT WITH CHURCH STEEPLE

Granite Falls.—The old adage about lightning not striking twice in the same place is all wrong, according to members of the First Lutheran church in Granite Falls, and they point out their own church building as evidence. When this structure was erected, a good-sized steeple, topped by a weathervane, pointed its way into the sky. Then started the bout between the lightning and the steeple. Almost every year lightning would strike the iron tipped tower and crash its way to the earth, tearing off shingles and plaster on its way down. This happened again three weeks ago. But the church steeple has given up its bout with the lightning, and church members have decided to take it down.

ITASCA PAGEANTS TO BE EXPANDED FOR NEXT SEASON

Plans Made for Presentation at Other State Parks in Minnesota

The expansion of the Northwestern Minnesota Historical Association's pageant program into a state-wide program receiving financial backing from the state government is now being planned by conservation and tourist bureau officials, according to Earle A. Barker of Bemidji who returned last week from meetings at Duluth and the twin cities in the interests of the pageant program, says the Bemidji Sentinel.

If the pageant presentations are expanded as planned, Mr. Barker said, the headquarters for the pageant presentation will remain at Itasca State Park where the series is presented each year under the sponsorship of the 11 northern Minnesota communities which started the movement by forming the organization of which Mr. Barker is president.

The summer series of pageants will continue as in past years with six presentations at Itasca Park, according to the new plans, but the pageant will also be shown at Whitewater, Fort Ridgely and Jay Cooke state parks to make it a state-wide project. Efforts are now being made to include in the budget of the forestry department an appropriation of sufficient money to make it possible to make the presentation in the three other state parks next summer.

WALDAL LEADS DAY IN OFFICIAL VOTE CANVASS

Plummer Man Noses Out 16-Year Veteran in State Legislature

ERROR OF 49 VOTES IS FOUND IN CLEARWATER

Only 55 Votes Separates 3 Leading Contestants for 2 Offices

Discovery of a gain of 49 votes for Marius Waldal of Plummer in the official canvass in Clearwater county last week resulted in his nosing out W. E. Day of Bagley in the contest for state representative from the 65th legislative district, it was revealed in a tabulation of the official vote in the district made Tuesday by County Auditor Harry Fowler.

J. O. Melby of Oklee won the other seat in the house in an exceedingly close contest, only 55 votes separating the three leading contestants for the two seats. The official canvass in the three counties, Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater, gives the following totals: Melby, 5,285; Waldal, 5,257; Day, 5,250; and Jones, 4,271.

Unofficial reports following the election November 6 gave Waldal 1432 votes in Clearwater county, while in the official count he is given 1,481. He lost one vote in the canvass in Pennington county, there being no change in Red Lake county. The only change in Day's vote in the three counties was a gain of two votes in the Pennington official canvass.

Mr. Day, who had the endorsement of the Farmer-Labor association and supported the party's platform, has been a member of the lower house of the legislature continuously since 1919. No announcement has been received here as to whether or not he will call for a recount of the ballots. Mr. Waldal is a former member of the lower house.

The vote for the four candidates in each of the three counties in the district is tabulated elsewhere in this issue.

Action was immediately taken to have the case entered again for a hearing.

TURKEY RECEIPTS FOR THANKSGIVING DECLINE LOCALLY

Slightly Over Half as Many Cars Shipped This Year as in 1933

Forty-four carloads of turkeys left this city up to the past week-end consigned to the eastern Thanksgiving market. The number is approximately half of the total of 82 cars shipped during the same season in 1933, the shrinkage being ascribed to smaller flocks in the northwest this year and to the fact that, to a greater extent than in former years, immature birds are being withheld for the Christmas market which opens locally December 1.

The decline in volume is in part offset by an improved market this season, advances for the Thanksgiving pool having been four cents a pound or more above those in effect a year ago.

Approximately 195 extra workers were employed during the November 8-17 turkey rush at the three local produce houses, it was announced by the National Re-employment office this week. The majority were employed as turkey pickers and the other jobs included packers, weighers, box makers, buyers, killers, and general labor.

Employment during this year's November rush was slightly less than last year, although the December buying period from the first to the fifth of this year, will require just as many, if not more than were hired in December of 1933.

Preference, as in the past, was given to workers of Pennington county, the majority being drawn from Thief River Falls, and the immediate vicinity. The re-employment office again urges that all persons wanting this type of work get in touch with them immediately.

FAIR SOCIETY RE-ELECTS ITS PRESENT STAFF

Three Directors Renamed at Annual Meeting Held Tuesday Night

FAIR SHOWS PROFIT OF $841.46 IN 1934

Resolution Thanks Businessmen for Support Given Annual Event

The 1934 Pennington county fair had receipts of $10,445.58 and showed a profit of $841.46 which was used to defray the cost of race barns erected last summer, it was revealed in a report submitted by Secretary Robert J. Lund at the annual meeting of the Pennington County Agricultural society Tuesday evening. Thirty members were present.

Re-elected to the board of directors for three year terms were Mike McAndrews, Emil Griebstein and Carl Hillard. At a later meeting of the board all officers were re-elected, including Hans Anton, president; Emil Griebstein, first vice president; S. E. Hunt, second vice president; Robert J. Lund, secretary; and Leon J. Kaliher, treasurer.

A resolution was adopted extending thanks to business men for the loyal support they again gave the fair this year, and the officers and directors of the fair association were given a rising vote of thanks for their efficient management of the event.

Preliminary arrangements were made to repair the bleachers and paint the fair buildings in 1935, and tentative plans were made to set out trees on the grounds and to provide better water facilities. It also was decided to hold the 1935 annual meeting the third Tuesday in October instead of November as at present, to make it more convenient for members in the rural area of the county to attend.

The secretary's report revealed that while reimbursements from the state totaled $1,410, premiums paid following the close of the fair aggregated $1,530.75. Principal items of receipts included gate and grandstand, $6,061.80; concessions and privileges, $1,817.17; entry fees, $411.54; prize donations, $770; county, $300; and rental of buildings, $200.

Thanksgiving Proclamation

In a Thanksgiving day proclamation, President Roosevelt today called upon the American people to "dedicate ourselves anew to the work for the betterment of mankind." This should be done, he said, "with gratitude in our hearts for what has already been achieved."

The text of the proclamation follows:

"I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, president of the United States of America, hereby designate Thursday, the twenty-ninth of November, 1934, as a day of thanksgiving for the people of the nation.

"Thus to set aside in the autumn of each year a day on which to give thanks to almighty God for the blessings of life is a wise and reverent custom, long cherished by our people. It is fitting that we should again observe this custom.

"During the past year we have been given courage and fortitude to meet the problems which have confronted us in our national life. Our sense of social justice has deepened. We have been given vision to make new provisions for human welfare and happiness, and in a spirit of mutual happiness we have co-operated to translate vision into reality.

"More greatly have we turned our hearts and minds to things spiritual. We can truly say, 'what profiteth it a nation if it gain the whole world and lose its own soul.'

"With gratitude in our hearts for what has already been achieved, may we, with the help of God, dedicate ourselves anew to work for the betterment of mankind.

"In witness thereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done in the city of Washington this fifteenth day of November in the year of our Lord 1934 and of the independence of the United States of America the 159th."

FEW CRITICISMS MADE AFTER AUDIT OF COUNTY BOOKS

Report Urges Effort to Wipe Out Overdraft in Road and Bridge Fund

Only minor criticisms were made by E. J. Pearlove, state comptroller, in a report submitted to the county board this month following an examination of the records of the various county offices.

Citing a reduction in the overdraft in the road and bridge fund from $85,064.17 January 1, 1933, to $81,210.51 at the end of the year, the report recommended that the county board make every effort to limit road work to actual necessity in order to reduce the present deficit.

The report also called attention to a ruling from the attorney general to the effect that the entire county board cannot be appointed as a committee and collect per diem and mileage payments therefor.

It was suggested also that sums uncollected from three closed banks in the county be written off the treasurer's books as early as feasible and charged back to the funds involved.

Auxiliary Notes

At our Auxiliary meeting last Thursday, Mrs. Claude Evenson gave us a very fine report on the Fall conference which was held at the Nicollet hotel in Minneapolis Nov. 9-10. More than 500 Unit officers were in attendance at the business sessions of the Auxiliary. The delegates were given the privilege of visiting the Veterans hospital at Fort Snelling, 42 street cars being chartered to take them there. They were taken on a tour of inspection through this great institution, thus being brought into closer contact with the Veterans administration, the Veterans Hospital, and the veterans themselves, in whose service we have all pledged ourselves. Dr. Helen Hughes Hielscher presided at the tea given at the hospital. Mrs. Evenson reported that 1200 were seated at the banquet which closed the conference.

The membership of our Unit to date is 114. The Minnesota department was proud to report 11,027 members at the time of the conference. Will you help us swell that number so our Mrs. Withrow may carry your membership too to the Conference of Department presidents and secretaries held at National headquarters and which this year will be presided over by a Minnesota woman, Mrs. A. C. Carlson, National President.

We were pleased to have one of our Gold Star mothers, Mrs. Sina Larson with us at this meeting.

Plans were formulated for the Kellogg Sale which is sponsored by the Auxiliary again this year and in which our merchants are co-operating in such a splendid manner.

An entertainment feature of the evening was fortune telling, which proved so popular that we hope to repeat it.

Our next meeting is the first Thursday in December. We'll be glad to see you there.

In Memoriam

Crept a dark cloud that dimmed the sun

As of the days gone by it will always be the same.

Vast Power in Air

Electrical energy sufficient to provide 100,000,000 horse power for every person on earth is said by scientists to exist between the atmosphere and stratosphere. The world is like a dynamo, with its negative electrical field in the earth's atmosphere, and its positive field in the high thin air of the stratosphere.

THANKSGIVING

If it is the purpose of the Thanksgiving season to give thanks for material things then never before has the Thief River Falls community had so much to be thankful for as it has at this Thanksgiving season. In a year that has brought hardship and want to large sections of the country, we have been favored with a bountiful harvest. Because of the misfortunes of others, the poor crops in other parts of this country and thruout the world, we have been able to market our products under conditions that have been especially favorable to us. And it will be well for us to keep this thought in mind as we rejoice in our present good fortune, realizing that our present advantages are due largely to the disadvantages of others. We have demonstrated in the past that we have been able to survive adversity. Lest we think too much in terms of our present material well being, let us remember that in the prosperity for which we are now thankful we may find greater difficulties than those we have already surmounted.

And Thanksgiving would be a shallow thing if only material blessings were considered. For this reason we like Arthur W. Newcomb's, "A Man's Thanksgiving", which we present as a more worth while thought for the occasion.

> God of common sense, I give Thee thanks for the heavy blows of pain that drive me back from perilous ways into harmony with the laws of my being; for stinging whips of hunger and cold that urge to bitter strivings and glorious achievement; for steepness and roughness of the way and staunch virtues gained by climbing over jagged rocks of hardship and stumbling thru dark and pathless sloughs of discouragement; for the acid blight of failure that has burned out of me all thought of easy victory and toughened my sinews for fiercer battles and greater triumphs; for mistakes I have made, and the priceless lessons I have learned from them; for disillusion and disappointment that has cleared my vision and spurred my desire; for strong appetites and passions and the power they give when under pressure and control; for my imperfections that give me the keen delight of striving toward perfection.
> God of common good and human brotherhood, I give Thee thanks for siren songs of temptation that lure and entangle and the understanding of other men they reveal; for the weaknesses and failings of my neighbors and the joy of lending a helping hand; for my own shortcomings, sorrows and loneliness, that give me a deeper sympathy for others; for ingratitude and misunderstanding and the gladness of service without other reward than self-expression.

AN ENCOURAGING CHANGE

In recent public statements there has been a marked change in the attitude of administration spokesmen toward business and established business methods. For a time nearly every public utterance contained a few chapters of denunciation for the existing order and the brain trusters were vieing with each other in compounding economic medicine that was to be forced down the unwilling throat of business. It is only human to repel that which is distasteful and it is not strange that, under the circumstances, business looked with more or less suspicion upon the cures prescribed for it by doctors who were as short on practical experience as they were long on degrees. Due largely to the fact, therefore, that business has had little confidence in the recovery program that has been prescribed for it, and being afraid to exercise normally because of the fear of the punitive powers of the doctors, the patient has made little progress. The fact that business is now receiving some assurance that the government is more concerned with its recovery than with its reformation and that it will not have to worry about further guinea pig experiments in the laboratories of the theorists is the most encouraging news that has come out of the Capitol for many months.

In the nature of things there is nothing the manufacturers want to do more than to manufacture and keep their factories busy. There is nothing the bankers want to do more than to put the money that is entrusted to their care in the channels of commerce where it will bring them returns. There is nothing merchants want to do more than to keep their wares moving into the hands of consumers. Business, in all of its departments, has the desire to do more business. But as long as the rules of the business game are constantly being changed and are constantly being threatened with more changes, it is not to be wondered at that business men are hesitant about involving themselves in obligations of any kind that must depend upon the future for justification.

At various times during the past year and a half, for instance, administration spokesmen have berated the bankers for withholding credit. They have pointed out that enormous sums of money are piling up in the banks. They have blamed the bankers for not loaning this money out, stimulating business by putting this money to work. The bankers have finally come to their own defense by proving that the money in their vaults is idle, not because of their unwillingness to lend, but rather because of the unwillingness of business to borrow. Money is cheap. Interest rates are lower than they have been for many years. But until business is given reasonable assurance that it will be able to employ this money profitably it will continue to lie idle.

And that is why the changed attitude of the administration toward business is so encouraging. Lack of confidence in the group of college professors who have been entirely too vocal in their enthusiasm for the fantastic schemes of government which they have sponsored, has been a big factor in retarding recovery. As the brain trusters recede into the background of the administration picture, confidence in the stability of the government will be increased and private capital will again come out of hiding to resume its normal functions.

Praises are being sung thruout the land to Minnesota's football team and it undoubtedly is a team of which the state may well be proud. The game with Wisconsin Saturday is the last hurdle to be cleared in the race for the mythical national championship and if the Gophers come through that struggle in a creditable manner they will go down into history as one of the greatest football teams of all time. It will be difficult to pry us away from a radio Saturday afternoon from two to four.

There still seems to be some difference of opinion over the feasibility of the administration's Canada to the Gulf tree planting program. Rather than plant a one hundred mile wide stretch of trees over this long stretch one engineer suggests that the climatic conditions of the territory involved could be more easily improved by a slight shift in the earth's poles, causing it to rotate in a little different direction. Another suggestion is that the Rocky Mountains be leveled off, making it possible for the moisture laden winds from the west to scatter a little more rain in the arid regions east of the mountains. The mountain leveling project seems to be favored by most humorists because of the more man-hours involved in the speculation, although a few still maintain that building a forest from Canada to the Gulf would provide more employment.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES—

Nearly 50,000 people attended a corn husking contest recently in Fairmont, Minnesota. Why not a turkey husking contest for Thief River Falls?

Anyway, there won't be any Shoemakers in the next Minnesota delegation in Congress.

One of the chief advantages of that $200 a month pension plan, as we see it, is that there will be a lot more folks paying income taxes.

Pay your bills with a smile, read a sign, but as the Minneota Mascot points out, most creditors insist on the cash.

Maybe the new ninth district congressman can see to it that the government makes use of its post-office site in Thief River Falls.

That state auditor contest looked for awhile like a case of throwing the King to the Lyons.

In North Dakota a newspaper man has been elected governor. That seems to be poaching on the lawyers' preserves.

Nobody but the deer hunters regretted that there wasn't any snow on the ground when the season opened last Thursday.

A middle-of-the-road policy is desirable except on the highway.

It looks as tho Wisconsin Saturday will have its hands full beating the Minnesota football team out of the national title.

Cheer up—conditions must be improving. A year ago Monday the mercury registered 20 below zero.

Speaking of turkeys and the approaching Thanksgiving holiday, a Minneapolis Journal writer dares us to resurrect this one: "The paths of glory lead but to the gravy".

Public Forum

TO THE PUBLIC:

As I returned home yesterday I found on my desk a certificate from the Secretary of State verifying my election as State Senator from the 65th Legislative District. It is therefore timely now to thank the many voters for your splendid support at the ballot. Not least do I wish to thank the voters of our city for your support. As we now review the results of the last election, most of us will be reasonably satisfied. Not because we have gotten everything our own way, but because our people throughout the state did use discretion in their voting. As long as our people do that and refuse to follow any one political ticket blindly under some "Vote Straight" slogan, the results will be the best possible.

I also wish to thank, not only the voters, but especially the many active supporters who contributed money and time in my favor. That so many citizens would make such contributions without asking any favors in return, is very praiseworthy. Without your support I could never have been elected against a well organized and powerful political organization. I may not be able to please all of you, but I believe that you supported me on the basis that I will do at all times what seems right. On that basis we shall always be friends.

Contrary to what some have said, I will support our governor, Floyd B. Olson, on any part of his program which in my opinion can be classified as sane and truly progressive. Similar support would have been given to any one of the other candidates for governor if he had been elected. I have not yet decided how best to affiliate in way of Senate Organization. While the Farmer-Labor political machine has opposed me, I shall not hold that against the thousands of fair and openminded voters of that group. However, that opposition since it still continues, may make it impossible and impractical to affiliate with them in an organized way. I classify myself among the sanely progressive Farmer-Laborites. However, I have been elected because of support from people of all major parties, and my service shall be independent of political control. Whatever group I eventually shall find it best to affiliate with while in the Senate, I can assure our people that my services will not be controlled by any political party, and that any Senate affiliation will be used merely as a vehicle for the furtherance of good legislation. It is a time when all sincere legislators, regardless of political color, must co-operate in the support of constructive and progressive legislation.

Respectfully yours,
E. L. TUNGSETH.

When Guns Do Not Fire

Ordinary pistols loaded with "blanks" are used at track meets as starting signals. During intensely cold weather such guns will not fire because the oil in the action of the gun freezes and gums the firing mechanism.

News of 10 Years Ago

From the Times of Nov. 27, 1924

The city council named Mrs. O. F. Melby to complete the unexpired term of Mrs. E. O. Mogenson on the library board. Rumors came from Baudette to the effect that the E. W. Backus interests planned to construct a new railway line from that village to Goodridge. Pennington county bankers instituted their second campaign to increase the alfalfa acreage in this section.—Mr. and Mrs. Carl B. Larson motored to Baudette, accompanying Mrs. Larson's mother, Mrs. K. Beiland. Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Campbell left for Sault Ste Marie, Michigan, to spend the Thanksgiving holiday. Milton Larson left for Minneapolis this week to attend the radio show. Rev. Father A. I. Merth, recently of Stephen, conducted his first mass at St. Bernards church.

It is a four-act play, entitled "The Arizona Cowboy." They plan to give it before Christmas vacation, the approximate date being Dec. 17.

Instead of having Physical Education, Miss Brattle will lecture the girls on etiquette. That is something we need today, tomorrow—whether at school or not at school—at home and every other place you can mention. I know we will all appreciate it because even though we don't always realize our own faults we can always criticize the other person more severely if we know exactly what he should have done.

"Perfect" murders were committed in Asia not many years ago with the aid of cobras. One of a pair would be killed and dragged to the bedside of the victim. The mate would follow the trail and, coiled near the sleeper, would strike him when he awoke and disturbed it in the morning.

Legion Listenin' Post

Regular meeting of the Post next Friday evening the 23rd. Lunch will be served as usual.

This should be an interesting meeting and we would like to see a big gang there. The Commander will give a report on the fall conference at Minneapolis. Be there and find out what is going on in Legion circles in the state.

All members of the Post were shocked and saddened by the sudden passing of Past Commander Roy Erlson. His work for and in the Post cannot be replaced, and the Post extends to his survivors it's heartfelt sympathy.

It is interesting to read the papers these days. Here is the way it goes. Roosevelt against payment of the bonus. Check shows necessary majority in Congress to pay service certificates. Borah in favor of payment. To pay service certificates of unemployed veterans. Interest on loans to be discontinued. And so on and on and on.

From the above head lines it will be noted that the Adjusted Compensation Certificates are a red hot subject. You can bet that they are going to be paid or not, suit yourself which ever way you figure; but heres the question. Are you a member of the organization that has influence and a voice in regard to legislative matters pertaining to the welfare of the ex-service men? The old saying still holds good, "In union there is strength" so why not belong to the veteran's organization that has the most members? That organization is the American Legion. Join now.

Do not forget the new Legion uniform that is going to be given away to some Legionnaire that is getting members. Again we urge you to join the Legion now.

Now that winter is about here do not forget that the roads are going to be slippery, so when you are out in the car, be a careful driver.

Uphold and defend.

"Scrap of Paper"

The expression "scrap of paper" is said to have been employed as early as 1878, when on January 17 the Russian minister used it in a letter to the Rumanian foreign minister with reference to the passage of Russian troops through Rumania during the war with Turkey.

If the burning of Rome had only occurred during the present age Nero's fiddling would probably have netted him a big vaudeville, radio and movie contract instead of a place in history.

RETAILERS LIABLE FOR TAX ON HOGS KILLED ON FARMS

New Regulation Relieves the Farmers of Former Responsibility

Farmers who slaughter hogs and sell the products to retailers or other commercial handlers will no longer be held responsible for paying the processing tax, under a redefinition of the term "first domestic processing", recently announced by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

A new regulation transfers to commercial handlers all liability for paying the processing tax on hog products derived from hogs slaughtered by producers and feeders. However, this ruling does not apply to the farmer who slaughters hogs and sells direct to consumers.

The producer who slaughters his own hogs and sells or exchanges directly to consumers not more than 300 pounds of the products derived during any marketing year (November 5 to November 4, following) is not required to pay the tax. If the producer sells more than 300 pounds but not more than 1,000 pounds of pork products from his own hogs direct to consumers he is liable for the tax only on the volume sold in excess of the 300-pound exemption. If he sells more than 1,000 pounds during any marketing year he loses his 300-pound exemption and is liable for the tax on all products derived from his hogs which he has sold. The tax is $2.25 a hundredweight of live hogs. Dressed weight may be changed to live weight by the use of a set of figures prescribed in the regulations and available in the county agents' offices.

Farmers who slaughter and sell purchased hogs are not entitled to the 300-pound exemption. Any farmer who processes hogs for consumption by his own household, however, is exempt from paying the tax on such hogs.

MAN 99, WIFE 95, CAST THEIR BALLOTS

Granite Falls.—If you are wondering why the vote around Granite Falls in the recent election was the largest in history, it may be explained that the folks take their voting franchise seriously in that county. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Olds, 99 years and 95 years old respectively, were among the hundreds that cast their vote on November 6. This probably constitutes a record for the state, so far as a married couple are concerned. Mr. Olds has voted in 19 presidential elections, just a total of 76 years! Add to this note on the interest of old people in the elections: at Ronneby in eastern Benton county, two old gents, both over 70 years old, made a bet on the gubernatorial election, and one of them had to wheel the other from Ronneby to St. Paul in a wheel-barrow because Floyd Olson won the race. Who says the old folks should retire when they're sixty?

U. S. Weather Bureau Sees Mild Winter—If

Washington— The United states is due for an abnormally warm winter—if.

Weather bureau men in Washington advised using capital letters on that "if" last week as they commented on the possibilities. They acknowledged they have not yet learned of forecast weather for an entire winter, but:

If the present warm cycle which has kept average temperatures high for 25 years continues, most of the United States will have abnormally warm weather.

Health Work Financed by Sale of Yule Seals; 14,362 Children Tested

A total of 14,362 school boys and girls of Minnesota were tuberculin tested in Christmas Seal surveys during 1934, according to the annual report of the Minnesota Public Health Association made public today.

This, however, was just one of many projects carried on in the state during the past year by Christmas Seal funds, the report shows. School health surveys were conducted in 352 rural and town schools of Minnesota and 11,180 children were inspected by the Christmas Seal nurse.

Thirty-eight infants' and children's clinics were held in 41 counties and 2809 children were examined. Ten orthopedic clinics were held at which 623 crippled children and adults were examined.

The Minnesota Public Health Association, which is financed by Christmas Seals, is a unit of the National Tuberculosis Association.

GETS DUCK, PHEASANT, GOOSE WITH ONE SHOT

Pelican Rapids.—One of the best hunting stories unraveled this fall is the tale about M. T. Houghton of Pelican Rapids, who fired one shot and went home with a duck, a goose and a pheasant. Houghton shot a duck and waded into the lake to get it. As he did so, a hunter cross the lake winged a goose. As Houghton picked up his duck, the wounded goose fell at his feet. He carried both back to his car, where a strange dog walked up and presented him with a pheasant.

FARMERS MOVE FROM ISOLATED SECTIONS

Baudette—The actual moving of farmers from the isolated sections of Lake of the Woods county to farms nearer railroads, highways and villages will be started within two weeks, according to D. A. Wilson, who is in charge of the work. This is the first county in the entire country to get the moving under way. Mr. Wilson states that more than 90 per cent of the number of farmers have agreed to move, and the plan is expected to be tremendous boosts for agriculture in this section.

CROOKSTON ROAD CONFERENCE ASKS FOUR CENT GAS TAX

Would Allot Half of Gas Tax Receipts to Townships and Counties

A resolution calling for an increase in the state gasoline tax from three cents to four cents a gallon, in order to enlarge state aid grants for county and township roads, was adopted by a group of county, town and city officials of northwestern Minnesota at a hearing conducted by the state citizens' interim highway committee in Crookston Thursday.

More than 250 delegates, representing ten of the 19 counties included in this section of the state, attended.

The resolution, which called for distribution of one half of gas tax receipts to counties and townships, was passed by a vote of 109 to 25.

Delegates voiced strong opposition to a plan calling for consolidation of county and township roads in Minnesota into the state trunk highway system, on which the citizens' committee, appointed by Governor Olson pursuant to 1933 legislative action, is ascertaining state-wide sentiment.

The committee, headed by Fred Schilplin, St. Cloud, who presided, will conduct similar hearings at Duluth November 20; Rochester, November 26; and St. Paul December 5.

Counties represented at Thursday's hearing included Polk, Pennington, Ottertail, Red Lake, Marshall, Mahnomen, Wilkin, Norman, Kittson and Grant.

Baby Beef Sells at $1.10 a Pound at South St. Paul Junior Livestock Event

Auction at near record prices of prize winning animals entered in the seventeenth annual Junior Live stock show at South St. Paul was heralded Thursday as an indication that depression is a thing of the past.

The grand champion baby beef at $1.10 a pound, the champion lamb at $4 a pound, the champion market hog at $1.25 a pound and the champion pen of poultry at $1.40 a pound are prices designating the sale one of the greatest in the history of the Junior show.

It was Gordon Jarchow, 17-year-old beef grower of Luverne, who received $1.10 a pound for his grand champion baby beef, which was purchased by the Gluek Brewing Co. of Minneapolis. The sales price netted Gordon $1,210 for his 1,100-pound Aberdeen Angus steer.

THREE UNHURT AS CAR TIPS WITH IRON SAFE

Ortonville—Although a 450-pound safe rattled around like a pea in a pod, three people miraculously escaped injury when their car turned over five times near Ortonville recently. The iron safe did practically no damage to the car, and after the axle was straightened out, the party proceeded on its journey. In addition to the safe, a quantity of bed clothing was in the car, which probably saved the lives of the three people. The car, a late model, was thrown into the ditch when it struck a small wash-out while passing a highway grader, turning over five times. A couple and a little girl driving through to Montana received only bruises and slight cuts, and continued their trip after minor medical treatment.

OPERETTA TO BE PRESENTED FRI. AT AUDITORIUM

Nesse and Fjelstad Have Leads in Musical Hit "In Old St. Louis"

Practice for the operetta is going through its final stages this week. Well known warblers of high are filling the leading roles. The part of Donna Da Lisa, daughter of Manuel Da Lisa, a wealthy fur trader is taken by Arnhild Fjelstad, noted soprano, who held the leading role in the operetta, "Dr. Drinkwater" in 1932 and holds the leading role of this operetta.

The charcter, Manuel Da Lisa, a wealthy fur trader is taken by Douglas Hess who is comparatively new in this type of work. Charles Sanguinet, Da Lisa's partner, is held by Francis Engle, a new arrival in the school this year.

The leading masculine role of Captain George Rogers Clark is taken by James Nesse. Robert Oden, famous baritone, fulfills the part of Pierre Chouteau, a wealthy fur trader. The part of Dr. Saugrain, a physician, is played by Robert Frissel.

That trio of old maids, Lucinda, Belinda, and Malinda, is played by Phyllis Norbeck, Annette Simonson, and Lois Nelson. Elise Marie Saugrain, Dr. Saugrain's daughter, is well played by Flora Schroeder. Her romantic interest is Lieutenant James Kennedy, a friend of Captain Clark, portrayed by Robert Douville.

Jack Boreen plays the part of Caliote, a notorious river pirate, and his sweetheart, Mimi, is portrayed by Yvonne Anderson. Last are those two explorers, Captain Merriwether and Captain William Clark played by Jerome Salveson and Robert Quale.

Besides these main characters, others noteworthy in the cast are the rest of the chorus in different groups. Many new voices will be in all probability achieve fame in the operetta, "In Old St. Louis."

Get your operetta tickets now! Don't miss this musical hit. See the antics of the three old maids. You shouldn't miss this final love scene. Wait till you see Mimi's dance. Who's the Jelly-fish lover? Merely seeing the costumes will be worth the price of admission. The "Rock Gang" has done a wonderful piece of work!

New Equipment for Girls' Gym Classes

New pinnies and bean bags have just been made for the girls' gym classes and are soon to be put into use.

The girls have been playing a variety of games of late. Indoors they play Keep-Away, Hit Pin Baseball, and Volley Ball. When the weather permits them to play out-of-doors, they play Soccer Ball, Follow-the-Leader, and other out-of-door games.

Last week Miss Peterson tested each girl on serving a volley ball. She allowed three possible points to be made. One for the way the girl stood, one for the movements of her arm, and one for the way in which she hit it affected the ball. In the near future she intends to check the girls on the way they "volley" and "receive" the ball.

Meet the Prowler Basketeers

One of the three returning lettermen for this year's team is Per Berg.

Name: Per Berg
Weight: 160
Height: 6 feet 2 inches.
Age: 18
Class: Senior

Last year Per made his letter in basketball although he didn't make the first eight. He is one of the tallest members of the team and probably will alternate with Kielty at center although he has played both forward and guard before. Berg last year tried out on the track squad but, because of an injury to his leg, was unable to compete in any event. Last season Per was handicapped nearly all the basketball season by a bad cold. This year he will be right in there all the time and will give the opposing teams plenty to worry about.

Another outstanding candidate for the Prowler quintette is Carl Lee.

Name: Carl Lee
Weight: 150
Height: 5 feet 9 inches
Age: 18.
Class: Senior.

Some freshmen, especially the girls, may wonder who that handsome black-haired boy is. Well here's the answer. It's Carl Lee. Carl is a football letterman this year after coming out for his first time this season. He has played on the second team in basket ball for two years, and has achieved fame as a ball handler extraordinary and also as an excellent shot.

Last year in the game between the Warren second team and the Prowler seconds two men were supposed to guard Lee, but he still made a large percentage of the team's points.

BASKET BALL SCHEDULE HAS BEEN ARRANGED

Few Lettermen Return for Season Opening December 7

This year's Prowler quintet, as it enters its third week of practice, looks like a team which from the spectators' standpoint, will be a good one. It has a lot more flash and color than any team in recent years. But if we go by the number of veterans returning, the future looks a bit dull for the Prowlers.

This year's team will be without the services of Dahl, Bettleson, Langseth, Fuller, Ward, Swanson, and Korstad, all of whom were on the Prowler's tournament team last year. Although there are three lettermen returning, only Nicholson was one of the first eight of last year's squad to return. Besides Nicholson, the other lettermen are Kielty and Berg. The prospects are somewhat brightened, however, by the fact that last year's second team, which was the best in years, will add Lee, Hermanson, Jung, Nelson, and Van Pelt to the regular squad. Besides, Coach Dooley has a very promising candidate in Mickleson, a Junior.

All of the Prowler opponents have veteran teams with the exception of Warren. But Warren will be helped a lot by the arrival of a center who is well over six feet. Crookston has all her last year's regulars back and will have a very scrappy outfit this year. East Grand Forks, which opens its season Friday, has a team composed of five veterans and some very promising newcomers. Twin Valley, which is a newcomer to the Prowler schedule, has a full team of lettermen this year.

Complete schedule.

EDITORIAL

Tomorrow evening the municipal auditorium will be the scene of one of the most brilliant musical productions that the people of Thief River Falls have ever had the privilege of witnessing. At eight o'clock the curtains will part on the first act of "In Old St. Louis." Those who have watched rehearsals say that it is inevitably destined to be tremendous success. This sounds a bit exaggerated but I am quite confident that you will agree after you have heard the entire cast sing the finale tomorrow evening.

"In Old St. Louis" will be the first production of its kind to be staged in the new auditorium. There are many factors which will have contributed to its success. First, of course, is the fact that the cast includes over seventy persons, all possessing well-trained voices. Second in importance is the extraordinary ability of the directors, Miss Springen, the musical director, and Mr. Carlson, the director of dramatics.

We are sure that the beautiful carefully designed costumes will meet with the whole hearted approval of the audience. The Misses Lunder, Fletcher, Dixon and Lamson have spent considerable time perfecting their creations. The scenery, although not lavishly expensive, will be very effective. Mr. Pope, Mr. Koenker, Mr. Carlson and their assistants have been constructing scenery for several weeks and the time that they have spent has been well rewarded.

The campaign for ticket sales, headed by a student manager and a member of the faculty, has been under way for almost a week. Approximately thirty students have helped canvass the business and residential sections of the city in an attempt to make the operetta a financial success. Those in charge of ticket sales anticipate a large crowd, in view of the fact that the tickets have been placed on sale for the amazingly low price of fifteen cents for students and twenty-five cents for adults.

Tomorrow will see the consummation of two months of hard work for both directors and players. We wish them the best of good luck!

SOPHS WIN CROSS COUNTRY CUP RACE

Seniors Champions of Interclass Soccer Tilt

The final cross country race of the season was run two weeks ago with Gustafson, a Senior, winning. His time was 5 min. 59 sec. which was a second slower than the record. Don Price, a Freshman, came second, and Kelly, Dickenson, Christofferson, gave the Sophs, 3rd, 4th and 5th, places.

One of the highlights of the season was when Gustafson, who has been a consistent winner all season, set the course record of 5 min. 58 sec. The best team was the Sophs, who with Kelly, Dicken, Christofferson and Sahl continually won the last three places which gave them enough points to win the race. In all races nineteen individuals participated.

In soccer the Seniors finished strong to win five and lose one game. That one loss being administered by the Freshmen. The Juniors took second winning five but losing three; the Frosh captured third with three wins and four losses; and the Sophs lost with five losses and no wins.

A total of 106 boys have taken part in interclass events with soccer leading with 87 participants, touchball next with 61, horseshoe third with 85, and cross country last with 19.

Complete class standings for all games.

HERE AND THERE

Last Thursday Miss Stapleton visited two rural members of last year's class: Jack Van Pelt, district 65, and Inga Trontviet, district 55. During her absence, the class took charge.

The school library has just received a copy of the 1933 Gopher.

The Junior Class have finished their library lessons; however, there are some which are completing their lessons in vacant periods. The Seniors will be studying their library lessons within a short time.

YVONNE A. should know how to fall by now. That certainly was a swell push she received from Mr. Carlson at play practice.

Bob. O. isn't much concerned about which class ring is purchased because, as he said, "I suppose

TRUE TRASH

DIDN'T that comedy shown at the auditorium make you want to start roller-skating again? (Let's start it when summer rolls around again.)

BY the way, were you the "naughty" boy who threw that spit-ball? If so, report to Mr. Claffys' office for—what do you think?

WHO was the source of that low, pleasant whistle which kept popping up now and then in the assembly? (Maybe it was W. O.)

YES, and did you notice the commotion that these two young handsome heroes of L. H. S. aroused when they came into the assembly after being dismissed from class. (It's up to you to guess the names.)

WHO was the grateful recipient of Flora S.'s wristwatch last Tues. night?

MR. Johnson has been accepted by the L. H. S. body, it appears. The fifth period assembly students all agree that he's a "regular fellow."

DO you know who the four famous sissies of History are? (This may be an old one but it's good):

1. Sir Walter Raleigh—He would rather let the queen walk over his cloak than take her in his arms and carry her.
2. Henry the VIII—He always wanted to be with the girls.
3. Nero—Any person who wants to play a fiddle when he has a good chance of seeing a fire, is surely a sissy.
4. Adam—He allowed himself to be bribed by a woman into eating an apple.

MR. Lanning is really quite good at furnishing subtle humor in Shorthand. When Jesse D. C. failed to have his lesson, Mr. Lanning asked him if he had looked it over or over-looked it. (Quite good, eh?)

SENIORS SELECT CLASS RINGS, MON.

Sapphire Submitted by Elofson's Shop Chosen

After much controversy, the Seniors have finally decided on the class ring to be purchased. The three business places which submitted the types of rings were B. Wangenstein and Son, Olaf Neset, and H. Elofson.

The Senior class held the first vote on Friday night. The final decision, after much checking, resulted in a thirty-two to thirty-two tie. The final vote was held on Monday noon when ninety-four classmen submitted their votes. At this time, a clear victory was assured when the ring bearing the blue "Mother-of-Earth," sapphire was voted in by fifty-eight to thirty-six. This ring was selected from the one submitted by the Elofson Jewelry Store. It was originally purchased from the Josten Manufacturing Company of Owatonna, Minnesota.

Most of the Seniors are well pleased with the final decision. They have been assured that the rings will arrive before the Christmas vacation.

The Juniors are considering purchasing their class rings before the school term is over. Most of the other high schools have adopted this system and find that it works very satisfactorily.

It ruined the travel program last Tuesday merely because the lecturer flew into a tantrum. His anger cast more reflection on him than on the person who incited the rage.

This glorious moon ought to act as an inspiration to the operetta cast tomorrow night.

JOSIES NOTES

RATTLE! Rattle! knock! that's just me rocking my brains for something to write. Oh me, Oh my Ya! mam. I suppose I could write my master piece. Here goes:

"My Miser"

Ole Silas Weaselmug was as mean a buzzard as ever copped a coin from a blind beggar or, foddered a horse on burnt out pete (bogs). The old clawback was so tight he wouldn't have shelled out a thin dime to see the Statue of Liberty do a double flip. His wife was expected to make 12c worth of stew meat feed the whole family for two weeks and Santa Claus meant no more to his brats than the depression does to a cannibal (maybe they do know). Even the button that he dropped in the plate on Sunday had a string attached to it so it could be dragged back and used again. When one of his starved cows got hit by a passing train he hustled to the railroad office and carried on so that they stammed him out the price of three good Jerseys to be rid of him. The old skin-flint slashed back to his home town with the notion of fleeing another cow to the track that very night. As he stepped off the train one of his neighbors rushed up to him and said, "Say!" he spluttered, "something terrible's happened at your place since you left—something awful!"

"What is it?" gulped the old tightwad. "Tell me quick!"

"Well, your wife has eloped with a lightning rod agent and all your kids have got the smallpox!" howled the news monger.

He heaved a sigh of relief, "Is that all?" he gobbed. "Gosh! you sure had me scared at first. I was afraid one of my hogs had died." (Too bad we're not all that way we'd all be rich).

DIDJA hear? The only time a flea gets the worst of it is when he lights on a guy with St. Vitus dance.

MR. CARLSON believes in Art. D. having all-masculine surroundings.

Ya atta hear the commotion at Progress meetings' every Monday nite.

Ken Gustafson threatens to give up the job of editor to Martha S. if she promises to put out a better job than he's doin.' She atta take him up.

FROM WHAT Josie has "hoid", Jack H. was (maybe still is) wearing Phyllis N.'s ring. Careful, Phyllis, Ernie H. comes home now and then and maybe he'll be mad on you. Don't say we didn't warn you!

WHOOPS! A girl may have trouble selecting her spring chapeau, but she has nothing on the Seniors selecting their class rings.

Coleman Automatic ELECTRIC IRON

THE Coleman Automatic Iron "saves $2 to $5 a year on electric current.

When it reaches the temperature at which the thermostat is set, the current is automatically cut off. It "coasts" or "free wheels" on stored heat. 40% of the time it is in use it consumes no electricity. This saving on your electric bill goes on year after year as long as you use your Coleman! This same automatic action of the thermostat eliminates fire danger and scorching of clothes. Saves work ... does more than the ironing.

The Coleman is beautifully designed and finished in super-chromium. Has long tapering point, button bevel and glass-smooth ironing surface.

Come in and see this beautiful iron. Let us prove our statements about the money it saves you.

Monsters Died of Colds

Research indicate that the great prehistoric reptilian monsters of North America died of colds, caused by change of climate, rather than by enemies. The tilting of great land masses dried up their swamp-like homes.

REMARKS ABOUT MILK
by John the Milk Man

In the U. S. 1933 Public Health Service Report on Milk-borne Disease, not one of the 42 Milk-borne Epidemics could be traced to dealers of Pasteurized Milk.

Prevention of disease is the goal of scientists and far sighted individuals in the present day. Pasteurization plays its important part by the assurance of pure, safe milk.

No matter how carefully raw milk is produced, pasteurizing will make it safer.

LIBERALS SEEK TO GET CONTROL OF '35 LEGISLATURE

Ten Members Short of Majority Present at Caucus in St. Paul

Liberal chieftains of the new Minnesota House of Representatives need ten recruits for control of the lower branch of the 1935 Legislature.

The Liberals concluded a three-hour caucus Saturday afternoon in Hotel Lowry in St. Paul with assurances of 56 votes when the Legislature convenes January 8. That is ten less than the majority—66.

Fifty new and old representatives attended the caucus, while six were represented by proxies.

Harold H. Barker of Elbow Lake, who recently was re-elected to the House, was indorsed unanimously as the Liberal candidate for speaker. Barker won the indorsement in a contest with Andrew E. Finstuen of Kenyon, who introduced the motion for unanimous indorsement of the Elbow Lake publisher.

The Liberals said Lewis Herfindahl of Benson, caucus chairman, after the session ended, "will go out and get the necessary ten votes".

"This caucus," he asserted, "indicates that we will control the House in 1935. We are going out and get those ten votes—don't think we won't."

Governor Olson, speaking as a "private citizen and not the Governor", opened the caucus with a brief address in which he charged that "malignant influences" are supporting the Independent Progressive members of the House. The Independent Progressive movement he characterized as a misnomer.

A roll call of those at the caucus indicated that the Ninth district is the Liberal stronghold. Eight of the sixteen representatives of this district pledged allegiance to the Liberal movement.

CCC Accomplishments in Various Activities Are Cited by Willard

A summary of accomplishments of the Civilian Conservation Corps in Minnesota from the time the first Emergency Conservation Work was started in March 1933, to October 1 of this year, shows the wide range of activity engaged in by the approximate 10,000 men enrolled. On the latter date, E. V. Willard, Commissioner of Conservation, announced there were 61 CCC camps in the state.

Nearly 88,000 man-days were spent fighting forest fires with 21,000 days at fire hazard removal. Over 15,000 acres have been planted to trees and 27,542 man-days were devoted to nursery development work. Among the other types of jobs were:

Reduction of fire hazards, 39,000 acres; firebreaks, 220 miles; telephone lines, 1,101 miles; road and trail clearing, 1,819 miles; lookout houses, 9; lookout towers, 29; forest stand improvements, 37,000 acres; horse and foot trails, 182 miles; public camp ground clearing, 20 acres; public camp ground buildings, 342; pipe lines, 1,300 feet; wells and water holes, 78; experimental plots, 187; seed collected, 7,413 bushels.

WEARS SAME SHOES SINCE WORLD WAR

Clarkfield. — John "Kneepy" Lundgren, well-known Clarkfield character has worn the same pair of shoes since the World War ended, and he and his friends can prove it! The only other footwear he has owned was a pair of canvas shoes that he worn for a short time one summer. The old brogans are enormous, and the toes look like a Dutch barge, but they are still serviceable. 16 years in the same pair of kicks!

HORSE PLANTS FRONT HOOF THRU WINDSHIELD

Cokato.— Rearing up on the road, a horse struck its front hoof through the windshield of Max Malstedt's car near Cokato recently, much to the surprise of the autoist. The horse bolted from a ditch onto the highway, rearing up and striking the car with its hoofs. Damage to the car amounted to a smashed fender and a caved in top, while Malstedt was cut about the face and the hoof of the horse injured his left hand. The horse was so severely injured it had to be killed.

DO NECESSARY FIELD MEADOW BURNING NOW

Now is the proper time of the year to burn off fields and meadows where burning is absolutely necessary, Charles McFarlane, Deputy Director of the Division of Game and Fish, said today. He called attention to the enormous destruction of wild life when such burning operations are delayed until each spring of the year.

CONCRETE HIGHWAYS PAY FOR THEMSELVES

Three reasons why concrete is the most economical pavement:

1. Long life and low upkeep—funds which would otherwise be spent for repairs may be used to complete our highway system.
2. Scientific investigation has proved that it costs motorists up to 2 cents per mile less to drive on concrete than on inferior surfaces. The saving is in gas, oil, tires and car repairs.
3. Concrete builds business, promotes travel. A town on concrete is moved closer to all markets.

And in addition to these money-reasons concrete pavements give motorists relaxation . . . comfort . . . and SAFETY!

RAYSON MAKES UP SHORTAGE IN SCHOOL FUNDS

Former Treasurer Found in Audit to be Short Sum of $1,167.99

SHORTAGE IS MADE GOOD DURING AUDIT

Payments to Times While A. E. Mattson Was Member of Board Criticized

Meeting Wednesday evening in special session the local board of education considered a report on an audit of the school district books for the period from 1928 to 1934. The board had not completed its deliberations at the hour when the Times went to press.

The outstanding revelation made thru the audit was the discovery of a shortage of $1,167.99 in the accounts of L. M. Rayson, former school district treasurer, at the time he gave up the office in July, 1933, and dating as far back as the fiscal year 1927-28.

The report stated that full restitution had been made by Mr. Rayson during the audit to E. J. Pearlove, state comptroller, who in turn handed the funds over to the school district.

A total of $1,321.69 in receipts had not been recorded by the former treasurer, the report revealed, the receipts including certificates of deposit and interest payments. This sum was in part offset by orders redeemed in cash.

The report also cites payments made illegally to the Thief River Falls Times during the period when A. E. Mattson served as a members of the board of education, as a result of his official connection. The board is quoted as informing the auditors that up to the spring of 1933 the Times was the only legal newspaper in the district. However, the report comments, during the period covering the 1933-34 fiscal year there were and still are two legal newspapers within the district.

Other illegal payments cited include several small items paid to Olaf Neset, also a member of the board, and a payment of $5 for auditing made to V. C. Noper, a former member. Other criticisms were of a minor nature.

Mayor Tungseth Makes Appeal for Support of Christmas Seal Sale

Mayor E. L. Tungseth today issued the following statement in connection with the opening of the Christmas Seal sale campaign in this community:

"I commend the Christmas Seal to the people of our community as worthy of your most generous support. The tuberculosis Seal this year with its picture of the first sanatorium established in the United States has a special appeal to our sympathies. It reminds us of the great debt every one owes in greater health protection to the organized campaign against the Great White Plague. This disease, although its ravages have been reduced remarkably, continues to be the greatest cause of death in the important age period from 15 to 45. Loss of life or working capacities during this productive period of life is a serious thing for the family, the community and the state. No individual or family can feel absolutely secure against this disease until all families are safe."

DAY CONTESTS ELECTION OF MARIUS WALDAL

Plummer Man Gets Certificate of Election From Secretary of State

PAPERS WERE SERVED IN CASE WEDNESDAY

Action Not Expected to be Settled Until Legislature Meets

Following the certifying last week by Secretary of State Mike Holm of the election of Marius Waldal of Plummer as representative from the 65th legislative district, W. E. Day of Bagley, incumbent, instituted a contest calling for a recount of the ballots, alleging errors in various precincts in the district. Papers in the action were served on Mr. Waldal Wednesday.

The certification of Waldal's election was made by Secretary of State Holm after official reports had been filed by canvassing boards in each of the three counties in the district, and after the reports had been checked by the state canvassing board.

It was reported at Bagley late last week that the Clearwater county auditor had discovered an error in the county canvassing board's figures which would have the effect of giving Waldal approximately 50 votes to which he was not entitled in the town of Shevlin. This and other possible discrepancies will be checked when the pending recount gets under way.

The matter is not expected to be finally disposed of until the legislature convenes early in January. Mr. Waldal said Tuesday when in the city that all he knew was that he had received his certificate of election and that he was elected based on the final reports of the three county canvassing boards.

POSTOFFICE GETS SET FOR A LIVELY HOLIDAY BUSINESS

Postmaster Urges Mailing Foreign Parcels Not Later Than Dec. 10

With Christmas day less than four weeks distant and the height of the holiday mailing rush just ahead, the local postoffice is making preparations to handle the heavy rush of business, Postmaster Andrew Anderson announced today. Extra help has been arranged for, he said, and additional space will be secured for the handling of parcel post matter.

He reminded local patrons that mail destined for Norway, Sweden, Germany and other European countries should be forwarded from this city by December 10. He also gave out the following regulations governing the mailing of greeting cards:

"Printed greeting cards mailed under cover of unsealed envelopes are chargeable with postage at the third class rate of one and a half cents for each two ounces. Printed Christmas cards mailed in unsealed envelopes may bear a simple written inscription not in the nature of personal correspondence, such as 'Merry Christmas' or 'Happy New Year,' together with the name and address of the sender, without subjecting them to more than the third class rate.

"Greeting cards sealed or unsealed, bearing written messages other than the simple inscriptions above mentioned, as well as all cards sent in sealed envelopes, are chargeable with postage at the first class rate of three cents an ounce or fraction thereof. It is often much more desirable to have cards sent in sealed envelopes at the first class rate of postage, especially those of expensive kind, because of the better service accorded first class matter, including free forwarding or return of undeliverable as addressed."

Christmas Turkey Pool Will Open This Weekend; Market is Holding Firm

A huge influx of turkeys into Thief River Falls from throut Northwestern Minnesota will get under way Saturday when the Christmas pools commence operations. The market is reported as holding firm and the outlook is for satisfactory advance prices for the coming pool.

COUNCIL HOLDS QUIET SESSION TUESDAY NIGHT

Grants Water and Lights for Use of Skating Rinks This Winter

A relatively small amount of business was transacted at the regular meeting of the city council Tuesday evening, no important matters coming up for consideration.

Alex Campbell, acting for the skating rink committee, was present to ask the city to supply water and lights for the municipal skating rinks during the winter months. The request was unanimously granted.

The Bridgeman Creameries company was authorized to erect a 40-foot illuminated sign at the rear of the vacant lots north of the Auditorium, council permission being required under the new zoning ordinance.

Following a discussion of the alleged dog nuisance on Horace av. N., Carlie Johnson, residing in the neighborhood, stated he would circulate a new petition so that proceedings can be instituted under the zoning ordinance.

The council approved payment for the stoker recently installed in the Auditorium, and also authorized payment of $760 of the balance due Bert Norby, general contractor in charge of the construction of the Auditorium.

Local Stores Prepared for Christmas Shoppers

With only 21 shopping days remaining before the advent of Christmas day, Thief River Falls stores are announcing today that complete stocks of holiday merchandise will be on display this week-end.

Having enjoyed a most satisfactory volume of business during the fall months, businessmen of the city have made arrangements for enlarged stocks of staple and holiday items adequate to serve the needs of Northwestern Minnesota shoppers.

Completely stocked toy departments, showing the latest ideas in articles to gladden the hearts of little folks, are being opened to public view immediately following Thanksgiving. The stores also offer countless other suggestions for gift merchandise in the form of men's, women's and children's apparel, furniture, electrical appliances, and a host of other useful and practical articles.

Improved business conditions throut the nation are reflected in the following dispatch from Washington:

As the nation headed today into its period of holiday trade the Chamber of Commerce of the United States produced statistics to show "improving business sentiment."

This and other pronouncements leading many business men to hope that the Christmas trade might be the best since 1929, were keyed to a note of quiet optimism.

The chamber said the improved sentiment, seen in October, continued in November. It cited "a six per cent rise in the volume of check payments, steady retail trade, stable wholesale prices, favorable car loading reports and increasing steel production."

Icy Streets and Walks Makes Travel Difficult

The unprecedentedly mild weather which has prevailed locally throut November continued this week with the mercury hovering around the freezing mark, after ranging as high as 40 above zero last Saturday. LOCAL MANAGERS NAMED FOR SEAL SALE IN COUNTY

Mrs. A. M. Smith in Charge of Distribution in Thief River Falls

County organization plans for the twenty-eighth annual Christmas Seal sale, which will open Thanksgiving Day, are nearing completion.

"The theme of the campaign this year commemorates the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of the first sanatorium in the United States for the modern treatment of tuberculosis. The seal design depicts "Little Red", as the cottage that served as the first sanatorium is called.

"Little Red" was established in the Adirondack mountains by Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau, and was made possible by his personal experience with the disease, his research and his persistance. His good work is continued today by this penny seal, by means of which a local, state and national program is carried on to prevent, find and cure tuberculosis and promote general health.

In addition to the design of the little red cottage standing among the pine trees in the snow, the Christmas Seal this year, as always, bears the double-barred cross by which it may be distinguished from all other seals.

Those who will take charge of the sale in the various communities in the county include the following: St. Hilaire, Supt. E. N. Heieregard; Oakland Park San., Dr. B. C. Bernard; Thief River Falls, Mrs. A. M. Smith.

RURAL CLUBS IN PLAY CONTEST IN CITY DEC. 8TH

Club Members Will Present Old-Style Melodramas at Auditorium

SINGING SCHOOL TO BE PROGRAM FEATURE

Winning Play to Participate in St. Paul Contest in January

The blood-and-thunder "meller-drammers" of days long past will be revived for a local audience at the Auditorium Saturday, Dec. 8, at 8 o'clock when four community clubs of this vicinity will compete in a one-act play contest.

Participating groups include the Smiley Community club presenting "Quack, Quack"; Steiner club, "The Worm Turns"; Silverton club, "Jumbo Jum"; and the Rocksbury club, "The Wedding." Two of the plays are real melodramas with mustached villains and beautiful heroines, while the other two are modern comedies.

Another feature of the evening's program will be an old-fashioned style revue, in which a group of 30 men and women will display the hoops and bustles, derbies and swallow-tailed coats of former days. The entertainment will conclude with an old-fashioned singing school with V. C. Noper as the professor.

A charge of 25 cents for adults and ten cents for children will be made, the proceeds to be used to defray the cost of sending the cast of the winning play to the Farmers and Homemakers short course at University Farm, St. Paul, in January. DAHLEN REPORTS SELLING 9 FARMS HERE THIS SEASON

Says Land Values Have Strengthened Materially Here This Falls

The sale this season of nine Pennington county farms, most of them in the eastern part of the county, was reported today by Stanton R. Dahlen of the Dahlen agency. Seven of the tracts were sold for the Minnesota Mutual Life Insurance company and the remaining two for Dr. Christopher Graham of Rochester.

"Land values have strengthened materially this fall," said Mr. Dahlen in commenting on the real estate situation. "The fact that two of our sales were made to former owners shows that there is a definite desire on the part of renters to own the land they are farming. Substantial cash payments were a feature of each sale."

Mr. Dahlen said that more inquiries have been received this year from prospective buyers than in the past five years. He added that several more deals are pending and will be closed before spring seeding.

Our Thanksgiving Day

My Puritan grandmother swept and spun
And prayed to God on Thanksgiving Day;
Her soul content with a work well done
And her heart too earnest for pleasures gay.
But I like to think that her irksome load,
Travail and labor and urge and goad,
Was joy—because she was hewing a road
A road that should be my way

My Puritan grandmother blazed a trail
And looked to God on Thanksgiving Day,
And how can I dare to shirk or fail,
I who have such a debt to pay?
Teach me, Lord, as I kneel in prayer,
To lift her torch in my hands, to dare
To keep unsullied and straight and fair
The road that she made my way.

Virginia.—When Louis Rones of Virginia consults the political oracle, she seldom fails to advise him correctly. With a record as political prognosticator in the past, Rones made 15 correct guesses of winners out of 17 tries in the last election. Although right in his guesses, Rones admitted losing a large number of candidates whom he hoped would win, and for whom he voted as a matter of principle and conscience.

Official Paper of the City of Thief River Falls

We are heartily in favor of the Thanksgiving idea but we do wish the Puritans had picked some other day but the Times publication day for the celebration. Getting the paper out a day early does upset the routine and an upset routine is always a strain on the nerves. Maybe it's just another sign of age.

If possession is what they say it is then Marius Waldal is now at least a nine-tenths representative of this legislative district. Waldal has the certificate of election, duly issued on the figures compiled by the respective canvassing boards. Whether or not the canvassing board erred in its arithmetic, as is being charged, remains to be seen. In the meantime Waldal has the advantage. Until proven otherwise, he is elected.

November has come and nearly gone and still there is no skating weather. Which pleases everyone but those who like to skate. Considering the youngsters, the skaters of the community are quite a considerable group at that. But there are more payers of coal bills and more feeders of livestock so, just to agree with the majority for a change, we will join with those who are singing the praises of the weather man and agree that we have had a wonderful Fall.

We still can't figure out how a little town like Bemidji could possibly muster together so large a delegation of good fellows as the group that visited with local business men Friday evening. Perhaps census-taker Mitchel did make a good guess after all when he estimated the population of the community at more than seven thousand. At any rate we are beginning to respect his figures for certainly the group that visited here could not have been hand picked from among a lesser number.

There are more than twenty entries in the turkey race that is going to be held here next Thursday afternoon to provide entertainment for poultry show visitors, and judging from the entries and the nature of the race, the contest is going to provide a lot of laughs. A turkey isn't the easiest animal to steer down a crowded street at the end of a rope.

Citizens of Smiley Township will hold the formal dedication exercises for their new community building Friday evening, and as a nice piece of community building the Smiley Community Club hall is a five star achievement. It is a monument to cooperative effort and is valuable not only because it will make possible a better community life among those whose efforts have made it possible but it will serve a larger purpose by encouraging similar activities in other communities of the county. Our people may become either richer or poorer, as we measure riches in material wealth, without adding to or detracting from the sum total of their happiness. Happiness is a condition of the mind and has little, if any, relation to the state of finances. But self-respect is essential to happiness and thru the satisfaction that will come with the completion of a project so worth while, the citizens of Smiley will draw big dividends from their investment in a building that will make possible a better social life and a finer spirit of neighborliness. Other communities that may be interested in a similar undertaking should keep in mind that before such a result was possible in Smiley Township it was necessary to build and maintain an active community club. It was the community club of Smiley that brought the people together. Having become acquainted with each other and found many interests in common, the building of a community hall where they could meet together was an inevitable result. We congratulate the people of Smiley for their ability to work together through an active community organization.

Pennington County's annual poultry show has been held early in January in the past. And in past years poultry show week has almost invariably been the coldest week of the year. For that reason both exhibits and attendance have been limited to a small group living within a short distance from the city and the show itself has not done justice to an activity so important in this section of the state as poultry production. The fact that this year's show is scheduled for the first week in December will therefore be an interesting experiment. The earlier dates have some disadvantages. Poultry probably is not in as good condition to show now as it will be a month later. And the greater activity at this season of the year may make it more difficult to interest growers in showing. These disadvantages should be more than offset however, by the more favorable weather we are likely to have and the larger attendance which more favorable weather should make possible. The show management is very hopeful over the prospects. A large and varied display of chickens and turkeys is expected. Special prizes for market classes of turkeys, placing the emphasis on market qualities rather than feathers, are bringing an unusually large turkey exhibit. Poultry is one of the big money crops of this territory and through the encouragement they bring to better breeding, such shows as will be held here next week do much to increase the net return from this important crop.

STILL THE BEST GOVERNMENT
(Morris Tribune)

Verily, verily, the ways of the voter are past finding out.

This is said in no spirit of criticism of the outcome of any particular contest, or even in criticism of the aggregate result, but in sheer puzzlement as to how and why certain results come to pass.

One candidate conducts an active campaign, issues reams of campaign literature and buys liberal advertising space in the newspapers, and another one stays at home and attends to his private or public duties and is elected.

Another candidate tries the quiet methods and is swamped by the speech-making, advertising candidate.

One candidate takes a decided stand on controversial public questions, and wins out over the candidate who stutters whenever he discusses public questions. Another candidate is "all things to all men" and swamps a candidate who takes a strong position manifestly in the public interest.

One candidate is elected because he has no record and the record of his opponent is bad. Another candidate with the worst kind of a record explains it all away and buries his opponent.

One candidate wins because he has much newspaper support; another because the newspapers are against him; one candidate wins because he has a host of personal friends; another wins who has few personal friends; one candidate wins because he has the support of the "administration," while another wins because he will oppose the "administration."

It seems impossible to find the common denominator of success at the polls, but the country seems to wag along just the same, and we still have the best government on earth.

AS CANADA SEES IT
(The Financial Post, Toronto, Canada)

"In Canada, the general level of business remains well above the level of last year. In the United States, however, the curve of business has dipped sharply below the 1933 total.

"General world recovery set in in the midsummer of 1932 and has continued fairly steadily ever since. From this trend both the United States and Canada have benefited. The United States has had the New Deal. Canada has not departed to any considerable extent from the more orthodox tenets of political economy. Yet we have forged ahead much more rapidly than the United States."

Back when some of us were younger there were two political magazines "Judge" and "Puck", the former Republican and the latter Democratic. They were colored humorous magazines. While they have disappeared there are still some funny political journals, but they don't seem to know that they are funny.—Mahnomen Pioneer.

The good education of youth has been esteemed by wise men in all ages as the surest foundation of the happiness both of private families and of commonwealths.—Benjamin Franklin.

Topics of the Times

By H. A. H.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES— Samuel Insull has been acquitted. His intentions, it seems were good, but they didn't work out.

Several autos were hit last week by bullets fired by deer hunters, reports the Baudette Region, adding that some hunter will shoot at anything with a horn on it.

It looks like a muddy field for the 1936 senatorship battle between Olson and Schall.

Coal dealers probably won't agree with the general conclusion that business has been good this fall.

Wonder what the next generation will use for targets when the deer season opens.

Newspaper men are feeling complacent these days following the announcement that there aren't enough printers in the Minnesota state prison to get out its little weekly publication.

While Postmaster General Farley says the Republican party is dead, it polled 12,000,000 votes in the November 6 election, only 3,000,000 less than the Democrats did.

Now that Coach Bierman's Gophers have stowed away the conference and national titles, the boys should be given a chance to catch up on their studies.

News of 10 Years Ago

From the Times of Dec. 4, 1924

Eddie Lindell, commander of the Minnesota department of the American Legion, addressed a mass meeting in the Auditorium. —Mrs. E. J. Richards was elected president of the Parent-Teacher association. H. O. Chommie was named commander of the local Legion post.—Plans were being made for a Legion basketball team under the direction of L. A. Hermanson, Francis Burns, Roy Kiland and Roy Brown.—M. Helen Montgomery was elected president of the Girls Community Club.—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Nelson and children left for an extended visit in St. Paul.—Sugar beets valued at $30,000 were marketed in Pennington county this year.

SMILEY

The St. Pauli Ladies Aid will meet Dec. 6th at the Martin Matheson home. — The following officers of the St. Pauli Ladies Aid were elected at the Carl Alberg home Nov. 22: President, Mrs. Ole Lien; vice president, Mrs. M. Tverstvelt; secretary, Mrs. M. Finstad; treasurer, Mrs. Ole Thune.

Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Snetting and family, Mrs. Rosland, Mrs. Ole Torkelson, Thelma and Anton, visited at the Martha Lokken home last Sunday afternoon.

Little Falls.—Age means nothing to two Morrison county deer hunters, who passed the three score and ten period more than a decade ago. The veteran huntsmen are August Dehler, Sr., Buckman, 86, and James Turnham, Little Falls and Maple Plain, 84. Until two years ago, when he was ill, Mr. Dehler had never missed a deer season since he was a youth. This year he went to Pine county, which has been his favorite hunting ground for a number of seasons. Mr. Turnham accompanied a party to the north wilderness around Big Fork.

HITCHCOCK'S COLUMN

Governor Olson received 468,812 votes on November 6th. There were cast against him a total of 582,075 votes; or a majority of 113,263 votes against his re-election.

The 582,075 voters of the state who voted against Governor Olson naturally wonder how much of a mandate to him and to the Farmer-Labor policies this adverse majority of 113,263 votes is.

Both the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Legislature which meets in January have held caucuses and the results of these caucuses make it plain that the people elected a Legislature opposed to the Farmer-Labor platform and the proposal for a co-operative commonwealth.

Each body of the Legislature has a majority of "independent progressives". Governor Olson made no attempt to interfere with the organization of the Senate, but he took off his coat and spit on his hands and did everything in his power to dictate the organization of the House. He took to the air to denounce the "independent progressive" majority of the House and he took to the telephone in a week long effort to cajole and coerce House members into organizing the House according to his dictation.

These efforts failed when 77 members of the House, 11 more than a majority, gathered last week in St. Paul and unanimously nominated George W. Johnson of Duluth for Speaker of the House. This action gives the control of both the Senate and the House to the "independent progressive" group.

George W. Johnson, choice of the "independent progressive" majority of the House for Speaker in the 1935 Legislature, hails from West Duluth. It is 46 years since a Speaker of the House in a Minnesota Legislature has been elected from St. Louis County.

Mr. Johnson is a parliamentarian and has had considerable experience in presiding over the House. During the 1933 regular session, and also in the 1933-34 special session, Speaker Munn frequently called Mr. Johnson to the chair to preside temporarily.

The Farmer-Labor Leader, in its issue announcing the election results, had considerable fun with Martin A. Nelson, the Republican opponent of Governor Olson. In big, bad, black type it announced that Governor Olson carried not only Martin Nelson's home town of Austin, but also Nelson's precinct. Olson carried Austin by 211 and Mr. Nelson's precinct by 58.

This is pretty bad, of course, but it isn't a patch on what Martin Nelson did to Governor Olson in the latter's ward and precinct. Nelson carried the Governor's ward by 8003 and his precinct by 366.

In fact, local conditions were such that none of the candidates for Governor succeeded in their own bailiwicks. Nelson lost his own town and his own precinct, but he carried Olson's ward and precinct and defeated John E. Regan in the latter's own County of Blue Earth.

Carlson a party Friday in the church parlors, the occasion being her birthday.—Miss Johnson, Miss Lanman, Mr. Sather, Mr. Nybakken and Miss Anderson visited at the Roland home in Thief River Falls Wednesday evening.—A parcel shower was given Mrs. Harold Saustad Monday. — Mrs. Nels Lyane spent a few days at Ada visiting relatives.

CHICKEN LIVES TWO WEEKS UNDER HAY

Sleepy Eye—In moving some hay that had been thrown down from the haymow a couple of weeks before, Emil Rose, farmer near Evan, found a spring rooster up against the stone wall. It was weak and wobbly, but drank willingly out of the cup he held up to it and ate greedily of some corn he threw down. How the rooster managed to survive two weeks without water is a conundrum, but it seems to be as hale and hearty as ever now.

Thanksgiving the Family Day

THANKSGIVING is a day of glory and substance. Such a day it was in the beginning and it is hoped it ever shall be. Its glory is the spirit of thankfulness that pervades the hearts of us all. The substance is the bountiful supply of food that is ours.

Perhaps these are the reasons that Thanksgiving is particularly a family day, a day in which all of the family are thankful to be gathered under one roof once more. Thanksgiving day, observes a writer in the Kansas City Star, was born in that spirit as the Pilgrims went to church over snowy trails and returned to eat dinner of wild turkey from the forest and cranberries from the nearby marshes.

One may follow the traditional menu for that day or one may improvise, using the turkey for the main theme, building such variations of flavors about it that you may have your own gastronomic symphony so perfectly planned that your guests will remember your Thanksgiving dinner, for the particular harmonies of color and table need not follow too closely the spirit of the day. Your decorations may be thoroughly modern or traditional, as you please. The bowl of fruits as centerpiece is the latter.

No longer does the table groan with food. The modern hostess places very few viands on the table. For the formal dinner the bird is carved in the kitchen and served from that quarter. For the informal or family dinner the bird may come to the table as the festive dish that graces the board. Turkey or any fowl may be prepared and stuffed well in advance of the dinner. Chicken, duck, goose or any fine roast may be served on Thanksgiving day. Your purse, your appetite and the personal tastes of the family should be considered.

To estimate the time needed for roasting turkey, allow fifteen minutes to the pound. A ten-pound turkey should roast in about two and a half hours, a twenty-pound bird in five hours. Put a buttered paper over the bird if it browns too fast. Allow eight cups of stuffing for ten-pound bird. Turn the bird often as it cooks; baste about every fifteen minutes.

The First Harvest

IT APPEARS that in the year 1621, the Pilgrim Fathers were so overjoyed when their first harvest was gathered in that they held a service of gratitude to God. The New England colonists set apart a day for that specific purpose and since then similar services have been held annually, the last Thursday in November being the day appointed. In 1863 Sarah Josepha Hale, who is the reputed author of the nursery rhyme "Mary had a little lamb," advocated the granting of a general holiday throughout the states on Thanksgiving day. This was adopted.

CONSERVATIVES CONTROL HOUSE, CAUCUS REVEALS

76 Votes, Ten Over Majority, Pledge to Duluth Man for Speaker

Conservatives Friday definitely established their control over the lower house of the Minnesota state legislature, when 75 representatives responded to the caucus at the Ryan Hotel in St. Paul, called by Roy Dunn of Pelican Rapids, and two more sent in their proxies.

George W. Johnson, of Duluth, choice of the Dunn forces, was given 76 votes for speaker of the house, only one legislator declining to cast his ballot.

This show of strength virtually clinches Johnson's election as speaker when the house organizes in January and establishes conservative control of both houses of the legislature for the first time since 1931. Sixty-six votes constitute a majority.

With both the senate and the house in the hands of anti-administrative forces, Gov. Olson will apparently be blocked in any effort to push through the radical planks in the farmer-labor platform.

The caucus created an advisory committee composed of one representative from each congressional district — nine in all—to confer with the nominee for speaker, Johnson, in working out a committee set-up.

The conservatives also lined up behind the candidacy of John L. Levin, St. Paul, as chief clerk of the house, a post he held when conservatives last had control.

Surviving are her daughter, and two step-sons, Frank and George Matthew of Hibbing; two brothers, Lemuel Creswell of Great Falls, Mont., and Collins Creswell of Prince Edward Island, and a sister, Mrs. Blanche Collins of Ancaster, Ontario.

PLANS FOR ANNUAL WINTER SHOWS AT CROOKSTON READY

Red River Valley Event is Scheduled for Week of February 4-8

Preliminary plans are well under way for the silver anniversary celebration of the Red River Valley Winter Shows which will be held in Crookston February 4-8, 1935. John Saugstad, business manager, states that the premium list covering prizes offered to livestock, farm crops and poultry exhibitors is now being prepared and will be ready for distribution at an early date in January. With satisfactory crop yields throughout most of the Red River Valley, together with the highest prices since 1929 and 1930, it is anticipated that the attendance will surpass all records for the past five years.

Features of the week, in addition to the exhibits, will include numerous educational contests for farmers' clubs, agricultural high schools, Schools of Agriculture and 4-H club members. These meetings will deal primarily with problems of the farm and the home. Huge mass meetings will also be held each evening during the week, at which time speakers of national and international prominence will be heard. The Northwestern Minnesota Singers' association will also appear on the program during the week.

Activities of the week are coordinated through the Winter Shows Board of Managers, of which Dr. A. A. Dowell, superintendent of the Northwest School and Station, is president; John Saugstad, business manager; F. A. Green, Stephen, representing the Red River Valley Livestock Breeders' association; C. M. Peask, Red River Valley Dairymen's Association; R. S. Dunham, Red River Valley Crops and Soils association; E. W. Spring, Crookston Association of Public Affairs; H. A. Pflughoeft, District Club leader, and C. L. McNelly, District County Agent leader. A successor to W. R. Low, who for many years represented the Red River Valley Development association as its secretary, has not yet been announced. Wm. Dahlquist, Thief River Falls, is president of this organization.

Plans Completed for Sportsmens Meeting Here

Plans are being completed this week for the annual meeting of the Ninth District Sportsmen's association in the Auditorium Friday, December 7, Paul A. Lundgren, secretary of the group, announced today. The schedule calls for a directors' meeting at 2 o'clock followed at 6:30 by a banquet and program, at which proposals for changes in the state game laws will be discussed.

St. Peter.—Following St. Peter's recent experience with a mouse that caused a costly fire by mixing his remains in a high tension electric transformer, Le Sueur county this week contributes an equally freakish but less unfortunate instance in which a small black kitten—usually regarded as typical of bad luck—earned himself a home and permanent good will by calling attention to an incipient night blaze and thereby saving the home if not the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vollmer and family of Lake Volney. Popping noises were heard in the kitchen of the home almost immediately after the young kitten had roused the occupants by loud an dagitated calling as it ran up stairs to where they were sleeping. The alarm came none too soon to permit bringing the blaze under control with a fire extinguisher. A cupboard was entirely destroyed and outer walls of the building damaged, but the small cat made himself a permanent place in the affections of the family.

Crippled Children Aided Through Sale of Sea.

Nearly 700 crippled children were examined during the year at Orthopedic Clinics conducted in various sections of the state. A typical clinic scene is pictured above.

1934 Big Game Hunting Season is Now History; Reports Should be Filed

Minnesota's 1934 big game hunting season closed at sunset Sunday. It will be lawful for hunters to retain venison and bear meat in their possession for five days after the close of the season. After that time it will be necessary to secure retaining tags from the Director of the Division of Game and Fish or an authorized agent. These tags are good until February 28.

Although no figures are as yet available relative to the number of big game hunters this past season, officials of the Game and Fish Division are of the opinion that the total will reach around the 50,000 mark. Last year for the short season, 36,855 resident big game hunting licenses were sold, a decrease over the year previous when the sales amounted to 52,637 licenses.

"Hunters are urged to file reports of game taken as early as possible," Director Swenson requested. "It is only from these reports that we are able to arrive at a fair estimate of the numbers of the various game species taken. This information is of untold value in the wild life management plans of the state. Send in your return cards at once so that we can commence the work of tabulating. Last season actual reports showed that 11,628 deer were taken, St. Louis County heading the list with 2,799."

Turkeys
For Christmas Pool

We have quite a few listing already for the Christmas turkey pool which opens Monday, Dec. 3, and continues up to and including Thursday, Dec. 13. Have you listed your turkeys, to have them dressed the modern way? It is simple, just drop us a post card telling us the day you would like to bring them in. Your turkeys will be dressed the same day you bring them in, if listed, otherwise they will be dressed as quickly as possible, after the listed turkeys are through.

Looks like we will see a good Christmas. Keep back thin or light birds that are not in shape to grade number ones, as we will buy again on January 7, 1935. List now and come early. Thanks.

30,000 Farmers in State Obtain Federal Loans

Thousands of Minnesota farmers who faced a homeless future two years ago are living in greater security today and in the hope of eventual prosperity because of refinancing legislation obtained at Washington by the American Farm Bureau and its allies, says J. S. Jones, secretary of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation. Between June 1, 1933 and Nov. 1, 1934, $74,983,000 had been loaned through the Farm Credit Administration to 30,000 Minnesota farmers. These loans enabled them to refinance their mortgages at lower rates of interest and extend them over a 32-year period. In many instances the FCA loans also enabled them to clear up other debts.

One of the features of the FCA refinancing program was the scaling down of debts. In most instances mortgage holders agreed to accept less than the face value of the mortgage, when the farmer gave assurance that he could pay off the smaller amount with the FCA loan.

Heavy Hogs in Demand as Lard Stocks Shrink

"Because of scarcity of heavy hogs, buyers at So. St. Paul have boosted packing sows nearly in line with top butcher hogs," says the weekly market bulletin issued by the Central Co-operative Association, a farmer-owned livestock selling agency at the market.

Packing sows sold up to $5.50 late last week, while top price for butchers was only 20c above that figure. Light-weight pigs averaging 100 lbs. or less, in the meantime, continue to drag around $1.50 per cwt. down.

The extremely wide range in prices paid for light and heavy hogs is attributed largely to the rapidly diminishing supplies of lard. Because of the predominance of light-weight, unfinished hogs on markets during the past few months, lard production has been curtailed. This product has been abundant, and a drug on the market for several years, but in recent months lard stocks have decreased sharply. On November 1 this year there were 107,153,000 lbs., or 20 per cent less lard in storage, than a year ago.

EUROPE TRIES CERTAIN PUNISHMENT FOR DRIVERS

Some European countries are trying a new method of encouraging careful driving on the highways. Every time two automobiles have a collision, the drivers of both cars are put in jail for three days while an official investigation is made.

London, England, plans to hold automobile drivers entirely responsible for all injuries to pedestrians who cross the streets at regular, designated crossings. If a pedestrian is struck while he is within the boundaries of a regular crossing, the driver will automatically be judged guilty and no excuses will be accepted.

BIG YIELDS MADE ON N. W. SCHOOL FIELDS THIS YEAR

Anthony Oats Yields 73.7 Bushels to Acre on 30 Acre Field

Yields of small grains at the Northwest Experiment station were much above average this year, according to a summary statement recently issued by R. S. Dunham, agronomist. In the case of wheat and oats, yields were the highest on record. The average yield of spring wheat on the large fields since 1921 was 17.9 bushels and of durum, 22.2 bushels. This year a 24-acre field was divided into four parts and sown to Thatcher, Ceres, Reward and Marquis. Thatcher yielded 31.4 bushels per acre; Ceres, 29.3 bu.; Reward, 27.0, and Marquis, 23.6 bushels. An 18-acre field of Mindum durum yielded 34.2 bushels per acre. Anthony oats yielded 73.7 bushels per acre on a 30-acre field this year compared with an average yield of [illegible] bushels on the station farm since 1921. Wisconsin 38 barley yielded 54.7 bushels on a 25-acre field, while the average yield of barley since 1921 was 30.9 bushels. Redwing flax yielded 13.0 bushels on a 38-acre field, which is 1.2 bu. above the average.

Professor Dunham is of the opinion that no one factor was responsible for the high yields this year. They were the result of a favorable combination of conditions. No special fertilization or method of handling the soil was used. For many years, however, a crop rotation including small grain, sweet clover or alfalfa, and corn has been practiced. Pastures receive a dressing of barnyard manure and phosphate is always applied to alfalfa.

Improved varieties unquestionably partially explain the higher yields. The difference in yield between Marquis, Reward, Ceres and Thatcher was due largely to the difference in stem rust damage. There was no grasshopper damage and ergot, which was so prevalent in 1933 in both wheat and barley was almost totally absent in these crops this year.

The influence of the weather is difficult to determine. During the past season, the rainfall was only .31 inch below the 10-year average, while the temperature was 9 degrees warmer.

Beer is Denied Relief Clients in Marshall Co.

Deputy Sheriff Marshall Kays and Relief Administrator DeLong of Warren were in Argyle Tuesday of last week and put 13 relief clients on the black list, says the Argyle Banner. To make their edict effective the officers served notice on the proprietors of restaurants and other drinking places that no more beer was to be served to such individuals, nor they permitted to frequent the places. Complaints from citizens that relief checks were being spent altogether too freely over the bars became so numerous that the officers found it necessary to take this action to put a stop to the practice, and it meets with general approval from those whose hard earned tax money is being so liberally appropriated for relief and so much of it spent for drink.

Season Now Open for Taking Various Types Fur-bearing Animals

With legally designated seasons for the taking of raccoon, mink, skunks, foxes and gray squirrels now open in Minnesota, trappers are busy harvesting the state's annual fur crop. Very few of the citizens of the state realize the value of Minnesota's fur business, Erling Swenson, Director of the Division of Game and Fish pointed out.

Various license sales for the year 1933 included 12,287 trapping licenses which produced a revenue to the Game and Fish Division of $11,058.30. This was an increase over the year previous when 9,262 trapping licenses were sold for a total revenue of $8,335.80.

For the year 1933, a total of 3,722 trapping reports were received 33 per cent of the entire number sold. These reports showed a total of 106,764 animals actually taken with an estimated value of $102,594.90. Muskrats led in number with 41,386 reported and mink topped the list in value at $10,522.90 for 8,693. The muskrat value came to $17,790.78.

Other furbearers completing the reports included weasel, skunk, badger, raccoon, rabbits, bob cats, gray, red, cross and silver foxes, lynx, timber and brush wolves and fox and gray squirrels.

Suspect Released in Connection With 1921 Grygla Girl Slaying

Another chapter was written in the famous Gummer murder case in Cass county district court Thursday when Arthur C. James, who has been held in the county jail in Fargo since May 4 was cleared of charges he murdered Marie Wick, Grygla, Minn., farm girl. William Gummer, Fargo, is serving a life sentence for the crime.

The murder charge against James was dismissed by Judge Daniel B. Holt upon motion of A. R. Bergesen, Cass county states attorney, who informed the court that after a thorough investigation his office is convinced that James was not in Fargo at any time during June, 1921. James has been released from jail here.

Miss Wick was murdered in the old Prescott hotel the night of June 7. She had been beaten to death with the nozzle of a fire hose after she had been criminally assaulted. The slaying was one of the most brutal in the history of the state.

Gummer, a night clerk in the hotel at the time, was arrested a few days following the murder, was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. He maintains he is innocent and his brother-in-law, H. W. Swenson, Devils Lake attorney, also believing Gummer to be innocent, has worked constantly to prove the convicted man's innocence.

GUESSES 15 OF 17 ELECTION WINNERS

Virginia—When Louis Rones of Virginia consults the political oracle, she seldom fails to advise him correctly. With a record as political prognosticator in the past, Rones made 15 correct guesses of winners out of 17 tries in the last election. Although tight in his guesses, Rones admitted losing a large number of candidates whom he hoped would win, and for whom he voted as a matter of principle and conscience.

CITES CAUSE OF TRAFFIC MISHAPS IN RURAL AREAS

Safety Division Says Poor Lights Are Big Cause of Accidents

A most serious accident situation now exists in rural communities, says a bulletin from the division of safety of the SERA. In these communities, people often do not realize the hazards surrounding them. National Safety Council statistics for the last year show that the death rate in rural communities is about two times that of urban rates. Even if the deaths of city residents occurring in railroad or automobile accidents are deducted, the rural death rate still is 50 per cent over that of the city rate.

One very serious cause of traffic accidents in rural communities is failing to stop at through highways. The practice appears to be prevalent among the farm residents of an older age, probably due to the fact that they have lived in a particular community for a long time and feel confident that they know the road well enough to prevent accidents. The condition might be called one of familiarity with highways breeding contempt for danger.

Another cause of traffic mishaps in the agricultural areas is inadequate lights on vehicles. It is necessary that every object on a roadway be provided with adequate lighting whether it be parked or moving. The lighting situation is just one reason for accidents. There also is the important question of brakes, which are far from perfect on many farm-owned cars and trucks. When operated on dirt roads with little traffic, or through fields, motorized equipment with bad brakes may not be such a hazard. But, when driven on a city street or a well-traveled highway, such a car is often involved in an accident.

Many Chauffeurs Fail to Renew '34 Licenses, Mike Holm Announces

Chauffeur licenses for the current year expire on Dec. 31 and may be renewed during the month of November without examination, according to Mike Holm, secretary of state. If, however, an application for renewal is not mailed to his office before Dec. 1st, the license for next year will be issued only on regular examination.

Mr. Holm reports that a very large portion of the chauffeurs of the state have not yet sent in their applications. Application blanks were sent out from the secretary of state's office in St. Paul to every chauffeur in the state during the last week of October.

"Many of these blanks have been returned to the office unclaimed," says Mr. Holm, "evidently because those particular chauffeurs have changed their addresses without reporting the change to this office. However, if the chauffeur will address a letter to this department at once we shall be glad to forward the necessary blanks."

John Lyons Petitions for Recount of Auditor Vote

A petition asking a statewide recount of the ballots cast in the state auditor's race was filed in Ramsey county district court Saturday by Irving M. Weisch, Minneapolis attorney, on behalf of John T. Lyons, Farmer-Laborite who was defeated by Stafford King, Republican incumbent, by 618 votes. A notice of contest and appeal to the district court from the declaration of election made by the state canvassing board was filed in district court Friday by Lyons, Le Center business man.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS

Edited by Students of Lincoln High School, Thief River Falls, Minn.

BADGER WILL BE FIRST LOCAL FOE

Prowler Quintet to Go to Badger Friday, Nov. 30

The Prowlers open their 1934-35 season Friday at Badger. Badger has an excellent team this year. Many of the players who played on the team that won third place in the regional last year, are back, and the squad will be bolstered by several promising newcomers. Although the Badger team is small, it is exceptionally fast and plays headsup ball all the way.

The Prowlers will be handicapped by the fact that they have not been able to get in regular practices in the auditorium until this week. Nearly all practicing has been done on the small high school court. This will slow up the Prowlers a lot. They will be able to get only one week of practice in the auditorium before the first game on the regular schedule on December 7 at Plummer. Those players who are expected to see service at Badger are Kielty, Nicholson, Lee, Hermanson, Nelson, Mickleson, Jung, Van Pelt and Berg.

Meet the Prowler Basketeers

Perhaps about the best prospect that Coach Dooley has out for the team this year is Don Hermanson.

Name: Don Hermanson
Age: 17.
Height: 6 feet
Weight: 160 lbs.
Class: Senior.

Don is a football letterman having played end on this year's Prowler eleven. He is an outstanding scholar and ranks as one of the best pupils in his class. He has played two years of second team basket ball and has proved in that time that he is one of the best shots and ball handlers on the second team of last year. He has added quite a few inches to his height this year and is expected to develop into one of the best players on the squad this year. But even as good as he is, he will have to work hard for one forward post which will be occupied by either Lee, Hermanson, Nicholson or Nelson.

One of the newcomers to this year's squad is Gilbert Mickleson. He has been preceded by two brothers on the Prowler squads of other years and both were excellent players.

Name: Gilbert Mickleson.
Age: 16.
Weight: 145 lbs.
Height: 5 ft. 11 in.
Class: Junior.

After being out of school all last year, Mickleson came back this year with added height and weight. He played end on the football team this year and won a letter in that. Micky is expected to turn into one of the best players on the basket ball squad as he is an excellent shot and is one of the smartest players the Prowlers have. Although to some he may look light, he can play a ball game without any assistance. He is expected to hold down a guard position but will have plenty of competition in Nelson, Van Pelt, Berg, and Jung.

Miss Peirson Receives Archery Lesson From U

Probably some of you wonder where Miss Peirson gets Archery, Posture Exercises and etc. for our gym classes. She usually gives us a touch of the main work the girls take at the "U" of Minnesota. The year Minnesota specializes in archery, Miss Peirson introduces archery in our gym classes. One can easily see that by this method the girls' gym classes keep up-to-date.

In last week's gym classes the girls checked their height and weight so that it could be recorded on their report cards. She found quite a few students were ten per cent under or twenty per cent over weight.

A large per cent of the girls, including seniors, are waiting to hear something of the Girls Athletic association whereby they can earn extra points for their numerals and letters.

PUPILS TO RECEIVE TWO-DAY VACATION

Teachers to Spend Week-end at Various Places

The pupils of Lincoln High school will again be awarded a two days' vacation commencing on Thursday. This is the annual Thanksgiving vacation. Since our kindergarten days we have heard the story of how our first Thanksgiving was originated. The first Thanksgiving Day was celebrated by the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth in 1621. At this time, the Pilgrims gave thanks for their bountiful harvest. Since then, the last Thursday in November has been celebrated as Thanksgiving Day. At this time we give our thanks for our many blessings.

At the time this was written, your reporter had a very difficult time in locating the teachers. However, those she did find confided the following to her:

Miss Leavitt will spend her Thanksgiving vacation at home. Miss Tandberg said that she intended to stay right at home and enjoy her turkey. Miss Fletcher and Miss Steenerson will be at their homes in Grand Forks and Moorhead, respectively. Miss Greenland said that she would probably stay here. Mr. Lanning was undecided as to where he would spend his vacation. Miss Stapleton, Miss Diebel and Miss Cary Johnson of Central school plan on going to Winnipeg.

Enjoy your Thanksgiving dinner but don't eat too much Turkey! Don't forget that school begins again on Monday morning, December 3.

Sixty students of the Senior Class have ordered their class rings. These rings are unlike the usual class rings in that they are set with sapphire. These students will receive their rings before the Christmas holidays, while the remainder of the class will get their's at a later date. The final date for rings ordered for Christmas was Saturday, November 24.

CHIME PLAYERS TO GIVE CONCERT

Humorists, Singers to Give Program Dec. 3

The students will again have an opportunity to use their activity tickets when the third in the series of programs will be held in the city auditorium, Monday afternoon December 3. At this time, Brown and Menley, a duo tenor, will present a program. The students will be excused from school at 3:30 so that they will have ample time to attend this feature.

Brown and Menley have toured many states in presenting their features. They specialize in chime playing, singing, and humorous readings. Without a doubt, their program will be one of the best to be presented this school term. Miss Menley has an exceptionally fine voice and has received congratulations from the opera star, Lawrence Tibbet.

Every student should plan on attending this program. The price of admission for adults will be 15c. It might be a good suggestion to start locating your activity tickets now.

A notable change has been made in the appearance of the halls in our high school by the addition of the 120 new lockers. Most of the old lockers have been moved down in the basement. The new lockers have been placed upstairs along the hall by the library, and downstairs in the front hall in the main part of the building. The two statues which were formerly upstairs have now been taken down and placed on either side of the trophy case by the domestic science rooms. Twenty-three of the new boys' lockers and about thirty girls' lockers are as yet not in use, but these no doubt, will be taken up as soon as the attendance is back to normal.

EDITORIAL

When any organization undertakes to produce plays, operettas and entertainment of that ilk, they take upon themselves, a two-fold responsibility. The first, to produce an artistic result is primary. That is as it should be. If the piece de resistance has been portrayed intelligently, in good taste, and pleasing to the eye and ear it is a success "no matter what."

If, however, the laudatory remarks are preceded or accompanied by the pleasant sound of tinkling silver dropping in the cash box, then success is assured and paid for. To make the operetta a financial success was a job to be undertaken only by some person with an unlimited amount of resourcefulness and perseverence. Such a person was found. She exerted as much effort as any other person to do her part and do it well. Unlike the directors and the principal characters in the operetta, her name was not known to the general public. She has not received the plaudits that she rightfully deserves. The ticket sales brought approximately two hundred and twenty-one dollars. We take it upon ourselves to make the first payment on a debt of gratitude owed to Miss Wise.

Working under Miss Wise was a host of ticket sellers. They too deserve thanks for the time that they devoted to canvassing the different sections assigned them. The following is a list of those persons connected with ticket sales: Dorothy Traver, Dorothy Rau, Corlan Dokken, Melvin Offerdahl, Amie Novak, Helen Wilson, Art Nelson, Glen Athart, Evelyn Kinsela, Caroline Haughom, Marjorie Matheson, Adele Holmstrom, Chester Anderson, Barbara Reep, Louis Morell, Philip Prichard, Ralph Nelson, Kathleen Monsebroten, and Helen Howick.

Dayton Silk, Omer Snetting, Jack Adkin, Mr. Lanning, Mr. Pope, Mr. Carlson, Mr. Koenker and Mr. Johnson were responsible for the beautiful scenery. They were assisted by the teachers of Washington school. The Misses Fletcher, Dixon, Lunder, and Lamson created the attractive costumes. Miss Peirson, Miss Dixon, and Miss Helquist coached the dancing. The Misses Edberg, Fletcher, Lamson, Diebel, Helquist, Greenland, Dixon, and Peirson were the make-up artists. The posters you saw about town were part of the advertising campaign. They were made by Margery Ward, Brunell Erickson, Barbara Reep, Louise LaBree, Norma Yatesund, Joan Neset, Vivian Whiting and several Junior high school students.

The directors of the operetta were unable to secure an orchestra for last Friday's performance. However, they did get an accomplished pianist. Helen Granum takes a bow and accepts our orchids. The audience was pleasantly entertained between acts by one of the leading characters of "In Old St. Louis." "Dutchy" Douville played a medley of pieces. Cheers for "Dutchy." Lois Morell, Peggy Paupst, Peggy Gustafson, Corlan Dokken, Lucille Reidy, and Dudley Fabrick were the very competent ushers under the direction of Kendall Gustafson as head usher. If you bought your ticket Friday night, you bought it from Harriet Jung. Harold Hoilamen, Art Douville, and Ken Brown took your tickets at the door.

BEAUTIFUL LIGHTS AND COLORS SHOWN

Attractive Costumes Worn By All Operetta Members

After weeks of preparation, the operetta was finally presented on Friday night. Perhaps the thing which added the most to the beauty of it were the costumes. They were selected by a committee who secured their ideas from the cover of the musical score and the movies and outside reading.

The colors were selected as to their suitability for the lights, the background and as to contrast in colors. They were cut out by the committee and the mothers fit and sewed them.

Every member of the chorus bought at least one of his costumes and in all probability over $100 was spent on costumes.

Some of the most beautiful costumes were the two worn by Arnhild Fjelstad—one a flowered rose color and the other a blue organdy —and the two worn by Flora Schroeder — both a yellow color, also the soldiers uniforms worn by James Nesse, Robert Douville, Jerome Salveson, and Gordon Caldis. The costumes of the six girls, the peasants, the pirates and the hunters and their wives all added to the picturesqueness of the operetta.

The operetta, which was presented last Friday by the Lincoln High School Chorus, was well attended during both afternoon and evening performances. The afternoon program, which was given for the benefit of the grade school children, was presented to an audience of 421 children. An audience of approximately one thousand attended the evening performance.

Expenses for the costumes, the scenery, and miscellaneous items amounted to approximately $100. The total amount received from the sale of tickets amounted to $221.15. The proceeds are to be used for defraying expenses for the District Music Contest to be held at Crookston early in the spring.

The cooking students in Miss Fletcher's classes have been taking lessons on helping their mothers on Thanksgiving. They have had practice in making Thanksgiving dishes, baked and cooked, various methods of fixing cranberries and turkeys, and how to bake pumpkin pies.

SCENERY MADE BY SHOP BOYS

Colorful Backgrounds Add to Operetta Success

In the first act of the operetta, "In Old St. Louis" which was presented last Friday evening the scenery represented the home and warehouse in the year 1800 of Du Liza, a fur trader. The buildings were painted white and both faced an open square or street.

In the second act mother nature had lavishly unfolded her beauties. This island in the Mississippi River was the home of a band of pirates. It seemed ideal for this purpose with its rocks, huge trees, and hanging vines shining in the sunlight, beautifully colored with hues which belong to a tropical isle.

The third act used the same scenery as was used in Act 1.

Included among those who helped to make the operetta success should be included the people who worked so diligently to make the scenery. Among those in this group are Mr. Koenker, Mr. Pope, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Carlson, Dayton Silk, Omer Snetting, and Jack Adkins.

FOOTBALL BOYS HAVE BANQUET

Players Attend Dinner at Kinghorn's Last Saturday

Last Saturday evening between six and six-thirty o'clock could be seen entering the Kinghorn home Mr. Dooley, Mr. Chalmers, Tom Fuller, Art Nelson, Lloyd Bradley, Wayne Kielty, George Berge, Arnold Gunderson, Clifford Hetland, Arnt Wold, Milton Nesse, Gilbert Mickleson, Martin Jorde, James Van Pelt, Jerome Havel. They were all guests of Walter Kinghorn for a 6:30 dinner. (They were all dressed in their Sunday suits, had their hair combed, and Mr. Dooley wore the suit that his social science classes have heard so much about.)

A three course dinner was served. The tables were attractively decorated in school colors with gold and blue footballs as center pieces. Miniature football players held the place cards. Mr. Dooley and Tom Fuller spoke. Mrs. Kinghorn's hospitality was greatly appreciated.

HERE AND THERE

The Board of Eduction held a special meeting last Tuesday afternoon to make a final decision on the proposed question of employing a new janitor for the winter months. All members voted in favor of it. Bernhard Rasmusson, the new janitor, started his work on Monday.

The Junior English students will begin next week to create thought books on individual expressions on readings of American literature.

Senior library lessons will begin next Tuesday.

JOSIES NOTES

Can you beat this I just got the news this morning. I don't know where it came from, it might of been from our biologist, Mr. Chalmers, but wherever it came from, just "keep yourself ever so cool" and listen to this. It is about the discovery of the new element, WOMEN.

Element. Women.
Element No. 93.
Symbol: No.
Member of human family.
Occurence:

Can be found wherever man exists. Seldom occurs in free or natural state. Quality depends on state in which it is found.

Combined states preferred.

Physical properties:

Always appears in disguised form. Surface of face seldom unprotected by coating of paint or powder (composition immaterial). Boils at nothing and may freeze at any point or moment. However it melts when properly treated. Very bitter if not treated right.

Chemical Properties:

Extremely active. Possesses a great affinity for gold, silver, platinum and all kinds of precious stones. Violent reactions when left alone by man. Possesses ability to absorb all kinds of expensive food at any time. Undissolved by liquids but activity is greatly increased when saturated with spirit solution.

Sometimes yields to pressure. Turns green when placed beside a better appearing specimen. Ages very rapidly. Fresh varieties have a great magnetic attraction. Note: Highly explosive and likely to be dangerous in unexperienced hands.

It's a wonder Dayton S. doesn't see rocks in his dreams after forming so many beautiful rocks for the operetta.

Here are some of the whims and what have you of the teachers. Look for these each week:

Name: Miss Victoria Edberg.

What is your main hobby? Skating.

Who is your favorite actor? Robert Montgomery.

Who is your favorite actress? Helen Hayes.

Who is your favorite author? Margaret Culkins Banning.

Which place do you consider the most interesting of any you have visited? Feeble Minded Institute at Faribault.

Why? After seeing them in their condition I am so glad that I am teaching normal students.

NAME: Mrs. Blanche Korstad.

What is your main hobby? Flowers and rhymes.

Who is your favorite actor? George Arliss.

Who is your favorite actress? Shirley Temple.

Who is your favorite author? Robert Browning.

Which place do you consider the most interesting of any you have visited? State of Colorado. Why? I like it for its naturalness. It hasn't been primped up.

CAN you imagine—

Audrey A. as a fat lady dancer of the circus?

Wayne K. without a certain "almost" blonde?

Jack Booren not singing the "Continental?" (He's swell at it, too.)

THREE SPINSTERS PRESENT REVIEW

Old Maids Sing and Dance at Assembly Wednesday

It's quite an accepted fact that advertising pays, so the members of the operetta "In Old St. Louis" presented an advertising skit to the student body on Wednesday morning at 11:25. Previous to this time the students had been curious as to the origin and meaning of the "Three Old Maids." They certainly were not disappointed.

Kendall Gustafson, publicity manager of the operetta, presided as master-of-cermonies. In his opening sentences he asked the students to give their whole-hearted support and attend the operetta as an appreciation for the diligent work put forth by the members of the cast.

Next, Lucinda (Phyllis Norbeck) Belinda (Annette Simonson), and Malinda (Lois Nelson), St. Louis society matrons, contributed to the program. They sang part of their special number and demonstrated a few steps in their dances. Helen Granum accompanied them at the piano.

After this special assembly had been concluded, many students realized that the operetta was a worth-while project and not to be missed. Maybe the ticket sellers didn't appreciate this fact!

When mentioning those who contributed to the program, we should not forget to mention those boys who worked so diligently on making the scenery. Included in this group were Dayton Silk, Omer Snetting, and Jack Adkins.

The sewing classes have finshed their woolen garments and are making plans for a style show.

THANKSGIVING

—By Kendall Gustafson

Autumnal joys have all been ours,
We've seen the trees, the leaves the flowers,
Arrayed in a medley of tinted hues
Painted by One who asks no dues
For all He's done to give us happiness supreme—
To give Him thanks is surely just, I deem.

For life, for love, for parents dear
For guiding us through another year,
For food, for clothes, for shelter overhead,
For friendship's fires that are not dead,
For liberty and right to worship Thee,
We offer thanks in all sincerity.

When we live in our tomorrows,
We ask that they be freed from sorrows,
May Thy blessings give us lasting health,
May our aim in life be not for wealth,
For peace is never born of greed,
O, Mighty One, accept our thanks, fulfill our need.

PLUMMER

Plummer Defeats Alvarado

In the opening game of the season the Plummer High School basketball team defeated Alvarado 51-11. The game was rather ragged, both teams passing wildly at times and missing a number of shots under the basket. Frequent substitutions were used by both coaches and neither team had a stand-out performer. The scoring of the Plummer team was evenly distributed with Alvin Johnson getting four baskets in a row the second quarter for the best individual performance of the evening. Four letter-men from last year were in the opening line-up and gave a creditable account for themselves. Lloyd Hanson, Ed. Langlie, Arnie Karlstad and Deane Schoenauer, lettermen, teamed with Stanley Karlstad, a promising frosh, to start the game for Plummer. Donald Dalton, Alvin Johnson, Jack Ripple, and Joe Fallon saw action with the Plummer quint and will undoubtedly see more during the year.

WALLACE OFFERS CORN-HOG PACTS FOR COMING YEAR

Government Asks Smaller Cut in Litters Raised During 1935

Provisions of the 1935 corn-hog contract which the Agricultural Adjustment Administration will offer both to signers and nonsigners of the 1934 contract were announced by Secretary Wallace and Administrator Davis Monday as follows:

The individual contract signer will be asked to hold the number of market hogs he produces from 1935 liters to 90 per cent of the adjusted average number produced from 1932 and 1933 litters, instead of 75 per cents as provided in the 1934 contract. Purchases of feeder pigs by contract signers from other contract signers will be unlimited, but purchases of feeder pigs from non-signers will remain limited to the average number bought during 1932 and 1933.

The contract signer will receive a hog adjustment payment of $15 for each hog included in the 10 per cent reduction. Although this payment is at the same rate per hog reduced as in 1934, the total hog payment per farm will be less because a smaller reduction will be required.

Including returns from the increased number of hogs the producer may raise, however, his total income will be larger under this contract than under the old one, the Secretary points out. Contracting producers who do not raise the full number of hogs allowed under the contract will have more corn to sell or for future livestock feeding.

TWO MEN OVER 80 JOIN DEER HUNTERS

Little Falls—Age means nothing to two Morrison county deer hunters, who passed three score and ten period more than a decade ago. The veteran huntsmen are August Dehler, Sr., Buckman, 86 and James Turnham, Little Falls and Maple Plain, 84. Until two years ago, when he was ill, Mr. Dehler had never missed a deer season since he was a youth. This year he went to Pine county which has been his favorite hunting ground for a number of seasons. Mr. Turnham accompanied a party to the north wilderness around Big Fork.

60,000 Minnesotans to Take Part in Statewide Winter Sports Program

A state wide, competitive sports program for more than 60,000 participants will be directed this winter by the recreational department of the Minnesota SERA (State Emergency Relief administration). Nothing similar has ever before been attempted in an American state, according to George K. Tuttle, supervisor of recreation.

Plans contemplate contests in basketball and volleyball, speed skating and hockey. Except for the latter game, to which only men are eligible, entries are open for men, women and children. The state athletic supervisor, J. W. Crossett, is in charge of the games, which will continue thru the winter months and terminate in the early spring.

For selective purposes, Mr. Crossett explained, Minnesota has been divided into districts, and these in turn into regions. District tournaments are arranged to select eligibles for the regional contests. Top notchers in the regional elimination games will fight for places in the finals.

The concluding events in speed skating and hockey are scheduled to be held in Minneapolis during the first week in February. St. Paul will be the site for the finals in basketball and volleyball during the first week in March, exact date to be announced later.

SERA Mattress Factory Established in Duluth

Manufacture of mattresses for the needy in Northern Minnesota has begun in the SERA (State Emergency Relief administration) factory in Duluth. This is the third unit in the setup to produce a total of 60,000 mattresses for the state's relief families. Two plants of the same nature are located in Minneapolis and St. Paul, respectively. At top capacity of 75 mattresses daily, 50 people will be employed.

The Carat

The carat, a measure of weight or fineness, is used by jewelers to express both. A carat weighs four grains or the one hundred twentieth part of a Troy ounce. In determining the fineness of a precious metal 24 carats is considered the standard of purity. Hence an eighteen-carat gold ring would be one containing 18 parts in 24 of pure gold.

Handicap to Mt. Everest Ascent

The conquering of Mt. Everest is hindered because the peak, called in Tibetan Chomolungma, Goddess Mother of the World, is an object of sacred worship. The Rongbuk valley that leads to the glaciers of the mountain is reserved as the retreat of the Holy Hermit alone. The area is one of complete seclusion from the outer world.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

CLEVELAND—Asserting that a "new saloon is here, infinitely more dangerous than the old," Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith of Evanston, Ill., national president, Saturday night called upon the W. C. T. U. to pursue a five-point five-year program of education and action against alcohol and "allied social perils."

"A single legalized saloon today with the social allure which modern advertising gives, is a greater menace to a community than any number of speakeasies," Mrs. Smith said. "These could be closed by honest officials, but the saloon continues because the state authorizes it."

More than 1,000 delegates of the temperance organization were assembled here for the five-day national convention which opened tonight.

Saturday afternoon, they met in a pre-convention "school" where Miss Bertha R. Palmer, national director of scientific temperance instruction, demonstrated how the effects of the use of alcohol should be taught.

Mrs. Smith listed the five-point program, which will call for the raising of a $500,000 fund, as follows: Deepening the spiritual life of the union and all individuals; Opposing alcohol as a beverage through scientific and social education, and by legal abolition of the liquor traffic locally, by states and in the nation. A campaign for character building embracing "aggressive action" against gambling, including lotteries and race betting, a campaign for "cleaner and better motion pictures, and unrelenting opposition to "the return of the scourge of red light districts." An educational campaign among voters including a study of the relation of public expenditures to liquor. Study classes in behalf of world peace, including information of the costs of wars and progress of investigations of munitions industries.

PLANS MADE FOR ANNUAL VALLEY SPELLING EVENT

Rural School Pupils to Compete at Crookston February 8

Rural school students in thirteen Northwestern Minnesota counties will participate in the Red River Valley Spelling Contest, which will be held under the auspices of the Red River Valley Development association the closing day of Winter Shows week, February 8, 1935. Spelling lists have been forwarded to county superintendents in Becker, Clay, Clearwater, Kittson, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Otter Tail, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau and Wilkin counties.

The 1935 contest will be in charge of the following committee: John M. Henderson, county superintendent of Otter Tail county; Miss Ellen M. Anderson, county superintendent of Clay county, and Clarence Gordhamer, county superintendent of Wilkin county.

Each county will select its county champion during the latter part of January or early February. The champions will then meet for the final spelldown during Winter Shows week. Championship trophies and cash prizes will be awarded winners by the Red River Valley Development association, of which W. E. Dahlquist of this city is president, and N. M. Sivertson, Crookston, treasurer.

Margaret Mair, of Otter Tail county was declared the champion rural school speller of the Red River Valley last year. Second place was won by William Nordling, Kittson county; third, Beatta Vange of Norman county; fourth, Fern Adolphson, of Marshall county, and fifth, Geneva Stenstad, Clearwater county.

1200 RELIEF CATTLE ROAM IN THE WOODS

Grand Rapids— Somewhere in the north woods are 1200 cattle roaming loose, part of the herd which was driven to Grand Rapids as part of the government relief program, and the government is interested enough in getting them back to offer a bounty of $2 a head for anyone bringing them in. While some of the cattle have doubtless died while in the woods, either from injury or from becoming mired in mud holes, a good many have been seen by hunters and by others in small bands scattered about the country. In some cases the cattle have wandered many miles from where they were herded. Quite a number of people now have the impression that the cattle running at large are public property and can be slaughtered or kept. They belong to the government, however, which is determined that as many as can be found will be brought in and slaughtered for the needy.

Farmers of State Get $58,000 as Relief Aid to Offset Hail Losses

Checks totaling almost $58,000 have been sent to Minnesota farmers whose crops were damaged by hailstorms this year, announces L. P. Zimmerman, acting administrator of the state emergency relief administration.

This represents only a part of the awards made in 1,449 cases. Payments due the remaining claimants will bring the total reimbursement for crop losses from hail to $100,000.

The livestock division of the SERA made the investigation necessary to expend the hail relief funds, which were appropriated by the state executive council. Checks to farmers in the northwestern section of the state averaged $64.78, while in the southwestern part the average was $72.42.

Recipients pay for this relief with work on approved SERA projects in their home counties. They are paid at the rate of 65 cents an hour for labor, and 30 cents an hour for each team used.

Some of the farmers benefiting from this hail relief expenditure reside in Pennington county.

Insull is Acquitted of Mail Fraud Charges in Chicago Court Saturday

Samuel Insull and 16 co-defendants were acquitted of mail fraud charges in Federal Court Saturday after the jury had deliberated only two hours.

The verdict was reached after the jury had taken three ballots. The first was nine to three for acquittal, the second eleven to one for acquittal and the third brought the verdict.

Insull thus found vindication in the courts for his actions in the depression-ridden days of 1930-31-32 when he fought desperately to save his empire.

Insull is 75 years old and he time and again emphasized that the prison sentence to him was of secondary importance to vindication in the eyes of thousands who had invested money with him.

RELIEF FOOD TOO FANCY, STORES ON 'BLACK LIST'

Browns Valley—It doesn't pay to be charitable to fellow men, the majority of Browns Valley stores found out this week when they were hauled on the carpet for allotting to their relief customers fancier food than was allowed on the relief orders. The result was that all but two of the Brown Valley stores have been placed on the "black list" of relief orders until further notice. The orders state on the back emphatically the only necessities that can be purchased with them, and the local merchants in playing good samaritans to fellow men in distress ran into plenty of trouble.

FARM BORROWERS PAY $74,000,000 ON DEBTS IN STATE

Creditors Get 83.4 Cents out of Every Dollar, Says Land Bank Head

Farmers of Minnesota who have borrowed from the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, and from the land bank commissioner, have paid 83.4 cents out of every dollar they borrowed to repay their old creditors, says President Roy A. Nelson of the land bank. The period covered in the study made of the distribution of loan proceeds is that from June 1, 1933 to November 1, 1934, and the aggregate sum thus paid to Minnesota creditors is over $74,083,000.

Twenty-three and seven-tenths cents out of each dollar, or a total of $21,308,000 in round numbers went to commercial banks, besides ½ of 1 per cent, or $442,000 to banks in the hands of receivers and conservators; 15 cents, or $13,480,000 went to insurance companies to refinance mortgages held by them; 2.4 cents or $2,157,000 went to various tax authorities and helped to sustain state, county, school district and other public activities.

Other creditors who received substantial portions were as follows: joint stock land bank, 3.3 cents per dollar, or more than $2,960,000; merchants, 0.5 of a cent per dollar, or $440,000; while other unclassified creditors, including mortgage loan companies, private mortgage lenders, retired farmers, and other farm creditors received 38 cents out of each dollar, or a total of $34,164,000. This brings the total portion of the funds received by Minnesota farmers from the land bank and the land bank commissioner to 83.4 cents per dollar devoted exclusively to refinancing their indebtedness, a total of more than $74,083,000.

CAPITOL NEWS

When it drew up the liquor tax bill, the Legislature last winter estimated that it would bring $7,000,000 annually to the state. Up to date, according to David R. Arundel, liquor commissioner in charge of liquor tax collections, that sum has been exceeded by $400,000 with still a month and a half to go before the first year of repeal is over. This revenue goes for drought relief.

Governor Olson is in Washington on matters of state relief for this winter. He left following a pardon board hearing Monday and Tuesday. Despite a trying campaign the chief executive shows no outward effects of his many speaking engagements and hundreds of miles of travel.

The First Bank Stock hearing to determine whether charges shall be brought against that chain bank for fraudulent stock sales will have to await the end of the Northwest Bancorporation trial at Moorhead where 20 bankers are being tried on swindle charges. W. E. G. Watson, Kenneth Haycraft and Garfield Rustad, attorneys for the state prosecuting the Banco officials are also, with the exception of Rustad, leading the First Stock hearing examination.

With the advent of the big game hunting season this week, the Minnesota Conservation Commission in session in St. Paul over the week end, called attention to the fact that "the worst enemy of rural life in northern Minnesota are the forest fires that sweep over many sections annually." Fires do untold damage to young trees, take away the soil covering and kill large quantities of game and fish, it was pointed out. Hunters are urged to exercise added caution because of the hundreds of CCC workers who are now in the woods where deer may be hunted.

Taxpayers of Clay county were assured by the Governor that they would not have to bear the expenses of prosecuting the directors of the Bancorporation whose trial takes place in Moorhead this month. In a letter to James Garrity, County Attorney of Clay County, Governor Olson said that funds which were appropriated by the Legislature to investigate and prosecute the Banco officials will be used to defray expenses of the trial. Trial of J. C. Thomson, president of the corporation, is scheduled for approximately November 19th.

More and more, public sentiment seems to be swinging away from the once popular notion that regulation of motor vehicle speeds on public highways is of only minor importance. According to officers of the state highway patrol, the trend among students of traffic safety is to indict speed as the primary cause of most fatal automobile accidents. E. Raymond Cato, chief of the California highway patrol, makes this statement: "Fatalities increase in something like geometric proportion with the speed of the vehicle at the time of the collision." This condemnation of excessive speed bears out conclusions of the Minnesota patrol that driving too fast is unquestionably one of the most common causes of serious highway accidents.

THIEVES KILL COW IN FARM PASTURE

New Ulm—A new wrinkle in securing a free supply of beef was tried successfully near New Ulm last week when thieves entered the pasture on the Otto Fritsche farm, caught a cow, slaughtered it, carried off about three-quarters of the carcass. As the pasture is located only about one-third of a mile from the farm home, the purloiners must have worked quietly, for their activity did not arouse members of the Fritsche family, who were asleep in the house. The midnight butchers apparently carried their supply of meat to the highway, loaded it on a truck, and drove off.

COUNTY AGENT HANDLED MANY DUTIES IN 1934

Annual Report is Completed for Submission to the County Board

NUMEROUS FEDERAL PROJECTS EXECUTED

Four-H Club Project This Year Enrolled Record Membership

Increased reliance on the county agent organization in carrying out government projects for benefiting the farming industry is revealed in the annual report of County Agent R. M. Douglass completed this week for submission to the county board and the University extension service.

After citing improvements in the status of most county farmers due to satisfactory crops and fair prices, the report says, "Emergency work has been the most important project of the county extension service this year.

"Organization of the Production Credit association, Pennington-Red Lake county corn-hog control association, Pennington county wheat production control association, in addition to seed loans, grasshopper work, Bangs disease testing and hail relief have taken up practically all the time that ordinarily was given to other projects.

"These emergency projects have been of utmost importance to the farmer, and have helped many take advantage of government aid."

Four-H club work again played a prominent part in extension work in the county, a total of 562 boys and girls being enrolled, the largest number in the history of the county. A total of 42 boys and girls were awarded free trips, 25 were enrolled as junior leaders, and new clubs were organized in Sanders and Bray townships.

Among the club activities mentioned in the report are the one-act play contest May 29, the attendance of 125 boys and girls at the Northwest school 4-H short course in June, home economics achievement day July 18, clothing and style revue July 20, bread baking achievement day July 24, nine club tours in July, exhibits by 300 boys and girls at the county fair, canning achievement day August 22, county 4-H picnic August 19, and the fall achievement day October 20.

Other projects included the signing of corn-hog contracts by 845 farmers in Pennington and Red Lake counties; the receipt of state aid by 70 of 100 signers of hail relief applications; and the signing of 258 seed loan applications last spring.

Grasshopper control work was carried out in the county on an extensive scale again this year, a total of 538 farmers spreading 188 tons of mash prepared in 24 mixing stations. Eighty tons of mash are now on hand available for use next year.

Six hundred county farmers signed up for the Bangs disease test, and 185 herds comprising 3000 cattle have been tested to date, about .85 per cent of the herds showing some infection.

Buying by the state of hay and straw for the drouth areas was carried out under the direction of S. E. Hunt. A total of 125 carloads have been shipped and 100 more are under contract.

BLAZE SATURDAY DESTROYS BARN, NINE HEAD STOCK

Origin of Fire on Slinger Farm West of City is Unknown

A disastrous fire Saturday morning at 7:30 destroyed a barn and nine head of livestock on the C. T. Slinger farm four miles west of the city on Highway 1. In the blaze, the origin of which is unknown, six cows, a bull and two horses were destroyed.

Mr. Slinger gained entrance to the flaming structure long enough to release two horses, two cows and three spring calves. The building was completely destroyed in less than a half hour, and the loss also included several sets of harness in addition to a quantity of hay and feed.

The loss of the barn and horses was covered by insurance, but there was no insurance on the cattle, Mr. Slinger said.

314 IN COUNTY DIE OF TUBERCULOSIS IN 23 YEAR PERIOD

War on Disease Being Waged Thru Christmas Seal Campaign

Three hundred and fourteen Pennington County men, women and children have been killed by tuberculosis in the past 23 years. During the same period nearly 50,000 deaths from this disease have been reported throughout Minnesota. These facts are contained in a Christmas Seal bulletin issued by the Minnesota Public Health Association.

Although more than 1,000 deaths from tuberculosis occurred in the state for the year 1933 alone, the actual death rate had decreased slightly from the previous year. Deaths reported in 1933 were 1,003 compared with 1,019 in 1932.

Minnesota has maintained its place in the nation as eighth lowest in the number of deaths per population, according to a report issued by the National Tuberculosis Association. Arizona has the highest death rate of any state with 236.9 per 100,000 population which is a decrease from the state's showing for 1932 of 250 per 100,000. Minnesota had 38.7 last year compared with 40.8 per 100,000 in 1932.

While the percentage of deaths from this plague has decreased remarkably during past years, it is still a leading cause of death between the ages of 15 and 45, the bulletin shows. A constant battle against the disease has been waged in every state and county including a program of public health, nursing, tuberculin testing, clinics for school children and health education for both children and adults, all carried on by funds derived from the annual sale of Christmas Seals.

PIONEER GRYGLA COUPLE HONORED ON ANNIVERSARY

Friends Honor Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Mussey on Their Golden Wedding

Large numbers of Marshall county and Northwestern Minnesota friends paid their respects to Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Mussey, pioneer Marshall county couple, in honor of their golden wedding anniversary observed at their home in Grygla Sunday afternoon, November 25, says the Warren Sheaf.

Mr. and Mrs. Mussey were married in Glyndon in 1884 and came to Warren in 1885, Mr. Mussey being engaged as a printer at the Warren Sheaf. In 1886, Mr. Mussey in partnership with the late John P. Mattson, purchased the Sheaf, Argyle Banner and Stephen Leader. However in the early 90's, Mr. Mussey sold his interest in the Sheaf to Mr. Mattson and moved to Thief River Falls where he operated the Thief River Falls News-Press for many years before going to Grygla to start the Grygla Eagle.

Mr. Mussey is one of the oldest active printers in the entire state and although he disposed of the Eagle about a year ago to his grandson, he nevertheless takes interest in the paper and will still go down to the printing office and offer his help.

During the afternoon Sunday, many friends offered their congratulations to the couple at a reception at the Mussey home. A gift in remembrance of the occasion from the Grygla friends was presented to the honored couple by O. J. Johnson of Grygla. A delicious lunch was also served.

SPEAKER TELLS P. T. A. OF FIGHT ON TUBERCULOSIS

Representative of Public Health Group Gives Talk Monday

An enlightening talk on tuberculosis and the efforts being made to eradicate the disease was given by Dr. Mary Ghostley of the Pokegama sanatorium at the December meeting of the Parent-Teacher association Monday evening in the Lincoln high school assembly room.

Asserting that more persons under the age of 21 die of tuberculosis than of any other ailment, the speaker said that the disease is not hereditary and that every case arises from another case. She emphasized the necessity of the Mantoux test in determining the presence of the disease.

Dr. Ghostley cited three lines of attack—educational, efforts to prevent infection and the curing of those afflicted. As a means of combatting the plague she urged support of the work of the Minnesota Public Health association which is financed thru the sale of Christmas seals.

The health theme of the program was further developed by a Christmas seal skit presented by a group of children under the supervision of Miss Harriet Helquist. Mrs. A. M. Smith, local seal sale campaign chairman, spoke briefly, asking for public cooperation. It was voted that the association should contribute $5.

A vocal solo by Miss Alice Brdeson accompanied by Miss Irma Sprungen, and a group of selections by the high school band under the direction of S. P. Orwoll completed the program.

'Turkeys' Mean Thief River Falls, Declares Journal Commentator

D. A. W., widely read columnist for the Minneapolis Journal, last Friday commented as follows on the part this community plays in supplying the nation with Thanksgiving turkeys:

Now that you've stuffed yourself full of turkey, like a silly ape, we'd like to rub it in a bit, and make you read some more about turkeys:

Minnesota is the second state in total turkey production in America. But Thief River Falls, Minn., is the largest turkey shipping point in all of America. It's about a 9 to 1 shot that the turkey you just gorged yourself on came from Thief River Falls. The Land O' Lakes Creameries have shipped out 350,000 turkeys for eastern Thanksgiving tables in the past few days. This makes 175 carloads of gobblers, which brought $875,000. Incidentally, Minnesota farmers got about 5 cents a pound more this year than last. This establishes H. F. Meyer, salesmanager for Land O' Lakes, as All-American turkey seller. And I hope your turkey made you sick—

HARRIS CONTESTS SENATE ELECTION OF E. L. TUNGSETH

Files Papers Friday Charging Errors in Tabulation of Ballots

Paul Harris, defeated candidate for the state senatorship in the election November 6, last Friday started proceedings in district court to contest the election of E. L. Tungseth.

He charges that the official returns of the canvassing boards showing 6,538 votes for Tungseth and 6,437 for Harris are incorrect and that he, Harris, received the highest total vote.

The papers on file assert that at least 15 votes in each of the three counties in the district were cast in favor of Harris and were not counted thru mistake, inadvertence or neglect. It is further alleged that at least 15 votes in each county were returned in favor of Tungseth to which he was not entitled and that at least ten votes were illegally cast for Tungseth in each county by persons under the age of 21 or not duly qualified residents. Another charge is to the effect that the ballots in the first and second wards in Thief River Falls were not properly guarded after the closing of the polls.

Attorneys for the plaintiff in the action are O. E. Lewis of Bagley, H. O. Berve of this city and Charles F. Houghton, Sr., of Red Lake Falls.

NEARLY 500 BIRDS ON EXHIBITION AT SHOW

Principal Winners in Turkey Classes Announced Wednesday

The unusual spectacle of 20 sedate businessmen guiding the erratic course of as many turkeys down the street in front of the Auditorium will be presented this afternoon at 1:30 as a feature of the Pennington county poultry show now in progress in the Auditorium. A large gathering of spectators is expected to be attracted by the event.

In respect to number of entries this year's exhibition surpasses recent shows, there being nearly 500 birds of all classes on display. Professor Herner of Winnipeg expressed satisfaction with the poultry entries are not fully judged, while Tom Canfield, judge of poultry, expressed the opinion the poultry entries are not fully representative of the birds in this section. The exhibits include nearly 150 turkeys in open and 4-H classes.

Winners announced last night included the award of first place in the open class of bronze turkey of cockerels to Leonard Yonke, St. Hilaire 4-H club worker. Mrs. Charles Madsen of Karlstad won first with her adult bronze cock and W. J. Janda, St. Hilaire, first in yearling cock, adult hen, yearling hen and pullets.

In the White Holland class Owen Weckwerth of Hazel won first honors with his yearling hen, while Vernon Copp was first place with his cockerel and pullet. In the Narragansett class Mrs. Madsen, Karlstad, won first with her adult hen and adult cock.

Fifty members of the poultry association and their friends attended the banquet served Wednesday evening in the Legion club rooms by members of the auxiliary drum corps. C. H. Toomey presided and introduced a group of speakers including Mayor E. L. Tungseth, B. O. Norby and the two show judges, Professor Herner and Tom Canfield.

Mr. Norby cited the advantages of marketing quality poultry, and said that growers more and more are withholding birds from market until they are in proper condition. He asserted that turkey raising is still profitable in spite of the rise in feed costs.

Professor Herner congratulated the city on having such a fine building as the Auditorium available for the poultry show and similar undertakings. Mr. Canfield echoed the opinion, saying that the building offers ideal facilities for show purposes.

In closing the program, Mr. Toomey thanked the city council for granting to the association the use of the Auditorium, and expressed appreciation to the auxiliary members for the splendid turkey dinner which they served.

The bride was attractive in a frock of rust colored silk crepe, and wore a corsage of talisman roses. Her attendant was attired in a dress of aquamarine, and carried a bouquet of sweetpeas and pink roses. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the Ness home, after which the couple departed on a trip to southern Minnesota and Iowa, visiting at Sac City at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. A Jeremiad

A jeremiad is a lamentation—a tale of sorrow, disappointment, or complaint. The name is an allusion to Lamentations, a book in the Old Testament attributed to Jeremiah.

"Cold Light"

Formerly scientists explained "cold light" by calling it phosphorescence and letting it go at that. Studies have revealed that it is all due to the same substances created by the firefly—though they are made by different animals in each case.

Before an improvised altar of ferns and chrysanthemums in the living room at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Mrs. Knutson, who is matron of "House of Mercy" at Fargo, N. D., described her visit to the Holy land. It was a pleasure to listed to one who had traveled extensively and who could pass on to others so vividly that which she had seen. We are hoping for a return visit at an early date.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Prestabek entertained Saturday at their home at a whist party, and at midnight a two course luncheon was served.—Prizes were won by Mrs. R. H. McDonald for high score and Mrs. John Kast for low. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Engen, Mr. and Mrs. John Kast, and daughter Marian, Mr. and Mrs Nicholl Urdahl and daughter Delores, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McDonald, and Miss Hazel Erickson.

Mrs. Martha Baarsgaard and son Otto of Fargo, N. D., spent Thanksgiving here at the home of the latter's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Kirklie. The latter returned home the same day while Mrs. Baarsgaard remained for a longer visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Noble Urdahl and children of Karlstad were guests at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Urdahl, Thanksgivng Day.

Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Urdahl returned home Wednesday from a ten day vacation trip spent in the southern part of the state. They were accompanied from Bemidji by their daughter Orda and niece Margaret Urdahl, who came home to spend the Thanksgiving vacation at their respective homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Christianson spent Thanksgiving at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Tofsley at Climax.—Elmer Ronken visited over Thanksgiving at his home here last week, returning to Thief River Falls Thursday evening — Mrs. Alice Brandt and daughter Lorainne and Lorna Anderson and Mrs. Knutson were guests Thanksgiving at the home of their brother, Carl Dalager, at St. Hilaire.

A Jeremiad

A jeremiad is a lamentation—a tale of sorrow, disappointment, or complaint. The name is an allusion to Lamentations, a book in the Old Testament attributed to Jeremiah.

"Cold Light"

Formerly scientists explained "cold light" by calling it phosphorescence and letting it go at that. Studies have revealed that it is all due to the same substances created by the firefly—though they are made by different animals in each case.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Women's Christian Temperance union Tuesday had before it a picture of a new political party, dedicated to spiritual values, moral welfare and abolition of the liquor traffic.

Dr. Milton Conover of Yale university put the picture together for delegates to the national convention of the temperance union with the remark that the new party was needed "to restore the two-party political system in America."

"We must organize quickly so that the next party will know it will have to be dry," Dr. Conover said. "The new party should afford a vote to a great number of qualified voters who now don't go to the polls. It ought to absorb the minor parties by showing them that the fundamental interest is in the abolition of their greatest enemy."

Dr. Izora Scott, representative of the W.C.T.U.'s bureau of legislation in Washington is scheduled to announce the legislative program of the organization Tuesday.

Delegates Monday night enacted the roles played by organizers of the W.C.T.U. here 60 years ago this month.

There is now one of the major problems before the convention was the medicinal use of liquor. Mrs. Pearl Kendall-Hess said the organization is now seeking to promote nonalcoholic medication and co-operation with the movement against illicit drug trade.

Official Paper of the City of Thief River Falls

A half a dozen rural community clubs will join together at the Auditorium Saturday evening in a strictly home talent program and it will be an event that should be both interesting and entertaining. These rural clubs have done an excellent job of developing talent among their own members. The joint program to be presented Saturday evening is the first attempt to bring these clubs together in friendly competition and it is to be hoped that this first attempt will be so successful that it will become a regular annual party. The idea has great possibilities.

In spite of the twenty-five per cent reduction in the valuation of homesteads, the total valuation in the city of Thief River Falls decreased only slightly from last year and will mean only a four per cent increase in the local mill rate of tax levy for the coming year. In other words, on the basis of these figures, there should be a substantial decrease in the taxes on homesteads in the city next year while the increased taxes on property that does not classify as homestead will be comparatively small. The fact that tax receipts have increased the past two years in spite of reduced levies indicates that delinquency in the county is decreasing and the prospects for further substantial reductions in levies in the near future are very good. The local tax burden should lighten rapidly from now on.

THE EXAMINERS' REPORT

The fact that the local school district continued to do business with the Thief River Falls Times after A. E. Mattson, one of the owners of the Times, became a member of the board, was criticized by the examiners who recently conducted an audit of the books and affairs of the district. The comment of the examiners was as follows:

> Section 10305, Mason's Statutes, provides that no public officer who shall be authorized to make any contract in his official capacity shall voluntarily become interested individually, directly or indirectly, in such contract.
> The Thief River Falls Times, a weekly newspaper, has furnished a large amount of supplies to the district. A. E. Mattson is part owner of such newspaper.
> The Thief River Falls Times has during the entire period under review been designated as the official paper for the district. In this connection the board stated that up to the spring of 1933, such paper was the only legal newspaper in the district. However, during the period covering the 1933-34 fiscal year there were and still are two legal newspapers within the district.

There is no intimation in the criticism of the examiners that the printing and publication charges of the Times were excessive during Mr. Mattson's service on the board. The criticism is based entirely on the fact that the school district, of which Mr. Mattson was an officer, did business with a newspaper in which Mr. Mattson was interested. Similar criticism is directed at other members of the board. In none of the criticism along this line is it inferred that the school district has not received full value for what money has been spent. The violations have been entirely technical.

According to the examiners there are similar technical violations of this law in practically every local unit of government in the state. If the law were strictly enforced few business men could afford to serve their communities in a public capacity. And such a situation certainly would not be in the best interests of the public.

Running true to form, the poultry show brought with it a cold wave again this year.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

With another annual Christmas Seal sale under way it is proper to call attention to the fact that this community has enjoyed far reaching benefits from the contributions it has made to this important work in the past.

In a tuberculin testing and X-ray survey conducted in the schools of Thief River Falls last year, nearly two hundred dollars of Christmas Seal funds was expended for X-rays of positive reactors.

Sixty-two crippled children and adults were examined at an Orthopedic clinic held in Thief River Falls this fall.

Included in the health education material sent to Pennington County schools are thermometers, cup dispensers and paper cups, towel cabinets and paper towels, first aid kits, health books and recreation supplies.

Besides assistance to the nursing service of the county several health talks have been given to teachers of local and rural schools.

These are some of the direct benefits received by the local community. Indirectly we have participated in the benefits derived from national and state activities in the interests of public health made possible by Seal sale contributions.

Of each dollar contributed to this great war against disease, all but five cents remains in the state to finance state-wide and local health programs.

All of which sums up to the simple conclusion that a purchase of Christmas Seals is an exceptionally worth while investment. Do your part.

The hour of crisis never makes or unmakes us; that hour shows forth what is in us.—John McAfee.

COST OF CRIME
(The Washington Star)

The cost of crime in this country, in terms of money, social deterioration, loss of productive human effort and weakening of regard for the laws and the efficiency of the agencies of orderly government, is incalculable. It is the greatest national problem which has ever been faced; greater than civil war, than foreign war, than economic depression. It affects all the people, affects them harmfully, lowers their morale, weakens if it does not destroy their confidence in the safeguards which government, both national and local, is supposed to afford against the violators of the law.

WHAT ONE GOOD CROP WILL DO
(Grand Rapids Herald Review)

In these days when individualism is being condemned we forget that some of the self seeking politicians are the greatest individualists of the present age. They condemn in one breath the individualist of industry and then practice the same individualism in their own behalf. They levy political and financial tribute upon thousands. The United States is gradually turning itself over to political bureaucracy. The people may sometime learn that their greatest enemy is the self-seeking politician, who views public service in terms of public patronage. Remember that danger.

INCITING TO WAR
(Morris Tribune)

The prize for boneheadedness goes to a retired general who told the aviation commission at Washington recently that "our most dangerous enemy is Japan, and our planes should be designed to attack Japan." Such remarks are nourishment to the jingoes of Japan. There is no cause for enmity between this country and Japan, but if our professional fighters persist in continually regarding Japan as a potential enemy, they may yet start something. And how foolish that would be!

JOBS, NOT DOLE
(St. Cloud Times)

Give the needy jobs, and not doles, is the advice of Henry Ford. That is good judgment. Many of the people getting federal aid are not in want, and they are taking it away from those who actually need it. The government has given employment to many men and women, and it must be continued during the winter at least, or else every city and village in the country will have a very serious first hand problem that will strain their credit to the limit, to be paid in higher taxes.

HELPING BOYS
(Times-Herald, Alliance, Neb.)

"No man stands so straight as when he stoops to help a boy."

With so many million of men out of work it is such an easy matter to become careless and pay no attention to boys. Men are doubly busy with the affairs of business and trying to figure out how they can live up to their codes. Worrying details occupy one's mind. Yet, all about us, are boys who need help—the help that comes from encouraging words, a helping hand, a little boost. All these helpful things take just a minute of any man's time—and yet they mean so much to a boy.

It does not take long for a boy to grow and develop into a man. It may be that what we say today will have a big influence on what kind of a man he will be. Are we doing the thing that will help the boy. Just a cordial word of greeting in the morning as the boy is on his way to school will frequently give the lad just the needed encouragement for that particular day. Do we do that? Can we truthfully say that we have been the means and channel by which a boy gets inspiration to do better things.

There is so much we can do in boys work without ever having to take any time to do it. Most men are willing to do this if they only realized how easily it can be done.

"No man stands so straight as when he stoops to help a boy."

WE MUST PRESCRIBE FOR OURSELVES
(News, Van Nuys, Calif.)

At the low point in a business depression, a man whose personal affairs were in bad order, wrote: "The big business leaders have made a horrible mess of things."

It did not occur to the man to accuse himself and exclaim "I have made a horrible mess of things."

He had had six years of uninterrupted prosperity in which to put his house in order. He might have utilized the cream from those fat years. He could have paid off the mortgage on his house, retired his business obligations and accumulated a surplus to tide him over hard times. If he had done these things, and if several million others had been as frugal, the crisis that later distressed everyone might not have occurred.

Too many of us are disposed to blame "the system" when we are in difficulties. The system under which we operate is based on freedom of individual enterprise. Each of us is allowed a loose rein in the management of his affairs. We may save money or spend it. We may work or loaf. We may insure our lives or take a chance on leaving our families destitute. The government and public opinion exercise only moderate control.

When everyone is happy and well-fed, we hear hurrahs and hosannas for the genius of our business leaders. Some of these leaders come to believe that they are really Napoleons of finance and industry. They become racular. The wise man, however, discounts such nonsense because he realizes that all men are human and that excessive ambition leads to Waterloo.

Instead of relying on the wisdom of others, he puts his faith in his own common sense. If his earnings double and triple in good times, he takes the surplus and puts it where he knows it is safe. While others are borrowing money at the peak of prosperity, he is rapidly getting himself out of debt.

How many have the courage and foresight and independent judgment to follow this obvious procedure? History reveals that such common sense is rare. Too many men pay in hard times the debts acquired in good times.

It's no use relying on business leaders or government to save us from the consequences of folly. Each of us must be his own physician. If we will diagnose our condition and prescribe the remedy promptly, we can enjoy permanent economic and financial health.

We are now facing what this country is going to do in the winter of 1934-35. When we shall have done our best, it will still be "a winter of discontent" at least in this sense: That the feeble and the sick will need care and nursing, and that character will be forming in several million boys and girls under conditions all too likely to start young trees in twisted, if not crooked, directions. The question is what are we going to do about it, and what are we going to do about it now—. The burden which the Federal Government is already carrying and planning to carry does not reach this load. It has always hitherto been borne by private philanthropy.... Clearly the only answer to the situation is that communities—every citizen according to his ability—must accept as their own responsibility those ministrations of mercy and the protection of the future of society which can no longer be sustained by the willing hands of the generous few.... To the extent that we do this year's inescapable task adequately, we will have rebuilt the possibilities of American manhood and womanhood for millions of people. To the extent that we neglect or fail in this task, we will have planted and nourished seeds of social disease with pitiful, if not dangerous, consequences. —Newton D. Baker.

TURKEY MEAT BRINGS $1500 CHECK TO FARMER

Bird Island. — Raising turkeys has its value around Thanksgiving time, and a check for $1504.14 to John LaFontaine, Bird Island, proves it. The middle of November LaFontaine sold 472 turkeys, toms and hens which he had raised for the festive day. Another 300 he still has on his farm should bring another check for at least $1000 near Christmas.

CAPITOL NEWS

(By A. I. Harris)

Hearings on valuation for taxation purposes of the properties of the mining companies of Northern Minnesota began on Monday before the State Tax Commission sitting as a State Board of Equalization for 1934 taxes payable in 1935. The mining companies are seeking a reduction on valuations.

Did you know that the Game and Fish division is supported entirely by revenue derived from the sale of licenses and confiscated guns and other hunting and fishing equipment that is seized by game wardens because of law violations? No appropriation is made to the Game and Fish division from direct taxation. This is one state department that is self-supporting.

Minnesota highway engineers, returning from a national convention of highway officials, report that a nation-wide movement is under way to bring automobile manufacturers, safety experts and road designers into better agreement on the question of proper speed for motor travel. At present, automobiles are being built for greater and greater speed, demands are made of engineers to design roads for these speeds, and yet safety groups are clamoring for less speed in order to reduce traffic fatalities. By working together, the three groups can accomplish more for the public good.

Farmers of the 17 drouth counties of Minnesota are staring disaster straight in the eye, according to a survey of conditions made recently. Herds depleted by drouth and the government's cattle buying program are without sufficient feed to carry them through the winter and many of the dairy cattle have dried up due to insufficient feed, thus depriving the farmers of their sole remaining source of income, the cream check. "Unless we have feed within three or four days, all of us will have to go on the relief lines," farmers say. A blizzard or severe snowstorm will kill off almost all the cattle, weakened from lack of sufficient feed since the summer of 1933.

Governor Olson, in Washington, in an effort to secure some real relief for the drouth striken farmers, announced that 20,000,000 seedlings in the tree belt planting program of the federal government have been allocated to Minnesota for spring planting and that immediate work will be given Minnesota farmers in clearing present shelter belts and preparing the land.

Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, took a severe beating at the hands of the National Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union of America assembled in a national convention at Sioux Falls, South Dakota recently. The principle point of attack was the AAA program of crop reduction. In the midst of the poverty and suffering of the people of the land, it is criminal to destroy necessities of life such as the triple A has been doing, it was said.

A close co-operative relation continues to exist between the NRA Compliance Division, under the direction of Anna Dickie Olesen, and the Division of Women and Children of the Minnesota Industrial Commission. The Industrial Commission is charged with the responsibility of investigating cases of handicapped workers who are permitted under the various industry codes to work at a reduced wage, if and when they obtain certificates of handicap from the Industrial Commission. In carrying out this responsibility investigation of approximately 100 of such permits was made in November to see if wages specified in the agreement were paid. Wage deficiencies and failure to comply with other standards set up by the U. S. Department of Labor were disclosed in certain industries. Material relating to these violations has been in turn sent to the State Compliance Director of Minnesota or to the Code Authority for such action as they may deem fit.

Cash dividends to depositors of closed banks in Minnesota have been paid at the rate of better than one a day since January 1, 1934, according to Elmer N. Benson, state commissioner of banks. A total of 355 dividends were declared up to November 19, 1934, amounting to $4,724,951.95. In the last thirty days, 45 dividends have been declared, amounting to $679,654.79.

Tales of an unbelievable prosperity are coming in from the Red River valley. The Minnesota Rural Credit department reports that collection returns from rented farms in that territory have reached an astounding figure; farmers are paying up back rent right and left. In addition there is a big demand for farms in the Valley, and the Rural Credit department is not overlooking the opportunity of making sales, many for cash. These figures will be published shortly. They will make agricultural pessimists gasp.

Agricultural representatives from the mid-west states listened eagerly to Minnesota's plan for grasshopper eradication at the second regional conference on grasshopper control held at Fargo last week. The hoppers have been nearly eliminated in Minnesota through the application of a four year program of control with poison mash, reducing the infested acreage from five million acres in 1932 to less than a half a million acres in 1934. Other states where the hoppers have increased to serious proportions are becoming alarmed over the possibility of a crop loss next year. The remedy lies with the Minnesota plan; states where a danger exists should adopt it.

Plummer Wins Second Game

Plummer defeated Middle River last Tuesday night for its second win of the season. Although the score was 43-17 the game was closer than the score indicates. The Middle River team put up a stubborn defense and Plummer held the advantage only because they were making a large percentage of their shots. Plummer's front line kept up a rapid fire battle that gave them a distinct edge over the visitors. Arnie Kailstad, Hanson, and Langlie were the main point getters for Plummer with Schoenauer standing out on the defense and showing promise of developing into a first class guard.

This Friday Plummer is to meet Thief River Falls on the home floor in an attempt to avenge the overtime defeat in the district tournament. Although the team is coming along nicely in its own class it will be a decided upset if they win Friday night. The team is prepared for a stubborn battle and four of five first team men are still smarting from last year's defeats so that a good game is assured.

Plummer M.W.A. Loses to Fosston

The Plummer Independent Basketball team went down to defeat before the Fosston Independents Monday night in a Northern Minnesota Independent League contest. It was the first game for Plummer, and on the visitors floor so that the 37-27 defeat is not discouraging. The team is sponsored by the Modern Woodmen of America and promises to give an interesting account for itself before the season is over.

Plummer will play its second league contest on Thursday when they will travel to Bagley to play the Bagley Aces, who are favored to win the league title.

Plummer high school students took their second trip of inspection of industries on Friday, Nov. 30. Headed by their civics instructor, Mr. Lauer, the Economic-geography class started by bus from Plummer at 8 a. m., driving directly to Grand Forks where they visited the North Dakota state mill. They were taken through the entire plant being shown the mill proper, the warehouse and elevators. Every piece of machinery and all the processing through which a kernel of wheat passes from the time it leaves the railroad car until it is divided into its various products were shown, and thoroughly enjoyed by all. After dinner the sugar refining plant in East Grand Forks was visited. Here a special guide was likewise provided and sugar refining shown from the raw beet to the finished product. The group next motored to the Agricultural school at Crookston where for nearly two hours they enjoyed an inspection tour of the school. Leaving here they stopped at the tow or flax mill at Red Lake Falls. They arrived home a little late for supper but very much elated over their trip.

Miss LaVerne Morrissette of Fargo spent the Thanksgiving week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morrissette.—Henry Thibert, who has been in the hospital in Crookston for several days, returned to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thibert in Terrebonne on Saturday.

Lauer was a Thanksgiving dinner guest at the Charles Patnode home in Red Lake Falls. Paul LaVoie was a business caller in Thief River Falls on Friday.

Miss Berglaug Langlie, who is teaching in Badger, spent a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Langlie. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lafayette were Thief River Falls visitors Friday. — Mr. and Mrs. Ary Rose of Thief River Falls spent Thanksgiving day with relatives in Plummer. [illegible] daughter Edna and Mrs. Paul LaVoie motored to Thief River Falls Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Lafayette, Mr. [illegible] and daughter [illegible] spent Monday in Thief River Falls.

GOVERNOR - ELECT OF N. D. ACCUSED OF NOT QUALIFYING

Opponents Say He Has Not Been Resident Full Five Years

North Dakota's political pyrotechnics were touched off again Monday in spectacular style when court action was instituted in Bismarck in an effort to prevent Thomas H. Moodie from taking office as governor of the state next month.

District Judge Fred Jansonius, after hearing the contention that the Democratic governor-elect had not lived in North Dakota long enough to qualify for governor, issued a temporary injunction restraining the state canvassing board from certifying Moodie's election when it meets Tuesday.

Directed against the canvassing board, an order to show cause why it should not be restrained permanently from issuing a certificate of election to Moodie was issued by Judge Jansonius, returnable in Bismarck on December 11.

Pointing to the state constitutional provision requiring residence in the state for "five years next preceding the election," it was contended that Moodie was not qualified for governorship, as he voted in Minnesota in the June and November elections of 1930.

Should Moodie be disqualified, legal authorities seemed agreed Monday night that Walter Welford of Pembina, lieutenant-governor-elect, would become governor of North Dakota. Welford was elected last month along with other Langer-indorsed minor state candidates.

N. W. MINNESOTA MISSES BIG SNOW STORM THIS WEEK

Total of 16 Inches Fell in Twin Cities Over the Week-end

Thief River Falls and Northwestern Minnesota escaped extremely heavy snowfalls which last Friday and early this week tied up traffic in Southern Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin. Minneapolis Tuesday was engaged in digging itself out of snow piled up to a depth of 16 inches, within an inch of the all-time single snow record of March, 1924.

Five hundred snowplows were on state highways as crews of workmen labored to keep all the principal roads of the state open. Approximately 1,500 men shoveled and hauled snow in the Twin Cities.

Lowest temperatures of the winter to date have prevailed locally this week, the mercury dropping slightly below the zero mark this morning.

Elevation of City is Fixed at 1137 Feet by U. S. Geodetic Survey

A party of men taking elevations for the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey have been stationed in Warren for the past week, says the Warren Sheaf. They have been determining the elevations of the entire vicinity around Warren extending from Ardoch, N. D. to Thief River Falls.

The elevation of Warren as determined exactly by the survey is 361.48 meters or 1185.86 feet above sea level. Thief River Falls was found to be 346.66 meters or 1137.05 feet above sea level; Ardoch, N. D., one of the lowest points in the vicinity has an elevation of 231.87 meters or 851.33 feet; Red Lake Falls is 308.02 meters or 964.07 feet; and St. Hilaire is 332.48 meters or 1,080.46 feet. Warren has been found to be the highest point in the surrounding territory. It is natural that the land should slope toward the Red River but it also slopes toward Thief River Falls.

STATE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL ACTS ON MUD LAKE PROJECT

Favors 50,000 Acre Migratory Bird Refuge in Marshall Co.

The state executive council Wednesday in St. Paul gave approval to a plan under which the federal government will ultimately establish a 50,000 acre wild migratory fowl nesting and breeding grounds in the Mud lake area in Marshall county.

The project is one of the largest sponsored by the United biological survey of which J. N. (Ding) Darling is chief.

The executive council gave approval to a plan under which the department of conservation will acquire title to the land needed for the conservation area and then deed the land over to the federal government for which the federal government will pay the amount awarded by district court.

It was pointed out that because of the multiplicity of unsatisfied liens by townships, school districts, Marshall county and private mortgages, the problem of clearing title to the land through any other process but condemnation is hopeless.

The project will not cost the state a cent, as the federal government will bear the entire cost, Commissioner Willard stated.

COON DOG PREFERS HAM TO TRADITIONAL ENEMY

Blue Earth—Coon dogs are very temperamental. Certain varieties like ham sandwiches better than hunting coons, as George Lewis will testify. With a blue-blooded coon dog, purchased at a fancy price and guaranteed to tree coons, Lewis started off one dark night recently. In the back seat was a generous lunch, and in the front seat Mr. Coon Dog kept sniffing. The party arrived, and out into the blackness went the coon dog. Lewis following the wail as a trail was picked up. Suddenly the wailing ceased, and after hunting about for awhile, Lewis returned to the car for refreshment. In the back seat, amid the rustling of paper, the coon dog was just finishing the last ham sandwich!

HIGHWAY 73 NOW SECTION OF U. S. HIGHWAY TO GULF

Federal Route Thru This City to be Known as U. S. Highway 59

Interstate Highway No. 73, which was established early this year and which traverses Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri, has been made a part of a great international highway running from Winnipeg, Canada, on the north to Port Arthur on the Gulf of Mexico to the south. In the United States the highway will be known as United States Highway No. 59.

The route was approved and officially designated as No. 59 at a meeting of the American Association of State Highway officials at Santa Fe, New Mexico, recently, says the Morris Tribune. Remarking of the entire route is a matter of detail that will be taken care of individually by the seven states traversed by the highway, namely Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas. The highway will be 1,614 miles in length.

From Winnipeg the road will cross into Minnesota at the international boundary at Noyes and then will strike the following key cities through Minnesota: Karlstad, Thief River Falls, Erskine, Mahnomen, Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls, Elbow Lake, Morris, Appleton, Montevideo, Marshall, Garvin, Slayton, Fulda and Worthington.

From the gulf to Winnipeg, the highway traverses one of the most scenic and attractive regions of the nation, including the popular lake region sections of this state and the great national forests, the Ozark mountains and the gulf region in the south.

Helps for Community Christmas Programs

Appropriate suggestions for developing community Christmas programs are given in the December number of "Rural Program Helps," a monthly pamphlet published by the Agricultural Extension Service, University Farm.

This Christmas number contains Charles Dickens' delightful story about the Cratchits' Christmas dinner, accompanied by a touching poem concerning "Tiny Tim"; a novelty song for introducing Santa Claus, and an assortment of games adapted to all age-groups.

Anyone wanting a copy of these Christmas program suggestions for his club, or wanting to receive "Rural Program Helps" regularly each month, should mail a request to the Agricultural Extension Service, University Farm, St. Paul, stating the name of the organization for which the program material is desired.

HIKES 53 MILES WITH NO REST IN 11½ HOURS

Fergus Falls.—The old pioneers have nothing on W. H. Kernkamp when it comes to covering distances on foot. Kernkamp, 45 years old and a resident of Alexandria, covered the 53 miles from that city to Fergus Falls recently 11½ hours, starting at 6 o'clock in the morning and arriving at 5:30 that evening. Altho several motorists invited him to ride, Kernkamp turned down the offers, prefering to walk. Following a good breakfast, he ate nothing except half a package of raisins on the way, stopping several times for water but not once to rest. This is the third time he has made the trip this year, the other two times being in March and May.

BURGLARIZE HOME AS FAMILY ATTENDS FUNERAL

Albert Lea.— One of the most contemptible thefts known was perpetrated near Albert Lea recently when burglars looted the farmhouse of Paul Schneider when the family was attending the funeral of their mother, who had died in child-birth three days before. In addition to a valuable fur coat, the thieves took a good shot gun, some money, and several smaller items. The funeral services were being held in Albert Lea, and it was quite apparent that the thieves knew the situation and the reason for the absence of the family from home.

License Corrections Net State $149,000 as Result of Patrol Work

The state highway patrol has been instrumental in adding $149,872 to the state's motor vehicle license income in the first 10 months of 1934, according to a highway department bulletin. This money, mostly from commercial truck owners, represents payments made for correct license plates by persons found to have been driving with improper plates. Reports show the patrol, in the 10-month period, also collected $30,401 in fines, exclusive of license corrections; traveled 2,454,645 miles, gave aid to 764,698 motorists, warned 148,883 of law violations, tagged 27,276 for illegal equipment and 6,847 for illegal registration and arrested 2,082 drivers for various infractions of state highway laws.

OLSON WILL DRAFT OWN LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM, HE SAYS

Announces He Will Make No Wholesale Removal of Officials

Governor Olson will draft his own legislative program for submittal to the Fiftieth Legislature, after conferences with pro-administration senators and representatives. It will not be drafted by Howard Y. Williams or other ultraradical groups allied under the National Farmer-Labor Political federation.

The governor will keep hands off reported personnel changes in the Department of Conservation, and leave such matters entirely to the Conservation commission without attempt at interference.

These points he made clear Friday in a brief interview on his return to the executive offices after a post-election absence in Washington.

There will be no wholesale removals of state officials and employes made by Gov. Olson, and changes he will make mostly will not come until after the first of the year, it was announced.

Rural Rehabilitation Conference at U Farm

Purposes and details of the government's rural rehabilitation program will be brought out in a special rural rehabilitation conference to be held in connection with the Farmers and Homemakers Week, University Farm, St. Paul, January 14-19. The program, which is new this year, will last the full week, part of the sessions being held jointly with those of the agricultural economics division.

Among the vital topics to be presented will be such ones as the processing tax, land uses, farm earnings, livestock practices, reestablishment of farm business after the drouth, county rural rehabilitation, land values and loans, farm debt problems, national farm loan associations, and short term credit.

W. I. Myers, governor of the Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D. C., will be one of the principal speakers on the rehabilitation program. He will also talk on farm credit before an assemblage of the entire short course group, Thursday noon, January 17.

$395,000 in Road Job Bids Opened Dec. 14th

Bids for highway jobs totaling approximately $395,000 have been called for December 14 by the Minnesota Highway department. Five grading projects, four graveling jobs and eight bridges and culverts are planned. The work will be in Big Stone, Blue Earth, Fillmore, Hennepin, Meeker, Mower, Nicollet, Sibley, Stearns, Washington and Wright counties.

CHOPS 22 CORDS OF OAK WOOD AT 76

Glenwood—When a man reaches three score years and ten, and then adds another six years, he is expected to start taking things easy, but not so with Judge F. Griffith, one of the spryest men in Glenwood. This fall Judge Griffith went out to his wood lots and without any assistance chopped down sufficient dry oaks to supply him with 22 cords of wood, hauled it home, and cut it into stove lengths for winter use. And if any youngsters think wood chopping is easy, let them sink their axes into oak! The whole job was finished in a comparatively short time, the Judge working from dawn to sunset. To prove his age, he recalls the thundering of the cannons roaring at the Battle of Gettysburg and the soldiers marching by to that battle, which was near his home.

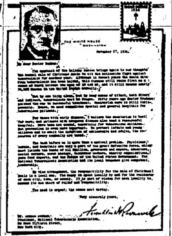
President Roosevelt Endorses Christmas Seal Campaign



THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

The need is urgent; the cause most worthy.

Very sincerely yours,

Franklin D Roosevelt

President Roosevelt's endorsement of the nation-wide Christmas Seal campaign that is conducted from Thanksgiving Day to Christmas by the 2,000 affiliated tuberculosis associations. Insert (upper right) shows the seal, which commemorates the fiftieth anniversary of the beginning of the sanatorium movement in this country. The one room cottage it depicts was the first American sanatorium for modern treatment of tuberculosis. It was constructed in 1884 by the late Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau, "father of the sanatorium movement," and was the forerunner of the 600 institutions in the United States today.

CONCRETE FOR PERMANENCE

DOLLARS WASTED ON UPKEEP CAN'T BUY NEW ROADS

Inferior roads seem cheap and easy to build. They stretch a paving fund so that it covers a lot of territory. But after a year or two, the trouble begins! Maintenance costs go up and up.

That's why it's wise—and economical—to build concrete roads. Concrete lasts! It requires almost no upkeep.

Concrete's smooth, non-skid surface is safe and satisfactory to drive on. It speeds up traffic . . . reduces accidents . . . you save in gas, oil, tires and repairs.

OFFICIAL URGES WINTER FEEDING OF GAME BIRDS

Deputy Director of Game and Fish Commission Makes Plea

In order to preserve our game birds, winter feeding of these birds will be necessary, Charles McFarlane, deputy director of the Division of Game and Fish, declared in a statement issued last week. Mr. McFarlane's statement follows:

"There are many loyal birds in Minnesota that are willing to take a chance and spend a winter with us. These birds are only able to withstand our vigorous winters provided sufficient food is available to them so that they may retain their necessary high temperature.

"Heavy snowfalls are expected this year and bird lovers must help the birds out with food. This activity may be carried on by all conservation clubs, Boy Scout troops and interested individuals.

"A fine cut mixture of grain commonly called chick feed, any commercial scrap feed mixture of whole grains is acceptable, cracker corn, oats, wheat, cow peas, millet, buckwheat, snow flower seeds and screenings can be used to good advantage. In feeding quail and Hungarian partridges the fine cut grain in streams are preferable.

"Shelters should be placed in spots known to be frequented by birds and a semblance of newness should be avoided as much as possible. Several snow shelters are preferable to one large one. This avoids the concentrated attack of vermin which naturally follows the congregation of a large number of birds. Birds need this assistance now, not only to prevent starvation, but to build up the individual bird to physical perfection and prepares for a successful breeding season."

Minnesota Below Most States in Respect to Automobile Taxation

Minnesota taxes its motorists less than any other state in the Union except North Dakota and Kansas, according to tabulations just received by the state highway department from Washington.

In the matter of motor vehicle license fees and gasoline taxes, Minnesota motorists pay almost one-third less than the national average, although this state maintains a much larger trunk highway system than most of the others.

The national average for individual motorists, including both license fee and gas tax, was $34.50 in 1933, the American Association of state Highway Officials reports. In Minnesota the average was only $24.41.

California and Nebraska show slightly lower gas tax and license fee averages than Minnesota, but both these states also assess a personal property tax against automobiles which brings up their total motor vehicle tax higher than Minnesota's.

13 REAL HOODOO FOR ZUMBROTA HUNTERS

Zumbrota.—The combination of hoodoo "13" is blamed for the failures of a party of Zumbrota hunters to bag a single deer, and at the same time being responsible for a bullet wound received by one of the members of the party. When L. C. Overboe returned his pistol to the holster, the gun was accidentally discharged. The bullet penetrated his leg. Here's the hoodoo "13" combination: There were 13 hunters in the party; they arrived in the deer country on November 13; they saw 13 deer, but didn't get one; Overboe had to be transported 13 miles to a physician after the gun accident; the doctor's bill was $13; two members of the party each had $13 when they left Zumbrota; another member, telephone repair man, knocked off work on the 13th pole to go hunting. And the only thing the 13 hunters could find to drink in the north country was Minnesota 13.

Christmas Seals Pick 4-H Club Champions

Marjorie Bennett of Lowry and Raymond Merchant of Winsted, 1934 4-H Club health champions of Minnesota, clink together their glasses of milk and prepare to drink a toast to the health of Minnesota youth and to tuberculosis Christmas Seals, which make possible the medical examinations through which the healthiest 4-H boy and girl of the state are chosen each year.

Doctors Endorse 1934 Christmas Seal Drive Now Getting Started

"You can save yourself from tuberculosis", slogan of this year's campaign to sell Christmas Seals in Minnesota, draws public attention to one of the most important milestones of modern medicine according to a bulletin issued by the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association today.

"Once tuberculosis struck without warning" says this bulletin. "Its victim resigned himself to die and was seldom disappointed. Now the majority of these tragedies can be prevented."

This salvation is not accomplished by any magic drug or immunizing agent according to the committee. It requires the application of a simple skin test, called the Mantoux, which sounds the warning of disease long before actual illness strikes. The rest is a matter of avoiding contact with the disease, of good hygiene and of careful watching of those whom the test has shown to be threatened by means of X-ray to be sure that no destructive process is going on, unnoted, in the lungs.

One recent observation about the dangers of contact with the disease is especially noted in this bulletin. It was made by a noted authority on tuberculosis, Dr. Esmond R. Long, director of tuberculosis research at the Phipps Institute in Philadelphia, when he visited Minnesota as guest speaker of the Minnesota Public Health Association's annual dinner in St. Paul last month.

It is the new case of tuberculosis that is most dangerous to others according to Dr. Long. This case may show a much smaller area of disease in his lungs but he gives off many more bacilli in his sputum and mouth spray than the old chronic case whose actual disease is much greater.

Children should be protected especially from association from these early, acute cases of tuberculosis.

FORECLOSURE SALE NETS NINETY CENTS

Graham.—A foreclosure sale held last Saturday afternoon on a farm near Stark was given the title of "Penny Sale" because less than a dollar was realized. Oscar Bjorklund, the renter owed a balance of $165 to Nels Youngberg, owner of the farm, and because the offer of settlement did not satisfy there followed the order of sale. A gathering of approximately three hundred was present; consisting of neighbors and friends together with Holiday association members. It is reported that the owner attempted to postpone the sale but the crowd demanded the procedure. The crop, which is reported as consisting of 6500 pounds of potatoes, 10 bushels of wheat, 100 bushels of oats, 5 tons of hay and 7 acres of corn in shock, was bid in on various amounts, the total of which was 90 cents.

ANNUAL MEETING OF FARM BUREAU SET FOR DEC. 10-12

Minnesota Officials Will Attend Convention at Nashville, Tenn.

Minnesota farmers will be represented at the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau by A. J. Olson of Renville, and Ole A. Flaat of Fisher, president and vice president respectively, of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, who were recently named voting delegates. The convention to be held at Nashville, Tennessee, December 10-12 will be attended by delegates from forty-four state farm bureaus. Some states will send large delegations. Ways in which the AAA program can be made more effective in raising price levels will be urged by the Farm Bureau, says Mr. Olson. Effort also will be made to speed up the bang's disease eradication campaign, which is meeting with such widespread approval of cattlemen. The principal objection raised to date is the lack of facilities for carrying out the program, with sufficient speed to suit farmers who are short of hay and feed. The U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry will be urged to use all its facilities in speeding up the bang's disease program. A special committee has been named to devise ways in which the Federal Farm Credit Program will be made of additional service to farmers. J. S. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the Minnesota Farm Bureau, will serve on this committee.

The membership of the American Farm Bureau Federation has increased greatly during the past year. Minnesota has done its part in adding to this increased membership, and the annual membership campaign of the state federation which opened on December 3 will still further increase the effectiveness of both the state and national organizations, officers assert.

The subject of monetary reform will be studied exhaustively, and it is probable, Mr. Olson says, that the government will be urged to go to the limit now fixed by law in revaluing gold, so that more money may be issued. The half way measures taken to date have helped, but not solved the monetary problem, Mr. Olson asserts.

FINAL DISCOUNT TAX SALE ENDS DECEMBER 31ST

Legislature to be Asked to Bring Bargain Sales to an End

BIG REDUCTIONS ON DELINQUENT TAXES

Interim Tax Committee Recommends Discount to All Paying Promptly

What will perhaps be the final opportunity to pay up delinquent taxes at a discount will end December 31 with the close of the current year, it was announced this week by County Auditor Harry Fowler. Discounts allowed for the various years range from 20 to 50 per cent.

There is a growing sentiment among legislators and county officials against passage in the future of laws permitting settlement of back taxes on a discount basis, Mr. Fowler said. He returned Monday morning from a week-end meeting of Governor Olson's interim tax committee, at which was drafted a recommendation against any further bargain sales.

It has been pointed out that there has been in the recent past too much of a tendency to show consideration to the tax dodger, and none for the man who pays regularly. Many of those best able to pay taxes have profited most heavily by the discount sales, Mr. Fowler said.

He added that the committee's report, which will be submitted to Governor Olson Saturday and will be transmitted by him to the legislature, also will include a recommendation that a discount be allowed on current taxes to those paying on time.

For taxes delinquent since 1926 and through 1931 a bargain rate of 50 per cent of the tax is offered under the law now in effect. For delinquencies starting in 1927 or 1928 a discount of 40 per cent of the tax is offered and for delinquencies starting in 1929 or 1930 a discount of 20 per cent is offered. Delinquencies for 1931 can be paid at discount rates if the taxes were delinquent before that year.

WARDEN WILLIAM MUNCH SPEAKS TO SCHOOL CHILDREN

Pioneer Official Talks on Conservation of State's Wild Life

William F. Munch of Crookston, pioneer Minnesota game warden, was in the city last Friday afternoon and gave talks on conservation and wild life to audiences at Lincoln high school and Central school.

Boys and girls, he said, need experience with out-of-door life to finish their character education. He stressed the value of conservation education in the public schools, and strongly endorsed Boy Scout work.

He urged that Minnesota citizens practice conservation of the state flower, the moccasin, asserting that from 16 to 26 years are required to grow a blossoming plant from seed. Warden Munch also pointed out the difficulty of birds getting necessary feed supplies during the winter months, and condemned destruction of the sources of feed, citing as an example the thoughtless picking of the bittersweet.

LARGE VOLUME OF CHRISTMAS MAIL IN PROSPECT HERE

Receipts for First 11 Days of December Reveal Healthy Gain

On the basis of receipts at the local postoffice the first 11 days of December, Postmaster Andrew Anderson today forecast a healthy increase in the volume of Christmas mailings from this city. Receipts to December 11 this year were $1,492.12 compared to $891.03 in the first 12 days of the corresponding month in 1933.

To facilitate the handling of parcel post matter, arrangements have been made for additional space in the quarters formerly occupied by Hanson's grocery in the First National bank block. The room will be utilized next week.

The postoffice department at Washington last week made the following appeal for early mailing:

"During the holiday time the volume of mail increases approximately 200 percent. It is a physical impossibility to handle this great mass of mail matter efficiently and promptly within a few days. Therefore to assure delivery of these Christmas presents, cards and letters by Christmas Day the public should shop and mail early. Do your Christmas shopping so that you can mail your gifts, greetings, and letters to relatives, friends, and loved ones at least a week or 10 days before Christmas, according to the distance. This will not only make it certain that they are received before Christmas Day, but will be a great aid to your postal service and to postal employees and enable them to spend the Christmas holiday with their families."

1,000 PRESENT AT 1-ACT PLAY CONTEST HERE

Large Audience Sees Smiley Club Playlet Win by Close Margin

MRS. T. LENDOBEJA STYLE REVUE WINNER

Smiley Play Cast Awarded Free Trip to St. Paul in January

Over seventy people participated in the one-act play contest which was held last Saturday evening in the Auditorium. The event was attended by an audience of 1,000 persons, and the program was declared highly successful by those present.

"Quack! Quack!", the one-act play put on by the Smiley Community club, won the trip to St. Paul in January in the one-act play contest. All the plays rated very closely and it was with difficulty that the judges made their decisions. Thirty people took part in the plays themselves and forty people were entered in the old-fashioned style revue.

Mrs. Theodore Lendobeja of Kratka and Mrs. Freeman Allen of Smiley captured the grand prizes in the revue which took place between the second and third plays. The costume worn by Mrs. Lendobeja was made of homespun, and had been spun, woven, dyed, and sewed by Mrs. Lendobeja's great-grandmother. The stage setting of the preceding play was used for the style revue. Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Noper appeared first on the stage in their old-fashioned costumes. Mr. Noper introduced the grand parade and Mrs. Noper played songs appropriate to each costume as it was modeled. This event was declared one of the biggest features of the evening.

The first and second prize winners in each of the various clubs, and the ages of the costumes, follow:

Wyandotte: Miss Adeline Mathison, 1854; Mrs. Hans Prestby, 1904.

Kratka: Mrs. Theodore Lendobeja, 1844; Miss Agnes Anenson, 1886.

Goodridge: Miss Eunice Thoreson, 1900; Miss Holappa, 1905.

Rocksbury: Mrs. Louise Anderson, 1905; Mrs. Henry Oen, 1878.

Steiner: Miss Caroline Austinson, 1900; Miss Nina Malberg, 1895.

Silverton: Miss Doris Leiran, 1882; Miss Anna Hegernes, 1880.

Smiley: Mrs. Freeman Allen, 1905; Mrs. Eli Peterson, 1895.

Others who appeared in the style revue were Arthur Leiran, Miss Bernice Woodson, Miss Madeline Gunderson and Miss Geneva Anderson and Mrs. Louise Anderson, Silverton; Mrs. Anna Anderson and Mrs. Ed. Hanson, Rocksbury; Vernon Malberg, Miss Rebecca Halvorson, Miss Cyrilla Reller and Mrs. Vernon Copp, Steiner; Mrs. James McCrum, Mrs. Weckwerth, Mrs. Arnold Korupp and Mrs. Walter Lendobeja, Smiley, Miss Mildred Svobodney and Miss Laura Knutson, Kratka; and Miss Luella Berg and Miss Florence Gerardy, Wyandotte; and Miss Grace Bratlee and Mrs. Alice Brandt, Goodridge.

At the close of the program, while the judges were making their decision, Mr. V. C. Noper led the audience in community singing. A group of old fashioned songs were sung and dramatized on the stage.

It is hoped that this may become an annual event and that next year more clubs will have plays in the contest.

Arnold Carlson, Miss Bena Johnson, and Dr. A. E. Jacobson were judges of the play contest. Mrs. Della Zeh, Mrs. Jay Paine, of Goodridge and Mrs. John Hanson of St. Hilaire judged the old-fashioned style revue.

1934 School Tax Rate is up 6.7 Per cent but Will Yield 11 Per cent Less Money, Bye Reports —While the 1934 tax rate of [illegible] mills for the local school district is 6.7 per cent higher than the 1933 rate of 37 mills, the assessed valuation of the district is 11 per cent less and the 1934 rate therefore will raise 4.3 per cent less money than a year ago, Supt. Mollis Bye stated in an analysis presented to the board of education at its December meeting Monday evening.

The 1934 assessed valuation for the district is $1,117,144, the analysis sets forth, this figure being $175,216 less than the 1933 total of $1,292,360. The valuation in the rural area of the district decreased 22 per cent and in the city [illegible] per cent.

Mr. Bye reported on a recent test of lignite coal in the Lincoln high school heating plant under the supervision of Arthur Koth of the bureau of mines of the University of North Dakota. The experiment revealed that lignite alone was not satisfactory, but that it furnished ample heat when mixed with other coal, although at only a nominal saving in cost over the present fuel. The board decided to continue with the present grade of screenings.

Enrollment as of November 23 was [illegible] including 896 in the grade schools and [illegible] in Lincoln high school, Mr. Bye informed the board. As compared with the corresponding period of last year there were four pupils less in the grades, exactly the same number in the kindergarten and 32 less in high school.

A survey made during the week preceding Thanksgiving by Miss Florence A. Parsons, who recently assumed the post of school nurse, revealed that there were 12 cases of chicken pox, [illegible] cases of measles and five cases of whooping cough.

With 41 carloads of turkeys shipped from this city in December up to Wednesday evening, shipments are on approximately the same level as a year ago when 49 carloads were shipped up to December 14. The showing relatively is much better than for November when only slightly more than half as many cars were shipped as in November, 1933. Shipments for the November and December pools to date this year aggregate 85 carloads, well over 2,000,000 pounds.

A series of resolutions adopted for submission to Minnesota legislators included a recommendation that fishing licenses be increased in cost from 50 cents to 1, and that a charge of $5 be made for non-resident licenses.

Another resolution would make it unlawful to carry big game firearms in the woods for three weeks preceding the deer season, and a third urged a ban on angling for game fish thru the ice. The meeting also went on record as favoring the Mud lake conservation project.

WATER & LIGHT COMMISSION IS COUNCIL TOPIC

Discussion Reveals That Sentiment of Members is Divided

VIEBAHN RESIGNS AS CITY ENGINEER

Council Agrees to Finance Rebuilding of Local Toboggan Slide

Coincident with a discussion of the advisability of creating a commission to supervise the water and light department, the city council Tuesday evening was handed the resignation of W. W. Viebahn as city engineer, which position he has filled the past year. In a letter announcing his resignation effective December 31, Mr. Viebahn stated he was disappointed at the failure of the city administration to create a commission to take the department out of politics.

Mayor E. L. Tungseth was present at the meeting and urged a start on the proposal to create a commission which would be empowered, among other things, to set up a reserve for the purchase of new equipment. Council President P. O. Myhrum and Alderman Walter Jung expressed strong approval of the proposal, while Alderman McFarland, Griebstein and Christofferson qualified their support and Alderman Knight expressed opposition. No definite action was taken at the meeting.

The council received a petition from a group of 10 property owners on Horace and LaBree ave. N. protesting against the dog kennel maintained at the Dr. H. B. Newell residence. Acting under the terms of the zoning ordinance the council arranged for a hearing December 28. Dr. Newell announced at the meeting that he planned to erect a new home on the outskirts of the city next spring, and said he believed this would meet all objections.

Anton Hall appeared in behalf of the Rotary club to ask the council to rebuild the toboggan slide, and said the club was prepared to make a financial contribution. He estimated that the cost of the project would not be more than approximately $70, and it was indicated there is a possibility of obtaining relief labor for supervision. He asked that action be taken at once so that the slide will be ready in time for the holidays, and the council voted to proceed and to enlist the cooperation of the park board.

S. Salveson and Severt Benson, owners of the building occupied by them on East Third st., applied for a permit to remodel the second floor and to connect it by a door to the second floor of the adjoining Dahl building. Dr. G. A. Penney, a tenant in the Dahl building, was present and objected to connecting the two structures on the grounds of lack of safety and increased fire hazard. The council voted to submit the matter to the state fire marshal for a recommendation.

The council granted the application of Dr. O. F. Mellby to make repairs to his residence at an estimated cost of $160, and of James J. Medvig to erect a cold storage building on the Soo Line right-of-way at a cost of $250.

The problem of dealing with relief cases, which reverts to the city January 1 as a result of the vote on the question November 6, came up for a brief discussion, and it was agreed to make a check of the city to ascertain that no non residents get relief.

AFFIDAVITS OF PREJUDICE FILED AGAINST JUDGE

Brattland Turns Election Contest Cases Over to Bemidji Judge

District Judge Graham Torrance of Bemidji will preside at a hearing next Monday on an action brought by Paul Harris contesting the election of E. L. Tungseth as state senator from the 65th district, and the similar action brought by W. E. Day of Bagley against Marius Waldal of Plummer, who received a certificate of election as representative from this district.

The entrance of Judge Torrance into the situation comes as the result of the filing of affidavits of prejudice against Judge M. A. Brattland, who presided Wednesday at a hearing in the court house at which it had been expected arrangements would be completed for a recount of the votes.

The affidavits were filed by attorneys for Senator-elect Tungseth and Mr. Waldal, and charge that Judge Brattland, as well as their opponents, are avowed members of the Farmer-Labor party and that the judge attended numerous meetings arranged by members of his party during the recent campaign.

Following the presentation of affidavits the hearing was adjourned until next Monday.

Wilchurch; a reading by Margaret Jane McKechnie; and brief impromptu talks by C. D. Gustafson and Andrew Bottelson. Community singing interspersed the program, at the conclusion of which Mrs. Bishop presented Rev. and Mrs. Cooke with the gift, both of whom responded. A decorated wedding cake featured the luncheon which was served during the latter part of the evening.

D. from Charles Nasset of Minneapolis. While motor numbers had been filed off, the serial number, on a plate under the floor mat, had been overlooked, and thru it identification of the car was established.

COUNTY BOARD ARRANGES FOR LOAN OF $250,000

State Funds to be Used in Retiring Outstanding Obligations

MAKES $1,500 GRANT FOR EXTENSION WORK

Request Presented by L. A. Nelson, President of Farm Bureau

Following assurances received last week in St. Paul by County Auditor Harry L. Fowler that the state investment board would grant a refinancing loan of $250,000 to Pennington county, the county board at its December session Tuesday formally adopted a resolution requesting the loan.

The funds when received will be used to retire outstanding county bonds and warrants drawing a higher rate of interest. The outstanding obligations are now being assembled, and the refinancing is expected to be completed within the next few months. The fact that the loan is available from the state investment board testifies to the sound financial condition of the county, Mr. Fowler said.

The board granted a request presented by L. A. Nelson, president of the Pennington county farm bureau for the minimum legal appropriation of $1,500 to finance the county agent extension service in the county, the provision being made that no more of the funds be utilized than strictly necessary. The appropriation includes the cost to the county of the bovine abortion test and the 1935 grasshopper campaign.

The board agreed to pay $60 to complete payment of the county's share of expenses in connection with maintenance of the district office of the National Reemployment service in this city. It was agreed that no further bills will be paid. The board also contracted to pay $3 a month toward the maintenance of the district transient relief office in Bemidji.

Several bills for medical services to relief cases were rejected as not being properly authorized, and one bill was referred to Hennepin county for payment. The meeting was adjourned to December 28 when a short session will be held for the purpose of allowing year-end bills.

Only Good Cows Can Pay Their Way This Winter, Says 'U' Farm Dairyman

The acute dairy feeding problem created by the summer's drouth cannot be solved by grain feeds alone, says H. R. Searles, extension dairyman, University Farm. Hay roughage to the extent of $40 to $60 worth will be required for each cow this winter, he adds.

"Now is the time to check over the herd," Mr. Searles says. "Unless the cow is a good enough producer to warrant using this high priced feed, she should not be carried through the winter."

Mr. Searles points out that though butterfat is about 5 cents higher this fall than last, grain is about double in value. This means that a pound of butterfat now buys only two-thirds as much grain as it did last fall, and only half what it would buy around 1924-25. However, some increase in butterfat prices may be expected as production drops when the herds go on winter feed.

It will pay to feed the good cows grain this winter, he says, though in somewhat smaller amounts than usual. It will pay too to check up on the possibility of exchanging good oats and barley for bran and middlings. Present prices make it possible to nearly double the amount of feed by this exchange.

TAXES NOW AND TEN YEARS AGO

A tax rate of 111.2 mills for the city next year is not in itself an encouraging thing to contemplate. While the increase in the rate is the result of the new law governing assessments, by which the assessed valuation of homesteads is reduced twenty-five per cent, this increase adds substantially to the tax burden of that class of real estate that does not classify as homestead property. The only encouraging thing about this figure is that it is less than the rate levied ten years ago when, with an even higher valuation, it was necessary to spread a levy of 114.6 mills. A comparison of this year's levy with that of ten years ago shows a marked change in the source of the tax problem. Here are the figures:

	1925 levy	1935 levy
School	59.9	39.5
City	35.1	29.1
County	13.82	30.65
State	5.78	11.95
Total	114.6	111.2

Over this ten year period the substantial reductions made in city and school district taxes have been offset by increases in county and state taxes. The fact that county taxes have more than doubled during this ten year period does not mean that the county is being managed less efficiently now than it was ten years ago. The county levy of ten years ago was not sufficient to meet expenses, resulting in an increased indebtedness. It is this increased debt, along with an increased delinquency of taxes and ditch assessments, that has necessitated the present high levy. It is more difficult to justify the doubled levy for state purposes.

These comparative figures indicate the trend of taxes quite effectively. Thruout the country local units of government have met the mounting tax problem by strict economy. The more local the tax, the greater has been the economy. As the source of taxation becomes more remote the less evidence is there of efforts to save. This is because taxpayers, knowing that they themselves pay local taxes, demand economy in local expenditures. The same taxpayers who snort in rage if a dollar of local tax money is wasted, remain unconcerned when a state or national government wastes millions. What is needed to remedy this situation is an increased consciousness among tax payers that state and federal expenditures are just as much a part of the tax problem as the cost of maintaining a local unit of government.

After knowing them more than nine years we still have to look twice to be sure which of the Jung brothers is Herb and which is Walt—there may not be anything to the story that Oscar Paulson fell sixteen feet out of a tree on a venison hunt this fall—one of the most difficult things to do is to properly admire a new baby—Packy McFarland is now more Swede than Irish according to his own estimate on the amount of a big Swede's blood they recently transfused into him but maybe it's just political propaganda—we are glad now that we saved the Christmas cards we addressed last year but forgot to mail—so many candidates are dissatisfied with the results of the last election that we probably should hold another election—it doesn't seem quite right that eggs must be shipped into this territory at this season of the year—that was a tough break for Bill Schermer when his voice failed him after he had traveled three hundred miles to talk to his friends.

HOW FUNNY WE ARE (Bemidji Sentinel)

We seem to be living in a topsy-turvy world. In big things and in little things, surprises are the order of the day. To try to summarize the current news is to get a queer feeling that someone, somewhere is having fun with us by turning everything upside down.

Thus we find a Du Pont calling for federal pruning of munitions profits in wartime, an Ogden Mills endorsing unemployment insurance, and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce backing the New Deal; simultaneously, a Clevelander stabs another man to death in an argument over the proper way to slice bologna sausage, and a Colorado high school boy slugs nine university coeds to see how good a boxer he is.

America's secretary of state is proposed for the Nobel Peace prize, Uncle Sam having labored mightily, one supposes, for the peace of the world. On the same day that this is announced, the U. S. War Department unveils a brand-new armored tank, which carries three machine guns, and is capable of traveling 60 miles an hour across open country.

Professional baseball players travel to Japan and stir Japanese enthusiasm for things American to a new high; simultaneously, American farmers in the southwest seek to oust a colony of Japanese truck gardeners, and thereby help bring Japanese public opinion one notch nearer the stage at which it would agree to a war.

A New York woman announces that she will endow selected poets to the tune of $5,000 a year, Walter S. Gifford welcomes a proposed U. S. investigation of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, the Daughters of the Confederacy meet in New York City and a model citizen of Herkimer, N. Y., who voted in every election for 14 years, discovers that he is not a citizen after all and prepares to take out naturalization papers.

A Spokane husband accuses his wife of communicating with his rival by using the Morse code in her snores, and a New Yorker hammers his wife to death with their framed marriage certificate.

Smedley Butler says someone invited him to march on Washington with 500,000 men, and U. S. customs men detain a quart bottle of gin shipped from the Philippines, declaring that while gin from the Philippines is duty free, there is a tax on the bottle that contains it.

And so it goes. Try to reduce these news dispatches to some orderly significance and you will go daft. Reading the papers is almost like looking into the business end of a kaleidoscope, these days.

WHAT CREATES WEALTH?
(Brown County Journal)

Government cannot create wealth. It can only spend it.

That economic axiom was recently pointed out by B. C. Forbes, in commenting on the delusion that government has a limitless purse, that it can pull bundles of cash out of a magic hat, that "a day of reckoning never comes."

Every cent spent by political organizations must be supplied by the taxpayers. And that term, "taxpayer", means every person in the country who has a job, any savings, a piece of property, a business, or a dollar to spend. It means the day laborer as well as the bank president, the clerk as well as the executive. In fact, the clerk and the day laborer have the most to lose from tax extravagance and the most to gain from tax economy. Government cannot be supported by taxing men of wealth—there aren't enough of them to make a dent in the budget. The great bulk of its revenue comes from indirect taxes on clothes, food—all the necessities and luxuries which the average man and woman of small income buys.

Wealth is created when capital is used to provide facilities with which men can work to produce goods and commodities and services that the people need and want. Potential wealth is lost when the burden of taxation makes impossible this capital investment—when it stifles at the source the jobs and opportunities that would otherwise be provided.

Tax reduction is in the interest of every worker, every farmer, every business and professional man. It would produce jobs, develop industries and make more taxable wealth. And there is only one way we can have tax reduction—by spending less tax money.

Otter Tail county is a great county. It gives Nelson a 1,000 plurality over Olson, but elects a Farmer-Labor endorsed senator. It tops the legislative list with Roy Dunn, a conservative, and gives Eriksson, who goes as a liberal friendly to the administration, second place. The third highest vote is given to Hannah Kempfer, a conservative and Ost, another liberal, takes the fourth place while the Farmer-Labor endorsed candidate runs fifth, or first out. All of which goes to prove what?—Perham Enterprise-Bulletin.

A little Chinese girl was carrying a chubby boy on her back. "Is he heavy?" somebody asked. "No," was the reply, "he is my brother." There are duties which are pleasures, there are tasks carried through with a right good will, there are deprivations and hardships cheerfully endured. And all because there is enthusiasm or affection, idealism or devotion, patriotism or consecration in the toil or hardship.—Exchange.

Undercooked Pork Held to be Dangerous Food

To eat raw or undercooked pork is to run the risk of a dangerous and sometimes fatal disease, known as trichinosis, says Dr. W. A. Riley, chief of the division of entomology, University Farm, St. Paul. Cases of this disease have been rather frequent in recent years, yet it is easily avoided by strictly avoiding pork in all forms, that has not been thoroughly cooked.

Trichinosis is caused by a tiny worm, too small to be seen without a microscope, which lives in the flesh of infected hogs, and if not killed by cooking, infects the person eating the meat from these animals. Trichinosis affects persons of either sex and all ages, regardless of nationality. Recent studies by the University of Minnesota show that the infection is much more common than has been supposed. While a light infestation is often manifested merely by intestinal pains and diarrhea, with a light fever, heavier infestation results in serious and long continued illness and not infrequently in death.

Most cases of trichinosis seem to result from the eating of uncooked summer sausages and raw or imperfectly cooked smoked meats, though any part of an infested animal is equally dangerous. Ham, says Dr. Riley, should be cooked the equivalent of at least an hour in boiling water for each four pounds. Other cuts should be given an equally thorough cooking.

KILLED A WOLF WITH AN AUTO

Baudette—John Kvalness' boy, Olaf, of Carp made a nice chunk of money last Thursday evening in an easy way. He was driving his car near his home when he saw a wolf ahead of him on the road. Olaf stepped on the gas and thumped the big, bad wolf so hard that it was badly injured, and Olaf finished him with a tire pump. He got the bounty and sold the hide for several dollars, making a nice evening's profit. It was the first wolf in the county known to be killed in such a manner.

Public Forum

TO OUR CITIZENS:

I have for some time been convinced that our city municipal light plant would be better managed by a commission than by the council. Because of this conviction I went on record favoring the appointment of such a commission at the time when I filed for re-election as your mayor in the Fall of 1933. Now that I have served one year of my second term I believe that the voters of our city have a right to ask if anything has been done about this matter. And if nothing has been done, why so.

I am sorry to say that so far nothing has been done. It has been talked about by our present council but this council has not so far been willing to attempt to work out any plan as a basis for such action. It is not a matter that is easily done as it will require careful attention to a large number of important issues which are involved. But where there is a will there is also a way. The commission form works out well in cities where it is properly planned. I believe that it would work out well for Thief River Falls. We are anxious that this important utility gives us the best of service for our investment. We are fortunate to have a municipal plant in our city and there are vast possibilities in case some one will take the time and interest in it to work them out.

Thief River Falls should have cheaper current and lots more of it. With our own plant there is no valid reason why the cost of current could not be such that it would be used to full advantage in every home. The plant should seek to make its earnings by volume rather than by high rates. Cooking rates should not be prohibitive even for the poor. Power rates should be such that new industries are invited.

I do not fear contradiction when I say that the plant merits all the attention that five men can give it aside from their personal business. This commission should not be engaged in other phases of public service or city affairs—as for instance the council must be. With such a group of good business men, pledged to protect and properly maintain the plant, it would earn more than it has ever done before. Such a commission may not entirely take it out of politics, but it would greatly reduce the damage at times done by cheap politics. The rapidly changing councils can not plan very far into the future. Supervision and appointment of engineers and employees becomes pro tem.

I regret that when the matter was brought up before our council again at its last meeting that only two members of our council were favorable to the plan. Because of this situation in the council nothing has been done so far and with the present opinion prevailing in the council, nothing is likely to be done. There is nothing that I can do in this matter without the support of the council. As a matter of justice to my many supporters, as well as in justice to myself, I find it necessary to make this explanation.

One of the most frequent objections raised against a Commission is that the city needs revenue from the plant and therefore must have full control by the council. This is an important matter, as the city does need revenue from this source, at least at the present time. This can however be well provided for in the set up of the plan. The plant should also have a certain percentage of its earnings set aside for a maintenance fund and for the purchase of new equipment which from time to time will be needed. It should not be necessary to float new bond issues for the city every time some new equipment was needed for the plant. A well planned management with a long range vision would overcome this difficulty. Secondly, revenues, in the length of time, depend entirely upon successful operation and management. Nothing therefore which is truly beneficial to the plant could be detrimental to the city, but would rather reflect favorably also as far as revenues is concerned.

It is because I have the welfare of this plant at heart and because I am vitally interested in the success of municipal utilities that I bring this matter again to your attention at this time. No doubt you will sooner or later insist on a more permanent system of management for our plant.

Respectfully yours,
E. L. TUNGSETH, Mayor.

Hello folks:

I don't know how the report got around that I had gone to the happy hunting grounds. I even heard that my old friend and political ally from Mayfield was wearing crepe. Once a year I give thanks for the many blessings that come my way. I think that is much more satisfactory than to be fussing and stewing all the time.

We had a wonderful crop out here in the sticks and it is encouraging to note that many of the farmers are buying back their farms from the state, getting them back on the tax list. But all too many of us have not seen money for so long that we don't know its worth and are spending it like drunken lumberjacks. Perhaps there is no class of people who are so lavish and free with their money as farmers.

Well, election is past and Olson still holds the horn of plenty. Paul Harris will continue to pack away the dollars to the tune of two, or was it four, hundred per. This will not be exactly in line for relief. Lundgren will still continue to law, and Berve is all smiles again. So let us be thankful.

You know, folks, a short time ago I thought I would like to be in line for a blue eagle, so I asked a young fellow who I happened to know was on relief to work for me. "How much?", he asked. "One dollar per day." He stuck a tailor-made in his mouth at an angle of about 60 degrees and wanted to know why in h— he should break his back and work from early dawn until dark for one dollar when he could get 65 cents per hour doing almost nothing. Can't blame the poor devil at that.

With all the avalanche of work that has been available the past year the cost of relief still mounts in this county. With all the billions that the government has spent for relief there are more people unemployed than in the darkest days of the depression. Perhaps individual effort and fear of hunger is the best job getter?

Oh hum, not much to write about. The editor must have a humdrum life. Why, only a little while ago Big Bill wasted a lot of gray matter telling us about bigger and better salt shakers. I wish my dear friend from Mayfield would have an attack of hydrophobia or my loving disciple would have a very mild attack of colic. Until then, who knows?

Old Seed May Grow; "U" Farm Advises Testing

Confronted with the first seed scarcity in years, Minnesota farmers are frequently raising the question of how well old seed will grow. Ralph F. Crim, extension agronomist, University Farm, St. Paul, says age of seed is less important than the original quality of the seed and the way it is stored.

Mr. Crim says that the viability (germination) of farm seeds depends very largely on the conditions of moisture, ventilation, and temperature under which it is stored. Seed stored with a relatively high percentage of moisture very often deteriorates rapidly and may not be viable after one year. Seed stored in poorly ventilated bins frequently becomes musty. If stored under cool, dry conditions, seed lives considerably longer than if stored under severe heat conditions.

Considerable quantities of satisfactory seed can be salvaged from the old stocks by thoroughly applying a simple home germination test. Blotting paper, picnic plates, or a simple rag doll tester may be used, just so the seed is kept moist and warm enough.

Cement That Will Float

Reshaping of Economic Foreign Policies is Urged by Commission

Coming in part from the University of Minnesota because Dr. Guy Stanton Ford, dean of the Graduate School, was a member of the commission, six major recommendations looking to the improvement of this nation's economic foreign relations have been made public by the Commission on National Policy in International Economic Relations.

The commission, formed by the Social Science Research Council, and financed by the Rockefeller Foundation, had the approval of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, although it is a non-governmental body. He will consider the report.

As steps toward removing the barriers to world trade and re-stimulating America's economic life, this important commission recommends, in brief:

1. Adoption of political measures such as immediate settlement of the war debts to relieve the distrust and tension now prevalent in the world.
2. Removal of tariffs where no unemployment would result, and lowering of other tariffs subject to proper safeguards.
3. Announcement by the president that he does not intend to exercise his present powers to change the gold content of the dollar.
4. Granting by Congress of wider powers to the Tariff Commission.
5. Freedom from governmental restrictions on foreign, long-term private loans.
6. Abandonment at the earliest possible moment of all measures tending to restrict agricultural exports.

Briefly stated this means that, in order to reverse the trend toward economic isolation as rapidly as possible, the United States is urged to promote the interchange of goods and services among nations. Non-economists would say, encourage foreign trade and international borrowing.

Soap Is an Excellent Disinfectant, Asserts State Medical Group

Plain soap and water is one of the most powerful of all protections against the spread of disease, according to a bulletin issued by the Minnesota State Medical Association today.

According to this bulletin recent studies made in a group of New York hospitals have shown that pure soap—that is soap without excessive alkalis—have actual germ killing qualities. These germ killing properties are in addition to the mechanical cleansing by which the dirt is carried off in the suds.

Some of man's most dangerous disease enemies including the streptococcus, the meningococcus, the pneumococcus and the diphtheria bacillus were shown by laboratory tests to be affected by ordinary soap. The tests showed, too, that the hotter the water used, the harder on the germs.

Generous use of hot water and soap for all household cleansing and disinfecting is therefore urged in the bulletin as the cheapest, safest and most effective protection against the spread of germs by hands, by utensils and tableware, on all surfaces such as furniture, floors, sinks and toilets that can be reached by soap and water.

When a disinfectant or antiseptic is needed for other purposes for which soap and water cannot be used, the bulletin advises, getting expert advice, since many disinfectants and antiseptics are sold at exhorbitant prices and are absolutely useless for the purposes for which they are sold.

CAPITOL NEWS REVIEW—
(By A. I. Harris)

Sir Anthony Jenkinson, English newspaperman from the London Morning Telegraph, who has been making a survey of the liberal and progressive trends in this country, gave out an interview in New Orleans recently in which he said that he believed that Governor Floyd B. Olson would be the next president of the United States and that he was the outstanding progressive leader in the country. Sir Jenkinson has interviewed President Roosevelt, the LaFollettes, Upton Sinclair, and Huey Long. Long he branded as a "dangerous Fascist."

Mrs. Blanche La Due and Attorney General Harry H. Peterson left for Washington last week to attend a series of conferences on the crime problems called by United States Attorney-General Homer S. Cummings. Here is a problem which must be tackled and tackled vigorously.

Trial of J. Cameron Thomson, president of the Northwest Bancorporation, on charge of grand larceny began Friday in Moorhead before Judge James E. Montague of Crookston. The trial was previously set before Judge John B. Roeser of St. Cloud, but Bancorporation defendants filed an affidavit of prejudice. In addition to Thomson, 16 other officers, former officers, or directors of the Bancorporation will come to trial on the same charges, the outcome of an investigation into the stock selling affairs of the corporation by the State Commerce commission at the instigation of Governor Olson. County Attorney James A. Garrity is assisted by Special Assistant Attorney General Garfield Rustad, Special Assistant Attorney General W. E. G. Watson, and Assistant Attorney General Roger Rutchick. Banco officials are represented by a large array of Minneapolis legal talent.

An appropriation of $950,000 was made last week by the State Executive council to supply the state supplement to federal relief. The total relief in the state for the two months of November and December amounts to $8,750,000. In asking for the state aid, L. P. Zimmerman, federal emergency relief administrator for Minnesota, said that there are at present 95,000 families in Minnesota on direct relief; 48,000 on livestock relief; 5,000 men on transient relief, and that the relief load for December had jumped 10 per cent and could be expected to go up.

A farm to farm canvass to determine exactly the amount of feed available and the amount needed is going to be made immediately, Dean W. C. Coffey, federal drouth relief administrator for this region, announced. Estimates of need will be made upon the farmers' recommendations and will be based on maintaining present herds. Dean Coffey said that people in Washington do not realize the seriousness of the situation in this state and believe that there is enough feed to take care of the cattle in the drouth stricken area. He said a great effort will be made to convince Washington officials of the desperateness of the situation here.

The Minnesota Rural Credit Department recently retired $1,000,000 in bonds without borrowing, T. H. Arens, conservator announced. The bonds, which were held by the State Investment board, were met with funds obtained by the department through income from farm rents, interest, and mortgage payments.

John G. Rockwell, commissioner of Education, left for Washington last week to attend a series of schoolmen's conferences. School men from all parts of the nation will be present at the conferences. Dr. Rockwell will be gone about a week.

During the month of November in Minnesota there were 3,522 accidents subject to the state's workmen's compensation law. Of these 16 were fatal.

Farmers are jubilant over the heavy rains and snowfalls that the state is now enjoying. The same goes for sportsmen and lovers of the outdoors. The dry cycle, which is said to have run its course, raised havoc with agriculture, lake levels, and the general conditions of the northwest. It is to be hoped that prevailing snowfalls mean the end of the drouth, dust storms, and the hundred and one evils that accompany dry periods.

Production of commodities for use by needy families in the state is continuing under the direction of the SERA. Mattress factories in the Twin Cities and Duluth have turned out 4,200 finished articles since work was started in October. Of that amount, more than 3,000 already have been given to relief families. A cannery in St. Cloud has turned out 800,000 tins of beef since September, while another plant in Duluth is boning 8,000 pounds of beef daily, preparatory to canning the meat. All of these articles are given as supplies, and are in addition to the clients' regular budgets. According to L. H. Jackson, SERA industrial engineer, almost 2,000 clients are employed monthly on these projects.

The State Industrial Commission has notified employment booking agencies of their responsibility in connection with engaging children for floor shows in night clubs and beer parlors. There is a stringent state law [illegible] child labor laws and school laws. It has been reported that many children under 16 years of age have gone over the state line, to Wisconsin, quitting school, to work in night clubs. The Wisconsin Industrial Commission promised to cooperate with the Minnesota unit and order the return of these children to Minnesota and to school.

Three million American school children are headed toward the lonely isolation of partial or complete deafness according to a survey completed recently by the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing.

This astounding figure is cited by the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association in a bulletin issued today to show the great need for hearing tests in every American school.

"A good many of those three million have no idea that their hearing is defective" says the bulletin. "Their failure to hear everything that goes on in the school room is set down as slowness or inattention. They are likely to become what are now called 'problem' children.

"Their parents are generally equally unaware of the trouble. But, unhappily, the years are passing when treatment has its best chance to cure or retard deafness. All specialists in diseases of the ear agree childhood is the time to correct disease conditions in the ear before irreparable destruction has occurred. Also there are comparatively few cases of deafness that could not be remedied if they were treated in time.

"But the years are passing, also, when it is easiest to learn lip reading so that the handicapped child can be prepared to lead a useful, happy life like other children".

The physicians strongly urge hearing tests for every child in Minnesota, possibly with the use of the audiometer, a new electric device by which a group of children can be tested at once.

The services of the Committee on Deafness Prevention and Amelioration of the Minnesota State Medical Association for consultation with educators in attacking this problem are available.

Meals Can Make Being Hostess a Real Pleasure

Cooler days make entertaining a pleasure. Why not set aside one day of each week as guest day, and invite one or two friends to dinner?

If entertaining is to be the real pleasure that it should, the meal must be easily prepared, easily served, and one which keeps within the budget, too.

Choose Meat with Care

The meat dish, since it forms the main dish of the meal, must be chosen with special care. A roast is always a good choice, but be sure to use every precaution to make it easily carved. Instead of leaving the bones in a shoulder of lamb and so making it difficult to carve, have it boned at the market, and stuff the cavity with your favorite dressing. Then it can be sliced down through, and all the difficult intricacies of carving are eliminated.

Meat Loaf a Good Choice

A meat loaf is delicious for the informal dinner, and it is so easily sliced and served. If you want a very special meat loaf, bake it in a ring mold. Then fill the center with riced or creamed potatoes, decorate with parsley and you have not only a good, but a good-looking dish.

A two-tone meat loaf is a very special way of preparing the popular loaf.

Two-Tone Meat Loaf

1 pound ground veal
1 pound ground ham
1 cup bread crumbs
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 pimiento, chopped
2 onions, chopped
6 slices bacon
Salt and pepper

Combine the veal and half the other ingredients, the bread crumbs, pimiento, onion, egg and seasoning. Separately combine the other half of the ingredients with the ground ham. Line a loaf pan with bacon, pack in the ham mixture, and press it into a level mass. On top of it pack the veal mixture and over all place the remaining strips of bacon. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about one and a half hours.

A meat loaf is still easier to serve if it is baked in individual muffin tins or custard cups. These individual loaves may be turned out onto a large platter, and garnished with tomato slices and parsley.

Individual Swiss Steak

Swiss steak is always a good choice for the informal guest dinner. The steak may be cut into individual portions before cooking in order to facilitate serving at the table.

Beef Birds

Individual beef or veal birds, cooked in the same manner as Swiss steak, are well-liked and easily served. For these, have round steak cut thin in pieces as nearly 3 inches square as possible. Pile on top of each a tablespoon of savory dressing or 2 small partially cooked carrots. Roll and tie into shape. Brown in hot lard, add a small quantity of water, cover and let simmer slowly until done, about one hour.

Eskimo Language

All Eskimos use the same language, whether they live in British Canada, Russian Siberia, America's Alaska or Denmark's Greenland. Some of the words are written and spoken in several hundred different ways, each [illegible]

Each shipper must have written permission from the owner of the land and this permit must accompany the trees while being transported. The permit must contain the description of the land from which the trees are removed and the signature of the owner. The men stationed on the highways have instructions to stop all trucks carrying Christmas trees and examine the permit carried by the drivers.

HUNTER GETS WILD RIDE ON DEER'S BACK

Baudette—Ole Reiberg got his deer Friday, but he had a heck of a time doing it. Ole let loose with his trusty blunderbuss, and the deer fell, but when Ole approached it to sink the knife in it the deer promptly got up and started to run. Ole hotfooted after the animal, and finally with a jump, he landed on its back. This got the deer confused and it bumped into a tree and was dazed. This gave Ole his chance and he finished the animal with the knife.

Third More Chevrolets Have Been Produced in 1934 Than Year Before

Production of Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks for the model year 1934 will show an increase of approximately 35 per cent over corresponding figures for last year, it was announced here today by M. E. Coyle, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co.

Analysis of this production shows that all three Chevrolet lines—Master models, Standard models, and trucks—made gains in 1934, the highest percentage of gain being registered by the Standard series, the world's lowest priced six-cylinder car.

Some idea of the bearing which this added production has on the country's economic recovery may be gained from Mr. Coyle's statement that pay-rolls for the first 10 months were 45 per cent greater than for all of 1933. Wages and salaries paid to Chevrolet employees, up to November 1, totalled $67,686,994.59, he said.

The greater part of the money accounted for in the present report, Mr. Coyle pointed out, went to productive labor employed in the Chevrolet manufacturing and assembly plants throughout the country.

N. D. Aggie Cage Team Includes Local Player

Wendell Kielty of Thief River Falls, Minn., is one of the sophomore basketball players who will be considered for a berth on the varsity team at the North Dakota Agricultural College. These men were barred from varsity competition last year by the conference ruling that freshmen are ineligible. Wendell has been active in athletics since entering the college having been a member of the freshman football and basketball teams last year.

No State Banks Closed in Minnesota in 1934

The state banking department which last year closed 47 state banks so far this year has not closed a single state institution. This was revealed by officials of the state department, who revealed that so far this year there have been only three liquidations of banks, and those have been voluntary on the part of the banks, three mergers and one state bank was nationalized. In 1933, besides the 47 banks closed by the department, three voluntarily liquidated, 28 were merged and two were nationalized.

FISH WITH FOUR LEGS CAUGHT IN MINN. RIVER

Sleepy Eye.—A new form of fish with four fully developed legs was caught by a hospital patient at St. Peter, in the Minnesota river last week. The strange fish was about a foot in length and greatly resembled a dog fish in size and shape with a head like a hammer-headed shark. It had the hide of a bull head, being dark brown with a perfect polka dot pattern of black spots. Triple gill openings on each side of the head, had tufted pendants. In the place of fins, four perfectly formed legs, each with four fingers were developed. It is believed to be a new species of aquatic life that may have ascended the river from the sea. A similar specimen was reported caught lately near Mankato.

LIEBERMAN'S
"Good Clothes for Men and Boys"

Legion Listenin' Post

Have been falling down on this column a bit due to the pressure of other work; but expect to hit every week from now on. Watch here for announcements of doings of the Post and for Post meetings. In case you miss it here, the Post meets on the second and fourth Friday evening of each month.

Attend the meetings and you may win a nice Legion button for yourself. A drawing will be held from the names of those present at each meeting and some one gets a Legion button. The drawing is held before the meeting so be on time.

All unemployed veterans should register with the nearest branch of the Federal Employment Service. Veterans should register and re-register every thirty days, in order to keep the registration active.

After the first of the year some program for the unemployed will be in order. One of these will be the Federal Census on Agriculture. Read the last copy of the Legionaire Weekly for particulars on this.

Excellent radio program sponsored by the American Legion will be on the air this winter. Watch for later announcements.

The good will trip to Goodridge last week was well attended. We had a meeting full of comradeship and business with entertainment by Doc. Haug. The Goodridge boys are a real gang of good fellows and proved to be excellent hosts. We salute Vice-Commander Disrew for bringing in two veterans that had never before belonged to any Veteran's organization.

The entire state of Minnesota prides itself on its membership for this year. You fellows that want to know about our excellent program for community, state and nation, remit your dues to Post Adjutant George Haken and attend our next meeting in the club rooms December 21st.

Altho the State of Minnesota is well along on membership, Elmer J. Eklund Post of Thief River Falls is coming along rather slow. If any of you members have other memberships on hand you are urged to turn them in at once to the Adjutant.

The community rink is going strong again now, and the youngsters are down there in force. This project was originally started by the Legion several years ago and is just one example of the benefit a Post can be to its community.

Uphold and defend.

Horseshoes

The ancients were so impressed by the damage done to horses' hoofs that they devised certain forms of covering for them (in the shape of socks or sandals). The practice of nailing iron plates or rimshoes to the hoof does not appear to have been introduced earlier than the Second century B. C., and was not commonly known till the close of the Fifth century A. D., or in regular use till the Middle ages.

STATE ASSN. CITES BENEFITS OF SEAL SALES TO COUNTY

Have Made Possible Extended Program of Health Education Here

What benefits does our county receive from the sale of Christmas Seals? This is a question frequently asked by purchasers of the penny tuberculosis Seals. The answer is contained in a bulletin recently received by local Christmas Seal workers from the Minnesota Public Health Association, which directs the sale and program throughout the state.

Pointing out that 95 per cent of each dollar raised through the sale of Christmas Seals remains in Minnesota to support local projects and the statewide campaign, the bulletin explains that but five per cent goes to finance the national campaign which benefits each county.

In Pennington County Christmas Seals have made possible an extended program of health education and health activities during the past five years.

A tuberculin testing and X-ray survey was conducted in the schools of Thief River Falls during 1933 and 1934. A large appropriation from Seal funds was used to pay for X-rays of positive reactors to the test. Crippled children and adults were examined at the Orthopedic Clinic held in Thief River Falls this fall.

Dr. Kathleen Jordan has given three health talks before rural teachers' institutes, the high schools, and the Ninth District Federation of Women's Clubs in Thief River Falls. A portable scale was sent for use in the CWS nursing service in the county.

Each year "Everybody's Health" is sent to every school in the county and health educational material distributed to the schools includes: thermometers, cup dispensers and paper cups, towel cabinets and paper towels, first aid kits, health books, recreation balls, bats, health balls, and volley ball nets.

Grand Champion Steer at Chicago Livestock Show Sells for $3,486

The depression, kicked around all week at the 35th annual international livestock exposition in Chicago, was routed Thursday on two fronts—at the stock auction pits and in the show ampitheater.

"Campus Idol," the grand champion steer of the exposition, started the route by selling Thursday at $3 a pound, more than twice the selling price of the 1933 champion, and the highest price paid for prize beef here since 1929, when "Lucky Strike", was sold for $8.25 a pound to establish an all-time record.

And it was continued Thursday night in the amphitheater when a crowd which B. H. Heide, manager, said was one of the largest since the exposition opened last Saturday, jammed into seats around the show arena after paying admissions of from 50 cents to several dollars each.

The grand champion, which brought $3,486 to the animal husbandry department of the Iowa State college at Ames, Iowa, through its sale to the Kroger Grocery and Baking Co., weighed 1,162 pounds a gain of 22 pounds since he won the steer crown Tuesday.

Transient Arrested on Check Forgery Charge

Bernard Seipman, a transient was arrested Dec. 7 at Thief River Falls by Sheriff Ole Ihle at the request of Sheriff Carl A. Kankel and brought before Justice V. M. Healy of this city to answer to the complaint that he had forged the name of Joseph Patton of St. Hilaire to a check for $51.60, says the Red Lake Falls Gazette. Check was drawn on the Union State Bank of Thief River Falls, and Seipman had obtained $30 in cash on said check from J. B. Parentau of Terrebonne, who had employed Seipman for a time. Seipman waived preliminary examination and was bound over to the Red Lake county district court and his bail set at $1,000, for lack of which Seipman is awaiting trial in the county jail.

JUDGING EVENTS FEATURE VALLEY WINTER SHOWS

To Play Prominent Part in Programs at Crookston February 4 to 8

Monday, February 4, which will be the opening day of the Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows, has been designated livestock and crops judging contest day. Teams from three states and Canada are expected to participate in each of the school of agriculture contests. Separate contests have likewise been arranged for the agricultural high schools throughout the Northwest; and livestock judging contests are being arranged for farmers' clubs and 4-H clubs from Northwestern Minnesota counties. The livestock judging contest will be supervised by R. J. Christgau, while R. S. Dunham will have charge of the crops judging events.

Judges including P. A. Anderson, sheep; W. H. Peters, beef cattle; H. G. Zavoral, swine; E. A. Hanson, dairy cattle; C. L. McNelly, horses; R. F. Crim and Dr. H. K. Wilson, University Farm, St. Paul, and A. W. Aamodt, Moorhead, crops judging contest.

Winter Shows officials consider the judging contests to be among the more important educational events of the week. In addition to the livestock, farm crops, poultry and industrial exhibits, special short course meetings are being arranged during the day climaxed by huge mass meetings each evening throughout the week, February 4 to 8, 1935.

Action Challenges Gov. Floyd Olson Election

Re-election of Governor Floyd B. Olson was challenged Thursday with the filing in county district court for a judgment of ouster, alleging violation of the corrupt practices act.

Signed by 29 Hennepin county voters, the petition alleges that approximately $20,000 worth of advertising for Governor Olson was carried in the pages of the Farmer-Labor Leader during the campaign, none of which was accounted for in the statements of the governor's campaign expenses.

Ownership of a financial interest in the party paper, not properly designated with the state, also was charged. It was further claimed that large sections of editorial matter praising the governor's record, which appeared in the publication, did not carry the designation, "paid advertisement."

Unlighted Wagon Causes Death of Two Motorists at Crookston Thursday

Two Grand Forks men, Espy F. Webster, 28 years old, and Leland Lofgren, 41, died in a Crookston hospital Friday as a result of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near that city Thursday night.

The third man injured in the accident, T. B. Asleson, 618 Second avenue South, was reported recovering satisfactorily at another Crookston hospital. He was expected to leave the hospital Saturday. Extreme facial lacerations were his only injuries.

The mishap occurred shortly before 6 P. M. Thursday when the car in which the three Grand Forks men were riding, crashed the rear of an unlighted wagon load of poles on Highway 2. They were on their way to Crookston for an Elks lodge program.

Minnesota Relief Grant for December Increased

Minnesota's allotment of federal funds for December amounts to $1,079,135, it is announced by L. P. Zimmerman, acting administrator, Minnesota SERA (State Emergency Relief administration). This represents a raise of $307,635 above the figure for November and marks the high point for any month since the inception of emergency relief administration. The $1,079,135 fund has been alloted as follows: general relief $300,000; drouth relief, $500,000; transient relief $100,000; education $42,400; student aid, $36,735, and rural rehabilitation, $100,000.

Local Boy on Concordia Basketball Quintet

A Thief River Falls youth has "arrived" as far as Concordia varsity basketball is concerned, is the frank conviction of Coach Frank Cleve, who, despite the defeats the Cobbers have suffered at the hands of Carleton and Jamestown College, sees in Arthur Myrom a pivotal point around which to build a strong Concordia team as the season grows older. Against the Jamestown club Myrom scored fourteen points in addition to contributing the finest floor play of the evening. He is a fixture at one of the forward posts Coach Cleve disclosed.

CAPITOL NEWS

(By A. I. Harris)

December in even numbered years is always the busiest month of the biennium for state officials. This month they are burning electricity preparing their reports and recommendations for the 1935 Legislature.

The Department of Rural Credit has liquidated $1,000,000 of bonds held by the state investment board. Increased collections of back rent and interest in the Red River Valley region is responsible, according to Ted Arens, conservator.

With the coming of winter weather, John P. Arnoldy, chief of the state highway patrol, has asked every motorist in the state to co-operate in avoiding accidents. Highway patrol have been working overtime to assist in keeping highways clear and free of accidents, the seventy men of the patrol being distributed in 20 stations throughout the state where the traffic is heaviest.

The political chopping block is being dragged from the closet and being dusted off in anticipation of the heads that are due to fall, according to all reports in the Capitol. Stories have been carried naming those who are slated to look for new jobs, but most of these were denied by the Governor's office. It was learned from authoritative sources, however, that many so-called "big shots" are due to go.

Plans are under way for the city of Alexandria to take over the power plant owned by the village of Nelson and operate it for the benefit of Alexandria patrons, but there will have to be a vote of approval from the city of Alexandria before the plans can be completed, the opinion signed by David J. Erickson, assistant attorney general read.

Past experience has taught legislatures that it requires about 10 per cent of tax revenue collected for administration of the collection office. It was generally conceded around the legislative halls at the extra-session that if the agency collecting liquor taxes did so at the 10 per cent figure, a good job would have been accomplished. Up to date, the office of the state liquor control commissioner has expended only seven per cent of receipts for collection. And not only has this office collected liquor and malt taxes but it has enforced the liquor control law as well.

After many delays caused by re-sorting to technical means for delaying trial, the case against Northwest Bancorporation officials for alleged fraud in the selling of that chain bank stock will open in Moorhead before district Judge Roeser on Friday, December 7. J. Cameron Thomson, president of the Banco, will be the first defendant. Separate trials have been asked by each of those charged.

The relief funds alloted to Minnesota for the winter will be almost a million larger each month than last year. This increase was arranged by Governor Olson during his recent business sojourn in Washington. Drought ravages in some 20 counties required this boost. The federal relief appropriation for all purposes for December in this state will total approximately $1,100,000.

Carl Erickson, state purchasing agent, has been subjected to much good natured raillery by his state house friends because of an item carried by the press association wires which said that he might desert his office for a job in the talking pictures.

Because of dire economic conditions, Minnesota farmers will require $2,000,000 for relief in December, John Bosch, head of the Farmers' Holiday association informed Governor Olson last week. Approximately 40,000 farmers will require help in December, mostly from western, southwestern and northern Minnesota, this being principally due to drouth conditions. In January this number will increase to 60,000, Mr. Bosch said. Most of the relief will be needed for feeding livestock. Governor Olson stated that the federal government promised him during his recent visit at Washington that it will cooperate fully, and as a result a representative of the federal government is now making an investigation of relief needs among Minnesota farmers.

The proposed Lac qui Parle flood control and water conservation project has moved out of the dream stage and is fast becoming a reality. SERA officials have virtually assured completion of the one and one-half million dollar undertaking by their decision to take up options on land involved. When the project is completed, the higher lake level will necessitate construction of a bridge across the narrows of the lake, near Milan. Work on the approaches to the bridge will be started immediately. The Lac qui Parle project is one of the most extensive in the SERA's general conservation program. It involves construction of two dykes to raise the water level in the lake, and will require the rerouting of railroad tracks near Watson. In addition, the highway across the narrows of the lake will be straightened and rerouted. Relief labor will be used to carry out the project. It will be completed in about a year.

More than 150,000 pleasure cars and trucks have been checked for lights and brakes since June 1, chief John P. Arnoldy of the state highway patrol has announced; and of these, 16 per cent have been found with defective brakes and 10 per cent with defective lights. Where police departments and sheriffs have actively cooperated, accidents have been cut approximately 50 per cent, and the cooperation has extended to practically every part of the state.

Now you're glad you didn't give your old overcoat away to a poor man who needed it, for you'll need it worse yourself.

FISH FLAPS TAIL, SMASHES SHOW-CASE

Fergus Falls.—When they catch fish around Fergus Falls, they're worth hauling in. Catching a mammoth Great Northern pike recently, Sidney Bierdorff proudly paraded through town with his prize, which had nearly pulled him into the river. Entering a store with the beauty wrapped in brown paper, Bierdorff stood by a show-case and recounted the mighty tussle. The fish, hearing the boast and deciding to stir and show off a bit himself, flipped his tail, and crash went the plate glass show window. It cost the fisherman $8 to replace the glass, and business men are seriously considering a local ordinance forbidding the carrying of fish through the streets, for the protection of life and property.

Election over and fall work done, time may now be found to consider more carefully the delinquencies of the neighbors.

GAME WARDEN ADDRESSES HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

Discusses Flowers, Birds and other Phases of Outdoor Life

A very educational and interesting half-hour speech was given by Game Warden William Munch of Crookston at the Lincoln High School assembly Friday afternoon.

Mr. Munch introduced his speech by stating that he would discuss topics dealing with outdoor life, not just wild life. He began by pointing out advantages of encouraging Boy and Girl Scout troops and 4-H Clubs. He stated that a juvenile court judge at St. Cloud recently made a report showing that out of 1100 boys and young men that were put in prison or reform schools, not one of those boys had at any time belonged to one of these organizations. The report also stated that there never had been a boy scout in the penitentiary at St. Cloud. If we could decrease crime, the money spent on keeping up penitentiaries, reformatories, and similar institutions could be used for raising teachers' salaries and improving schools. There would also be hundreds of boys and girls put back to school where they belong. He also said that in certain European countries they have seventy-five days more of school in the year which helps to keep boys and girls out of mischief and crime. In these countries the per cent of crime for a year is far below other countries which have shorter school terms.

The Game Warden said that we should take more interest in developing hobbies. A very good one is raising flowers. Of all the flowers raised in the State of Minnesota, less than one per cent raised is our state flower, the Moccasin flower. This is an unusually hard flower to raise, but it is a very beautiful plant.

In our present day schools, more interest is being taken in biological teachings. Boys and girls are being taught the value of birds, which will help prevent them from killing all kinds of harmless birds just for the fun of killing. Birds are of priceless value to us. They eat their own weight of food every day. The greatest part of their food is made up of harmful insects and bugs. He also said that we should not destroy wild fruit trees because these trees furnish a major part of a bird's diet, in the summer time, but that we should plant such trees and do what we can to help them thrive.

Some birds eat mosquitoes at the rate of 2000 a day. You can try to imagine the huge amount of mosquitoes that are eaten daily by birds, and if all the birds were killed how many of these disease carrying insects there would be. In general, most people seem to have a grudge against sparrows, and some even go so far as to say that they believe the Creator made a mistake in giving life to the sparrow. But this, however, is not true. One instance that proves a sparrow is beneficial to us is shown by statistics from a certain county in Iowa. In this county huge fields of alfalfa were destroyed by alfalfa insects. Later it was found that sparrows are the only birds that will eat these harmful insects.

PURE PERSONAL PIFFLE

By a Piffler

LaCucuracha would be very applicable to a certain "gentleman" debater, if Mr. Carlson only knew the half of it.

It would be fun to blackmail Malcolm M. He thinks he's puncture proof when it comes to scandal—we aren't so sure.

Lines by a Sophomoron:

One can chin oneself
There's nothing to it.
But can one neck oneself?
No, it takes a duet.

When a boy breaks a date, he usually has to. When a girl breaks a date, she usually has two.

Saw Mr. Sidney Fladeland, an eighth grade teacher. Recalled vividly the crush I had in my youth—Oh, well, maybe he wouldn't have made me happy anyhow.

The apparent lack of appreciation on the part of the Debate Coach.

Is life a bed of roses for the Debaters? For further information see Corlan D. or Ken Gustafson.

Do we lose some of our best basket ball players?

Corlan and Ken have successfully "buried the hatchet." Queer, because they are two of the most stubborn people in school.

Thief River to Meet A. C. on Home Court

Next Thursday, an advance showing of what is to come in Prowler basketball will be held in the Municipal Auditorium. Our opponents will be the quintet from the Crookston Agricultural College.

The Crookston Aggies always put up a good fight but usually go home on the shorter end of the score. Last year, we played them a double-header and came out of the conflict with two victories scoring about three to one on each game.

The Gold and Blue are favorites by a large margin this year, but just the same there is always a plucky little team from Crookston to aid in bringing out the good and bad points of the Prowlers.

There may be a preliminary game, but the main event will not begin until 7:30 P. M. Don't miss this opening night of home games or "you'll be sorry."

ORGAN CHIME DUO PRESENT PROGRAM

Brown and Meneley Give Recital at Auditorium

On Monday, December 3, the second of the series of assemblies took place at the city auditorium. The very entertaining program was presented by Menely and Brown. Music on the program was supplied by a piano and by an unusual instrument called "Organ chimes."

The program began with a group of two melodies on the organ chimes and piano. Brown said that whenever he played before an audience of school students, he always wanted to turn back the clock and go to school again. However, since that was impossible, he sang and played, with many gestures, "When I Was a Boy at School"—which was about two years ago. While he was singing the song, he imitated a boy in love by putting his hands over his heart. Suddenly, finding that his heart was not there, he felt all over trying to find it. Finally his love broke up. He regretted it, but "so did she."

Brown next announced that he usually wanted different varieties of music, from operatic to popular, to make up a program.

The program continued with the "playing of a song." The song proved to be the beautiful arrangement of "Trees." An imitation of cathedral chimes, pipe organ, and voices was next played on the organ chimes, to the accompaniment of humming.

Meneley sang a baritone solo, entitled "Three for Jack," which was about a sailor lad "who went to sea."

Meneley and Brown stated that they were interested in musical combinations that are out of the ordinary. They proved this by their following selections, which were three different selections played at the same time—one for each of them and one left over. The first was a piano and singing arrangement, the second, saxaphone and piano, and the third, piano, saxaphone and singing.

Since they would undoubtedly be spoken of as old-fashioned and out-of-date if they didn't play any popular songs, they proceeded to play two popular songs — one of which was "I'll String Along with You."

The entertainers completed their program with the playing of "The Bells of St. Mary." This was forced upon them as their theme song, because they were always requested to play it, and, if they were not requested to play it, they played it anyway.

PROWLERS DEFEAT PLUMMER QUINTET FRIDAY, DEC. 7

Mickelson, Hermanson, and Kielty Star for Locals; Score Ends 41-20

Last Friday the prowlers defeated a fast Plummer team at Plummer 41-20. With the exception of a few minutes the Prowlers led all the way. This was Plummer's first defeat. Previous to this game they had beaten Middle River and Argyle by decisive scores.

On the tipoff Plummer worked right down to the basket but missed a short shot. Thief River got the ball off the backboard and with a series of short fast passes worked down to their basket but before a shot could be tried Langley fouled Nicholson who missed both of his free throws. After another series of passes Mickleson slipped in a nice side shot to start the scoring. After the ball was put in play, Kielty was fouled. He missed his free throw but Mickleson was fouled as he took the ball off the backboard and he made his shot good. After slowly working the ball down the floor A. Karlstad gave Plummer their first points with a field goal. Then after a series of short passes A. Karlstad again counted a field goal to put Plummer into the lead 4-3. After a time out by Plummer they worked the ball down the floor but missed several tip shots. In the scramble under the basket, Van Pelt was fouled. He missed his shot but Hermanson and Lee counted for the locals as the quarter ended with the Prowlers leading 7-4. After the ball was put in play for the second quarter Langley made a free throw after being fouled by Lee. After some bad passing by both teams, Hermanson counted twice for the locals and Hanson scored for Plummer. After some nice fast passing the Prowlers worked the ball down the floor and Hermanson and Nicholson each made a field goal and Kielty scored with a free throw. Soon afterwards Nicholson again made a nice side shot for two more points. Then Schneaur made a free throw for Plummer as the half ended with Thief River ahead 18-8.

As the second half started some poor handling was in evidence on both sides after which A. Karlstad made a field goal for Plummer. After Nicholson missed a side shot Kielty tipped the ball in to start the Prowler second half scoring. Thief River took time out after A. Karlstad counted twice for Plummer. After the ball had exchanged hands several times Mickleson and Hermanson scored for the Prowlers as the third quarter ended. As the final period opened the Prowlers went on a scoring spree with Lee getting two field goals and Kielty and Van Pelt one apiece. On the next tipoff Schneaur counted for Plummer. After Kielty missed two free throws, Lee tipped the ball in. A. Karlstad next sneaked in for a set up after getting a long pass. After a Plummer time out Mickleson, Hermanson and Lee scored for the Prowlers. Then after a mad scramble on the floor a double foul was called with Van Pelt making his shot and Hanson missing his. After missing two free throws Hanson scored for Plummer as the game ended with the Prowlers on the long end of a 41-20 score.

Although poor passing was evident on both sides the Prowlers should be able to work this out before next week's game with Grand Forks. It looks like Coach Dooley has put out another good team and this time it is one with plenty color and flash which should make it an interesting team to watch. Hanson and A. Karlstad played the best ball for Plummer while Kielty, Hermanson and Mickleson stood out for the locals.

The lineups:

T. R. F.		Plummer
Nicholson	f	Hanson
Hermanson	f	Langley
Lee	f	Ripple
Van Pelt	c	A. Karlstad
Kielty	g	Schneaur
Mickleson	g	Johnson
Berg	g	S. Karlstad

JOSIES NOTES

DON'T breathe it to a soul, but we have it on the word of a Lincoln Press Agent that—It's winter! It's winter! It's winter! (What! triplets again?) The little birds are going home or have gone to the South for papa to keep through the winter. And, then these busy bees aren't so busy but "Bees it ever so humble, there's no tall sitat[illegible]." The violets aren't peeping any more (Well, Voltair Van [illegible] will anyway 'tis winter and [illegible] Cupid gets as much business in Lincoln High during the [illegible] and winter as he does during the depression not to mention the [illegible] summer time. I [illegible] Cupid sitting on the railing of the "new bridge" staring mostly across the sparkling ice.

"Hullo, Ole Sh[illegible]," I puffed, "What's the good news?"

"No way!" he muttered crossly [illegible]

[illegible] Cupid was as happy as a guy with two broken arms and the seven years itch! It seems that he had used so many arrows on Ken G. and Arnhild F. that if laid end to end the arrows would reach from here to N. Y. It seems Cupid can't make a sale. Neither Cupid nor I know what started that (K. & A.) romance skidding but anyway Ken found another girl that's all we know. Of course, there are possibilities of a reconciliation but Cupid isn't interested in that, he wants 'em to stay put when he shoots an arrow at them. I told Cupe he couldn't expect 100 per cent returns on his output.

"You would!" he snapped. "Years ago, when I so much as nicked them with my trusty arrows, they stayed nicked. 'Till death do us part' meant just that! Look at Brunell and Wayne. There is a happy couple that I worked on. Hope it isn't in vain."

Cupid goes on to say that when grandma was a girl love was a big issue—not a temporary ex. He said it makes his blood boil when he thinks of the number of customers who have recovered and are hanging around, inviting him to take another shot at 'em. (No names.) He says after all the darn trouble he's had here in Lincoln that he'd swop his share in the Cupid business for one schooner of 3.2, and move in with Peter the Hermit and say Finis! (and so he did.)

EDITORIAL

Sometime after the Christmas holidays the senior class will present several one-act plays in the high school assembly. The purpose for doing this will be twofold. It will enable the director to select talent for the class play and at the same time help fill the coffers of the senior class sufficiently to permit the class of '35 to publish a Prowler. As yet, no definite plans have been made as to the size of the '35 Prowler. We are informed that it will be impossible to have one that would compare in size to those of prosperity days. At the same time, however, we are assured that it will be an improvement over those of recent years. There will be no little amount of work connected with producing these plays. Almost every senior will be given something or other to do. You want a good Prowler. Prowlers cost money. Cooperate in making these plays successful.

To aspiring actors and actresses the one-act plays will be more welcome than the class play because there will be more opportunity for more of said actors and actresses to display their talents. Those who prove most endowed with dramatic ability will undoubtedly also be cast in the class play.

However, the director will not consider talent alone. She will consider the spirit in which the work is done. If some person gets only a short part and for that reason shows no enthusiasm and is late at rehearsals he will merit no consideration when the class play tryouts are made.

The day after tomorrow will see Lincoln High school as the scene of another debate tournament. In the early part of 1934 Lincoln High was host to a number of teams in a similar tournament. The affair proved so successful that Mr. Carlson, the Lincoln debate coach, again sent out invitations to debate teams in neighboring cities. He has announced that practically all the teams have accepted the bids with the result that twenty-four teams will begin a series of debates at 9 a. m. which will be terminated when two teams enter the championship debate at 7 p. m.

The debates will be practice debates preparatory to the opening of the regular season late in January. The tournament will give the teams splendid opportunity to discover their weaknesses and to gather valuable information for the New Year debates. Mr. Carlson is to be commended for perfecting plans for these tournaments.

The teams will represent the best in this territory and we are promised some first class debating. Anyone interested in this work should make it a point to at least hear the final debate.

On Tuesday, November the 14th, Commodore J. Arneson, noted lecturer and traveler, addressed a large gathering in the municipal auditorium. The following evening he spoke in Fertile, Minnesota. From Fertile he traveled to Park Rapids where he was also scheduled to speak. He was overcome by a heart-attack and dropped dead. Friends and admirers of Commodore Arneson in Thief River Falls unite in paying silent tribute.

Things that are realities—The assembly program given the 3rd of this month was whole heartedly appreciated by every member of the large audience. Class dues collectors are out for one hundred per cent collection of their various assignments. As the Community Chest Fund collectors say, "Give and give till it hurts." A reference to the calendar [illegible] days before Christmas. The [illegible] cards did much to spread some pre-[illegible] cheerful prospects.

WE WONDER if anyone appreciates the Progress. Last week there were countless queries, "Why wasn't there a Progress this week?" [illegible]

SENIOR CLASS TO GIVE PLAYS

Tryouts for One-Act Plays Will be Made Soon

Sometime after the Christmas vacation the senior class will present several one-act plays in the high school assembly. Tryouts are scheduled for the near future. If you can fulfill any of these requirements you may get a role.

Are you tall, dark, mysterious, and foreign-looking? Begin cultivating that Southern (European) accent now; perhaps you're just the man to play the role of Dr. Nikolor in "The Black Valise," which is one of the one-act plays to be presented sometime after Christmas by the seniors.

If you like to talk so well that you couldn't possibly be mysterious if you tried, there's a chance for you in the part of Henry Mason. He is a psychology student who believes in the power of the spoken word and is a regular Graham McNamee!

In the not-so-distant past, did you yearn to be a "Cop," with all those shiny brass buttons? In the role of "Theodore" your suppressed desire can have free rein. Upon his shoulders rests the responsibility of capturing the maniac with the black valise.

Watch for another character review next week.

CAMPAIGNS FOR DUES UNDER WAY

Collectors for Junior and Senior Classes Selected

Both seniors and juniors have begun collecting their class dues. The dues for the seniors have been set at one dollar per year or fifty cents a semester, while the juniors expect to collect fifty cents from each student as the dues for the entire year.

Arthur Nelson is the chairman of the dues committee of the juniors. Three persons are assigned to one English class and are supposed to collect from just the members of the class that is assigned them. At four o'clock Tuesday Miss Tandberg, a junior class adviser, estimated that ten per cent of the class had paid their dues.

The following is a list of the collectors: Walt Gibson, Flora Schroeder, Art Nelson, Helen Olson, Adelia Zavoral, Bob Bredeson, Jean Gustafson, Rochelle Kielty, Dayton Silk, Celia Halland, Helen Rice, and Tom Protz.

No estimate was available at the time this article went to press as to the percentage of senior dues collected.

The following is an incomplete list of senior collectors: Corlan Dokken, Phyllis Norbeck, Ken Gustafson, Ken Brown, Don Hermanson, Adele Holmstrom, Martha Storholm, Dudley Fabrick, Kathleen Monsbroten.

PROWLERS PLAY STRONG QUINTET AT FORKS FRIDAY

Dooley Basketeers Hope for Victory in Third Encounter of Season

On Friday evening the town of Grand Forks will be shaking from the basketball battle between the Grand Forks quint and the Prowlers. Even though Grand Forks lost their opening encounter with Fairmount, the Forkers expect to give the Prowlers a real battle. Grand Forks has not been beaten by Coach Dooley's team on their own floor since 1932 when the Prowlers won the state tournament. Although the Grand Forks team is made up of mostly inexperienced men they have one great player in Captain Nelson.

The Prowlers will go into their third game of the year with high hopes after defeating Plummer last week. Coach Dooley has had the Prowlers working on their passing and floor work and the team is expected to be vastly improved over last week's performance. The Prowlers have had some actual experience this week in practice with a short scrimmage against the alumni. This game will be the final one away from home before opening their home schedule next Thursday against the Crookston A. C.

DEBATE TOURNEY HERE SATURDAY

First Debates Start at 9 A. M.; Championship at 7 P. M.

The second Annual Invitational Debate Tournament will be held on Saturday beginning at nine o'clock and will last all day.

The following teams have entered: Karlstad, Crookston, Warren, Red Lake Falls, Roseau, Oklee, Lancaster, and Thief River Falls. Some schools are entering as many as four teams. It is expected that from twenty to twenty-four teams will enter the tournament.

Each team will be composed of two debaters, prepared to debate on both sides of the question. All teams will debate three times. After the third round however, only those teams which have won at least two debates can continue in the tournament. The tournament from this point will be purely elimination.

The seventh round at seven o'clock Saturday will decide the championship of the tournament as a successor to Red Lake Falls, winners of the last year's tourney.

Most of the judges will be critic judges, chosen from coaches, faculty members, and townspeople.

All the debates are open to the public.

HERE AND THERE

Ten to twelve percent of the students have been absent the last six weeks because of tonsilitis, measles, chicken pox, colds, etc.

The English III students will give oral reports on the literary group of magazines beginning on Wednesday. Following this, for a length of time each Wednesday will be used to recognizing the best magazines on science, household, health, and miscellaneous articles.

Beginning Monday night, the girls in the Home Economics classes will devote about two nights a week to the Christmas Club, to help make presents for the poor children for Christmas.

Lincoln High Enters 3 Teams in Tourney

Lincoln High's representatives in the debate tourney to be Saturday at Lincoln High will be six in number. They will work in three teams. Kendall Gustafson and Corlan Dokken on Team No. 1; Dorothy Rau and Malcolm Magnuson on Team No. 2; and Francis Engle and Oscar Bickley on Team No. 3.

Each and every one is sincerely hoping that at least his team will survive the elimination rounds so they may breathe the purified air of the upper brackets.

A string class has been organized by Mr. Orwoll, director of instrumental music. The students have all had some previous lessons in violin. The plan at present provides an ensemble of strings. Later, wind instruments will be added to form an orchestra.

REASONS OUTLINED FOR FARM CENSUS SET FOR JANUARY

Will Facilitate Administration of U. S. Agricultural Program

Farmers, especially farmers who have signed Agricultural Adjustment Administration contracts, should be interested in procuring more accurate production information, such as will be made available through the Census of Agriculture to be taken by the federal government, beginning January 1, 1935, says George A. Pond, of the division of Agricultural Economics, University Farm, St. Paul. Many of the difficulties involved in computing satisfactory quotas in the recent production program of the AAA were caused by a lack of accurate date regarding production, adds Mr. Pond. Discussing the coming census further, Mr. Pond says:

"The federal agricultural census is virtually a national farm inventory... In the early days of self-sufficing agriculture when the farmer consumed what he produced and produced what he consumed, he was not greatly concerned with what other farmers were producing. With our commercialized agriculture of today, the farmer can not plan his production—intelligently—unless—he knows what other farmers are doing.

"Furthermore, in these days when production adjustments are being made as part of a national plan for agriculture, accurate records of crop and livestock production are needed ... Violent price changes since the last federal census—five years ago—coupled with drouth have resulted in abnormal shifts in both crop and livestock production. A census at this time to check on the accuracy with which these changes have been appraised is particularly timely.

"Unfortunately many farmers feel that the principal use of the data of such a census is to give grain dealers, millers, packers, and others, information that will enable them to take advantage of the farmer. The facts are exactly opposite. Census figures and crop and livestock estimates are practically the only source of information on crop and livestock production available to the farmer. Without them he would be under a handicap of selling his products to dealers who have the information and, therefore, could take advantage of him, if they wished to do so."

In view of the importance of the census to farmers, Mr. Pond says every farmer should obtain in advance a copy of the census schedule, in order that he may have time to prepare his answers. The farmer has everything to gain by a careful and complete census.

By this time the June bride knows whether she married a fur-bearing animal or a poor fish.

Minnesota Farm Land Prices up 11 Per Cent, Land Bank Head States

Minnesota farm land prices have jumped 11 per cent over what they were for 1933, according to a statement from the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, based on its own sale of farms.

Indications of a growing restlessness on the part of farmers and investors in their anxiety to acquire farms is clearly shown by the fact that 952 farms have been sold by the bank in the first 11 months of this year as against 588 for the same period last year, the bank says. With this in mind it has issued a friendly warning that those considering purchase of farms should not delay.

"About 80 per cent of all our land sales are to farmers," said George S. Gordhamer, executive vice-president and treasurer of the St. Paul bank, "but we are also receiving insistent inquiries from investors and others, and the price of farm lands is steadily advancing."

$3,825,000 MORE NEEDED TO MATCH U. S. HIGHWAY AID

State Road Income Not Enough to Meet 1935 Grant, Elsberg Says

Approximately $3,825,000 additional income will be needed by the Minnesota Highway department next year if it is to match the federal aid allotment anticipated for this state, according to N. W. Elsberg, highway commissioner.

Beginning in 1935, the federal government will demand dollar for dollar matching of highway aid funds by the state. In the past two years the national government gave Minnesota more than $15,000,000 in emergency grants as an employment measure. This money has kept state highway construction going since motor vehicle license fees were reduced in 1933, Mr. Elsberg said, but now that outright grants have been discontinued very little construction will be possible with present state revenues.

Commissioner Elsberg gave the following analysis of state highway finances for the coming year:

1935 Estimated Revenues

(Based on average receipts during 1933 and 1934, with no change in present motor vehicle license fees.)

License fees	$ 6,400,000
Two-thirds share of gasoline tax	6,700,000
Miscellaneous receipts	175,000
Total revenues	$13,275,000

1935 Estimated Essential Expenditures

Bond charges (interest and principal)	$ 4,100,000
Expense of Secretary of State's office, payment to state general fund and department administration	1,000,000
Maintenance	6,500,000
Contracted obligations	500,000
Right-of-way, special agreements, etc.	1,000,000
Equipment	400,000
State expense in completing NRA program	350,000
Highway patrol	250,000
Total expenditures	$13,100,000
Amount of federal aid expected to be offered Minnesota	$ 3,400,000
Amount of state funds necessary to match $3,400,000	4,000,000
Total state funds needed	$ 4,000,000
State funds available	175,000

PLUNGE OF SIXTY FEET LEAVES PARTY UNHURT

New Ulm.—At least five people in Minnesota can offer a definition for "luck". Driven down the Belgrade hill leading to Mankato Friday morning, a car containing these same five people met a horsedrawn wagon on the way up. Careening to avoid striking the team, the car's driver spilled his vehicle off the edge into a 60-foot ravine. His machine plummeted arrow-like to the bottom, burying the radiator in soft mud. The five occupants emerged unscatched.

N. W. SCHOOL MAN SUPPLIES DATA ON VALLEY RAINFALL

Deficiency of Three Inches Cited at Crookston This Year

Inquiries received at the Northwest Experiment Station verify the old statement that the weather is one subject which continues to hold the interest of human beings regardless of constant repetition. As a partial answer to the many questions which have been received during recent weeks, R. S. Dunham, agronomist, has prepared a brief summary of some of the more important climatic factors of the past season.

According to Mr. Dunham, records at this station for 1934 show a total precipitation of 16.9 inches to December 1, compared with an average of 19.9 inches for the past 34 years. During the past six years the precipitation has failed to reach the 34-year average in amounts varying from .8 inch to 5.8 inches a year. During the period April 1 to October 1, which is generally considered the growing season, the precipitation this year was 13 inches, while the 34-year average was 14.1 inches. This average, however, has not been reached since 1928.

The rapid reduction of soil moisture through the late spring and summer is also brought out by soil samples which were taken at various times. In May 1934 soil at the experiment station contained 27 per cent water in the surface six inches, 24 per cent at 12 inches below the surface, 20 per cent at 24 inches, and 20 per cent at 36 inches. The soil was again sampled in September at which time the surface soil contained only 11 per cent water; at 12 inches, 10 per cent; at 24 inches, 10 per cent; and at 36 inches, 11.5 per cent. Thus a total loss of moisture in the upper 36 inches of soil amounted to 405 tons an acre or an equivalent of 3.3 inches of rain. Soil sampled the first of November had regained about 243 tons or an equivalent of slightly over 2 inches of rain. Since 3.8 inches of rain fell during September and October, over half of this water was absorbed by the soil in a layer three feet deep.

The winter of 1933-34 was the coldest since 1922 with an average temperature of 18.9 degrees. The summer of 1934 was likewise unusually cool, being the coolest since 1929 with an average temperature of 60 degrees. Individual months varied considerably with the month of May being the warmest on record, while September was the coldest recorded at this station.

The season between frosts was only 120 days this year the last frost in the spring occurring May 24 and the first killing frost on September 21. A light frost injured some corn on September 6 but a general killing frost did not occur until 15 days later. The average frost-free period for this station has been 126.8 days.

Deer Hunting Reports Reveal Numerous Herds

Appreciation was expressed by Erling Swenson, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, because of the comparatively large number of deer hunters who have already filed their hunting reports. He warned that all hunting reports including amount of game taken must be returned before January 31. Failure to do so, Director Swenson said, bars license for next year. "Reports received to date indicate in the whole that Minnesota's deer herd is in good condition," Mr. Swenson said. "It is gratifying to note the absence of serious decrease and the fact that the widespread drought did not affect the deer areas of the state to any great degree."

HUSKING CHAMP GETS MARRIAGE PROPOSALS

Redwood Falls.—Being a national hero brings plenty of amusing fan mail, Ted Balko, recently crowned corn husking champion of the country, has found. Marriage proposals, requests for testimonials, requests for sample ears of corn, and congratulations from prominent government officials are only a few of the types of letters that daily weigh down the postman on the Balko farm route. Half a dozen young ladies who have no compunction in admitting that they are "free", hint more or less broadly that they wouldn't mind changing their names to Balko, and list their qualifications as ideal wives. Invariably they "love the country." From all parts of the country come letters from people with similar or the same names, trying to trace relationship. Congratulations from friends, from government officials, former champions, and from those who just seem to like to write letters pour in daily. Ted and his brother, Ed, farm 400 acres in Redwood county.

FARM CENSUS IN STATE TO OPEN JANUARY FIRST

1,500 Farm People of State to be Employed as Enumerators

EINAR HOIDALE IN CHARGE OF PROJECT

District Supervisors Will Name Enumerators in Their Localities

Approximately 1,500 enumerators and between 50 and 100 other workers will start the first week in January on the task of taking the forthcoming federal census of agriculture in Minnesota. The payroll for the work in this state will total about $125,000.

Einar Hoidale, in charge of setting up the census-taking machinery for the state, has explained that the state is to be divided into seven districts, each under a district supervisor who will have his own headquarters. There will be no general supervisor for the state, and no state headquarters, Hoidale said. Each district supervisor will compile his own report and send it direct to Washington.

The appointments of district supervisors will be announced within a few days. Each supervisor will name the enumerators and office help for his own district.

"In this connection," Hoidale said, "I want to emphasize the fact that all the enumerators must be farm people, actually living on farms."

In 1850 when the first count was made of the number of farms in the United States there were approximately one and one-half million, with farm property valued at four billion dollars. The last Census of Agriculture taken in 1930 shows more than six million farms with a property value of more than fifty-seven billion dollars.

Some idea of the magnitude of the task now being undertaken by the Bureau of the Census in connection with the forthcoming census may be gleaned from calculations based upon the six million farms recorded in 1930. These farms totaled nearly a billion acres and crops were harvested from approximately 359,000,000 acres. The farm population was almost 35,000,000, or 24.8 per cent of the United States total. The broader classification, rural population, which is the population residing in places of less than 2,500 and on farms, was, at that time almost 54,000,000, or about 43.8 per cent of the country's population.

This census is one of the activities undertaken by the Government primarily for the benefit of the farmer, and all farmers are urged to cooperate by writing to the Bureau of the Census, Washington, D. C., for a sample copy of the schedule. By procuring a copy they will be able to study the questions and answer them accurately when the enumerator calls in January.

The Smiley play cast also will be present at the event, altho it will not compete in the contest.

VALHALL NATIONAL LOAN ASSOCIATION SELLS FARM HERE

Johnnie Nelson Buys 167 Acre Farm Southwest of City

Johnnie Nelson of route 4, Thief River Falls, has bought the old M. G. Shumway farm and is moving onto the place to make some repairs and prepare for putting in next year's crop, according to word given out this week by B. B. Hammer, a director of the Valhall National Farm Loan association.

Mr. Nelson has bought the farm for a home. It comprises 167 acres and is located 9 miles southwest of Thief River Falls. Associated with Mr. Hammer in closing the sale, was H. S. Fraser of Warren, field representative of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul.

November sales of farms in Minnesota by the Federal Land Bank were 27, and in the 4 states of the 7th Farm Credit district totaled 72. This makes 952 farms sold in the district for 1934 compared with 588 for the first 11 months of last year. The acreage sold for 1934 to date is more than 140,000 acres. A speculative note has been creeping into the land sales deal this year as the season advanced, it was indicated through land bank sources, though it is estimated that more than four-fifths of all purchases are by farmers who expect to occupy the land.

With Christmas only five days distant, the holiday spirit is permeating the air, and plans are being completed in homes and churches for the observance of the festive event.

The city assumed a holiday aspect Tuesday evening when festoons of colored lights in the business district were turned on for the first time. DOUGLASS URGES USE BY FARMERS OF RECORD BOOKS

Says They Will Aid in Proving Compliance With U. S. Contracts

Two minutes a day will be all the time required to make entries in the farm record book being distributed free to Pennington county farmers by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, says County Agent R. M. Douglass.

These records, he adds, will aid farmers in proving compliance with their agricultural adjustment contracts and will provide them with supporting evidence for allotment claims in any programs which may be offered in the future. The records will also guide them in choosing their most profitable enterprises and in improving their farming methods.

The book contains forms for recording crop acreages and production, the amount and value of all farm property at the beginning and end of the year, the value of sales and purchases, and the number of pigs farrowed. It also contains forms for calculating earnings and net worth.

Printed instructions on each page tell how to keep the records and the county agent will be glad to aid farmers with accounting problems of an unusual nature. Farmers can now obtain these books by calling at the county agent's office.

We wish to YOU and Yours a Merry Old Fashioned CHRISTMAS and a Bright and Prosperous New Year

NEARLY 100 CARS OF TURKEYS LEAVE CITY IN 2 MONTHS

Total Compares With 140 Cars Shipped in Same Period Last Year

Approximately 60 carloads of turkeys were shipped from Thief River Falls in the December turkey pools which closed Saturday, making a total of nearly 100 carloads including shipments in advance of Thanksgiving. These figures compare with approximately 140 carloads shipped in November and December, 1933, and 166 carloads for the same period in 1932.

The shrinkage in volume this year is ascribed in part to the fact that numerous growers in this section cut down the size of their flocks as a result of unfavorable market conditions the past two years. Local buyers, however, report that the quality of the birds this year shows a notable improvement, as more and more growers are seeing the wisdom of withholding them from market until properly matured.

With shipments for the past two months from this city aggregating nearly 2,500,000 pounds, Thief River Falls is expected to retain its outstanding position in the nation as the leading turkey marketing center.

The mid-winter buying season will open December 26 when late maturing birds will be received, it was announced this week.

CHARGES CORRUPT PRACTICE OFFENSE IN REPLY TO SUIT

Waldal's Answer Cites Day Connection With Bagley Newspaper

In his answer filed in Red Lake county last week thru his attorney, F. A. Grady of Crookston, to the election contest instituted by W. E. Day of Bagley, Marius Waldal, successful candidate for election to the state legislature, alleges violations by Day of the corrupt practices act governing campaign procedure.

The answer alleges that Mr. Day is the owner of a financial interest in the Bagley Independent, supporter of the Farmer-Labor party and circulated among all voters in Clearwater county, and that he failed to file a declaration of his interest as required by law.

It is further alleged that Mr. Day influenced the editorial policy of the paper in his own interest and against that of Mr. Waldal and that the material was published in violation of the corrupt practices act.

RECOUNTING OF LEGISLATIVE BALLOTS IS ON

Only Few Changes Found in Six Townships and First Ward

TOTAL OF 26 BALLOTS DISPUTED TO DATE

Lundgren, Eklund and E. L. Prestemon of Bagley Are Inspectors

The recount of ballots in the three election contests instituted recently in the 65th legislative district started Tuesday afternoon at the court house in this city, and is proceeding steadily, six townships and the first ward in Thief River Falls having been tallied up to Wednesday evening.

Only minor variations from the official counts returned by the canvassing board have been revealed to date, altho a total of 26 ballots have been placed in dispute because of various alleged irregularities.

Not counting the disputed ballots, the tally thus far reveals the net loss of a total of eleven votes for Paul Harris and one for E. L. Tungseth, his successful opponent, and losses of 17 for W. E. Day, three for G. P. Jones, 12 for J. O. Melby and four for Marius Waldal in the tabulation on the office of representative.

In the first ward in this city, where a heavy vote was cast, only minor discrepancies were uncovered, Harris losing one vote and Tungseth gaining one, while Day lost one and Melby gained three. In Deer Park 18 ballots were disputed, reducing the vote for all candidates, while there was no change in the tally in Bray township. Seven ballots in Rocksbury were disputed in behalf of Waldal, but were counted in the senatorial contest.

All disputed ballots from each voting precinct are being placed in separate envelopes and sealed by the county auditor, and will be opened only in the presence of the judge of district court, who will determine their status.

Arrangements for the recount were made Monday at a hearing at the court house in this city before Judge Graham M. Torrance of the 15th judicial district at Bemidji. Judge Torrance presided after affidavits of prejudice were filed against Judge M. A. Brattland, the other judge in this district, J. E. Montague of Crookston, being occupied with a case in Moorhead.

Inspectors named at the hearing to recount the ballots were Paul A. Lundgren, as a representative of Tungseth and Waldal; E. L. Prestemon of Bagley, acting for Harris and Day; and Adolf Eklund, named by the first two as the third member. After completing the tally in this county the inspectors will go to Red Lake Falls to check the Red Lake county ballots, and then to Bagley to check those in Clearwater county.

Mr. Lundgren withdrew as attorney for Waldal following his appointment as inspector in the recount. Present while the ballots were being counted this week have been Theodore Quale, H. O. Berve and Charles E. Boughton of Red Lake Falls, attorneys for parties to the contests.

Judge Torrance tentatively set December 24 as the date for inspectors to report on the Day-Waldal contest in Red Lake Falls, and the following day for the Harris-Tungseth hearing at the court house here. It appears likely, however, that it will be necessary to defer the hearings until a later date, judging by the progress made in the recount to date.

TOM ROWAN AND MISS LENA LONSON WED SATURDAY

Rev. Schroeder Officiates at Ceremony at Home of Mrs. Bertha Lonson

Baskets of tiny pompons in assorted colors formed an attractive setting for the candle light service at the wedding of Miss Lena Lonson and Thomas J. Rowan which took place in the living room at the home of Mrs. Bertha Lonson, 207 South Conley avenue, at seven o'clock Saturday evening. Rev. V. E. Schroeder performed the ceremony in the presence of only the immediate relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lonson, the former of whom is a cousin of the bride, attended the couple.

Royal blue matelasse with rhinestone trim fashioned Miss Lonson's wedding gown, with which white accessories were worn, and a shoulder bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Roses and tapers accented the color motif of pink and white used at the tables for the wedding dinner in the Lonson home immediately following the ceremony. Covers were laid for thirty guests.

The bride is a daughter of Peter Lonson of Federal Dam, formerly of this city, and has lived here practically all of her life, being employed for a number of years as cashier of the Thief River Grocery company, resigning her position about six weeks ago. "Lone Wolf's" Tracks in the Christmas Snow

THERE he stood—"The Lone Wolf!" halfway down the hillside amidst a snow-covered landscape, the moon and stars disclosing his tracks and shadowy figure upon the glittering sheet of ice-coated snow. He gazed hungrily toward a group of houses huddled together at the foot of the hill, a faint light gleaming from their windows.

As Mary Louise was absorbed in turkey-dressing, cranberries, recipe books and Christmas spices, her thoughts wandered to this beautiful picture—"The Lone Wolf." For many years she had longed to possess it, but her husband did not approve, so she had done without it.

Mary Louise brushed away a tear as she thought of the coveted picture, and then promptly forgot all about it in her loving efforts to make her family happy on Christmas.

When all was in readiness and the tree beautifully trimmed, Mary Louise called in the family for the Christmas celebration. How the children danced and tore about the toy-strewn living room! How dear old John absorbed himself in his brand-new smoking outfit!

—Was Mary Louise to receive nothing?

Turning, she saw John tacking up the most adorable bit of tapestry she had ever seen—"The Lone Wolf"! Just the thing for that great empty wall space! "Merry Christmas, Mary," said John, as they all stood gazing upon "The Lone Wolf" with his tracks in the snow.—Alice B. Palmer.

LAW OF PURITANS

THE Puritans regarded Christmas as savoring of popery and preferred their own celebration of Thanksgiving. In 1620 the General Court of Massachusetts enacted that "anybody who is found observing, by abstinence from labor, feasting or any other way any such day as Christmas day shall for each and every such offense be fined five shillings."

The Green Christmas Tree

In order to keep the tree green all the time it is on display, cut a small piece from the base of the tree so that a new surface is exposed. Then set the tree in its support in a small pan containing water in the center so that the base of the tree is resting in the water all the time. Add an aspirin tablet to the water and prepare to have a flourishing tree this year.

FORMER AUTO TAX RATES IN EFFECT AGAIN JANUARY 1

Law Granting Cut in License Fees Expires Then, Says Secretary Holm

As indicated by letters coming to the office of the secretary of state, people are vitally concerned in respect to the rate of the motor vehicle registration tax. Much misunderstanding appears to be developing. Articles in the press have stated that Mr. Holm is recommending a gradual return to the old higher rate level.

"Such statements are presumptuous", says Mr. Holm. "I am preparing my report to the legislature as prescribed by law, but until it is ready to hand to them I will not make any statement to any one as to what my recommendations will be in regard to rates. Anyone quoting me on that subject before that time will be basing his statements on creations of his own imagination."

The facts are that under the present law the rates go back to the old level beginning January 1. The legislature of 1933 provided for a reduction of the rates for passenger vehicles and farm trucks in amounts varying from 20 to 50%, depending on the age of the vehicle. The reduction provided, however, was effective only for two years, 1933 and 1934. The rates for passenger vehicles in 1935 therefore automatically return to the 1932 level of 2.4% of the base price.

The great volume of letters dealing with the subject coming to the office of the secretary of state, and articles appearing in the public press, indicate that the legislature will be called upon to give serious consideration to the question of rates again this year. Under existing law, however, the secretary of state has had no choice but to prepare the rate book for passenger vehicles on the basis of the rates in effect in 1932. Those rates will prevail unless and until the legislature amends the law.

Waterspouts

Ordinarily, waterspouts occur only in tropical waters, for the reason that the air in the tropics is always warm and moisture-laden, and ready to condense upon meeting a sudden cool wind. However, waterspouts have been reported in the warm Gulf stream in northern seas. These spouts are believed to occur when cold wintry blasts from the land pass out over the sea and meet the warm Gulf stream. Waterspouts last only a few minutes and are believed to be not dangerous to a ship, even when the spout is directly in the path of the ship.

Modern Holiday Dinner Still Gay and Festive

Holiday feasts conjure up visions of the lavish viands of Dickens' day. The "groaning boards" with their wealth of game, roast beef and rich puddings may be seen no more—but the modern holiday dinner still retains the gay and bountiful atmosphere of plenty, essential to the success of such occasions. There are fewer courses, a greater restraint in types of food offered, but the planning of Christmas dinner is still an important event and its cooking a real adventure in cookery. Here is a modern holiday dinner that retains many of the dishes we have grown to accept as part of the grand occasion.

Claret Cup
Mock Pate de Foie Gras Canapes
Roast Beef
Yorkshire Pudding
Whipped Potatoes
Celery Au Gratin
Tomato Jelly Salad
French Rolls
Plum Pudding
Coffee

Claret Cup

This recipe is from an old cook book. One quart bottle of claret, one bottle of charged water, one lemon cut very thin, four tablespoons of powdered sugar, quarter of a teaspoon of grated nutmeg, one liquor glass of brandy, one wine glass of sherry wine. Chill.

Mock Pate de Foie Gras Canapes

3 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 cup boiled calf's liver (finely ground)
½ cup cooked mushrooms (finely ground)
Salt and pepper to taste

Use the finest knife on the meat chopper for grinding the liver and mushrooms. Combine all the ingredients and blend thoroughly. Spread on canape biscuits and serve with a slice of lemon. This amount makes one cup of spread.

Roast Beef

Prepare for the oven by dredging lightly with flour and seasoning with salt and pepper; place in the oven and baste frequently while roasting. Allow a quarter of an hour for a pound of meat if you like it rare; longer if you like it well done. Serve with gravy made from the drippings of the pan or with a sauce made from the drippings to which has been added a tablespoon of Worchestershire sause and a tablespoon of tomato catsup.

Yorkshire Pudding

Beef fat from roast
1 egg
½ cup milk
½ cup flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder

Use beef fat from roast to grease custard cups and put in a hot oven to heat. Put remaining ingredients in a mixing bowl and beat with a rotary beater 4 minutes. Pour into cups to ½ inch deep and bake 15 minutes. Reduce heat and leave in the oven 10 minutes longer. Turn off heat and leave 5 to 10 minutes or until cooked through. When well puffed baste once or twice with beef fat. Serve on the platter with the roast.

Celery au Gratin

Cut the celery into small bits and cook in boiling, salted water until tender but not too soft. Drain and place in a baking dish with a rich white sauce, a layer of each and top with the celery, covering with a half inch top of buttered bread crumbs. Bake in hot oven until the crumbs are brown.

Tomato Jelly Salad

Make tomato aspic and mold in small cups. Just before serving remove from cups and hollow out center. Fill the cups thus formed with Philadelphia cream cheese, whipped with mayonnaise and serve on crisp lettuce leaves with French dressing.

French Rolls

Scald 1 pint of milk. While hot, add 1 cup of sugar and 1 tablespoon of butter. When the milk is cool, add a little salt and half a cup of yeast or 1 compressed yeast cake; stir in flour to make a stiff sponge and when light mix as for bread. Let it rise until light, then punch it down with the hand and let it rise again—repeat two or three times, then turn the dough on to the molding board and pound with the rolling pin until thin enough to cut. Cut with a cookie cutter, brush the surfaces of each one with melted butter and fold over. Let the rolls rise in the pans, bake and while warm brush over the surface with melted butter to make the crust tender.

Plum Pudding

½ pound suet
1 pound cleaned currants
½ pound seeded raisins
½ pound stale bread crumbs
¼ pound candied orange peel
¼ pound citron
4 eggs
½ teaspoon grated nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
1 Cup dark brown sugar
2 tablespoons orange juice or grape juice or sweet cider
4 tablespoons flour.

Chop suet very fine and work with pastry blender until creamy. Chop currants and raisins and shred citron and orange peel. Mix fruit and sift over flour. Mix well and add to the suet. Mix and add bread crumbs, yolks of eggs well beaten, spices, sugar and fruit juice. Mix well and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Turn into buttered bowls or molds, filling molds not more than 2-3 full. Cover securely with heavy parchment paper or floured cloth and plunge into a kettle of boiling water. Boil hard for four hours. Boil again for two and one-half hours when wanted for serving.

Sauce for Plum Pudding

The yolks of 3 eggs
1 tablespoon powdered sugar
1 pint of milk
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 small wine glasses of brandy.

Separate the yolks from the whites of three eggs, put the yolks in a pan, add the sugar, milk and grated lemon rind and stir over the fire until the mixture thickens but do not allow it to boil. Put in the brandy and keep hot until time to serve.

Hard Sauce

Beat to a cream a quarter pound of butter, adding gradually a quarter of a pound of sugar, beat it until very white, add a little lemon juice or grate nutmeg on top. Brandy may be substituted for the lemon juice if desired.

Tarantulas Kill Birds

Large tarantulas are said to have the ability to catch and kill birds, but most scientists decry their power to kill a human being, although a bite from one is very painful. Smaller tarantulas, native to the southwestern United States, are declared not only to be entirely harmless to man but beneficial, because they feed on insects that are destructive to crops.

Christmas Radio Skit That "Went Over" Big

"WHY don't you try a radio skit for XYZ?" Dick Hassel had written his mother, Grace.

Grace tried it and was as much surprised as anyone when it was accepted, to be broadcast at seven o'clock Christmas eve.

Mrs. Hassel had been greatly disappointed when Dick, for lack of finances, had to give up studying for the ministry and had gone to work in the big city. Recently he had written that he had a new job, a surprise, that he would tell Mother Grace and Father Jim about at Christmas.

Because Grace had always pictured Dick as the popular young minister, she featured the idea in her play, with the beautiful organist as his sweetheart.

Christmas eve Jim turned on XYZ. Promptly at seven came the theme song; then, to their amazement, a voice strangely familiar:

"This is station XYZ."

Then another voice: "Our play this evening, 'The New Minister,' is written by our announcer's mother, Mrs. Grace Hassel. Our popular announcer, Dick Hassel, will take the part of the minister."

"Of all things" Grace exclaimed. "The young scamp!"

"No wonder your skit went over so fast," Jim grinned.

"Now listen! We're missing it," Grace happily admonished as the young minister's voice announced that the audience would join in singing "Joy to the World."—Florence Harris Wells.

Children Like to Buy

Children take pride in being able to buy their own gifts for members of the family and for friends. Often mothers find their ingenuity put to severe test to find ideas enough to go round in the necessary limited price range.

Mistletoe a Parasite

The mistletoe, traditional Christmas decoration much more in favor in earlier days, when the ardent swains were not so forward and the maidens were more reserved, is found most abundantly in the tropics, although it is widely distributed throughout the world. The mistletoe is a parasite, living on the sap of the trees around which it entwines itself. On the Atlantic seaboard of the United States the mistletoe is found as far North as the Jersey coast, but is more abundant farther South.

Music at Christmas Time

By Alice Eversman

THE first Christmas night was God's special benediction on music. By His divine sanction it was the means of proclaiming the advent of a hope and happiness hitherto not considered ordained for humanity. On the night when the Christ child was born, heavenly singers were sent forth and the music of celestial choirs was heard for the first time by human ears. The melody of that glorious hymn came and passed into the harmony of the spheres beyond our ken and only the message of peace was handed down to the generations to come. How different the destiny of music had the pattern of celestial harmony and the melody the angels sang been preserved for us. It was left for man to find within himself the heavenly music.

No event in the history of the world has set vibrating the finest chords of music in the hearts of the gifted ones equal to the festival of the birth of the Christ child. The supernatural messengers announcing His coming, the loveliness of character of His mother, the heavens themselves exulting at His birth are subjects which to contemplate but a moment awakens music in the heart and forms a song in the stillness thereof that is the echo of that song that rang through the universe that starry night 2,000 years ago. Yet the melody the angels sang was lost.

Mary, His mother, gave vent to the fullness of her heart when she knew that she was to be the chosen one of her people in the magnificent "Magnificat," the poetry of which still has power to thrill whenever its spontaneous glorification of the Lord is heard. Yet the melody the Virgin sang is lost.

The lullabys crooned by the young mother in the stillness of the moments when the divine child was lulled to sleep have had no listener who passed them on to an eager world. What could have been the burden of the intimate things of which the mother sang when the restless world was shut away and the two, closely entwined, communed together, with the knowledge of their destiny hovering about them? Did she sing Him tender baby songs that made no reference to His divinity or did she praise Him as her God and sing her fidelity as she held Him close and soothed His earthly weariness? Did she beg of Him to spare her the suffering she knew awaited them or did she encourage Him in tender human fashion to bear the terrible human agony fore-ordained for Him? The lullabies that soothed the sacred child were never heard by profane ears.

In the life of Christ there must have been much music. Descended from the greatest singer of all times, the psalmist David, and his advent into the world proclaimed by the singers from His heavenly home, there was a human and divine heritage of music woven into the scheme of His existence on earth. But the songs the Savior sang have vanished.

Yet the music of that sacred time is not lost, for it is born again in the hearts of the great composers. But by bit the melody that was heard the first Christmas night has come back to us distilled from the pens of the specially chosen, and who is there to say it is not akin to the music of the celestial choirs? The inexplicable urge of melody, the grandeur of musical thought, the loftiness of inspiration must surely be from the same source as was the music that was heard but once on earth.

It was not without intent that the message of peace was sent out on the "wings of song," for that is the power of music—to bring peace. Nor was it by chance that the melody came from the heavens, for ever the inward eyes of the soul turn heavenward under the influence of great earthly music. The radiance of the star shines in the heart under the touch of melody and the soul expands to a fuller comprehension of the promises for eternity.—Washington Star.

Santa All the Year Is Found to Be Good Idea

SANTA CLAUS comes in July as well as December to those who need him in Columbia, Mo. Last Christmas a dollar given anonymously by "a group of children" was used by the Welfare society there to start a fund for year-round needs, instead of gorging people with too many baskets of goodies one day out of 365.

These are some of the things the fund has paid for: glasses to replace those broken by a boy whose mother washes to keep him in school; shoes for the old horse used by the society when there is hauling to be done; the cane a grandfather needed to help him get about; fares of a trachoma patient and a tubercular child who were sent to hospitals; soap and a razor for a young man who wanted to clean up so he could try for a job.

Regular donations to the society may be spent only for food, fuel, clothing and shelter; these all-the-year gifts, though badly needed, would have been impossible but for the dollar from the children "to use any way you want" that gave welfare workers the idea of the Santa Claus fund.—Frances Grinstead.

Christmas Is Ireland's Greatest of All Feasts

IN NO country is Christmas looked forward to with greater anticipation than in Ireland. For centuries the coming of the Christ Child has been hailed with unbounded joy by the people of the Emerald Isle.

Many stories associated with Christmas are repeated year after year around Irish firesides. An old legend tells that sometime on Christmas eve Mary and the Christ Child wander abroad seeking shelter. Fearful lest they might seek in vain, as they did in Bethlehem long ago, a lighted candle is placed in every window to guide them to a place of refuge. These are left burning through the night, gleaming into the darkness, guiding any wanderer that might be abroad; for the legend also tells that the "Mother and Child" may come in almost any guise.

All the world remembers Ireland at Christmas, for her children are scattered in every land. A steady stream of gifts and good wishes comes pouring into her gates. Families divided by stretching seas are reunited in spirit, as the bridge of time and space is broken by the old happy greeting. "A Merry Christmas and a Bright New Year."—Katherine Edelman.

Growing With Your Child

HOME-MADE ADVENTURE

There's no doubt about it! We all need variety in our lives, lest humdrum monotony get the better of our spirits, and we drop into ruts of thinking and acting from which there is no climbing out.

Most children embarrass their parents by the multiplicity of their interests, but there is always the chance that what one enjoyed doing last summer has become impossible to carry on in the winter, or that a child is up against a blank wall, and cannot progress any further without doing some reading along the line of his hobby. While no parent wants to make the mistake of killing his child's interest in a hobby by trying too hard to help with it, it surely does no harm to be intelligent on the subjects that interests our youngsters, or to provide helpful material that they might not have time to seek out for themselves.

Here are a few suggestions as to books you may buy or find at the library: "How to Make Linoleum Blocks" (Sprague) is a good book for the boy who is deft with his hands, and who also wishes to send out some Christmas cards. The designing and printing of the cards from linoleum will, I wager, absorb the attention of the whole family before you're done with it! The girl who is interested in cooking will find simple, enticing directions in "Batter and Spoon Fairies" (Teall) or "Patty Pans" (La Ganke). The child who loves to watch things grow will want to use the suggestions he sees in "Adventures in Dish Gardening" (Beard). "How to Build a Stamp Collection" (Thorp) will be helpful to boys whose interest in stamps is more than a passing fancy, while "Practical Art Lettering" (Lutz) will give many hints to the boy and girl who find themselves drawing every time they have a pencil in their hands. "Acting Charades" (Richards) is fun for both young and old, and if the book is looked through in advance, a number of properties may be collected before the Christmas party that add greatly to the hilarity. "The Bog Magician" (Dixie) is another book that will come in handy when planning a party, as will "Coin Tricks for Boys," (Gilbert) and "Who Am I?" (Boyer), a clever series of rhymed riddles enjoyed by children of ten or eleven.

"Boy Bird House Architecture" (Baxter) is planned for boys who like to make things, and who have tools to do really creditable work. "Complete Model Aircraft Manual" (Hamilton) will be seized upon by the boy who always has models under way, while the child to whom the magic of chemistry appeals will want to keep "Chemistry for Boys and Girls" (Green & Bennett) or "The Boy Chemist" (Collins) long after they are due at the library. "The Book of Marionette Plays" (Stoddard & Sarg) gives practical help to those who love to dramatize by means of puppets, while the "Piece Bag Book" (Blauvelt) or "Sue Sew and Sew" (Gag) are planned for the little girl who likes to use her work basket. "How to Use Paper and Scissors in Art" (Swannell), Playing With Clay" (Wheeler), and "The Cutout Book" (Dyer) give suggestions along the lines their titles indicate.

In the realm of adventure by way of books, there is an embarrassment of riches from which to choose. Boys and girls enjoy exploring by proxy, and books about far off places will broaden their horizons, as well as refresh them. "By way of Cape Horn" by Villiers is a breath taking tale of the old, old fight with the winds that forever shriek in that quarter of the world. Sir Robert Shackleton's story, "South" makes splendid reading-aloud material, as does a very different type of adventure, contained in the magician Thurston's Autobiography. "Fighting the Flying Circus", by the great "ace" Rickenbacker gives young enthusiasts the realities, along with the glamor of flying, while Ellsberg's "Thirty Fathoms Deep" takes the boy or girl who reads it down with the diver who explores the green sea caves.

Sale of Thin Pigs Means Loss to Grower, Asserts Authority at "U" Farm

Before marketing underweight pigs, farmers should carefully consider the possible profit from feeding them 35 to 40 days longer, says E. F. Ferrin, swine authority of the animal husbandry division, University Farm.

"Many thin, thrifty pigs of 150 to 165 pounds are being marketed at an unnecessary loss," Mr. Ferrin observes. "Corn is very high in price in comparison with the market values of fat hogs, but the thin pigs will more than pay market prices for feeds if fattened. The reason is found in the abnormal spread between prices of good slaughter hogs and light under finished stock. The present farm value of 150- to 165-pound thin hogs is approximately $2.75 per hundred. Hogs of the same conformation and quality carrying good market finish at weights of 220 to 235 pounds are worth $5.25 per hundred on the farm. Seventy-five pounds added weight will increase the price per hundred $2.50. A hog weighing 225 pounds at $5.25 is worth $11.81, while the 150-pound hog at $2.75 has a value of $4.13. If it puts the hog in market condition, the 75 pounds added weight is worth $7.68.

"The cost of the gain is much less than $7.68 with corn at 80 cents per bushel and tankage at $45 per ton. It will take about 300 pounds of cor nand tankage to put 75 pounds weight on a thrifty pig. At the fed prices mentioned, the gain costs $4.60, leaving a margin of more than $3 above feed costs. No one can afford to feed high priced corn without a protein supplement and it will not be possible to get such a margin if the ration is unbalanced.

"A thrifty fattening hog makes a gain of about 2 pounds a day, so that it will take 35 to 40 days to finish 150-pound pigs for market, if they are good feeders. In that time, fat hog prices may change, but the majority of market men believe hog prices will go up in the next 60 days. If that happens, the margin gained from fattening will be larger, Mr. Ferrin points out.

Location of Hot Springs

Hot Springs, Ark., a health resort, is the capital of Garland county, 53 miles west and southwest of Little Rock. It is situated in a narrow valley, between two ridges in a spur of the Ozark mountains, and has many hot springs which are celebrated for treatment of rheumatism, gout, neuralgia and other chronic diseases. The temperature of these springs varies from 76 degrees to 158 degrees Fahrenheit. They are 425 feet above sea level. The springs are owned by the federal government, which regulates their use.

Farm and Implement News

What a sensible thing to do. Clarence and Pete Carlson, Grygla, buy a new "F12" McCormick-Deering Tractor for a family Christmas present, which we delivered to their farm this week. Well, they need it in the spring, so why not now. Besides, it is a wonderful chore boy for winter use, such as grinding feed, sawing wood and lumber at less than a gallon of fuel per hour.

What a wonderful country we have in this Northern Minnesota of ours. How happy we can be compared with many others, who have not shared in the prosperity as we have for 1934. Our organization has shared in this and we are truly grateful to our customers who have helped us make 1934 our best year in business.

Now that we are entering the Christmas season, we wish to extend to one and all our sincere greetings and best wishes for a pleasant Christmas. This year is nearing it's close and it will go down in history as a great year, and we hope that the service we have tried to render has been satisfactory and worth while. As we enter the new year in a few days from now, we look forward to a continuation of the pleasant business relations we have enjoyed. But most of all the continuation of the friendly relations which after all is our greater gain.

Our best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to you.

The Deeper Significance

We all know and celebrate Christmas as a day of gifts and good cheer and a wonderful dinner and good fellowship, but we should not lose sight of the fact that the deeper significance of Christmas is religious in nature.

Surely the Birthday of Him who came to save the world is worthy of a reverence that should be in the hearts of us all.

In the spirit of the season we extend to all our friends, our best wishes for a Merry Christmas.

THE LETTER "S"
A Christmas Story

"WELL, if there isn't Jean Ellery!" Jean had been an old sweetheart of Salina's and she had not seen him for years; but she would know him in a million, for she had always loved him. He was busy cutting fancy figures on the ice. She stood watching him, her heart skipped beats as she did so.

He must have felt the strong contact of her thought, for suddenly he looked in her direction, but she quickly turned the other way. Then he skated more fiercely than ever, cutting a huge letter "S." She skated about pretending not to notice, but when he started off toward the far end of the lagoon she glided over to where he had cut the figures. There was the old fashioned letter "S" and another and still another. There were "S's" all over. How she wondered if they represented the regular free-cutter's "S" or—if she really dared hope that they might by any chance stand for "Salina."

The snow was becoming heavier, and more cumbersome and she noticed that most of the skaters had already left for home and celebrations. All the way homeward she was thinking about Jean Ellery and stopping at intervals to trace his name in the snow. She must have written it a dozen times or more. The gifts she had been expecting for Christmas suddenly appeared insignificant and useless in comparison to the one vital gift—the love of Jean.

Only with a mighty struggle was Salina endeavoring to join in the Christmas celebrations, for her heart was nearly breaking.

"What is the matter, Salina?" questioned mother, as Salina almost choked with the lump in her throat.

"Nothing, Mother dear, only the Christmas spirit," answered Salina bravely.

At this very moment Jean was hurrying home whistling merrily, his skates swinging over his shoulders. Suddenly he stopped short at seeing his own name displayed all over the snow, here, there and everywhere. "What on earth could that mean?" It was beautifully lettered and in a girl's handwriting!

Jean, stooping, carefully noted the letters in their every detail. He was determined to learn who the girl could be, who had so thought of him on Christmas eve that she had scrolled his name all over the snow.

Jean quickening his pace, reached home, luckily before the celebrations had begun and skipped up the staircase two steps at a time to his own room. Most excitedly he dug through his belongings in search of a box of old valentines from school days. It was missing! Where could it be?

"Mother, have you seen my valentines?" shouted Jean.

"They are decorating the walls of my room, and have been for some time, my dear brother!" taunted Clara Bell.

The next moment Jean was tearing down the valentines regardless of his sister's protestations.

"Here it is! I knew it! This is the one!"

Crushed in the hand of Jean was a small, red, lace-trimmed heart with the words, "To Jean, from Salina." 'Twas an exact duplicate of the letters in the snow. Now he knew! Dear old Salina! His childhood sweetheart!

The doorbell at Salina's rang with a loud peal right in the midst of the Christmas celebration.

Who could be calling on Christmas eve?" they all wondered.

"You had better go, Salina," said Mother, sweetly.

Salina went, brushing aside a tear as she did so.

She opened the door, as if in a dream scene. She had apparently lost all sense of reality for the moment.

"Salina!" said Jean.

"Jean, dear," replied Salina. The "dear" just slipped out from her heart before she knew it.

"My name in the snow," said Jean.

"The letter 'S'," whispered Salina.

"Merry Christmas!" shouted the whole family.

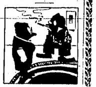
AT CHRISTMAS TIME



"Henry, what were you conversing with the salesman about?"

"Why, Helen, I was trying to coax him to smoke those cigars you gave me for a Christmas present."

"Call him back, Henry."

"Ah, you would like to see him take the cigars?"

"No, I want him to take some perfume to his wife—you know, dear, the perfume you selected for my Christmas gift."

Desire of Farmers to Pay Back Debts Shown by Land Bank Figures

The Minnesota farmers attitude towards his mortgage is reversed compared with a year ago and he is now marching towards the goal of payment of his obligations compared with discouragement and a willingness to let the creditor take the farm, which was common a year ago and prior to that time, says George S. Gordhamer, executive vice president of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul.

This conclusion is based on a survey of payments being made and a steady reduction in the number of delinquencies, he said. He cited figures to show that 166 National Farm Loan Associations in Minnesota have reduced their delinquencies in the period from July 31 to Sept. 30 and that for 3 consecutive months there has been a decrease in the delinquencies for the entire 7th Farm Credit district.

"To pay their obligations has become the order of the day," Mr. Gordhamer said. "Instead of an attitude of indifference as prevailed 2 or 3 years ago, we now see determination on the part of borrowers to meet their installments when due. From personal contacts and from letters we find there is a widespread feeling that the Farm Credit Administration has set the farmers on their feet and has given them a fighting chance to succeed. Voluntary payments on the principal of Land Bank loans totaled $995,855 for the 12 months ending September 30 and advance payments on the principal of commissioner's loans totaled $465,019 to Nov. 30.

Christmas Radio Skit That "Went Over" Big

"WHY don't you try a radio skit for XYZ?" Dick Hassel had written his mother, Grace.

Grace tried it and was as much surprised as anyone when it was accepted, to be broadcast at seven o'clock Christmas eve.

Mrs. Hassel had been greatly disappointed when Dick, for lack of finances, had to give up studying for the ministry and had gone to work in the big city. Recently he had written that he had a new job, a surprise, that he would tell Mother Grace and Father Jim about at Christmas.

Because Grace had always pictured Dick as the popular young minister, she featured the idea in her play, with the beautiful organist as his sweetheart.

Christmas eve Jim turned on XYZ. Promptly at seven came the theme song; then, to their amazement, a voice strangely familiar:

"This is station XYZ."

Then another voice: "Our play this evening, 'The New Minister,' is written by our announcer's mother, Mrs. Grace Hassel. Our popular announcer, Dick Hassel, will take the part of the minister."

"Of all things" Grace exclaimed. "The young scamp!"

"No wonder your skit went over so fast," Jim grinned.

"Now listen! We're missing it." Grace happily admonished as the young minister's voice announced that the audience would join in singing "Joy to the World."—Florence Harris Wells.

Children Like to Buy

Children take pride in being able to buy their own gifts for members of the family and for friends. Often mothers find their ingenuity put to severe test to find ideas enough to go round in the necessary limited price range.

Music at Christmas Time

By Alice Eversman

THE first Christmas night was God's special benediction on music. By His divine sanction it was the means of proclaiming the advent of a hope and happiness hitherto not considered ordained for humanity. On the night when the Christ child was born, heavenly singers were sent forth and the music of celestial choirs was heard for the first time by human ears. The melody of that glorious hymn came and passed into the harmony of the spheres beyond our ken and only the message of peace was handed down to the generations to come. How different the destiny of music had the pattern of celestial harmony and the melody the angels sang been preserved for us. It was left for man to find within himself the heavenly music.

No event in the history of the world has set vibrating the finest chords of music in the hearts of the gifted ones equal to the festival of the birth of the Christ child. The supernatural messengers announcing His coming, the loveliness of character of His mother, the heavens themselves exulting at His birth are subjects which to contemplate but a moment awakens music in the heart and forms a song in the stillness thereof that is the echo of that song that rang through the universe that starry night 2,000 years ago. Yet the melody the angels sang was lost.

Mary, His mother, gave vent to the fullness of her heart when she knew that she was to be the chosen one of her people in the magnificent "Magnificat," the poetry of which still has power to thrill whenever its spontaneous glorification of the Lord is heard. Yet the melody the Virgin sang is lost.

The lullabys crooned by the young mother in the stillness of the moments when the divine child was lulled to sleep have had no listener who passed them on to an eager world. What could have been the burden of the intimate things of which the mother sang when the restless world was shut away and the two, closely entwined, communed together, with the knowledge of their destiny hovering about them? Did she sing Him tender baby songs that made no reference to His divinity or did she praise Him as her God and sing her fidelity as she held Him close and soothed His earthly weariness? Did she beg of Him to spare her the suffering she knew awaited them or did she encourage Him in tender human fashion to bear the terrible human agony foreordained for Him? The lullabies that soothed the sacred child were never heard by profane ears.

Tender Lullabys Were Crooned by the Young Mother.

In the life of Christ there must have been much music. Descended from the greatest singer of all times, the psalmist David, and his advent into the world proclaimed by the singers from His heavenly home, there was a human and divine heritage of music woven into the scheme of His existence on earth. But the songs the Savior sang have vanished.

Yet the music of that sacred time is not lost, for it is born again in the hearts of the great composers. But by far the melody that was heard the first Christmas night has come back to us distilled from the pens of the specially chosen, and who is there to say it is not akin to the music of the celestial choirs? The inexplicable urge of melody, the grandeur of musical thought, the fullness of inspiration must surely be from the same source as was the music that was heard but once on earth.

It was not without intent that the message of peace was sent out on the "wings of song," for that is the power of music—to bring peace. Nor was it by chance that the melody came from the heavens, for ever the inward eyes of the soul turn heavenward under the influence of great earthly music. The radiance of the star shines in the heart under the touch of melody and the soul expands to a fuller comprehension of the promises for eternity.—Washington Star.

Mistletoe a Parasite

The mistletoe, traditional Christmas decoration much more in favor in earlier days, when the ardent swains were not so forward and the maidens were more reserved, is found most abundantly in the tropics, although it is widely distributed throughout the world. The mistletoe is a parasite, living on the sap of the trees around which it entwines itself. On the Atlantic seaboard of the United States the mistletoe is found as far North as the Jersey coast, but is more abundant farther South.

Santa All the Year Is Found to Be Good Idea

SANTA CLAUS comes in July as well as December to those who need him in Columbia, Mo. Last Christmas a dollar given anonymously by "a group of children" was used by the Welfare society there to start a fund for year-round needs, instead of gorging people with too many baskets of goodies one day out of 365.

These are some of the things the fund has paid for: glasses to replace those broken by a boy whose mother washes to keep him in school; shoes for the old horse used by the society when there is hauling to be done; the cane a grandfather needed to help him get about; fares of a trachoma patient and a tubercular child who were sent to hospitals; soap and a razor for a young man who wanted to clean up, so he could try for a job.

Regular donations to the society may be spent only for food, fuel, clothing and shelter; these all-the-year gifts, though badly needed, would have been impossible but for the dollar from the children "to use any way you want" that gave welfare workers the idea of the Santa Claus fund.—Frances Grinstead.

Christmas Is Ireland's Greatest of All Feasts

IN NO country is Christmas looked forward to with greater anticipation than in Ireland. For centuries the coming of the Christ Child has been hailed with unbounded joy by the people of the Emerald Isle.

Many stories associated with Christmas are repeated year after year around Irish firesides. An old legend tells that sometime on Christmas eve Mary and the Christ Child wander abroad seeking shelter. Fearful lest they might seek in vain, as they did in Bethlehem long ago, a lighted candle is placed in every window to guide them to a place of refuge. These are left burning through the night, gleaming into the darkness, guiding any wanderer that might be abroad; for the legend also tells that the "Mother and Child" may come in almost any guise.

All the world remembers Ireland at Christmas, for her children are scattered in every land. A steady stream of gifts and good wishes comes pouring into her gates. Families divided by stretching seas are reunited in spirit, as the bridge of time and space is broken by the old happy greeting, "A Merry Christmas and a Bright New Year."—Katherine Edelman.

Growing With Your Child

HOME-MADE ADVENTURE

There's no doubt about it! We all need variety in our lives, lest humdrum monotony get the better of our spirits, and we drop into ruts of thinking and acting from which there is no climbing out.

Most children embarrass their parents by the multiplicity of their interests, but there is always the chance that what one enjoyed doing last summer has become impossible to carry on in the winter, or that a child is up against a blank wall, and cannot progress any further without doing some reading along the line of his hobby. While no parent wants to make the mistake of killing his child's interest in a hobby by trying too hard to help with it, it surely does no harm to be intelligent on the subjects that interests our youngsters, or to provide helpful material that they might not have time to seek out for themselves.

Here are a few suggestions as to books you may buy or find at the library: "How to Make Linoleum Blocks" (Sprague) is a good book for the boy who is deft with his hands, and who also wishes to send out some Christmas cards. The designing and printing of the cards from linoleum will, I wager, absorb the attention of the whole family before you're done with it! The girl who is interested in cooking will find simple, enticing directions in "Batter and Spoon Fairies" (Teall) or "Patty Pans" (La Ganke). The child who loves to watch things grow will want to use the suggestions he sees in "Adventures in Dish Gardening" (Beard). "How to Build a Stamp Collection" (Thorp) will be helpful to boys whose interest in stamps is more than a passing fancy, while "Practical Art Lettering" (Lutz) will give many hints to the boy and girl who find themselves drawing every time they have a pencil in their hands. "Acting Charades" (Richards) is fun for both young and old, and if the book is looked through in advance, a number of properties may be collected before the Christmas party that add greatly to the hilarity. "The Boy Magician" (Dixie) is another book that will come in handy when planning a party, as will "Coin Tricks for Boys," (Gilbert) and "Who Am I? (Hoyer), a clever series of rhymed riddles enjoyed by children of ten or eleven.

"Boy Bird House Architecture" (Baxter) is planned for boys who like to make things, and who have tools to do really creditable work. "Complete Model Aircraft Manual" (Hamilton) will be seized upon by the boy who always has models under way, while the child to whom the magic of chemistry appeals will want to keep "Chemistry for Boys and Girls" (Green & Bennett) or "The Boy Chemist" (Collins) long after they are due at the library. "The Book of Marionette Plays" (Stoddard & Sarg) gives practical help to those who love to dramatize by means of puppets, while the "Piece Bag Book", (Blauvelt) or "Sue Sew and Sew" (Gag) are planned for the little girl who likes to use her work basket. "How to Use Paper and Scissors in Art" (Swannell), Playing With Clay" (Wheeler), and "The Cutout Book" (Dyer) give suggestions along the lines their titles indicate.

In the realm of adventure by way of books, there is an embarrassment of riches from which to choose. Boys and girls enjoy exploring by proxy, and books about far off places will broaden their horizons, as well as refresh them. "By way of Cape Horn" by Villiers is a breath taking tale of the old, old fight with the winds that forever shriek in that quarter of the world. Sir Robert Shackleton's story, "South" makes splendid reading-aloud material, as does a very different type of adventure, contained in the magician Thurston's Autobiography. "Fighting the Flying Circus", by the great "ace" Rickenbacker gives young enthusiasts the realities, along with the glamor of flying, while Ellsberg's "Thirty Fathoms Deep" takes the boy or girl who reads it down with the diver who explores the green sea caves.

P. S. Write in if the book you're looking for isn't listed here.

Sale of Thin Pigs Means Loss to Grower, Asserts Authority at "U" Farm

Before marketing underweight pigs, farmers should carefully consider the possible profit from feeding them 35 to 40 days longer, says E. F. Ferrin, swine authority of the animal husbandry division, University Farm.

"Many thin, thrifty pigs of 150 to 165 pounds are being marketed at an unnecessary loss," Mr. Ferrin observes. "Corn is very high in price in comparison with the market values of fat hogs, but the thin pigs will more than pay market prices for feeds if fattened. The reason is found in the abnormal spread between prices of good slaughter hogs and light under-finished stock. The present farm value of 150- to 165-pound thin hogs is approximately $2.75 per hundred. Hogs of the same conformation and quality carrying good market finish at weights of 220 to 235 pounds are worth $5.25 per hundred on the farm. Seventy-five pounds added weight will increase the price per hundred $2.50. A hog weighing 225 pounds at $5.25 is worth $11.81, while the 150-pound hog at $2.75 has a value of $4.13. If it puts the hog in market condition, the 75 pounds added weight is worth $7.68.

"The cost of the gain is much less than $7.68 with corn at 80 cents per bushel and tankage at $45 per ton. It will take about 300 pounds of corn and tankage to put 75 pounds weight on a thrifty pig. At the fed prices mentioned, the gain costs $4.60, leaving a margin of more than $3 above feed costs. No one can afford to feed high priced corn without a protein supplement and it will not be possible to get such a margin if the ration is unbalanced.

"A thrifty fattening hog makes a gain of about 2 pounds a day, so that it will take 35 to 40 days to finish 150-pound pigs for market, if they are good feeders. In that time, fat hog prices may change, but the majority of market men believe hog prices will go up in the next 60 days. If that happens, the margin gained from fattening will be larger, Mr. Ferrin points out.

Location of Hot Springs

Hot Springs, Ark., a health resort, is the capital of Garland county, 50 miles west and southwest of Little Rock. It is situated in a narrow valley, between two ridges in a spur of the Ozark mountains, and has many hot springs which are celebrated for treatment of rheumatism, gout, neuralgia and other chronic diseases. The temperature of these springs varies from 76 degrees to 158 degrees Fahrenheit. They are 425 feet above sea level. The springs are owned by the federal government, which regulates their use.

Farm and Implement News

What a sensible thing to do. Clarence and Pete Carlson, Grygla, buy a new "F12" McCormick-Deering Tractor for a family Christmas present, which we delivered to their farm this week. Well, they need it in the spring, so why not now. Besides, it is a wonderful chore boy for winter use, such as grinding feed, sawing wood and lumber at less than a gallon of fuel per hour.

What a wonderful country we have in this Northern Minnesota of ours. How happy we can be compared with many others, who have not shared in the prosperity as we have for 1934. Our organization has shared in this and we are truly grateful to our customers who have helped us make 1934 our best year in business.

Now that we are entering the Christmas season, we wish to extend to one and all our sincere greetings and best wishes for a pleasant Christmas. This year is nearing it's close and it will go down in history as a great year, and we hope that the service we have tried to render has been satisfactory and worth while. As we enter the new year in a few days from now, we look forward to a continuation of the pleasant business relations we have enjoyed. But most of all the continuation of the friendly relations which after all is our greater gain.

Our best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to you.

THE LETTER S
A Christmas Story

Olive M. Palmer

"WELL, if there isn't Jean Ellery!" Jean had been an old sweetheart of Salina's and she had not seen him for years; but she would know him in a million, for she had always loved him. He was busy cutting fancy figures on the ice. She stood watching him, her heart skipped beats as she did so.

He must have felt the strong contact of her thought, for suddenly he looked in her direction, but she quickly turned the other way. Then he skated more fiercely than ever, cutting a huge letter "S." She skated about pretending not to notice, but when he started off toward the far end of the lagoon she glided over to where he had cut the figures. There was the old fashioned letter "S" and another and still another. There were "S's" all over. How she wondered if they represented the regular ice-cutter's "S" or if she really dared hope that they might by any chance stand for "Salina."

The snow was becoming heavier and more cumbersome and she noticed that most of the skaters had already left for home and celebrations. All the way homeward she was thinking about Jean Ellery and stopping at intervals to trace his name in the snow. She must have written it a dozen times or more. The gifts she had been expecting for Christmas suddenly appeared insignificant and useless in comparison to the one vital gift—the love of Jean.

Only with a mighty struggle was Salina endeavoring to join in the Christmas celebrations, for her heart was nearly breaking.

"What is the matter, Salina?" questioned mother, as Salina almost choked with the lump in her throat.

"Nothing, Mother dear, only the Christmas spirit," answered Salina bravely.

At this very moment Jean was hurrying home whistling merrily, his skates swinging over his shoulders. Suddenly he stopped short at seeing his own name displayed all over the snow, here, there and everywhere. "What on earth could that mean?" It was beautifully lettered and in a girl's handwriting!

Jean, stooping, carefully noted the letters in their every detail. He was determined to learn who the girl could be, who had so thought of him on Christmas eve that she had scrolled his name all over the snow.

Jean quickening his pace, reached home, luckily before the celebrations had begun and skipped up the staircase two steps at a time to his own room. Most excitedly he dug through his belongings in search of a box of old valentines from school days. It was missing! Where could it be?

"Mother, have you seen my valentines?" shouted Jean.

"They are decorating the walls of my room, and have been for some time, my dear brother!" taunted Clara Bell.

The next moment Jean was tearing down the valentines regardless of his sister's protestations.

"Here it is! I knew it! This is the one!"

Crushed in the hand of Jean was a small, red, lace-trimmed heart with the words, "To Jean, from Salina." 'Twas an exact duplicate of the letters in the snow. Now he knew! Dear old Salina! His childhood sweetheart!

The doorbell at Salina's rang with a loud peal right in the midst of the Christmas celebration.

Who could be calling on Christmas eve?" they all wondered.

"You had better go, Salina," said Mother, sweetly.

Salina went, brushing aside a tear as she did so.

She opened the door, as if in a dream scene. She had apparently lost all sense of reality for the moment.

"Salina!" said Jean.

"Jean, dear," replied Salina. The "dear" just slipped out from her heart before she knew it.

"My name in the snow," said Jean.

"The letter 'S'," whispered Salina.

"Merry Christmas!" shouted the whole family.

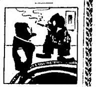
AT CHRISTMAS TIME



"Henry, what were you conversing with the ashman about?"

"Why, Helen, I was trying to coax him to smoke those cigars you gave me for a Christmas present."

"Call him back, Henry."

"Ah, you would like to see him take the cigars?"

"No, I want him to take some perfume to his wife—you know, dear, the perfume you selected for my Christmas gift."

Desire of Farmers to Pay Back Debts Shown by Land Bank Figures

The Minnesota farmers attitude towards his mortgage is reversed compared with a year ago and he is now marching towards the goal of payment of his obligations compared with discouragement and a willingness to let the creditor take the farm, which was common a year ago and prior to that time, says George S. Goldhamer, executive vice-president of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul.

This conclusion is based on a survey of payments being made and a steady reduction in the number of delinquencies, he said. He cited figures to show that 106 National Farm Loan Associations in Minnesota have reduced their delinquencies in the period from July 31 to Sept. 30 and that for 3 consecutive months there has been a decrease in the delinquencies for the entire 7th Farm Credit district.

"To pay their obligations has become the order of the day," Mr. Goldhammer said. "Instead of an attitude of indifference as prevailed 2 or 3 years ago, we now see determination on the part of borrowers to meet their installments when due. From personal contacts and from letters we find there is a widespread feeling that the Farm Credit Administration has set the farmers on their feet and has given them a fighting chance to succeed. Voluntary payments on the principal of Land Bank loans totaled $995,855 for the 12 months ending September 30 and advance payments on the principal of commissioner's loans totaled $465,019 to Nov. 30.

The Deeper Significance

We all know and celebrate Christmas as a day of gifts and good cheer and a wonderful dinner and good fellowship, but we should not lose sight of the fact that the deeper significance of Christmas is religious in nature.

Surely the birthday of He who came to save the world is worthy of a reverence that should be in the hearts of us all.

In the spirit of the season we extend to all our friends and patrons a Merry Christmas.

CHRISTMAS
(Charles Dickens)

And numerous indeed are the hearts to which Christmas brings a brief season of happiness and enjoyment. How many families whose members have been dispersed and scattered far and wide, in the restless struggle of life, are then reunited, and meet once again in that happy state of companionship and mutual good will, which is a source of such pure and unalloyed delight, and one so incompatible with the cares and sorrows of the world, that the religious belief of the most civilized nations, and the rude traditions of the roughest savages, alike number it among the first days of a future state of existence, provided for the blest and happy. How many old recollections, and how many dormant sympathies Christmas-time awakens.

We write these words now many miles distant from the spot at which, year after year, we met on that day, a merry and joyous circle. Many of the hearts that throbbed so gaily then have ceased to beat; many of the looks that shone so brightly then have ceased to glow; the hands we grasped have grown cold; the eyes we sought have hid their lustre in the grave; and yet the old house, the room, the merry voices and smiling faces, the jest, the laugh, the most minute and trivial circumstance connected with those happy meetings, crowd upon our mind at each recurrence of the season, as if the last assemblage had been but yesterday. Happy, happy Christmas, that can win us back to the delusions of our childish days, recall to the old man the pleasures of his youth, and transport the traveler back to his own fireside and quiet home.

HOW RICH ARE WE

According to one set of figures recently published the national wealth at the present time is estimated at about two hundred and fifty billion dollars or approximately two thousand dollars per capita. We have wondered at times how far below the national average the Thief River Falls average would be. Now we are inclined to think not so far. In order to make the average we would have to have a total wealth in this city of a little over eight millions. Figuring from the tax totals, assessed valuation, taxable valuation and actual value, the total wealth in the city probably wouldn't be far from eight millions. Some local property is owned by outsiders and there are mortgages. But these items probably would be offset by outside property owned by local people along with their bank deposits, postal saving certificates, mortgages, bonds and stocks and their interest in insurance companies. Add to these the per capita interest of our citizens in such public wealth as our light plant, the schools and other local improvements and it would make quite a sizeable total. Perhaps, as a community, we are wealthier than we thought we were. At any rate it is an interesting subject to speculate on during the long, cold January nights that are ahead of us.

MORE ROADS MEAN MORE DOLLARS

In the last session of the legislature 4,500 miles of roads were added to the state's trunk highway system, and at the same time taxes on passenger cars and farm trucks were reduced from twenty to fifty per cent. The reduction having been granted only for the two years, 1933 and 1934, automobile taxes will automatically go back to their former levels unless the coming legislature provides for an extension of the present reduced schedules. The question is therefore certain to be an issue in the coming session.

Highway department officials are urging that the tax be permitted to go back to the higher schedules because, as they point out, the increased cost of maintaining the 4,500 miles of road added to the system eats up all of the department's present revenue and unless more money is made available there can be no new construction and the state will not be able to qualify for federal funds available for new construction. The question that will confront the legislature, then, will be whether or not there is to be any improvement to Minnesota's enlarged trunk highway system during the next two years.

In view of the fact that in every section of the state there is a desire for further improvement of trunk roads, it is probable that a majority of car owners, realizing a higher tax is necessary if there is to be new construction, would favor a return to the higher tax. As we shift more and more of the road problem to the state we must also provide the means for the state to meet its increased costs. Most car owners, appreciating the fact that an added burden has been placed upon the state highway department, will not object to paying their share of reasonably increased costs.

Northfield has a farmers community club that celebrated its thirtieth birthday a few weeks ago. Commenting on the record of such clubs in that part of the state the Northfield News says, "The farmers club is a small thing in itself, but thru its influence in bringing about community effort and a desire for community improvement, it is, we believe, one of the very strongest factors for improvement."
